EIGHT MILLION MODEL "T" FORDS STILL IN USE IN U. S.

Detroit, April 18. ---The manufacture of replacement parts for the millions of Model "T" Ford cars still in daily use continues to demand nearly one third the production capacity of Ford plants here.

Ford officials estimate, from reports of dealers all over the country, that there are still approximately eight millions of the Model "T" cars in constant use in the United States. Some of these cars are many years old. Every now and then there are reports of Ford cars of the old brass-bound radiator types of twelve or fourteen years ago, still running after more than a hundred thousand miles of service.

The newest of the Model "T" Fords is now nearly a year old, for the production of assembled Model "T" cars was suspended in May 1927 to make way for the new Model "A".

Theis suspension of assembled Model "T" cars did not affect the production schedule of Model "T" replacements parts, however. Throughout the past year the manufacture of Model "T" parts continued to occupy about one third the production capacity of the Ford plants.

A few days ago newspaper correspondents here asked Henry Ford how long he expected to continue making parts for the Model "T" cars.

"Until the last Model 'T' is off the roads," Ford replied promptly. Then he added: "That maybe ten years, but we do not intend to allow any Ford car ever to become obsolete as long as it can be made useful with reasonable replacements."

Ford engineers, from tests and observations made over a long period of years, have estimated that the average useful life of a Model "T" Ford car is about seven years.

MINOOKA NEWS

(Too late for last week)

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. Mills are glad to know their son, Nolin, has returned from the hospital.

Mrs. McCallen of Boyles visited her parents here Sunday.

Miss Annie Mae Aldridge, who is attending business college in Birmingham spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aldridge.

The farmers of the community have been taking advantage of the recent beautiful weather and are preparing for another bumper cotton crop.

At the Minooka School building at ten o'clock was rendered a most enjoyable Easter program, assisted by Prof. J. H. Wood and others, after which Rev. Baxley of Calera preached an able sermon. At 12:30 lunch, prepared by the ladies, was enjoyed. In the afternoon the Oak Grove choir came over and together with Prof. Wood spent the evening in singing beautiful songs. Among the visitors were some from Boyles, Clanton, Siluria, Jemison, Ensley and other places. We thank the teachers for the program. We also wish to thank Mr. Baxley for the inspiring sermon, and Prof. Wood and the others for the beautiful music.

SICKNESS AND SENSITIVENESS

Mr. Green read the following clipping from the pulpit at the M. E. Church Sunday morning, saying it applies to several people he knows:

"Dear Mrs. Huff is up the miff tree
Because the Pastor didn't call
When she was sick.
Yes Sir, sick in bed for a week
And the pastor never poked his head in the door.
Wasn't that enough to make a saint mad?
And when I asked her if the Doctor called she thought I was cuckoo ****
Of course he called. *** **
Every Day. *** **
I asked how he found out. *** **
She said she phoned him. ** ***
Naturally I was wondering how she expected the pastor to*    Find out if she didn't phone him, too*
Maybe he's a mind reader ** *****
Or something. ** **** **
And knows when people are sick. ***
By Instinct. *** ***
But I know some pastors who wouldn't know *** *
You were sick unless you let them know about it, ** ** ***
Same as you do the M. D. **

VOLUME 6 CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY April 26, 1928. NUMBER 30

Actual Work Has Begun On Cotton Mill

High Officials Of Alabama Mills Visit Site

TO USE LOCAL MEN AND MATERIAL WHEN POSSIBLE

G. M. Crusselle, Permanent Engineer Is Now In Clanton On the Job

Actual work on the construction of the cotton mill, to be built here, was begun last week, and though the unfavorable weather of the latter part of last week has hindered the progress to some extent, material has arrived, and Batson-Cook Company, contractors, have on the job superintendents and other men who will push forward the work.

Mr. Paul C. Redmond, vice-president of the Alabama Mills Company, who will be the operating head of the ten mills now being built in ten different Alabama towns, spent last Saturday afternoon and Sunday in Clanton, visiting the site where the local mill is to be erected, Mitchell Dam and other points of interest in this vicinity. At present Mr. Redmond's headquarters are in Atlanta, where he is working with Roberts & Company, Inc., architects and engineers, on the final plans for the ten mills. Within the next 60 days, Mr. Redmond expects to establish his headquarters in Birmingham, where he will begin the organization of his forces, which will probably consist of a superintendent, for each of the mills, a general superintendent, and assistants

Mr. L. W. Roberts, secretary and treasurer of Roberts & Company, Inc., and father of L. W. Roberts, Jr., president of the company accompanied Mr. Redmond to Clanton. These two gentlemen were on a tour of all the different towns in which one of the units of the Alabama Mills Company will be located.

For the information of those interested in the matter we give the following in regard to Roberts & Company, Inc., architects and engineers:

'They are an organization that design and supervise industrial plants, schools, buildings, hotels, etc., and they number among their departments an architectual department that specializes in schools and colleges, an electrical department, a mechanical department, a municipal department and a power department, and through handling a large volume of business they have been enabled to keep in close touch with industrial conditions in all parts of the country, and have thus been able to maintain an organization that employs the highest type of specialists in their departments of engineering and architecture. Among the large number of industrial plants supervised by them is the West & Boyleston Manufacturing Plant and village at Montgomery. This bit of information in regard to the supervisors and architects of the Clanton mill is given in order that our readers might understand that Roberts & Compnay, Inc., architects and engineers, planned and are supervising the erection of the mill here, but are no part of the Alabama Mills Company.

Mr. G. M. Crusselle, who has succeeded Mr. McKoy here as resident engineer, is stopping at the New Exchange Hotel. He will be permanently located here as resident engineer in charge of the erection of the local mill.

T. C .McCullough, of the Batson-Cook Company, who have been awarded the contract for the erection of ware houses, cottages, and the main mill building and grading of the side tracks, now has a superintendent on the ground. Mr. McCullough brought several men experienced in the kind of work to be done here, who will act as his assistants.

Batson-Cook Company have sublet the grading of the side track to Mr. D. Y. Johnson of Clanton, and a contract has also been awarded Mr. H. S. Shaw, local lumber manufacturer, for bridge

Strawberry Crop Hard Hit By Heavy Rains

Shipments Thought To Be Checked By Bad Weather Recent Dates

Strawberry growers of this section sustained a loss that would aggravate thousands of dollars by the heavy rains and hail that visited this section last week end, according to statements made by those familiar with conditions relating to the gathering of the crop, which has hardly gotten underway here yet.

Having gained considerable growing and ripening impetus during the ideal weather of several days before the bad weather, the berres were set back at least two weeks due to the rain, which was followed by a drop in the mercury, stated to have fallen to around 44.

While shipping has not really gotten started here in a big way, quite a few express shipments and deliveries around town were made, even two weeks ago and the prices are reported to be very satisfactory. The fact that strawberry growers further south have been handicapped by the continued cold weather and heavy rains, should aid in holding up the market here, and it is believed that growers will realize a satisfactory return once we have a few days of real warm sunshine. It is pointed out that the cold weather here, has naturally been more severe farther north and it is believed that the sections which furnish competiton for Central Alabama will not be able to put their berries on the market for several weeks. If such is the case, shipments will probably end here in about six weeks, as this section is unable to compete with the difference in freight and delivery time that the berries grown in Tennessee and other states farther north enjoy.

POSTPONED VAUDEVILLE TO BE GIVEN AT CANE CREEK

'Ben-Hur' $4,000,000 Film To Be Here Soon

Thrilling Chariot Race, With 48 Horses In It, Big Feature of Film

"Ben-Hur", with its magnificent chariot race pictured in a death-defying contest on a vast circue arena —the knightly Ramon Navarro and the wicked Francis X Bushman as the opposing heroes—comes into the Wadesonian, Wednesday and Thursday May 3 and 4.

Theatregoers greatly enjoyed the stage "Ben-Hur" and vividly remembered Bill Farnum, Bill Hart, Emmett Corrigan, Mary Shaw and others of the old casts. It was the most popular stage spectacle ever produced, touring America for twenty-two seasons. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in arrangement with A. L. Erlanger, Charles B. Dillingham and Florenz Zeigfield, Jr., have made a new and greater "Ben-Hur" in the newer art of the motion picture that out-tops the former achievement even as the wizard-like powers of the Twentieth Century surpass the inventions of our forefathers.

The Great Chariot Race

You see forty-eight horses—twelve teams—start abreast in their mad dash over the seven laps of the Antioch race course, and you cannot forbear a cheer as Ben-Hur wrecks Messala and forges to the front! Roman and Pirate navies contend in realistic death grapples on the Mediterranean. The towers and turrets of Zion rise anew. From the exquisite Madonna to The Last Supper and the Procession of Palms, the masterpieces of art are re-enacted, often in color. The beautiful love story of Esther and Ben-Hur, a contemporary of the Saviour, dominates the grand spectacle which is characterized by a fine reverance in the sacred part of the portrayls Among the leading actors are Ramon Novarro in the title role, Francis X. Bushman, as Messala, May McAvoy as Esther, Betty Bronson as the Madonna, Carmel Myers as Iras, Frank J. Currier, Mitchell Lewis, Nigel de Brulier, Claire McDowell, Kathleen Key, with no less than 150,000 persons in the "support."

"LITTLE MISS JACK" TO BE PRESENTED AT HIGH SCHOOL

The play "Little Miss Jack" which is to be presented at the Chilton County High School by a picked cast, is no doubt, to be a grand success from every angle.

This play was staged several months ago at Fairview School and was declared to be one of the biggest hits ever, in the way of a school play. The play is already widely advertised thru the ones who have seen it and will no doubt, be worth more than the price of admission because the play itself is well written and the cast is picked from the best to be had at the Chilton County High School.

"Little Miss Jack" is scheduled here for tomorrow night, Friday, April 27, at the high school auditorium. Admission will be 25 and 35 cents. The play is under direction of Miss Elzabeth Lewis.

Within in the next few days these stop siganls will be placed at the principal street intersections and crossings in the business district.

STANTON SCHOOL CLOSED LAST FRIDAY, APRIL 20

The Stanton Junior High School of Stanton, Ala., closed last Friday, April 20, 1928.

The little folks' put on their play, Thursday night, succeeding Mr. Stapp's and Superintendent Lawrence's speeches. They made inspiring talks to the ones who received diplomas.

It sure was a sad time once again, for we had to part and may never meet at Stant Jr. High any more. It was sad to depart from our schoolmates and our teachers. They have been so kind to us. We hate to part with Mr. Harris, as he has been with us so long and has been so kind to all.

NOAH LITTLEJOHN DIES AT THE AGE OF 83

Noah Littlejohn, aged 83, died at the family home in the Liberty Hill community last Sunday, April 22nd.

Mr. Littlejohn had been in failing health for some time, and though every attention possible was rendered by friends and loved ones in an effort to stay his suffering, the battle was lost at 2:20 last Sunday, when his spirit took the flight to the great beyond.

The deceased had resided in the said community all of his life, having been born there. He was a member of the Baptist Church, and took an active part in all religious and other matters of interest to his community up to a short time previous to his death.

Interment took place at Liberty Hill cemetery, Monday, April 23rd, and the large number in attendance was evidence of the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him. Rev. Hand ,of Liberty Hill conducted the impressive ceremony, with J. Mell Martin, funeral director, in charge.

Left to mourn the death of this esteemed citizen is five sons: Frank, J. Wiley, and W. A., of Clanton; R. W. Littlejohn of Thorsby; and J. W. Littlejohn, of Birmingham, and one daughter, Valula Littlejohn, and wife, who are at the old home.

BAPTIST LADIES ARE TO ENTERTAIN WITH SOCIAL

The ladies of the Baptist Church are planning lots of fun for their members at the social and shower which is to be given at the Church Monday, April 30, at three-thirty in the afternoon.

A list of suggested articles has been given to the employees of Elmores' 5c, 10c, and $1.00 Store. Go there and choose your article, but remember that your presence at the social is the main thing desired.

It has been suggested that several members could club together and get a real nice present at very little cost to each member.

Dreaded Aches, PAINS
Disappeared

"My health had been poor for ten years, before I took Cardui," says Mrs. Anna Cronin, of Rockport, Ind. "I was lifeless and 'no account'. I dragged around day after day, every move an effort, and never feeling the joy of being well.

"At times, I had a dreadful ache across my back, and my sides hurt me. I worried along, sometimes hardly able to leave my bed, but the demands of a growing family had to be attended to; so I would get up, do what was absolutely necessary, and then lie down again.

"One day, someone suggested Cardui to me. I took it for several months, and all the time I was growing stronger, and less nervous. My aches and pains finally disappeared.

"That was two years ago. My improvement has been permanent. The good health, which followed the taking of Cardui, is still with me, so I do not hesitate to recommend it to my friends." E-134

Thousands of Ford owners have found that it pays them to use "STANDARD" MOTOR OIL "F"

"STANDARD" Motor Oil "F" is an oil of the highest grade; its body and lubricating qualities are scientifically correct for the Ford engine.

It forms a perfect seal between rings and pistons, between pistons and cylinder walls. This conserves power and adds to smooth running. Leaves less carbon and keeps transmission bands soft and pliable.

For the new 1928 Ford Model "A" use "STANDARD" Motor Oil Heavy.

CIGARET PRICE WAR TO BRING BIG SLASH

New York, April 23.—A cigaret price war, having as its first effect reduction of the retail prices of three leading brands to the level of two packages for 25 cents, was started Monday. Wholesale prices to dealers were reduced to $6 a thousand from about $6.40 by three of the largest companies.

Prices of Tobacco Company stocks broke $3 to $12 a share on the New York Stock Exchange, with American Tobacco B leading the decline. Reynolds Tobacco B showed a loss of $3 a share and American Tobacco A dropped $9 and B issue $12 a share. Liggett & Myers B declined $9.75 a share and Lorillard was cut $6.75. Blocks of tobacco stocks ranging from 10,000 to 15,000 shares were thrown on the market.

Increased Production

Reduction in prices was said by manufacturers to have been made possible by increased production, the American output having shown a consistent monthly gain since 1921.

"SAVE YOUR VISION" WEEK APRIL 22 THROUGH APRIL 28

The "Save Your Vision Week", which began April 22nd, is being sponsored throughout the entire country by American Association of Optometrists and locally by the Central lAabama Society of Optometrists.

No small amount of attention should be given this all-important matter, and this week, Dr. Hopkins and Dr. Barson of Montgomery were in Clanton, and while here discussed the matter with a representative of the News.

These two gentlemen will return to Clanton on their regular monthly visit next Monday, and anyone bothered with their eyes should consult them.

The following editorial appeared in the Montgomery Advertiser Wednesday:

"SAVE-YOUR-VISION WEEK"

"Most of the special "weeks" observed in this country are of doubtful value. Some, however, not only have a worthwhile purpose, but are of such a nature that they really can accomplish lasting good results.

Such a movement is "Save-Your-Vision Week" now being observed all throughout the country. Its object is to induce people to realize the wisdom of eye examination, and prompt correction of defective vision, particularly among children.

When one realizes that in the United States there is spent annually some sixteen millions for the maintenance of institutions that care for the blind, it is not difficult to understand the force behind this movement.

It is especially important that the eyes of the young receive attention where it is needed. Particular emphasis, therefore, is being placed on eye examination of children. It is well known that defective vision, with the accompanying drain on the nervous system, is responsible for the dullness of many children who are really keen-minded, but whose energy is largely exhausted because of poor eyes. It is said that fatigue comes on more rapidly as a result of eye strain than from other form of physical exertion.

The observance should serve to impress many parents the desirability of having their children's—and their own eyes examined promptly and many eyes may be saved that otherwise might someday suffer impairment or blindness."

A feeling of superiority is about all the satisfaction some people get out of being good.

When the yellow streak begins to work out of some pepole they have a fit of the blues.

When a man has occasion to defend his actions he admits his weakness.

It is almost as difficult to hide a cough as it is to hide love.

Speaking of love—a man should look before he leaps, otherwise he may fall in.

Aim for a goal you have some chance of realizing.

It is sometimes difficult to convince the head of the house that two heads are better than one.

When a woman marries she not only takes a man's name, but everything else he has.

In contemplating what he has done for others the average man is apt to overlook what others have done for him.

Said an Irish physician of a patient, "If he lives till morning he may pull through, but if he doesn't, there is no hope for him."

A dentist says a woman loses her teeth sooner than a man. Probably she wears them out with her tongue.

A few good misses in the chorus are apt to aid the opera in making a big hit.

A man's head is like his pocketbook—it's not the outside appearance but that what it contains that counts.

A widow says that good husband's are like dough because women need them.

The millionaire who dresses as well as his clerk is more or less eccentric.

A fortune awaits the inventor of a lifeboat that will float on a sea of trouble.

If you would outshine your neighbors, acquire a good reputation and then keep it polished.

The Bible is the only book which is never off the press.

It is sometimes easier to step into another man's shoes than it is to walk in them.

URGES BETTER DENTISTRY

The American dental profession has long been recognized as pre-eminent in the world. The admission of this fact has prompted George K. Burgess, Director of Standards at Washington, to urge the United States Government through its dental services to the Army, Navy, Public Health Service, and other branches to give an increasing interest to dental problems in order that help may be rendered the dental profession. Dr. Burgess believes that the Government might consider such practical phases of the problem as the waste and attendant loss of time by study of improvements and materials, technique and workmanship. He has particularly in mind the investigations of different amalgams, and inquiry into problems that relate to the properties influencing or failure and inlays. The study of metals and vulcanite and similar restorations, used in cavities, are among investigations suggested by Dr. Burgess. He says that the matter presents enormous economc possibilities, since if only one-half of the population is receiving dental service to the amount of ten dollars a year it would exceed a total for the Nation of a half billion dollars.

DO NOT USE POOR SEED

The Department of Agriculture at Washington is constantly urging the farmers to watch their seeds, and if anyone will write to the Department they may secure pamplets and publications telling them how to detect poor seeds, and how to treat their seeds at a very small cost so as to make them healthly before they are put in the ground. There is a very simple and inexpensive mercury preparation that is known as semesan, which Government tests show has increased the acreage of sweet corn by fully one-third, and which has been used in similarly effective tests in growing potatoes, cotton, and root crops. Remarkable results are reported in preventing what is known as "tree cancer" in the root grafting apple nursery business. Semesan is a word derived from two Latin roots, and it means "healthy seeds."

BUILDING BETTER HOMES

These viewers with alarm, both foreign and domestic—who see the United States becoming less and less a nation of home builders, will find some ease for their minds in one of Mr. Hoover's departmental surveys just issued.

Twenty-six per cent more new homes are sprouting up over the land than at this time last year. In fact, last year there was eleven per cent more of this defiance of divorce, jazz, and wanderlust than three years ago. A nearly fifty-two per cent more home building than three years before that.

Which seems to lead to 1921, the year of Mr. Hoover's appointment, when the country began to hear his doctrine of Better Homes and More Homes, and that sort of thing. The Commerce Department's unromantic analysis of current business does seem to show, indeed, that not only were there more homes built, but that they were at least six per cent better homes than the homes of three years before—in dollar values, of course, the Bureau of Census not being concerned with matters of housekeeping. And this without aid of increased value of building materials, which in fact cost eight per cent less.

As for the cozy six-roomers, there was all the encouragement in the world to build. The index of material prices for that type of home shelter ranged downward from 201 in 1924 to 187 in 1927 and 178 when the last report was written. A good home costs 12 per cent less today than four years ago.

THEY EAT YOUR CLOTHES

As the time is at hand for laying aside winter clothing importance is attached to warning from that very important institution known as the Bureau of Entomology at Washington which says that your clothes may be kept in safety from attacks by moths during the season that they are laid aside. "Persons owning clothing subject to attack can afford to buy chests or cabinets that are very tight in which to store them" ,says the statement. Lane chests are as standard in the name of this commodity as Bell for telephones. Train loads of cedar chest are leaving the Lane Plant at Altavista Virginia, these days, bound on their mission to protect house-owners.

The Government publications recommend red cedar chests as "the tightest containers on the market," and these same authorities give interesting descriptions of the characteristic odor of the cedar wood, which has been known to exist in cedar chests for a hundred years. Beautiful articles of furniture are now being made out of red cedar wood.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON AUTO LICENSE TAGS

Alabama motorists planning to motor to other states on Summer vacations are warned to acquaint themselves with license tag law of the states they intend visiting as some states allow visitors only a limited "license free" time.

The Alabama Motorists Association and the American Automobile Association have been working to effect nationwide, full reciprocity, under which arrangement a visitor from one state could use his home state tag in any state until his natural expiration date.

"Reciprocal" States

States marked "reciprocal" allow visitors to operate without purchasing a local state license tag for the same length of time the visitor's state allows outside motorists to operate in it. This ruling applies only to visitors.

When a man moves into another state he immediately becomes liable for a license tag of the state into which he moves.

The states and the free time they allow visiting motorists are: Alabama, reciprocal; Arizona, 6 months; Arkansas, 90 days; California, 6 months; Colorado, 90 days; Connecticut, reciprocal; Delaware, reciprocal; Florida, unlimited; Georgia, 30 days; Idaho, reciprocal; Illinois, 6 months; Indiana, 60 days; Iowa, reciprocal; Kansas, 60 days; Kentucky, 90 days; Louisiana, 90 days; Maine, unlimited; Maryland, reciprocal; Massachusetts, reciprocal; Michigan, 90 days; Minnesota, 3 months; Mississippi, 30 days; Missouri 90 days, Montana and Nebraska, reciprocal; ....evada, 90 days; New Hampshire; 60 days; New Jersey, 15 days; New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, and Ohio, reciprocal; Oklahoma 60 days; Oregon, 90 days; Pennsylvania, reciprocal; Rhode Island and South Carolina, 30 days; South Dakota, reciprocal; Tennessee and Texas, 30 days; Utah, 10 days; Vermont, Virginia and Washington, reciprocal; West Virginia, 90 days; Wisconsin, reciprocal; Wyoming, 90 days; District of Columbia, reciprocal.

There are other regulations placed on visitors by some states. California requires visitors to that state to register within 10 days after entering the state. Satisfactory evidence of proper home state registration must be produced, when a non-resident permit is issued the visitor.

Alabama motorists are advised to carry their license tag receipts and possibly their bills of sale to avoid any delay. These credentials are especially necessary for motorists wishing to drive into Canada or Mexico.

OVER 10,000 BOYS ENROLLED IN 4-H CLUB WORK

Auburn, Ala., April 23.—The year 1928 promises to be one of the best for 4-H club work among the farm boys of Alabama. T. A. Sims and J. C. Lowery state club leaders, have been assisting county agents in enrolling and in organization along with county-wide rallies, and a report coming from them shows that wide-awake farm boys all throughout the state are anxious to do 4-H club work this year.

Incomplete reports indicate a total enrollment exceeding 10,000 for the state. Most of the enrollment season has passed but a few will enroll as late as May.

All the crop club boys have enrolled and have started their work. Cotton is the leading project with them. The goal for each boy having an acre of cotton is to make a bale or more. they do this by improved methods of production, including good seed, liberal use of the right kind of fertilizer, and improved practices in preparation of the seedbed and also in cultivation.

The success of the work in the past is the chief reason assigned by Mr. Sims and Mr. Lowery for the bigger enrollmen this year. A report of the work in 1927 reveals that the average profit per boy was around $50. In addition these youngsters were taught many important facts and got a bigger vision of the new agriculture which is requiring scientific training for the greatest success.

LETTER TO STRAWBERRY GROWERS OF THE COUNTY

Clanton, Ala., Apr. 23, 1928.

Dear Strawberry Grower:

On account of the large crop of berries that will be on the market this season, it is doubly important that the berries be picked, handled and packed with much care.

For the benefit of the new growers, especially, we have arranged for field meetings at the time and places listed below, when and where we will have some men who know the strawberry game, to give demonstrations in picking and packing berries.

I trust that every grower will make an effort to attend one of the field meetings as I feel sure that the meetings will be beneficial to both new and old growers.

The meetings will be as follows:

Elijah Mims', East Clanton on Tuesday, at 10 A. M.

Bud Jones' Farm, near Dr. Hinkle's on Wednesday, at 2 P. M.

J. L. Wilson's, Poplar Springs on Wednesday, at 10 A. M.

Tommie Miner's, Refuge Community, on Wednesday at 2 P. M.

S. Y. Dorminey's, near Union Grove, Church, Friday, at 9 A. M.

Boone Posey's near Freeman school, onFriday, at 2:30 P. M.

Yours very truly,
C. E. Stapp,
County Agent.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

Small and unthrifty chickens should be sold at home, say poultry workers at Auburn.

The farmer who plans to fight boll weevils this year will do well to get in touch with his county agent now and make plans for a successful fight.

A crop of velvet beans planted in corn middles will add $14 worth of plant food to each acre. The cost of planting shoud not exceed 50 cents.

Bankruptcy among farmers in the United States declined in 1927 as compared with 1926, 1825, 1924, the United States Department of Agriculture reports.

More than 20,000,000 cattle in 2,000,000 herds in the United States are now under supervision for eradication of tuberculosis.

Dr. B. Youngblood, who for several years has been director of the Texas Experiment Station, has resigned to head the cotton development work of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Automobile manufacturers have pledged themselves to cut the price of automobiles the full amount of 3 per cent of Federal tax now in force on automobiles if congress repeals this tax.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

A Detroit press dispatch says that the General Motors Company and the Ford Motor Company supply work for 408,706 men. General Motors reached their peak in February with a total of 201,373. The Motor Company predicted bigger business.

The tank car method of shipping milk into New York has proved efficient, and comment on this method of transporting milk is that it is a practical step, proving economical to shippers and to the transportation companies.

Senator Cyrus Locher, New Ohio senator, expressed much concern about the agricultural situation in a statement. He said, "Decline of the purchasing power of the farmer, brought about by failure to provide some program of relief, is beginning to show up in the industrial cities."

Road construction in the United States in 1928 will equal and probably exceed the highest record in any preceding year, according to the Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, Washington. Federal aid projects will include about 20,000 miles of surfacing roads and 8,000 miles grading and draining.

THIS WEEK, APRIL 22 TO 28 IS "BETTER HOMES WEEK"

Washington, D. C.—This week, April 22 to 28, is being observed throughout America as Better Homes Week. Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, who is president of Better Homes in America, made the following statement regarding this nationwide program:

"The more than 4,800 Better Homes programs planned this year by voluntary local committees are a direct response to the needs of millions of American families who want to improve their standards of living, and to make their homes more attractive and healthful. The local committees are working directly with the families in their own communities to see how homes can be improved at a cost within reach. Their demonstrations are for all groups, from those who are now striving to achieve home ownership, to those who are looking for ideas on how best to cut down the burden of house work and improve their housekeeping methods, or who would like to make their homes more attractive. Furthermore they bring out the value of well ordered home life and the essential place of the home in building up the health, character and ideals of the children of today.

"The American people are using th ir income and native resourcefulness more and more for improved homes, and for furniture, furnishings, equipment and other betterments in the home, all of a more or less durable character. This directly stimulates business and offers a vast field for the application of savings. So far as this accumulation of material goods is wisely undertaken and with a veiw to durability and quality, it is destined to be of enormous importance in improving standards of living.

"To make the most of our opportunities requires the cultivation of a good sense of poportion in regard to major household expenditures, study of homemaking problems in the different communities, and widespread sharing of local men and women as well as access to the findings of experts.

"The Better Homes committees have done a splendid service in these directions, reaching millions of families, and in hundreds of communities they have promoted civic measures to improve housing conditions and home surroundings, and to make home ownership more easily possible. During Better Homes Week nearly everyone of us can take part in this work thru encouraging attendance at Better Homes programs and otherwise aiding the local committees."

CO-OPERATIVE SALES BRING $66,379 IN MARCH

Auburn, Ala., April 18. --- In their report for last month, J. D. Moore and J. B. Sylvest, extension marketing specialists, Auburn, show that Alabama farmers were paid $66,379 for hogs, poultry, and eggs sold on the co-operative plan. The sales included 25 cars of hogs which brought $25,044; 13 cars of poultry for $39,000; 700 broilers for $500; and 345 cases of eggs for $2835. Other co-operative hog sales were made.

Hog sales having been established in Alabama many years ago attention at this season is focused upon sales of poultry on the cooperative plan. The 13 cars sold during March were loaded in 24 counties, they being Colbert, Limestone, Lawrence, Clay, Randolph, Lee, Chambers, Macon Montgomery, Pike, Lowndes, Bullock, Barbour, Dale, Henry, Houston, Geneva, Covington, Coffee, Baldwin, Clarke, Wilcox, Dallas, and Shelby.

Five thousand farmers participated in these poultry sales which resulted in selling for cash at the car door. In this owners of one hen, 100 hens, 1000 hens or more can s ll direct to a big buyer who ships to a big market-most of them going to New York. They were mixed cars, including turkeys, guineas, and geese as well as chickens.

Eggs sold this way wre produced in Baldwin County. S. H. Gibbons, county agent reports that removal of this surplus of eggs stimulated the price generally, thereby enabling egg producers who did not patronize the cooperative sale to sell for a higher price.

NO INFORMATION ON COTTON GIVEN PREVIOUS TO JULY 1

Montgomery, Ala., April 23.—The State Department of Agriculture and Industries and Federal Statistican, F. W. Gist, are forbidden by law to give out any information on cotton conditions previous to July 1, according to a public statement made by Commissioner of Agriculture, S. M. Dunwoody, on Saturday, following insistent requests for figures on damage, replanting and condition of planted cotton. Although it would be of great advantage to farmers to know of the condition of their main crop, it appears that Congress is responsible for preventing issuance of valuable information such as would probably cause a rise in the price of cotton, Mr. Dunwoody's statement follows:

"Many inquiries from this and other States have reached this Department concerning the inquiry to the cotton crop, and great need for seed for replanting has been stressed; and farmers report considerable damage due to rain and very cold weather. Crop statistics regarding cotton acreage cannot be given out before July 1, and the condition of the crop cannot be given until August 1. This is in accordance with a law passed by Congress, and the State and Federal statistican has no figures on cotton conditions to give before the above dates, for none will be collected until summer."

"Southern Representative in Congress asked for this law, and it was passed at their insistence. This law which prohibits giving out information tending to lower the price of cotton, also prohibits giving out information at this time which would tend to stiffen the price."

"If the present deplorable condition of cotton could be surveyed and information given to the public, the market should show a decided rebound, instead of its present weakness."

"Farmers have a right to know all about their cotton crop at any time such information can be obtained. If early conditions are favorable for good yields, they might be able to restrict their acreage; if conditions are unfavorable, they could govern themselves accordingly. They at least would have the market respond to official information, instead of trade rumors and could sell accordingly."

ALABAMA FERTILIZER TAG SALES SHOW DROP FOR WEEK

Montgomery, Ala., April 23.—Alabama fertilizer tag sales showed a decided drop for the week of April 21, according to figures released by William B. Griffin, chief clerk of the Department, who issued the following information:

"The unseasonably cold weather coupled with heavy rains and cloudy days, was doubtless responsible for the slackening in shipments of fertilizer this week. The amount sold is far ahead of all former records. To date, Alabama has bought 74,006 tons more of fertilizer than was sold during the record year of 1926, when a total of 603,444 tons was disposed of."

"The tonnage to date is more than twice that of 1915; three times that of 1916; twice that of 1918; five times that of 1921; twice that of 1922; and will probably be 15 per cent more than the record for 1926, which was 603.444 tons of fertilizer."

"This mountain of fertilizer will be applied to Alabama crops, largely to cotton. Alabama will grow about 3 per cent more of feed and food crops this year than usual, according to the intentions to plant reports. It appears that Alabama farmers are getting ready for a big crop and heavy application of fertilizer."

Present indications point to about 700,000 tons of fertlizer being sold in Alabama this year.

Up to date of April 20, 1926, a record year, 581,950 tons of fertilizer had been sold. To this same date last year only 441,250 tons had been shipped to farms To date of April 20, 1928, a grand total of 677,450 tons had been sold and the market is still active but decreasing and will show a rapid decrease from

ABOUT THE DOMINO TOURNAMENT

In last week's county papers a domino tournament was announced, with entrance fee of $1.00, but as we have received so little encouragement, a change has been made. Only a few have signified their intention to enter the contest, in fact, only the few who were the originators of the idea with a few others.

But, just the same, we're going to have it! So, in order to have the contest anyway, and be sure of several contestants, the following change is made: No charge for admission will be made, and no prize will be given. Rules governing the play in the contest remain the same. If you are good, or think you are, send in your application. Further information will be given in the county papers later. If you want in, just grab a piece of paper and say so. The name of the winner of the contest will be announced in the county papers, and a news item in regard to the contest and winner sent to the daily newspapers of Birmingham and Montgomery. Address your application to Paul C. Mims, Drawer F, Clanton, Ala. Maybe you are the best in the county—if so, let somebody know it. The contest will be held during the week of May 7. Now Let's go!

FIRST SOUTHERN BUILT CHEVROLET ROLLED OFF ASSEMBLY LINE FRIDAY, APRIL THE 13TH.

The first Chevrolet car ever built in Dixie rolled off the assembly line Friday, April thirteenth, when the mammoth new Chevrolet factory in Atlanta—the largest automotive institution in all the South—swung into operation to supply the Southeastern states.

In the presence of a group of notables, including city, state and civic officials, the first Southern built Chevrolet was welcomed to the land of cotton and sunshine by Governor Hardeman of Georgia and Mayor Ragsdale of Atlanta. Representing the Chevrolet Motor Company were W. S. Roberts, plant manager, and L. S. Costley, regional sales manager.

Flashing from the assembly line, its lustrous finish glistening in the sunlight, Number One caught every eye as it was quickly driven out to make room for Number Two which was coming up immediately in the rear. Over to the driveway shed it went as an admiring crowd followed to make further inspection of the car that is the herald of a long line to follow in succeeding weeks.

City officials present at the formality commented on the significance of the event, its importance, not only to Atlanta but to the entire Southeast, and joined in the opinion that the huge Atlanta plant would be a leading factor in increased activity in the South.

Constructed at a cost of more than $2,250,000, the plant covers 32 acres and has 410,000 square feet of floor space. It has an assembly capacity of 350 cars a day, or more than 100,000 a year. Following the Chevrolet policy of recruiting workmen from the community in which its plants are located, it will be almost exclusively a Southern institution, its 1,300 employees being residents of Atlanta or nearby cities. The payroll will approach $3,000,000 annually.

Production will be on a basis of 2,000 cars for the last half of April, with the May schedule calling for six thousand cars.

Strategically located for shipping purposes, the plant is equipped to make rapid deliveries to the six Southeastern states it will serve, including Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina and parts of North Carolina and Tennessee.

The factory is served by the Southern Railroad Company, which has six lines of tracks adjoining the plant for storage of cars. Accomodations have been made to hadle as many as 300 cars at one time. Two other tracks lead directly into the Chevrolet plant proper and one track into the Fisher Body unit.

In all the plant embraces six units: The main office building which includes Chevrolet and Fisher Body assembly, a three story office building, driveway shed, loading dock, parts warehouse and pump house.

ACTUAL WORK BEGINS ON LOCAL COTTON MILL

timbers to be used on constructing a bridge over a drainage ditch on the mill site.

Work of all the ten mills began at about the same time, and it is the intention to have them all ready for operation at as near the same time as is possible.

While it is necessary for the contractors to import to Clanton a few experienced men to supervise the work in certain departments, it is the intention of the Batson-Cook Company, to work as many skilled and unskilled, people of this section, as they can, and to buy all the material and the like available from local people, all things being equal. We understand that this is an unwritten part of the contract made with them by the Alabama Mills Company.

At present only a small force of men are at work but it is estimated that something like 200 will be employed when the construction work gets a little farther advanced.

WHIPPET-WILLYS-KNIGHT SALES ON THE INCREASE

Toledo, Ohio, April 22.—Production and sales of Willys-Knight and Whippet motor cars in March reached the highest peak in the company's history, according to a statement made here by Willys-Overland executives.

During the month 32,723 cars were sold, a 17 per cent increase over the highest previous month. This is a gain of 28.5 per cent over Whippet and Willys-Knight sales in March of last year.

March production of 31,129 units is the largest month in the company's history. This is a gain of 19 per cent over the previous highest month and a 28 per cent increase over March of last year.

It was also announced that production of Willys-Overland products reached the highest daily mark in history on April 10, when a total of 1,736 cars was produced.

This statement was made immediately following the introduction of the new Whippet Six at the lowest price ever fixed by any manufacturer of six cylinder cars.

Production at all Willys-Overland plants has been maintained at high tide since early in January, when John N. Willys, president, announced to the world that "there can be no monopoly in the light car field" and then slashed prices on the Whippet.

ALABAMA NEEDS MORE HOSPITALS

Dr. Chadwick Sounds Warning Based On Latest American Medical Association Figures

MONTGOMERY, (Special). — Alabama is a badly under-hospitalized state, according to Dr. John S. Chadwick, superintendent of the Memorial Hospital and general secretary of the memorial hospitals campaign for $1,000,000 in Alabama and West Florida.

"I have just been going over data prepared by the American Medical Association for early publication," he stated, "and find that Alabama has one general hospital bed for every 358 white people in the state as compared with a general average of one bed for every 141 persons in the United States. In other words, we should have in this state two and one-half times as many hospital beds as we have now, in order to equal the American average.

"In computing these figures I did not consider colored institutions. I counted only general hospitals which take cases of all kinds and found that there were 90 such institutions in Alabama with a total bed capacity of 4,186. Taking the white population of Alabama as 1,500,000 or 60 per cent of the total of 2,500,000, and dividing this figure by 4,186, the total number of beds, we get 358, the number of white people in the state for each hospital bed.

Warns Against Calamity

While the enlarged Memorial Hospital located in Montgomery, serving the people of South Alabama and West Florida, and the proposed new Memorial hospital in Birmingham, which will serve the people of North Alabama, will not be able to make up the great hospital bed deficiency in this territory, these two splendid institutions, comparable with the best in the land, will do much toward relieving the situation. They will enable thousands of people in average circumstances, from all parts of Alabama and West Florida, to obtain the most advanced hospital service at moderate cost.

"Just think what a terrible situation we would be in if this state or western Florida were to be the scene of some unforeseen calamity such as visited St. Louis, Louisiana, California and the New England states in recent months!

"I am sounding this warning at a time when the people of this state and western Florida have an opportunity to provide themselves with additional hospital protection of the most advanced kind. A campaign is now in progress for funds to build two or the finest hospitals in the South right here in Alabama, at points where they will be most readily accessible to all the people in this entire region. I sincerely hope that the people will respond in no uncertain manner to the direct appeal which will be made to them between April 16 and 28.

"The figures I have quoted contain a very significant lesson."

MAJOR OPERATIONS WITH SMALL RISK

Hospital Facilities And Improved Technique Greatly Reduce Mortality Figures

Thanks to modern hospital facilities and the development of operating technique, through the handling of thousands of cases, the modern surgeon no longer regards appendicitis operations as fraught with any great risk.

In a series of 2,959 consecutive unselected cases recently reported by Dr. L. G. Guerry, there were only 16 deaths, a mortality of about one-half of one per cent. These cases included chronic and acute appendicitis, and cases with localized abscess formation or general peritonitis.

Nearly all risk has also been eliminated from hernia operations. Dr. Walters at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., has reported a series of 189 cases without a death.

Perineal prostatectomy, the medical name for a major operation on the prostate gland quite common among old people, is now virtually without danger. Twenty years ago the mortality from this operation was more than 20 per cent. A recent series of 107 consecutive cases reported by Dr. Edwin Davis, of Omaha, resulted in only one death. Larger consecutive series with even lower mortality rates have been reported by others.

It is practically impossible to perform these and similar operations outside of a well-equipped hospital.

ONE OUT OF SIX PATIENTS AT HOSPITAL GETS CHARITY

One out of every six patients treated at the Memorial Hospital situated in Montgomery, during 1927 was the recipient of charity, according to Dr. J. S. Chadwick, superintendent of the hospital and secretary of the Alabama and West Florida Memorial Hospital's Campaign for $1,000,000. Many charity patients had to be turned away last year because of lack of room and facilities.

SELLING SYRUP BY TELEGRAPH PROVES SATISFACTORY

American business alert and rapid as its paces may seem, is speeding up still more. It realizes that its annual big bill for salesmanship can be reduced by more rapid and surer means of stock turn-over. Times means money to all concerned.

While there are numerous ways of quickening the process of buying and selling, special emphasis has for many years been placed upon the telegraph —the pioneer of speed communication. This little instrument invented by Samuel F. B. Morse more than three-quarters of a century ago, has been rediscovered by business. This is taking place despite the fact it has done probably more than any other one thing to unify the world politically, socially and industrially. Every day brings news of some new and vital use of it in buying and selling.

But the most striking recent case is that of a large syrup factory located not far from a large southern city. Through private telephone connection with the Western Union office, one day it sent 600 telegrams to prospective customers offering syrup at a definite price.

Before these uniform messages had been sent to a third of the addresses, acceptances began coming in and another telephone line had to be set up to deliver these answers to the syrup manufacturer. Before the 500 price offers had been telegraphed, the manufacturer asked the telegraph company to send for him some buying telegrams to other syrup makers as his supply was running low.

This being done, answers quickly came in to his wires. Then he sent acceptances. Within a short time, through this circuitous operation, all his stock and all he could buy by telegraph from other makers had been sold.

Not only does this one of a number of instances show the increasing popularity of the telegram in sales work, it also illustrates how the telephone brings the telegraph to the very door of business. p

When the operator in the telegraph office received the order for 600 messages from the telephone tie line connection with the syrup factory, she took the body of the message down on a noiseless typewriter, since the text of the telegram was the same to all prospective buyers. She then handed the message to the mimeographing department and while copies were being reproduced, took down the addresses. As soon as the copies were finished they were handed to another girl who received all of the addresses so far taken down by the operator and immediately began filling in these mimeographs of the text the names of addresses and handed these completed copies to operators of the automatic sending apparatus now used in all large cities.

Numerous testimonials have come into Western Union headquarters from other business men acclaiming the value of the telegram in increasing sales. One sales manager reported a large increase in volume of sales and a decrease of fully seventy-five per cent in selling costs by using telegrams to take the place of salesmen in getting business.

A Texas store sent out 100 telegrams to prospective customers and received 94 profitable responses. An Ohio firm spent $150 on sales telegrams and received $30,000 in orders in four days. Another Texas dealer sells, buys, collects overdue accounts and holds customers by using the telegraph instead of the mails. A film company reports that it has increased its sales 50 per cent by having its salesmen wire daily reports of sales and contracts.

It is such operations as these that indicate that the American business man is speeding up in buying and selling. In many cases the telegram does the selling almost alone, while in other instances it is a valuable stimulus to sales work.

It has been found that because telegrams get preferential handling and go direct to the man to be seen they never waste time. They are not opened and side-ewitched like letters "Use telegrams as advance agents," the salesmen spend less time waiting for interviews and no time in "warming up."

Getting down to brass tacks in a minute in this way the salesman gains quick action. The yellow blank has already suggested speed to the one he is interviewing. —Dots and Dashes.

REMARKABLE RECORD MADE BY BUICK TOURING CAR

Flint, Mich., April 22.—Reports of exceptional service being delivered by Buick cars come to the Buick factory here constantly, but of all such reports, one received recently from Conshohocken, Pa., undoubtedly takes the palm. A Buick touring car owned by the Lee Tire Company of that city had completed 100,000 miles without requiring one cent's expenditure other than for actual operation.

The remarkable record of this car was brought to the attention of E. T. Strong, president and general manager of the Buick Motor Company, by his friend, P. S. du Pont, chairman of the board of General Motors. Mr. du Pont had written Mr. Strong previously, commenting upon the exceptional service delivered by two Buicks of his own. Hearing later of the Buick at Conshohcocken, Mr. du Pont again wrote Mr. Strong, enclosing the facts about the Lee Tire Company's car and admitting that these eclipsed his own Buick's performance.

DURANT PRODUCTION CONTINUES TO CLIMB HIGHER

Despite the fact that the Durant plant at Elizabeth, New Jersey, broke all previous monthly production records in March, states T. S. Johnston, assistant to W. C. Durant, our production is steadily climbing higher.

Last month the average daily increase over the best previous record was 61 cars, an increase of 1,600.61 cars for the month or a total production of 9,600.61. Already this record is being surpassed by a further increase of 50 cars daily and every indication is toward another shattering of production records at this plant of Durant motors.

As a result of this great production increase records have also been made in the plants of contributory manufacturers and new employment figures established.

The man who boasts of his ignorance has reached the ultimate.

Verbena Student Wins In Essay Contest

Encourages Planting Of Better Varieties, Thereby Netting More Profit

NOTE—The following essay was chosen as the best of several submitted to Mr. C. E. Stapp in the National Essay Contest on the subject, "Co-Operative Marketing." There will be awarded district, state and national prizes, and the winner from Chilton County is now eligible to enter the District and State contest. The original of the following has already been forwarded to State Headquarters at Auburn.

(Carridelle Gordon, Verbena School)

The goal of cooperative marketing is to get more money for the farmer's products, so that he can give his children better opportunities; can have better homes, schools and churches; and can live more useful and happy lives. The faith developed on the part of the American farmer in co-operation has resulted in a realization of the need of united effort in solving common problems. The farmer by proper organization is able to solve many endeavors which are of vital importance for more economical marketing.

Standarization of products is being carried much farther by cooperative marketing. The cotton farmer is often criticised for lack of attention given to the uniformity and grade of cotton. The farmer, individually, is helpless, because of the many duties he has to perform. Five years ago very little consideration was given to the grades and staples of cotton. The association has already proven its worth by encouraging the farmer to plant the better varieties, and ascertaining for them the true grades and staples. This organization also gathers information for the farmers concerning the crop and market. The farmer lacks both time and facilities to learn the conditions of the market. Information is very important for intelligent marketing. The farmer is placed at a disadvantage when he has none because the people with whom he deals know the economic conditions of the world. Cooperative marketing establishes and maintains outlets. The farmer can give more care and attention to his product, and then turn it over to the association to sell, and he will not be bothered with the trouble.

Cooperative marketing is no new thing at home or abroad. It had its beginning when people found that they could not be an enemy to someone else, then they found it more profitable to work together in worthwhile enterprises. Of course, cooperative marketing followed just as the motor vehicle was bound to succeed the horse drawn one. Some people at home and abroad oppose this organization, but we find a few people everywhere who oppose anything progressive. After they have made a careful study of this plan and learn the many ways it benefits the farmer, I believe all prejudice will be removed and they will approve of it. The following eight benefits are received:

FIRST—The farmer's product is sold according to its grade and standard.

SECOND—It means orderly marketing throughout the year. It is neither dumping nor holding, but selling at the right time.

THIRD—The farmer gets his money as the cotton is sold. He receives it in installment payments, and this enables him to do a cash business instead of a credit business.

FOURTH—It removes the risk of marketing at the wrong time. A farmer outside the association has to guess at the right time to sell and often misses it.

FIFTH—The association employs an expert who understands economic conditions of the world.

SIXTH—The farmer can cut down expenses. A group of farmers can borrow money at a much cheaper rate of interest.

SEVENTH—It promotes unselfishness and neighborliness. The farmers are engaged in team work for the interest of all concerned.

EIGHTH—It is a straight out business proposition designed to solve the chief problem of civilization.

In considering the progress of cooperative marketing we must bear in mind its beginning. It began only six years ago. It started without financial resources, credit, a member, trained leaders or experienced managers, and

BILLY TROXEL AND BAND PLEASES AUDIENCE HERE

Billy Troxel and his stage band played a two day engagement at the Wadesonian Theatre here this week, and judging from the applause given at the end of each act, the large audience was well pleased.

Billy Troxel has something different from the usual traveling shows, and in fact, was by far the best performance ever staged here by a traveling troupe. He has a splendid orchestra and the selections rendered on the xylophone were among the features given during the time his five act vaudeville was on the stage.

Aside from the musical numbers rendered, a school room sketch was presented in which Billy, himself, took the part of the red-headed school boy, and his method of presenting the part was highly pleasing.

"The Little Paint Shop" To Open Here

P. G. Marcus To Open New Store on 6th St. Next To Clanton Laundry

Mr. P. G. (Posey) Marcus will open a very unique paint shop here next week in the building adjoining the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Co., on Sixth Street just below the court house

All kinds of paints, varnish, stains and brushes will be carried in stock. In fact, as Mr. Marcus says, they will be able to furnish the material to paint anything from a needle to a battleship.

One of the unique features of the "Little Paint Shop" will be the color table. This table has several kinds of wood in its construction and will be painted, varnished, etc., in many different colors and ways. This will enable the customer to see the actual work on the different woods. One wall also be used to illustrate the many colors.

There will be six experienced painters and one experienced paper hanger to comprise the crew of interior and exterior decorators of this shop.

"The Little Paint Shop", according to Mr. Marcus will be open and ready for business by the first of next week. Already a large stock of paint and the like has arrived.

MR. STAPP ANNOUNCES WINNERS IN VETCH CONTEST

Last Fall, Mr. C. E. Stapp, County Agent decided to get some prizes offered to the farmers growing the best vetch. Mullins and Moore of Clanton agreed to give one rolling coulter and attachment used in turning vetch.

Recently Mr. Stapp announced the date for cutting and weighing plots of vetch. Mr. J. W. Hamilton, Clanton, Route 7, has been announced the winner of the prize. He cut from one hundred square feet of land 84 and 1-4 pounds of vetch. The plot cut represented an average of his field. This means that Mr. Hamilton will have more than 17 tons per acre to turn into the soil. Such growth of vetch turned in is equivalent to 400-600 pounds of Notrate of Sida per acre. Mr. Hamilton's report was on first year vetch.

Mr. Howad Oden of Isabella had the next highest yield of vetch. He reported fifty-four pounds of vetch on one hundred square feet of second year vetch.

NOVEL HOOK-UP AT FARMERS HARDWARE DRAWS CROWDS

In last week's issue of the News, we made mention of the novel hook-up of a radio and Columbia phonograph in which we erroneously stated that the phonograph was stationed in the rear of the Jones Hardware. The statement should have read that the phonograph was in the rear of the show room of the Farmers Hardware, as the Jones Hardware is in no way connected with this feature.

Large crowds have been gathering on the corner daily since the 'hook-up' was started, and seem to enjoy the musical programs rendered.

Dr. S. J. Ezell preached in Maplesville last Sunday morning.

Prospects Bright For Democrats

We believe that the casual observer in politics will agree with us, in the statement that there is shining from the political horizon of Chilton County, at this time, the brightest ray of hope, for the success of the Democratic party that has eminated therefrom in many a day and that opportunity is knocking at the door of the party as it has never before, and if the Democrats of the county will take courage from this ray of hope and take advantage of the opportunity by going to the polls next Tuesday, May 8, 1928, and vote the solid Democratic strength of the county, the results will be surprising as well as gratifying.

We take this opportunity to congratulate the Democrats of the county for the straight-forward, business way and manner in which they have organized and brought the party into shape for the purpose of winning a victory in this county this year. The party has a virile fighting organization, whose membership is indeed respectable and its candidates are men whose democracy cannot be questioned and whose lives and records in public and private affairs are clean and unimpeachable. The people may well rest assured that the election of the Democratic ticket in this county will bring to them a set of men who will do the right thing and give the people an administration of governmental affairs unstained with discrimination and sharp practices, which we have witnessed in this county for so-called political purposes.

The citizenship who have an abiding interest in the county, its schools, roads and the development of the agricultural and commercial resources, owe the duty to themselves and to their county and fellowmen, to consider well the qualifications of those who are asking them for the honor and privilege of administering the governmental affairs of the county in the future, and after a full and fair consideration of the Democratic candidates and the things they pledge the people, the electorate believe that they will bring to the county a better administration of its affairs, they should wield their ballot in the interest of the county, rather than for the advancement of some individual.

Whatever differences of opinion that may have heretofore existed among Democrats of the county—whether caused by the schemes of the common enemy or from bona fide differences as to personal or party matters—should be religated at this time into oblivion, and every Democrat join in making the party united to render a service to the county and its people, that has so long been needed.

We do not mean by this to attempt to console—nor would we be willing to aggravate or palliate—the feeling of those who believe that the county would be better served by casting their ballot with the opposing political party. The matter of choosing the party with whom one will align his or herself, is a personal privilege; one that is sacred as well as being an inalienable right, which no one should ever presume to question or criticise. But we do believe that every Democrat should interest themselves in their party and give to it the very best advice and loyal service possible, and uphold its principles and traditions. Let every Democrat adopt the old slogan: "Now is the time for all good men and women to come to the aid of their party" and start the fight now for good government in Chilton County.

CHILTON HIGH TO PLAY MONTEVALLO HERE

Second Game To Be Played Between These Teams This Season

The Chilton County High School will meet the fast Montevallo team on the local field next Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the second game of baseball played between the two teams this season.

Two weeks ago these same two teams met on the Montevallo diamond, at which time the game resulted in a 5-5 tie, and reports coming from Montevallo are to the effect that they are going to make an unusual effort to cop the game to be played here this week end.

The student body of the local high school are very anxious to have out a large bunch of rooters for this game, and the coach has requested us to give an invitation to all lovers of the sport to be present.

With probably one more game the schedule will end, and thus the supporters of the game will only have an assurance of seeing the two Sanford brothers and one or two other high school players in action on the local high team, so go out and see the game Friday afternoon. Coach Rogers states that he and his team will do all possible to assure a good game.

CHAMPION SPARK PLUG DEALER URGES CHANGES

Mr. H. M. Bates, of the Bates Motor Company, Champion Spark Plug dealer, urges that all users of this famous line of spark plugs take the advice of the manufacturer and observe the week of May 6th to 12th, by equipping their cars with new Champion Spark Plugs.

Experts state that it is economy to install a complete new set of spark plugs in cars if their present plugs have been used for 10,000 miles or more, or have been in use more than a year.

May 6th to 12th is the occasion of the Champion Spark Plug Company's Fourth Annual National Change Week. During the same week a year ago more than a million owners are estimated to have made the change.

Mr. Bates states that he will give free spark plug inspection service for the entire week to all motor car owners, at his garage in Clanton.

The Bates Motor Company also has on a special offer on the famous Oasis Batteries. Read all of their ads in this issue of the News and take advantage of the bargains offered, as well as the free service.

Contract To Enlarge Elmore's Store Let

When Completed Building Will Be 32 ft. Wide By 170 Ft. Deep

Dr. N. S. Johnson has let a contract for the building of an addition to the rear of the V. J. Elmore 5c, 10c, and $1.00 Store on Main Street.

The contract was let last week to Mr. West Danforth, and Monday of this week Mr. Danforth had a large force on the job, making preparations for the erection of the new addition to the main building, which will be of brick. While the addition is only one story high, the foundation is being laid for a two-story building should the owner decide to build it late.

When completed this will give the Elmore Store one of the largest buildings of its kind anywhere in a small town, as the store will be 32 feet wide by 170 feet deep.

HARRY MARGOLIS TO ENTER BUSINESS IN UNIONTOWN

Within the next two weeks, Harry Margolis plans to leave Clanton for Uniontown, where he he intends to enter business for himself.

When seen by a representative of the News this week, Harry stated that he would open up a 5c, 10c 25c and $1.00 Store in the above mentioned town, and would be permanently located in the black belt.

Mr. Margolis has been a resident of Clanton for several years, and has been employed in the Leader Store which is owned by M. Lande, brother-in-law of Harry, and is well qualified for the new undertaking. Mr. Margolis has scores of friends who will regret to learn that he is to leave Clanton, but extend to him their very best wishes for a prosperous future in his new location.

DR. A. C. ANDERSON OF MONTGOMERY FILLS PULPIT

Dr. A. C. Anderson of Montgomery preached a splendid sermon on The 23nd Psalm Sunday morning at the eleven o'clock hour, at the local Methodist Church. Dr. Anderson is pastor of the Presbyterian Church here and preaches here each Fifth Sunday. Due to the fact that the Masonic Hall, where the Presbyterians usually worship, not being suitable for the church hour, the Methodist are always glad to have Dr. Anderson and his congregation worship at their Church.

STAR BARBER SHOP HAS NEW BARBER IN EMPLOY

Mr. C. E. Wilson of Montgomery, better known as "Charlie" has accepted a position with the Star Barber Shop of this city. He takes the place of Mr. O. E. Blalock on the third chair.

Mr. Wilson is a very experienced barber, having had fourteen years at the trade, seven years of this in Montgomery. He comes well recommended, and has a large number of friends in Chilton County who will be glad to learn of his affiliation with the local shop.

Interest In Democratic Primary Grows

Democratic Candidate For Probate Judge Gaining Many Supporters

The Democratic Primary in this county, until last week, had been very quiet, but due to the fact there is several contests in same, the interest has developed in the last few days into a real lively fight. One of the outstanding contests being for the delegates to the National Convention at Houston, from the State at large, Harry M. Ayers, Bordon Burr, A. H. Carmichael and T. S. Faulk, seem to have the lead in this county as these four men have, it is said, openly pledged themselves against the nomination of Gov. Alfred Smith, of New York, for President.

Another lively race is that between Senator Watt T. Brown of Ragland, and Walter Moore of Birmingham for National Democratic Committeeman, with Senator Brown appearing to have the lead in the race, due to the fact that he, also, is opposed to Gov. Smith, and further that he has on several occasions been of real service to the Democrats of this section of the state, and the Democrats of this county state that as Mr. Moore has held the place for a number of years that a change will, in their opinion, be best for the party.

Hon. Hugh White, president of the Public Service Commission of Alabama is being opposed by Ed. R. Norman, but due to the fact that Mr. White has the endorsement of a large number of business men, farmers and especially the fruit growers of this section, he appears to have the lead over his opponent and will safely carry this county, it is said however, that Mr. Norman has a large number of friends who are making a last minute campaign tor him, Another real interesting contest is between Ernest H. Davis and James R. Walker of Stanton for Commissioner from the 3rd. District of this county. Both of these men are life-long Democrats and are both eminently qualified for the place, and each have canvassed the county and have friends in every precinct fighting. The race, from reports seems to be close.

Dr. P. T. Hinkle who is unapposed for the Democratic nomination for the office of Judge of Probate, when interviewed by a News representative stated that he had made a canvass of the county and although he had been unable to see every voter, he wanted them to know that he would appreciate their vote in the primary next Tuesday, as he wanted the office and has a desire to serve the people, and assures every one that he will be a servant to the citizens of the county, all alike, and will see to it that our roads are worked, over the entire county without discrimination, and that he will work with school authorities to make the schools the best in the state and he is opposed to raising any taxes for this purpose but believes that the revenue of the county is ample to accomplish this without additional taxes, and that if it becomes necessary to levy a one mill tax to get the benefit of the state appropriation for school purposes, that he would favor reducing the county tax one mill, which will make the taxes on the taxpayers the same as it is at present. He stated that the prospects for a Democratic victory this year are very bright and that if the Democrats of the county will go to the polls and unite themselves, forget all past party or personal differences, and make no promises or pledges that they cannot carry out, and make a clean fight for good government, we will win. He stated that we must remember that the welfare of Chilton County and its boys and girls is the paramount issue, and if the people will work to make our county bigger and better, we will take our place in the line with other progressive counties of Alabama, which can best be accomplished by electing a solid Democratic ticket in the county.

ED. R. NORMAN OF BIRMINGHAM SOLICITS YOUR VOTE

"A Square Deal for the Public and the Public Utilities" is the slogan of E. R. Norman, candidate for president of the Alabama Public Service Commission in the Democratic primaries. For thirteen years Mr. Norman was a newspaper reporter at Birmingham. His work for the Birmingham Ledger during several hard-fought sessions of the legislature was on the moral and progressive sides of all public questions. Then for twelve years he was assistant postmaster of Birmingham. As a student and writer on public questions and later as a public servant, Mr. Norman has acquired a wide grasp of the public's needs. He is fully qualified to hold the office he seeks with credit to the state and satisfaction to the people he serves.

This is written by one who has known Ed Norman for more than 20 years and who knows that he is well qualified to hold the office he is seeking.—D. H. Holt.

ALABAMA OBSERVES NATIONAL EGG WEEK

Auburn, Ala., May 3.—The week of May 1-8 is being observed throughout the nation as national egg week. In Alabama the week is being observed and Prof. John E. Ivey and G. A. Trollope of the poultry department of Auburn say that it will result in increasing the consumption of eggs. This, they say, will be beneficial to consumers and to producers.

This annual observance is promoted by the National Poultry Council which is an organization of poultry producers. State colleges of agriculture and others interested in developing the poultry industry cooperate with the Poultry Council.

The objectives, as pointed out by Mr. Ivey and Mr. Trollope, are to popularize eggs and increase consumption. While eggs constitute a portion of the diet of most people they are not being consumed as largely as they might, and this is the chief reason for national egg week. Hotels, restaurants, dining cars, and people in the homes have been asked to join in the movement by featuring eggs and serving them in different ways.

The egg industry in Alabama represents a money income exceeding $20,000,000.000 annually. This figure is increasing each year. With an increase in production, thereby increasing the value.

Eggs are one of the protective foods, rich in phosphorus, iron and calcium from which the haemoglobin of red corpuscles is made. On the account of this richness in iron the yolk should be associated with milk, cereals and vegetables as an addition to the growing child's diet.

NORTH FACES NEW ISSUE AS NEGROES SHOW HITHERTO UNKNOWN STRENGTH

WASHINGTON, April 28.— Whatever remains of the race problem from the social aspect long ago was eliminated from the South, only to take root in the North, and now it is the North which is faced with this problem in politics.

The Ohio primary for election of delegates to the National Convention last Tuesday witnessed the spectacle of Senator Simeon D. Fess, selected to be the keynoter of the Republican convention at Kansas City, defeated for delegate-at-large, while E. W. B. Curry, negro editor of Springfield, was elected. It was to benefit Curry's chances for election as district delegate that Secretary of Commerce Hoover issued his order last month abolishing race segregation in the census bureau here, thus placing white and colored clerks together. The problem is how to get Fess into the convention so he may preside as temporary chairman. * * *—Montgomery Advertiser, Sunday, April

GIRL FINDS BOX CONTAINING VERY VALUABLE PAPERS

Farmers' Daughter Makes Interesting Find While Picking Berries

Hepsibah Crockett, the 12-year old daughter of Lemuel Crockett, well-to-do, but miserly farmer, who lives near Center, in Gresham County, and who several months ago found a small "strong box" containing some papers, which at the time appeared practically worthless is today a happy child. She has been paid the thousand dollar reward offered by the Brixley Plow and Shovel Works, of New York, City, for the return of the box and papers.

For several months there had been vague rumors of a new railroad line being put through this section of the county and it has been brought to light since the finding and identification of the papers found by Young Miss Crockett, that they were the field notes and plans of the party of surveyors who were here some time back surveying the route of the proposed new line. It also develops that the new line is to run through the plantation of Farmer Crockett, which will bring him very much needed money with which to buy his family home comforts of which they have long been in need.

There is a number of comical and ludicrous situations leading up to the climax of the story, which will be presented at Isabella High School on Saturday night, May 5, under the title of "Forest Acres", a comedy in three acts, carying 13 characters and full of fun, pep and laughter in every line from beginning to end.

This story under the title of "Forest Acres" will be presented as the under-graduate play of the year and promises to be one of the best entertainments ever presented at Isabella School. The public is cordially invited to attend and enjoy an evening of wholesome entertainment.

CHEVROLET MOTOR CO. ANNOUNCES NEW SPORT MODEL

Detroit, Michigan, May 6—Pioneering into the low priced automobile field aonther distinctive style feature, the Chevrolet Motor Company, today, announces a new Convertible Sport Cabriolet with Body by Fisher, listing at $695; F. O. B., Flint, Michigan.

Combining all the closed car advantages of the sport cabriolet with the open car features of the roadster, this latest offering of the world's largest automobile producing company is ideally suited to every type of weather under all kinds of driving conditions.

Of two to four passenger capacity, the convertible cab with the top up resembles the sport cabriolet in appearance. The top, however, is fully collapsible and folds so completely out of the way that full vision ahead is possible from the rumble seat. An additional feature is the inclusion of a nickel banding around the windows which gives them rigidity and permits of raising the windows, with the top lowered, as an extra protection against the wind.

Finished in Romany Red, with black body striping in gold, and embellished with artistic touches of polished nickel, the new model sounds a distinctive style note in the field of low cost transportation. The disc wheels are of the same brilliant color combination as the body.

The soft folding rubber fabric top is jet black in pleasing contrast to the dominant tones of the body. The Body by Fisher retains the sweeping graceful lines that distinguished the former cabriolet; while other features are of the same dependable construction that is winning unprecendented numbers to the Bigger and Better Chevrolet.

AMERICAN railroads measure their income on basis of average revenue received for transporting one ton of freight one mile, and for transporting one passenger one mile—these units being known as rate per ton mile and rate per passenger mile. It is an interesting fact that since 1921 the passenger rate has been reduced 6.2% and the freight rate 15.3%.

This reduction in freight rates has meant a saving to the shippers of more than four billion dollars. In other words, if the shippers of freight over the United States railroads had been obliged to pay, during the years of 1922 to 1927 inclusive, the same rate for moving their traffic, measured by the cost per ton mile, that was paid in 1921 under the order of Governmental authority, the aggregate cost, which would have of course been additional revenue for the rail. roads, would have exceeded four billion dollars. This reduction has been uninterrupted, each year showing a reduction in comparison with the year before.

During this six-year period the L. & N. R. R. Company's freight rates, as measured by the revenue per ton mile, have decreased about 18%—thus enabling the patrons of this Road to save something over $102,000,000.

Doing a better job than ever before, and reducing its charges therefor—the steam railroads of the United States deserve your freight and passenger patronage.

JUDGE LUCIEN D. GARDNER

No matter what political considerations may have swayed the voters of Alabama in their election of men to fill the other offices of this state, they have always arisen above such motives in their choice of men to serve as Justices of the Supreme Court. As a result of this wise discrimination on the part of the citizens, the highest judicial body in this commonwealth has been composed of men of high character, learned in the law, of judicial mind, fearless, just, inspiring veneration and respect.

Such a man and such a judge is Associate Justice Lucien D. Gardner, who is a candidate for re-election to the office to which he has been twice elected without opposition, and which he has held with distinguished ability, reflecting credit upon himself and upon the state which he serves.

Justice Gardner is a native of Troy, educated in the schools and University of this state, became Chancellor of the Southeastern Chancery Division in 1907 and was elected to that office in 1910 for six years. On January 25, 1914 he was commissioned Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, to succeed Judge Anderson, appointed Chief Justice, to which position he has twice been re-elected without opposition.

The bar of his native county of Pike has given his candidacy its unanimous and unqualified endorsement and his work as member of the state's high tribunal has been commended by those best qualified to know its quality and its worth. Added years and experience in that position only serve to increase his knowledge and experience and the public's appreciation of his good work, well done.

SELLING TO FARMERS

Business men of the country spend 850 million dollars a year for advertising to reach city dwellers, but only 30 million in reaching the farmers, according to Samuel R. McKelvie, former governor of Nebraska.

He added that this disproportion in advertising efforts was well the more striking when it is considered that the farmers of the country have a normal purchasing power of ten billion dollars annually.

He might have gone further by stating that no class of prospective customers are more responsive to honest advertising than farmers and the farmers' wives. Generally they take fewer newspapers and other periodicals than city dwellers and consequently read those they do take more thoroughly.

Merchants would do well to give more consideration to newspapers which reach the rural population.

In certain London theaters records are kept of the number of laughs from the audience which greets various parts of a performance.

THAT SWEET TOOTH

There was a time when we had to smile if we ran across a grown-up carrying around a sack of Candy—and eating it himself. We used to think candy was intended only for the kids, and that older people were supposed to indulge only along about Christmas time. But it's different now, and both old and young make candy a big part of their diet. In fact, the whole nation has developed a sweet tooth, for last year the average consumption of sugar was 100 pounds to each person. In 1918 it was only 78 pounds. Figures show that three gallons of ice cream are consumed each year now for every person in the United States, with chocolate candy and soda-water a close second. Whether o r not prohibition caused the increase in sugar consumption is the cause of many arguments. But at any rate many a patron of the old corner saloon has transferred his trade to the drug store soda fountain and confectionary, and nobody seems to be the worse for it.

IDLE ACRES

In proclaiming the eighth annual American Forest Week, the President of the United States said:

"Every year on the average, 80,000 fires scourge our woodlands, steadily undermining their vitality," Mr. Coolidge added:

"Public agencies rarely provide adequate protection against fire, the timberland owner is too often indifferent of the future forest, the average citizen is too often careless with fire in the woods."

About forty-eight and one--half per cent of the land area of the United States is in farms, but the farm population of the Nation has dropped by three-quarters of a million during the past year. The potential forest land of of the Nation is estimated at 355,000,000 acres. The lumbermen have made a sad havoc of American forests, and they are charged by experts with having wasted most of these forests thru careless and unscientific methods of logging and lumbering that prevailed up to within twenty-five years ago. As for agriculture it too has had its ups and downs and it is amazing to behold the waste of farm lands.

New York State has embarked upon a program looking toward the reforestration of its 4,000,000 idle acres, which are said to consist principally of abandoned farm lands. America is now using almost four times as much wood as it now produces, while New York State formerly the principle timber producing State of the Nation, uses seventeen times as much timber as it produces. The State legislature has decided that something must be done about a situation that is becoming worse each year. The productive farm lands of New York State have been decreasing at the rate of 250,000 acres a year for five years. A twenty to thirty year program of reforestation is being planned, and it contemplates an actual investment of $5,000,000 a year of public funds. The sum will be used in acquiring land and planting it with trees. If this ambitious plan is carried out New York will doubtless lead the way in a Nation wide movement of reforestation. This prophecy may seem a little difficult to digest except for those who have seen with their own eyes the reforestation in Germany, France, Denmark and other old European countries. In the old world they wasted their forests just as we have done in America, and now they plant trees that grow with such regularity as to remind one of our Middle West cornfields.

REFORESTING ABANDONED LANDS

A recent report by the State Industrial Survey Commission to the New York Legislature shows that the paper mills of the State have increased their production about one-half in twelve years at which time there were 96 paper mills in the State. The State now maintains three nurseries operated under its Conservation Department and during the present year these nurseries will produce 35,000,000 transplants for the reforesting plan. An official report says: "New York leads all other States in the quality and the quantity of its reforesting. Yet the amount reforested, in what is thus far the greatest year, was not ten per cent of the farm land abandoned in that one year alone."

The State game associations and sportsmen's clubs have shown a live interest in the reforestation plan since wild life naturally increases where trees and underbrush abound. In fact the work of protecting game life in New York State will be greatly helped by the reforestation work. A particularly impressive development now under way is the establishment of a game refuge of 3,863 acres at Pharsalia, New York,

Frequent Bilious Attacks

"I suffered with severe bilious attacks which came on me two or three times every month," says Mr. Ollie Miller, of Murray, Ky. "I would become dizzy. My head would ache terribly, feeling as if it would almost burst. It felt exactly like a tight band was being drawn closer and closer around my temples.

"My stomach would be so upset I could not retain any kind of nourishment for hours. I would have to quit work and go to bed.

"My color was awful. I was yellow and my skin was drawn and dry. I did not have any energy—no ambition to work. I was just about half sick most of the time because of these spells.

"One day one of my neighbors, who has used Thedford's Black-Draught for years, said he had noticed how bad my color was and thought it would help me.

"I got some Black-Draught immediately and began to take it regularly until I got my system clear of the poison I had been absorbing. I soon began to feel better and developed a fine appetite. I had no more bad headaches or bilious spells." E-128

MOVEMENT OF FERTILIZER TO FARMS ENDED FOR THE YEAR

Montgomery Ala., Apr. 30.—Statistics made public by William B. Griffin, chief clerk of the State Department of Agriculture and Industries on April 27, showed that the movement of fertilizer to farms had practically stopped for this year. Mr. Griffin was of the opinion that the unseasonable weather and damage to the cotton crop, together with the lateness, were alike responsible for the sudden termination of shipments.

"During the week, ending April 27, only 2,050 tons of fertilizer were sold. This is in marked comparison with previous records, when the tonnage usually exceeded 30,000 each week."

"To date of April 27, a total of 679,500 tons of fertilizer have been sold," said the chief clerk; "just what this enormous amount means can be seen when it is known that it far exceeds the great record use of fertilizer in 1926, when 603,444 tons were used on Alabama crops."

"The staggering immensity of the use of fertilizer in Alabama can better be imagined when it is seen that the average Alabama citizen used 543 lbs. of fertilizer this year."

"Estimated in terms of money, if Alabama fertilizer is worth on an average of $32.00 per ton, Alabama has already used $22,744,000 worth of fertilizer. This means that every man, woman and child in Alabama used on a average of $9.09 worth of fertilizer this year; and that someone must pay for it."

"More than half of Alabama has suffered from excess rains. These rains have doubtless destroyed much of the fertilizer through washing it away, solution, or covering the crop with sand. While Alabama has applied a record amount of fertilizer, one must not conclude that this will all be available for the growth of crops.

ALABAMA FARMERS ARE HARD HIT BY RAINS

Auburn, Ala., May 1.—Due to excessive rain and unseasonably cold weather, farm work in Alabama this spring is the most backward since 1920. Frequent rains during March and April interferred with farm work and the big rains, April 20-23, washed land badly, buried seed too deep to germinate and otherwise interfered with farm progress.

Consequently, replanting cotton is general throughout the southern half of the state. In central and north Alabama very few cotton seed had been planted. South Alabama farmers are now replanting while those in other sections are planting the first time.

Reports received at the college of agriculture at Auburn from the county agents reveal that farmers were hit hard by these huge rains. Perhaps the greatest loss was that of washing land. Loss of seed, fertilizer, extra work in replanting, and probable reduction in yield due to lateness are big losses incurred by farmers.

The supply of good cotton seed is not adequate to meet the requirements. The oil mills have been supplying seed for planting. These seed are inferior for planting but they are the best farmers can get.

With much fertilizer washed away, cotton being replanted, and inferior seed used, county agents are advising farmers to make another application of fertilizer. Because of its quick-acting qualities, and the probability that much of that which was applied was washed away, they are advising another application of nitrate of soda. However, nitrate of soda makes the best returns when phospate and potash are applied with it in the right proportions.

NEWS IN BRIEF

A press dispatch from London says that John Baird, Scottish inventor, has sold to American radio dealers a half share in the television process whereby he projected human vision from London to Hartsdale, N. Y. The inventor declared that he had perfected a method whereby moving likenesses of singers and speakers may be imparted to graphophone records and reproduced simultaneously with songs or orations many years after the original sounds first fall upon living ears.

Only healthy plants are worthy of transplanting. Weak plants are too much of a risk.

For $80,000 Alabama farmers have sold cooperatively this spring 30 cars of poultry, J. D. Moore and J. B. Sylvest, extension marketing specialists of Auburn, announce. Eleven thousand farmers participated in the sales.

The big rains of late April played havoc with fertilizer. In many instances farmers are being advised by county agents to make another application. Where cotton is replanted it is late and inferior seed are being used. Under such conditions another application of nitrogen is important.

PREPARING FOR ONE-STALK COTTON SHOW AT FAIRS

To stimulate interest in economical production better cotton from which the farmer gets better profits the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation and the Soil Improvement Committee, Southern Division, National Fertilizer Association, are co-operating in holding three one-stalk cotton shows this fall. These shows will be held at the following fairs: State Fair, Dallas Texas; Southeastern Fair, Atlanta; Tri-State Fair, Memphis.

Competition is open to any grower, white or colored, of any age in the states where cotton is grown. Prizes and awards totalling approximately $10,000 are offered.

County Agent, C. E. Stapp, will be glad to furnish any farmer full details as to rules and regulations of this contest, and the requirements for entry.

RESULT OF VETCH CONTEST

Last Fall, Mr. Stapp, County Agent, decided to get some prizes offered to the farmers growing the best vetch. Mullins and Moore, of Clanton agreed to give one rolling coulter and attachment used in turning vetch.

Recently Mr. Stapp announced the date for cutting and weighing plots of vetch. Mr. J. W. Hamilton, Clanton, Route 7, has been announced the winner of the prize. He cut from one hundred square feet of land eighty-four and one-fourth pounds of vetch. The plot cut represented an average of his field. This means that Mr. Hamilton will have more than seventeen tons per acre to turn into soil. Such growth of vetch turned in is equivalent to 400 to 600 pounds of Nitrate of Soda per acre. Mr. Hamilton's report was on first year vetch.

Mr. Howard Oden of Isabella had the next highest yield of vetch. He reported fifty-four pounds of vetch on one hundred square feet of second year vetch.

HOME AND FARM FACTS

Good farming is a scientific business.

Every bedroom should be arranged for cross ventilation.

When cooking a cracked egg add a teaspoon of salt to the water.

Successful farming, like successful government, succeeds best with cooperation.

A cow that is not paying a profit on herself is not worthy of keeping.

A poultryman is known by the birds he keeps—good poultryman—good birds

As a profitable producer a "boarder" dairy cow is a good beef animal.

Grape nuts will take the place of real nuts in home-made candies. It is delicious and inexpensive.

If stuffed green peppers are oiled before baking it will keep them from turning brown in the oven.

String beans can be had throughout the summer and fall by planting every two weeks.

Up in Wisconsin plans are being formulated for recovering and for restablishing forests on 87,000,000 acres of cut over land.

COOPERATIVE MARKETING AS IT AFFECTS THE COTTON MAN

without an understanding of the possibilities of cooperatve marketing by its membership. Let us look back in the past and see what marvelous things have been accomplished. Since that movement began it has spread over the entire South. It has a membership of three hundred thousand cotton growers. In that short time they have become the largest merchants in the world, with the exception of one concern.

They have a credit unexcelled. It is one of the most smoothly and efficiently operated business enterprises in our commercial life. All of these improvements are the result of conscientious labor and service.

Cooperative marketing like any other organization should be used only in certain cases. It is surely a true expression that "necessity is the mother of invention." An organization founded on dire need has the best opportunity to succeed. The attitude of the people should also be considered. Some farmers are satisfied with the result of their cotton without an organization. Some are used to the old method of working against each other, and do not want to change. I think it is very hard to "teach an old dog new tricks". People who do not believe in cooperation will not support this association. The amount of cotton available in a community is an important factor. The community that has a large amount of cotton has a better chance to succeed, because a large amount of cotton better outlets can be established. All of these factors should be considered in forming an organization, because this organization is dependent for ts success upon the loyalty and interest of its members.

With so many successful organizations operating in the United States, Canada and Australia it is evident that when a national organization is formed by each country that an international one will be formed. It may take a long time, but even if it does, the efforts will be rewarded. President Coolidge said, "We want combination preached as a principle, not a panacea. It will not perform the impossible; it wll not perform miracles, but it is a tried demonstrated principle that must be introduced as the basis of our agricultural establishments."

Collusion is better than collision; cooperation is better than competition; comradeship is better than contest; and the sooner the human race learns this lesson the better. Somehow or other the world must find a place for the Sermon on the Mount and the Golden Rule in business, social fellowships, and civic institutions. The world has tried the Rule of Gold long enough to know that it is not the final way of life.

J. P. MILFORD WRITES CONCERNING DEMOCRATIC TICKET

I have lived in Chilton County since 1871, engaged in farming and have watched the political situation in the county since I was twenty-one years of age, and have always voted the Democratic ticket, but never before have I seen the chances for the Democrats better than it is at this time. I know every one of the candidates who are now on the ticket, and every one of them are, in my opinion, well qualified and are worthy of our support They are honest and sincere men who will do the fair thing in office.

I want the people to know that in my beat the Democrats are awake and have qualified to vote and we are going to make a big showing this year. Our roads haven't been worked for the last two years and are in bad condition.

If the Democrats in the other beats will do like us in Beat 15, they will go out next Tuesday and vote the Democratic ticket and then we will get results. We want the people to help us get these Democratic candidates elected, and then we will have better roads and schools.

Yours for better government in Chilton County.

J. P. MILFORD,
Maplesville, Route 2.

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY:

The primary draws near and we must exercise our rights in a way to make progress and we also owe it as a duty to put men in office that will stand for the thing that is the best for the most people. I think when a man can't see or know none but his pets or one who says they want him as a boss, there is something more. He should be ready to step down and out and see if they can't have harmony. The men that are in office have been there until they want to hold on to it. Go to the polls next Tuesday and vote for the man who will try to be just to all. There are just as good men out of office as there is in. If you are just after giving away the money of the county, give it some one who really needs it more than the ones that are getting it. The road system is in bad shape and no chance to get any relief before the election. Maybe not then but we can put men in who will try to give the service that the county is entitled to have. So go to the polls and vote for men who look after business more than pleasure. We want to make a home run this time.

MARTIN JACKS.

TO THE DEMOCRATIC VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY:

The time has arrived for us to wake up and get busy and get everybody out to the polls on the 8th. for the Primary. We have now the best opportunity that we have ever had to elect our ticket. It behooves every Democratic voter to besteer ourselves and get the votes out by all means. It is a waste of time for you to qualify and then sit idly by and fail to discharge your loyal duty to your state and county. We have a good clean ticket of well qualified men for each office, men who have pledged to us a clean administration. Let's not be slackers, but let us come to the aid of our party in their time of need. I especially appeal to the men to not neglect bringing their wives and their daughters to the polls, since you have taken time to qualify same.

Democrats, let us rally to the standard, our men are expecting our support, therefore choose ye this day whom you will serve and beware of wolves in sheep's clothing.

Awake thou that sleepest and obtain light. This is my first public appeal and will probably will be my last at the present.

Yours very truly,
W. S. COX.

Democrats Cast Big Vote For Hinkle

Reynolds Again Nominated By Chilton G.O.P. Party

Walker and Davis Running Close Race

Curlee, Strock, Guy and Klinner Other Democratic Nominees In Race

One of the big surprises of the Democratic election held last Tuesday was the large vote given Dr. P. T. Hinkle, who was the Democratic candidate for judge of probate without opposition on the Democratic ticket, and it is considered nothing short of a single honor that such a large vote was cast for Dr. Hinkle, as well as all the others on the ticket from Chilton County.

As we go to press, official figures are lacking, but they will appear in our next issue.

The Primary Election of last Tuesday as it affected the Democratic Party in this county was without much interest due to the fact that the county officers were without opposition, with the exception of the Commissioners race in the Third District, between Ernest H. Davis and James R. Walker, who appear to be running neck and neck over the county and it will take the official count to determine the winner in this race.

Dr. Hinkle, was nominated for Probate Judge and it appears that he received approximately 1200 votes and Udah Curlee is nominated for Circuit Clerk. Mr. Geo. T. Guy being nominated for Commissioner from the Fourth District and Judson Strock and L. J. Klinner being nominated for members of the School Board.

It appears that Ayers, Burr, Carmichael and Faulk have carried the county by a small majority for delegates to the National Convention from the State at Large, and that Watt T. Brown is leading his opponent, Walter Moore, by a small majority, and that Hugh White has carried the county by a large majority for Public Service Commissioner.

CUTTING AFFRAY STAGED AT STANTON DEPOT

Last Sunday afternoon there took place at Stanton, Alabama a cutting affray that came near resulting in a very serious affair for the parties concerned.

Dennis Burnett and his brother, Vernie Burnett and Martin Harris were the principal figures in the scrape which took place at the depot in Stanton, according to information given us. All are young white men and live at or near Stanton. The Burnett boys are the sons of J. L. Burnett, of Stanton, and are single. Harris is married according to repots.

Judging from reports, one of the Burnett boys had evidently seen one of the other party stealing gasoline from some place nearby, the preceding week, and fearing that the Burnett fellow would tell, it seems that Harris man was trying to put him in a condition so that he couldn't tell.

Dennis Burnett was severely cut on his left side, neck and across the abdomen. Vernie was cut on his left side but not so severely. Both are resting well at this time according to reports reaching us, and are at their home in Stanton.

Harris was brought to Clanton and lodged in the county jail by Deputy Sheriff Pulliam of Maplesville to await trial. At the time of this writing he is still held there.

Coming Of 10 Cotton Factories Confirmed

Johnson Announces Alabama Mills' Plans; 100,000 Spindles Provided For

The largest single movement of cotton spindles from New England to the South was announced officially Monday by Crawford Johnson, president of the newly formed Alabama Mills Co.

The new company will operate 10 mills in the state with a total capacity of 100.000 spindles, according to Mr. Johnson's statement, which was made following the purchase of $3,000,000 or 6 1-2 per cent first mortgage bonds of the mill company by Caldwell & Company, investment bankers of Nashville.

While it had been generally believed for months that Alabama would get the spindles, complete assurance was not possible until the parent company had selected permanent officers, disposed of its securities and ironed out a lot of technical and legal kinks, all of which have been completed, Mr. Johnson's statement said.

"The company has already begun construction of 10 mills with a total productive capacity of 100.000 spindles, the mills to be under one management and ownership," the statement declared.

"Selection of Alabama for these mills was due to the large available supply of competent American labor, the low rate for power, the proximity of cotton supplies, excellent transportation facilities, and a very favorable climate for manufacturing operations.

"General administrative offices of the company will be opened in Birmingham, the various units being located in Aliceville, Clanton, Dadeville, Fayette, Greenville, Haleyville, Jasper, Russelville, Wetumpka and Winfield. All of the plants will be located within a radius of 85 miles of Birmingham, except one, which is 117 miles from that city.

"Each of the mills will be of 10,000-spindle capacity, giving the company an aggregate annual capacity of 30,000,000 pounds of light and heavy staple goods. The annual consumption of cotton will be approximately 60,000 bales. The company's products will include drills, jeans, sheetings, hickory stripes, ticking, and soft napped sheeting. Each of the 10 mills will manufacture one or more of the products.

"Details of designing and building of the varous plants is under the supervison of Robert & Company, architects and engineers, of Atlanta, Ga. The plant sites, for which a total of 280 acres of land has been acquired, are on the outskirts of the respective towns, and the locations are in every instance highly desirable. The mills have a total floor space of approximately 770,000 square feet. Spur tracks are being built connecting the plant sites with a trunk line railroad at each point.

"Bliss, Fayban & Co., Inc., of New York, one of the leading commission houses of the country, will act as sales agents for the entire output of Alabama Mills. This commission house not only covers the textile trade of the United States, but that of 32 foreign countries as well.

"Production of goods is scheduled to commence about October 1, and it is expected that the mills will be running at capacity by Jan. 1, 1929. The com-

Contract Let For New Maplesville Highway

C. B. Cox, Local Contractor, To Supervise Building Of New Road

The State Highway Commission on Wednesday of last week awarded contracts for highway and bridge construction involving approximately two million dollars. Twenty-one projects are embraced in the contracts let, and almost every section of the state is represented.

Among the contracts let was that portion of the Selma highway from Clanton to Plantersville, via Maplesville, specifications call for grading, draining, and surfacing with gravel 22.-54 miles between Clanton and Plantersville, awarded to Nixon, Phillips and Cox, $211,427.67; bridges let to Florida Paving and Construction Company, $18.956.00.

The survey of the road has already been made, and early Monday morning, Mr. Cox was arranging for placing crews to begin work on the construction of the road. The contracts specify that the highway be completed by the 15th of October next, which is said to be the shortest period ever made on such a large job.

Never in the history of this state has there been carried forward such an immense road building program as has now gotten under way, and the Democrats of this section are gratified over the fact that Chilton county was included inthe counties to receive aid from the State Highway Commission.

Protect Your Investment in Your Model T Ford

THE Ford Motor Company is making a new car, but it is still proud of the Model T. It wants every owner of one of these cars to run it as long as possible at a minimum of expense.

Because of this policy and because of the investment that millions of motorists have in Model T cars, the Ford Motor Company will continue to make parts until, as Henry Ford himself says, "the last Model T is off the road."

More than eight million Model T Fords are still in active service, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five years and even longer.

So that you may get the greatest use over the longest period of time at the lowest cost, we suggest that you take your Model T Ford to the nearest Ford dealer and have him give you an estimate on the cost of any replacement parts that may be necessary.

You will find this the economical thing to do because a small expenditure may enable you to maintain or increase the value of the car and give you thousands of miles of additional service.

No matter where you live you can get these Ford parts at the same low prices as formerly and know they are made in the same way and of the same materials as those from which your car was originally assembled.

Labor cost is reasonable and a standard rate is charged for each operation so that you may know in advance exactly how much the complete job will cost.

RUBBER

Sometimes children find that they know a good deal more about some matters than Noah Webster did when he was alive and wrote his dictionary. If the dictionary was not revised every year or two it would get awfully out of date. That is because conditions change so rapidly, and even definitions for a word like "rubber" have to be re-written.

In an old encyclopedia the word "rubber" had a reference after it: "See India rubber". That was all.

Harvey Firestone, the manufacturer, of rubber goods and tires, has opened a great rubber plantation and he is growing new trees, in the Republic of Liberia, in Africa.

In the earliest days of America we were capturing black men in this same Liberia and bringing them into this country and selling them as slaves.

Just a few years ago—since the World War—rubber tires for automobiles were poorly made and they did not last long. The rubber industry has made great strides in producing vulcanizing agents, fillers and resistants for tires. Millions of tires are used every year in the United States.

Rubber rots and deteriorates very rapidly. A new chemical discovery known as Neozone prevents most of the deterioration, and adds long life and mileage to rubber. Progressive manufacturers use Neozone for automobile tires and for fruit jar rings, to keep them from becoming hard and brittle, and they apply the substance to the garden hose to prevent the rubber cover from cracking.

Children can save their parents a lot of money by finding out about just such new discoveries as this, which when used will make for long life on tires on the family bus, and will help out the family bank account.

Was In Misery All Over

"I was in a dreadfully run-down condition," says Mrs. Chas. L. Lacroix, of Montgomery, La. "I suffered a great deal of pain. I was in misery all over. I could not sit up and I could not lie down. I couldn't sleep and at times I would have dreadful vomiting spells. The aches and pains seemed to cover my whole body.

"One night my husband brought me home six bottles of Cardui and I began to take it. I could tell that I was improving from the first bottle, but I kept on taking the medicine, for I knew that I needed a tonic that would build me up and strengthen me where I was weak and run-down. That is exactly what Cardui did for me. After I had finished the six bottles I felt fine.

"I feel truly thankful for what Cardui has done for me, for I could not have gone on living in the desperate condition I was in."

A BIG DIFFERENCE

We never knew how time has changed this old world until we overheard a couple of Clanton women comparing dresses of 40 years ago with those of today. One of them consented to write out what it took to make an ordinary afternoon dress along about 1887. It required 15 yards of wide silk, 5 yards of skirt lining, 3 yards horsehair cloth to stiffen the skirt, 4 yards of silk for dust ruffle, 5 yards of velveteen skirt binding, 24 inches of skirt belting, the same for waist belting, 1 1-2 yards of sleeve lining, 12 inches of buckram for collar stiffening, 4 dozen fancy buttons, 1 card large hooks and eyes, 2 cards medium and 1 card invisible hooks and eyes, 5 spools of silk thread, 3 spools cotton thread, 4 spools buttonhole twist, 2 yards featherboning for waist, 1 yard small boning for collar, 1 bolt seam binding. Today it takes four yards of silk and two spools of silk thread. Yet no man on earth can figure why today's dresses cost far more than those of 40 years ago.

GOOD CITIZENS

Good citizenship doesn't consist wholly in paying your degts, going to church and keeping out of jail. There's more to good citizenship than donating to this or that charity and inquiring about the condition of a sick or injured neighbor. These things all help to make a good citizen, of course; and it is hard for a man to be a good citizen unless he practices them. But at this season still another means of proving one's good citizenship is afforded, and we are referring to it in the hope that everyone around Clanton will make a firm resolve to observe it.

We refer to the preservation of other people's property along the roads and highways over which you may be driving your auto. It may be that at this season you are tempted to break or damage flowering trees or bushes that attract your eyes, or the eyes of some member of the family riding with you. Don't yield to temptation. Others will be passing a little later on, and it is not fair to rob them of the beauties of the country of which they, too, are citizens. Above all, the property belongs to someone else, and no good citizen will appropriate another's property without first having secured full and free permission from the owner to do so.

Breaking even one bush or multilating even one tree or flower bed detracts from the general beauty of the community. Think what it would mean if everyone resorted to the same practice. Let's save our outdoor beauties for others to enjoy. Let's demonstrate that we are good citizens by setting other drivers a good example. The season for such demonstration is here right now.

INSIDE INFORMATION

Can only fruits and tomatoes by the water-bath method; use the pressure canner for the non-acid vegetables, for meats, fish, chicken or mixtures of these foods.

To keep the undercrust of your rhubarb pie from becoming soggy, prebake it until it is delicately colored, but not brown(before you put in the filling. If you have a glass or eathenware pie plate, you can send the pie in it to the table.

When fitting a garment, try the seams in different positons, especially those of the shoulder. Study the figure to find the position which will emphasize the best features and conceal those which are not so good. It is better to put the attention on the fitting of the figure, rather than on keeping the lines of the pattern.

Spring onions can be served on toast in the same way as asparagus. Aflow six or seven finger sized onions for each person. Trim off the green tops, and cook the onions in lightly salted boiling water until tender, in an uncovered vessel. They should be cooked tender in about 20 minutes. Drain, and season with melted butter, salt and pepper. Have the toast ready, and serve at once.

In order to make the first new straw berries to a fine way, cream together a third of a cup of butter, three-fourths of a cup of powdered sugar, and one-eighth teaspoon of salt. When thoroughly mixed, add the stiffly beaten white of an egg and one cup of fresh strawberries. The acidity of the berries cause the sauce to separate somewhat but this can be overcome by warming it slightly over hot water and stirring until smooth. Serve at once on cup cakes or cottage pudding, or chill to make thicker.

People sometimes wonder if the rings seen at times near the sun and moon signify any change in the weather. These rings are observed only when there is a thin veil of cloud in the sky and usually—about three or four times out of five rain or snow will occur within 24 hours. The dip, or tipping, of the moon, contrary to popular belief has no weather significance whatever, this is simply an astronomical occurrence that can be forecast accurately hundreds of years ahead.

VIRGINIA'S CEDARS

Virginia cedar trees are bidding for public favor in cedar chests that are shipped by the trainload from the Lane national industry at Altavista, Va., to merchants and dealers in all parts of the U. S. Already more people know about cedar by reason of these chests than through knowledge of the Temple of Solomon, the Wise King, who lodged in the forests of Lebanon, and took cedars to Jerusalem to use in building his house.

Cedar heart-wood chests are recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture on account of the protection they furnish for clothes that are stored during different periods of the year. The Department is carrying on a campaign this spring in combating the moth worm. It is said this pestilential "beast" destroys $200,000,000 worth of men's, women's and children's clothes and other garments and furs in a year.

King Solomon's temple was a nice roost for his lady friends and it was all fixed up with inlays of ivory and gold and was the most interesting place in its day—but not as large as the Lane factory, down in Virginia, and a mere trifle as contrasted to a modern skyscraper or a beach hotel.

Solomon, and his two King Hirams helped to put cedar on the map, with the result that the wood was well known in early times when the Cavaliers were making merry in our own "Ole Virginniy".

HOME DECORATION HINTS

The unusual emphasis being placed on what has come to be known as the "New Art" or "L'Art Moderne" in interior decoration has enlisted the thought and study of a great many of the leading artists of the country, of designers and of the more distinctive and exclusive of the larger shops. In New York, it is impossible to walk along Fifth Avenue without being impressed with the vogue. This is so much the case that one of the exclusive stores on that thoroughfare which had windows whose walls were beautifully wainscoted in wood, felt compelled to add the modernistic decorations so as to bring its window exhibit into the popular trend.

At the recent interior decorators' show at the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York, there were some striking example of what can be done with a few pieces of furniture or decorations in L'Art Moderne even when these are set in among those of the older style.

The American conception of the new art is in no way a caricature. It is true that it represents the very spirit of our people just as much as the skyscraper does. It saves space, and makes for maximum comfort. Even the bookcases, tables, stands and stools, are so built that it is possible to find little shelves here and there and drawers where things can be stowed away while at the same time the pleasing contour of the furniture is retained. The chairs are low to the ground. They are inviting. They are usually of slightly different shape from the chairs we are accustomed to have in our homes although many of the couches and lounging chairs which are being made in America are true examples of L'Art Moderne as anything which is being imported today. They are true examples of L'Art Moderne because they seek to give the maximum in comfort and ease and at the same time modern and useful lines.

Wonderful creations in chemical cloth are utilized by the masters so that on entering a room done in the modern style one is not so much confronted by the unusual as with an impresion of comfort to go with a scene of cleanliness, hardness and brilliancy which have come to be regarded as aspects of our generation.

MIGATORY BIRDS

Robbins and English sparrows are the most common of all birds. Next in number is the song sparrow, chipping sparrow, meadow lark and cat bird. Bird lovers, sportsmen, and game officials are all pretty much agreed in the desire to protect all the useful species of bird life. At the same time such birds as ducks, jacksnipe, woodcock, geese, yellowlegs, golden plovers, coots, quail, grouse, pheasants, and other birds are regarded as useful and desirable food, and as such are legitimately hunted under proper game laws that have the approval of good citizens. The American Game Protective Association strives to secure sensible game laws that will command respect.

It is against the law to use airplanes or motor boats to drive ducks or keep them moving so as to make better shooting.

Every State has laws to protect its fish and game. There is a Federal, or Government act, known as the migatory bird law. Twenty-one States help to enforce this Federal law which reduces the "bag limits" or the amount of birds that may be killed by hunters.

During the present session of Congress new migatory bird refuges are being provided for. There are many of these in the United States, and birds are protected against hunters in these places.

LETTER FROM COUNTY AGENT TO FARM CLUB BOYS

To All Club Members:

I am just wondering what each club boy is doing today, also how well each member is carrying on his work.

Some of the livestock and poultry club boys are doing fine. Most of the cotton and corn club boys are having a tough time getting started, but they must not give up. COMING OF TEN COTTON MILLS IS CONFIRMED

Hary will begin operation with each working capital of $1,000,000, in addition to the large investment in plant sites, buildings and equipment.

"A total of 2,500 workers will be employed in the mills after operations are well under way. Mill operations will be under the supervsion of Paul A. Redmond, executive vice president, who was formerly with the Aragon Mills of Rome, Ga., and the Brockford Mills Company, of Hickery, N. C.

Because of their unique plan of organization, the mills will combine the principal advantages of low overhead costs with the ideal working conditions prevailing in smaller towns. It is stated that these mills will be able to operate at production costs as low as, or lower, than any other mills in the United States making the same line of cotton goods.—Birmingham News, May 7, 1928.

Jack Hayes May End Nats' Search For A Shortstop

The following splendid write-up taken from the Washington Post, of Sunday, May 6, written by Frank H. Young, will be of much interest to the scores of friends of Jack Hayes, of Clanton, who are watching his progress in the national game very closely:

In practically every line of business there are men with just as much ability as some of the administratives holding lower position simply because opportunity did not knock at their door. This also applies to baseball, the history of the national game being full of cases where lowly understudies, once given a chance, have suddenly blossomed out as stars and better than the men whose places they have taken.

In the recent showing of Minter C. (Jack) Hayes may be taken as a criterion, Washington has a young shortstop whose light would have remained hidden "under a bushel" but for injuries to Manager Harris and Infielder Bob Reeves.

These handicaps to the team forced the Nat leader to give Hayes a trial at second base and, when Grant Gillis regular shortstop, developed a fielding slump, Hayes was shifted over toward third and he has looked so good in the shortfield berth that, when Harris returns to the line-up, Gillis will have a tough battle on his hands getting back his regular assignment.

Hayes not only has shown himself to be a brilliant and reliable fielder, but he appears to know what it is all about, has a strong and accurate throwing arm and, besides this, has been hitting the ball hard and gives evidence of being a good man at the plate.

And the beauty of Hayes' form is that it is natural, the youngster taking to baseball like a duck does to water. He appears to have the knack in fielding which makes difficult stops look easy, the reason being that he guages the ball properly from the time it leaves the bat. He stands still at the proper time, goes back at the proper time and comes in at the proper time, the result being that he generally gets the ball on good hops.

The case of this youngster is an unusual one. He is an Alabamaian, 21 years of age, nearly six feet tall, and a graduate of the University of Alabama. He discarded the name of "Minter" almost as soon as he could walk, declaring it was too "sissyfied" and has been called Jack ever since. However, he was christened "Minter" and "Minter" it will be in all of his other business except baseball.

His work attracted the attention of Scout Joe Engle while Hayes was still with "Bama", but before the Nationals had time to make him an offer, Johnny Dobbs, Birmingham manager, stepped in and signed him to a contract.

The Baron roster was full at the time and, being that Jack was just a rookie collegian, he was not used. The Nats, strictly on his performance with Alabama, then bought Hayes from the Barons before he ever had the opportunity of seeing his name in a Southern Association box score.

Hayes joined the Nationals late last season and had few chances to show his stuff. However, in practice he convinced Manager Harris that he was a good future prospect and he finished the season with Washington, showing up well in the few times he managed to see action.

Reporting at the Tampa training camp last spring, Hayes was, more or less, taken for granted. The Nationals had but three utility infielders and, as they planned to keep this many inner defense extras, he took his workouts along with the rest of the team but Bob Reeves and Grant Gillis came in for the most attention, with the former rated as number one man.

Manager Harris used Hayes in several of the exhibition games—in all of which the youngster performed capably—but he was not considered seriously in the fight for the regular shortstop berth. Gillis finally landed it, and Reeves, although, apparantly out of position when played on the right side of the keystne sack, was named substitute for Harris.

It was not until Reeves joined his boss on the injured squad that Hayes got his first real opportunity. After putting up a good game at second, he was shifted to short when Gillis, who showed at Tampa that he also was a capable second baseman, was shifted, following a fielding slump at short.

Since he has been playing regularly, Hayes has shown up better between second and third than either Gillis or Reeves. He has raced back and to either side to turn apparant hits into outs and in every way has given the impression of being a real find. Although not particularly heavy, he has been stinging the ball with the bat and a continuation of the work he has shown since given the assignment will make him a mighty hard man to displace.

There is an old story of the man who traveled all over the world looking for a four leafed clover, only to find one on his own doorstep when he returned empty-handed. If Hayes continues to make good the National's quest for a regular shortstop will have ended in somewhat the same manner.

Injuries to mates gave Hayes his chance and injuries to him, Jack declares, will be the only way they can get him out of the Washington line-up."

REMARKABLE HAPPENING WITH 42 ESSEX SUPER-SIXES

When the steamship Sultana pulled into Chicago recently after a severe storm on Lake Michigan, Capt. David Smith, reported a remarkable happening with 42 Essex Super-Six sedans and coaches which were swept overboard.

Capt. Smith reported that instead of sinking the cars floated readily amid the high-rolling waves and could be seen still afloat as the ship traveled out of sight. As they were closed cars tightly constructed, and with all doors and windows closed, his theory is that the air within the bodies was sufficient to float them until waves should break the window glass or capsize the whole automobile in the wave troughs.

"That was a sight for you—a line-up of cars, like a minature formation of battle ships." said Capt. Smith. "They were loosened from the deck in whole rows when the rope lashings broke, consequently they slipped overboard in regular formation. I expected them to go to the bottom immediately, but some of them did. The air kept them up and the axles, motor and frame acted as a ballast. They're of good balance for they folated erectly and steadily in the heavy seas. This was the hardest storm I have ever seen in many years on the Great Lakes."

The cars were on their way—the seasoy's first water shipment—to the Hudson Motor Co. of Illinois. The cars were insured, and J. R. Histed, General manager and vice-president of the concern, was scarcely down-hearted at all about the incident. Instead he said:

"This is just a bit out of the unusual as a demonstration, but there are certain distinctive things about those Essex cars which would simply make them float. The construction is so tight, the doors and windows so snug, that the air supply would be retained for hours. Essex bodies are much similar to steel ships in their construction, known to hundreds of thousands of "Their staunch storm-tight qualities thus surprisingly proved, are well motorists."

MODERN GIN IN COUNTY IS NEARING COMPLETION

Planters Gin & Warehouse Company Install New Machinery

The Planters Gin and Warehouse Company, of Clanton, owned and operated by Mullins and Popwell Brothers, have under construction a new gin, adjoining the one now used, which is almost ready for the ginning of cotton.

This new gin, which is known as a Pratt Hollow-Breast Double Rib gin with five 80 saws, is equipped with a belt seed conveyor instead of the usual blow fan. This, according to information given us, is considerably better on the seed than the fan. It is equipped with ball-bearing throughout, and the presses are steel bound, making it possible to take care of an unusually large bale of cotton.

The power for this new gin is furnished by a Continental Gin Company oil engine, of 110 horse power. No boiler will be used with this gin, insuring against fire from that source.

According to reports all gins must be equipped with the belt seed conveyor described above, by the first of July, 1929.

This gin is the most up-to-date cotton gin in Chilton county at this time, and is among the best in the state according to information given us. It is put out by the Continental Gin Company of Prattville, and according to Mr. Kirby of that company, it is one of the most modern being built. This gin will be operated in connection with the one that has been used by the Planters Gin and Warehouse Company in the past few years.

Mr. Popwell stated that there will be plenty of shelter to take care of the cotton in case of ran during the ginning season.

The new gin had its first try out Wednesday, and will be ready for operation in time for the coming season. The construction of the gin has been under the supervision of Mr. G. W. Kirby and Mr. Edward Austin of Birmingham. They are connected with the Continental Gin Company.

4-H CLUB CHAMPIONS OF ALABAMA NAMED

Auburn, Ala., May 8.—At the second national 4-H Club Congress in Washington in June, Alabama will be represented by Miss Bonnie Keltz of Baldwin County, Miss Agnes Whetstone of Coosa County, Robert Cecil Whatley of Lee County, and Millard Yates of Tallapoosa County. This means that these two boys and two girls are the four champions on 4-H Club Work among more than 13,000 who engaged in the work in Alabama in 1927. They will go to Washington with expenses paid by the courtesy of the Alabama Farm Buareau Federation. They will be accompanied by extension workers of Auburn.

Miss Keltz began club work four years ago and has been a faithful and enthusiastic member. She has won six certificates and one diploma.

Miss Whetstone has been in club work six years and has missed only two meetings of her local club. Measles kept her away once and the other time was caused by her being away attending the State short course at Auburn, representing her county. She has six cetificates and one diploma, and has won several prizes and honors at county fairs and camps.

Millard Yates is 18 years old and one of a family of ten children—all under 20 years of age. He finished high school in 1927 at the head of his class. He took part in athletics and other school activities.

Robert Whatley began club work in 1924. He has been a cotton club boy all the time, having one acre for each of the first two years and five acres for the last two years. He has been a leader in school work.

Being selected to represent their state at the National Club Congress at Washington is the highest honor which 4-H club workers can confer. It is won by good work, by persistence and by determination.

Georgiana—Bids asked for installation of sewer system here.

HOME AND FARM FACTS

May 1 to 7 is National Egg Week. Observe it by eating eggs frequently.

The curculio is an insect which begins working on peach trees early. Give him a dose of arsenate of lead.

T. A. Sims and J. A. Lowery of Auburn report that more than 10,000 farm boys will engage in 4-H club work this year.

The culling process in the poultry flock should begin as soon as inferior birds appear and are ready for the table.

The best maketing system begins with the selection and plantilg of seed and continues through proper cultivation, harvesting and merchandising.

President Coolidge has named by proclamation the week of April 22 as American Forest Week. This is done annually in the interest of the timber crop of America.

In 1927 crops valued at $72,047,200 were grown on general irrigation projects under the direction of the Bureau of Reclamation. Cotton led in value but alfalfa was the largest in acres with 31 per cent.

If a complete fertilizer or if part of nitrogen was applied before the recent heavy rains which made replanting of cotton necessary, a large amount of nitrate of soda should be applied as a side-dressing immediately after chopping cotton.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Half of the lambs sold for slaughter in the United States are eaten east of Ohio and north of the Potomac River. New York City takes almost a third of the supply. The three Pacific Coast States take more than a sixth of the national supply.

Writing in American Swineherd, Dewitt C. Wing says: "Agriculture needs the services of engineers, sound guidance in organization, management and marketing and political leadership that has the vision, courage and ability to deal with economic realities."

The growth of timber in Sweden now exceeds cutting annually by nearly 100,000,000 cubic feet, says the American Forests and Forest Life Magazine. This is the result of practicing better for estry as recommended in Alabama, says Otto Brown, extension forester, Auburn.

Miss Bonnie Keltz of Baldwin County and Miss Agnes Whetstone of Coosa County, Robert Cecil Whatley, Lee County and Millard Yates of Tallapoosa County will represent Alabama at the second national 4-H Club Congress in Washington next June. These two girls and two boys are the State champions among more than 13,000 Alabama boys and girls who engaged in 4-H club work last year.

The Jewish Agricultural Society says the drift of Jews to farm lands in the United States is increasing steadily. In 1900 when this Society was incorporated the Jewsh farm population of the United States was 1000. At the end of 1927 approximately 80,000 Jews were tilling the land. It is estimated that they own 1,000,000 acres and that their property is worth $150,000,000.

ALABAMA WINTER LEGUME CROP MADE FAIR SHOWING

Auburn, Ala., May 8.—As a whole the Alabama winter legume crop came through the winter in fair condition despite a hard winter. However, the results were disappointing to county agents and officials of the experiment station at Auburn in that monantha vetch was hit hard and is not nearly so promising as it was a year ago.

For several years the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute has been seeking a winter legume that is resistant to cold, early, and would produce seed in this section. It appeared that monantha vetch would fill the bill but the recent winter blasted these hopes. Approximately 75 per cent of the monantha vetch planted in Alabama last fall failed to survive the winter. A temperature of 10 to 12 degrees above zero was very destructive whereas during the winter of 1926-27 it was not hurt by temperatures of 4 to 6 degrees above zero. The why of this is not known.

Hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas came through in good condition. Hairy vetch remains the leading winter legume in Alabama but Austrian peas are gaining in favor. This pea is earlier than hairy vetch; it makes a big growth; and seed production appears more probable, although Prof. M. J. Funchess, director of the Auburn station, says that further investigation of this subject is needed.

WHY motorists prefer CROWN GASOLINE

They have found from experience that CROWN starts better because it is fast-firing; pulls hills better because of its added power; gives longer mileage because it burns up completely. In short—a better "all-round" gasoline.

Use CROWN regularly. You too, will notice the improved operation of your motor.

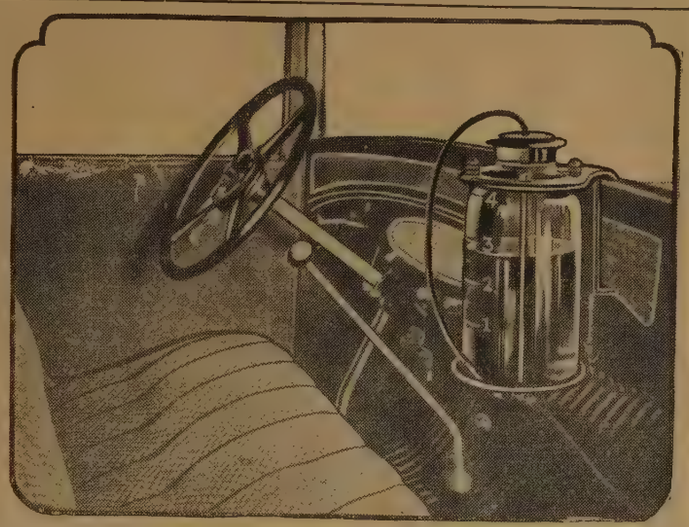
Fuel Economy Scientifically Tested

HUDSON-ESSEX MEASURING DEVICE PUTS PROOF BEFORE BEFORE DRIVER'S EYES



A measuring bottle of one gallon capacity is connected to the fuel line. Vacuum tank and carburetor are drained. Then the line is opened to the carburetor and the fuel flows directly from the bottle. Thus the driver has all the facts of fuel consumption "right in his lap". Tests have shown the Hudson averaging 15 to 18 miles a gallon, the Essex models correspondingly more.

To test fuel economy accurately and graphically, distributors and dealers of the Hudson Motor Car Co. in various parts of the country are now operating an interesting device on the dash board of the car. This allows the driver or prospective buyer of a Hudson or Essex car to see the actual rate of gasoline flow as he drives.

Reports to the Hudson factory are that the average results of from 15 to 18 miles a gallon are being obtained with the Hudson Super Six, with the Essex showing from 18 to 25 miles. An interesting fact is that these averages vary with different drivers, operating the same cars over the same routes. Dealers report that driving skill is almost as impotant a factor as varying road or traffic conditions.

"The high compression motors now used in both Hudson and Essex," said Mr. Bates of the Bates Motor Co., Hudson-Essex dealer, "has brought to them the highest standards of fuel economy they ever have known. Both motors are designed to wring from their fuel supply the last drop of effectiveness. For its size and power the Hudson is now practically light in its demands for more gasoline.

"Real economy comes in freedom from repairs and in the ease with which Hudson-Essex cars are serviced. But owners are interested in gasoline mileage, a minor factor though it is, and fortunately it is a quality of our cars which can be visually proved to any owner or prospective buyer."

AMERICAN railroads measure their income on basis of average revenue received for transporting one ton of freight one mile, and for transporting one passenger one mile—these units being known as rate per ton mile and rate per passenger mile. It is an interesting fact that since 1921 the passenger rate has been reduced 6.2% and the freight rate 15.3%.

This reduction in freight rates has meant a saving to the shippers of more than four billion dollars. In other words, if the shippers of freight over the United States railroads had been obliged to pay, during the years of 1922 to 1927 inclusive, the same rate for moving their traffic, measured by the cost per ton mile, that was paid in 1921 under the order of Governmental authority, the aggregate cost, which would have of course been additional revenue for the railroads, would have exceeded four billion dollars. This reduction has been uninterrupted, each year showing a reduction in comparison with the year before.

During this six-year period the L. & N. R. R. Company's freight rates, as measured by the revenue per ton mile, have decreased about 18%—thus enabling the patrons of this Road to save something over $102,000,000.

Doing a better job than ever before, and reducing its charges therefor—the steam railroads of the United States deserve your freight and passenger patronage.

ROUTES TO AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION BEING CHECKED

San Antonio, Tex., May 7.—Rechecks of major automobile routes from New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis, Kansas City, Denver and El Paso to San Antonio in preparation for the tenth national convention of the American, to be held in San Antonio October 8 to 12, are in progress.

Advance inquiries on auto routes already received by the Legion convention bureau here from several thousand Legionnaires indicate a keen interest in motor travel to the convention city all over the country, Philip B. Stapp, general conventon director said.

William Furlong, manager of the highway department of the San Antonio Chamber of Commerce, is out now checking up the roads from St. Louis to Vinita, Oklahoma; from Vinita to Kansas City and St. Louis and Memphis through Little Rock. Results of these surveys will be incorporated in road logs for use of Legionnaires.

Among the chief routes to the convention is the Old Spanish Trail from St. Augustine, Jacksonville, Pensacola, New Orleans, Beaumont, and Houston on the east. From the west this same highway leads from San Diego, Phoenix, Tucson and El Paso.

Three routes are listed from St. Louis, as a gateway to the traffic from the East and Middle West. One is from St. Louis to a point just west of Memphis, and then thru Little Rock, Texarkana, Dallas, Waco and Austin. The third is south along the Mississippi river to Memphis, through the state of Mississippi to New Orleans and then across on the Old Spanish Trail.

HOW LEAVES SERVE THE TREE EXPLAINED

Montgomery, Ala., May 7.—The leaves on trees are really complicated and useful structures,, instead of being merely ornamental, says the Alabama State Commission of Forestry. It is generally known, of course, that leaves serve both as stomach and lungs for the tree, but the ways in which they fulfill these purposes are not always clearly understood.

Since the food material from the soil is digested in the leaves, it is evident that the latter must have some sort of tubes or vessels for the conduction of the sap. These are, in the veins which are readily observed in the leaf and whose intricate pattern can be seen by holding the leaf up to the light Much of the food obtained by trees, however, comes directly from the air in the form of carbon dioxide gas. This is admitted into the leaf through small openings which close and open according to the requirements of the tree

A peculiar thing about digestion in plants is that a large part of the changing of the raw matreial, particularly carbon dioxide, into usable substances is accomplished by the chemical action of sunlight. The green substance in the leaves is called chlorophyl and is the medium through which the light effects the change. Within the leaf veins are certain special tubes which serve to carry the digested food back into the tree.

The spongy substance of the leaf contains numerous tiny air chambers. While the leaf consumes much of the carbon dioxide gas which forms a part of the atmosphere, it also retains a part of the oxygen. Much of the latter, however, is returned to the outside enriching the surrounding air.

AN EXHILARATING EFFECT

A bottle of Herbine on the shelf at home is like having a doctor in the house all the time. It gives instant relief when the digestion gets out of order or the bowels fail to act. One or two doses is all that is necessary to start things moving and restore that fine feeling of exhilaration and buoyancy of spirits which belongs only to perfect health. Price 60c. Sold by

TIMBER REPAIRS MUCH OF RECENT FLOOD DAMAGE

Montgomery, Apr 30.—Timber comes to the rescue in times of regional calamity. The recent deluge that submerged south Alabama caused great damage to bridges, culverts, railroads, telephone lines, buildings and other structures. Quick repairs would be impossible, points out the Alabama Commission of Forestry, were it not for the fact that the forest wealth of Alabama still supplies wood amply sufficient for regular and emergency uses within the state.

Wood has well been called the universal material. The number of its separate uses runs high into the thousands. Under common sense management timber crops can be constantly renewed and the commonwealth can be assured of adequate supply. Catastrophes such as the Mississippi floods of last year and the inundations from which a large part of the coastal plain is still emerging involve hardships upon the communities which can only be tempered by a ready supply of structural material. If this had to be brought from the Pacific northwest, or if dependance could only be placed upon substitutes such as concrete, weeks would elapse before even temporary repairs could be made. The greater the development of our civilization, the more need there is for wood.

GIRL DRINKS POISON ON COURT CONVICTION

Birmingham, Ala., May 3.—Miss Nellie Minor 21, of 310 Fifty-Ninth Way, South, was critically ill from a poison draught and Ernest Wilson, a neighbor, was facing a statuary charge Thursday, the result, police say, of a domestic tangle which led to the girl swallowing the poison in police court Wednesday.

Ernest Wilson, 21, of 315 Fifty-Ninth Way, South, was arrested following the trial Wednesday on a warrant sworn out by the girl's brother, Clarence Minor. He was being held at the City Jail without bond.

Testimony was introduced into police court to show that Wilson and the girl had spent a week at the home of the girl's parents, near Maplesville. Late Tuesday Miss Minor is said to have gone to Wilson's home, where F. D. Wilson, father of Ernest Wilson objected to her entrance. An altercation ensued, it was said, which led to the girl's fine in police court, F. D. Wilson was fined $25 and costs also on a disorderly conduct charge.

Clarence Minor brother of the girl, testified in police court that he and his parents believed the couple married. Ernest Wilson, upon questioning, said they were not married. The girl signed her appearance bond as Mrs. Ernest Wilson, with Ernest Wilson as endorser.

In rendering his decision Judge Martin said he deemed Clarence Minor not guilty in attempting to protect his sister. Ernest Wilson, Judge Martin decided, sought to prevent the altercation. The charges as made by Clarence Minor against the younger Wilson were out of the jurisdiction of police court, Judge Martin ruled.

Prominent Resident Of County Is Buried

Mr. Oliver Mullins, Of Mt. Zion Community Died Friday, May 4

A death that saddened the entire county was that of Mr. Oliver Mullins, which occured at the family home in the Mount Zion community, last Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

The deceased was probably the most favorably and better known in the county, having resided at the home where he died, all of his life.

Mr. Mullins was a frequent visitor to Clanton, and on the Sunday preceding his death, he spent the day with his children and other relatives and friends in Clanton, taking sick on Sunday night, April 29th.

For fifty-four years the deceased has been a member of the Baptist Church, and had been a deacon of the church since soon after he became a member. He bore the distinction of being one of the most active workers for both religious and progressive affairs of the county, than probably any other man in that section, and at his funeral were noted many of the most prominent citizens of the state and county, who were there to pay their last respects to one they held in high esteem.

Interment took place at the old family cemetery near the old home, where his grandfather, as well as his father and mother were buried. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Lowe with J. Mell Martin in charge. The vast number who were present evidenced the high esteem and love in which the deceased was held.

Left to mourn the loss of this beloved man is a wife, two sons, namely: O. R. and C. Reese of Clanton; three daughters, Mrs. J. C. Jones and Mrs Carrie Mullins of Clanton and Mrs Ruth Kate Shepherd of Birmingham.

Always . . a square USED CAR deal from the Buick Dealer

The Buick dealer is in business to stay. His future reputation depends upon his treating used car buyers fairly.

The man who buys a good used car—honestly represented—at a fair price—receives splendid value in transportation.

In his enthusiasm for the car he has bought, and the value he has received, it is only natural for him to look upon the dealer as his friend.

The Buick dealer has many such friends because he represents the true condition of the used cars he offers for sale—because he gives every used car customer a square deal.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEES MEN OF HIGH TYPE

(AN EDITORIAL)

With the nomination of Dr. P. T. Hinkle, for Judge of Probate, Udah Curlee for Clerk of the Circuit Court, Judson Strock and C. J. Klinner for members of the Board of Education, Ernest H. Davis for commissioner from the Third District, and George T. Guy for commissioner from the Fourth District, the Democratic party have for its nominees a set of men who are of the highest type of manhood in Chilton County. They are each and every one, men who can be trusted in business and political matters and possess the requisite qualifications for the places which they are asking the people to elect them, in November. Each of them have made a success with their own affairs and are all, farmers by occupation.

The character of these men stands out boldly and claims at the hand of the people due consideration, when they come to the point where they will make up their minds as to who they will vote for to serve them in those several places of trust.

Dr. Hinkle is a man who has always attended to his own business, which usually claims the larger portion of any man's time, especially that of a farmer, and by hard work, he has made a success in life. After his marriage he educated himself in Veternary Surgery, and besides his farming profession, he is a splendid veternarian. He is a member of the Baptist Church of Clanton, and has always taken an active part in religious work and supported that cause, with both his time and money. Besides this Dr. Hinkle is a 32 degree Mason, and is one of the active workers in the Masonic fraternity in Clanton and Chilton County. He points out to the people in his announcement and publicly states that "if he is elected Probate Judge, that he will not carry politics into the office, but will serve the people of this county, without political distinction. His one object will be to improve this county's educational, heath, and road conditions, and give the tax payers in return a dollars worth of work for each dollar of tax money spent."

Udah Curlee was reared and educated in this county and has, since reaching his majority, taught in several of our leading schools. His ambitions are just as great to be of service to his fellow man and make good in life as any other man in the county. He has the qualifications for the place, and a record of clean living, and a character that is good. He is a man who is firm in his business dealings, and yet is pleasing and courteous.

Messrs Judson Strock and C. J. (Coy) Klinner, have each by their works shown themselves interested in the educational affairs of this county and are peculiarly fitted for the places on the school board. The people of the county cannot go wrong by electing them for the office. With the other three men who will remain on the board being from the Republican party, it is nothing but just and fair that each party have representation on a board that dispenses the public funds to educate the children of both Democrats and Republicans, and the News believes that the people of this county are interested in securing the very best results from the expenditure of the public funds, and that this will be accomplished by their election.

The two men nominated for commissioners—Mr. George T. Guy of Mountain Creek and Ernest H. Davis of Stanton—are each of the type of men that the people need in these offices, for both of them use their own judgement and act on questions of importance only after due consideration given, and they cannot be whipped in line for political purposes, nor can they be made to swerve from doing their duty—or neglecting the interests of the tax payers—for political expediency. If the people of this county want men in office who will accomplish for them the best results for the tax money, then we have no hesitancy in recommending to them these men whom the Democratic party have nominated.

These nominees are not men who will go about over the county knocking some one who may not happen to agree with them politically, nor are they running for office on the failure of some one else, if such be the facts, but they are promising the people of the county an administration of its affairs for the very best interests of the whole citizenship, free from discrimination and political prejudice.

The Democrats of this county—as well as those citizens who are not so much concerned about what party a man is affiliated with—but are concerned about the type of men who render the best service when in office—should put their shoulders to the wheel and go to work now and see to it that the best interests of the county are cared for in this election.

The election of these men is assured if the Democrats will organize themselves and make a fight for good government, and make no promises that they cannot carry out. Leave unsaid anything that borders on littleness, and put some pep in their organization and forget all personal feelings and back up their party with every ounce of their energy, which is we believe, a reasonable demand to make on every true blue Democrat.

BROTHER OF LOCAL MAN PASSES AT BLAKELY, GA.

Blakely, Ga., May 11.—Rev. J. G. Corley, 76, one of the oldest Baptist ministers in southwest Georgia, died Wednesday evening at 6:30 at his home five miles from Blakely.

It is definitely that the location will be somewhere between Montgomery and Clanton.

W. Cleve Stokes, president of the Alabama Automotive Trades Association, who with Tom McGough, head of the local association, is now engaged in making arrangements for the dedication, stated in announcing tentative plans for the event that officials in every county and city in Alabama traversed by the Bee Line highway, of which the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway is a part, will be invited to attend, also business men interested in highway development in Alabama. A brass band will be in attendance throughout the ceremonies.

Permission has been obtained from the State Highway Commission to go ahead with the dedication celebration. Highway officials will participate in the program, also other state officials including Gov. Bibb Graves, who will make an address. Mayor William A. Gunter of Montgomery, has likewise been given a prominent place on the program, as well as officials of the Montgomery Chamber of Commerce. As soon as the date for the dedication is decided on, engraved invitations will be mailed to all sections of the State. Automobile dealers from all over Alabama will be Montgomery's guests for the day.

Completion of the Montgomery-Birmingham paved highway marks an epoch in road building in Alabama and the South. Mr. Stokes stated. Great credit is due to the former administrations for instituting and continuing this great work, he said, but especial credit belongs to the present administration for pushing this important project through to such an early conclusion. The new paved highway will shorten the distance by motor car between Montgomery and Birmingham by fully 5 1-2 miles, compared with the present route via the gravel road detour.

The last concrete in the paving of the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway will be poured at about 11 o'clock this morning at a point in Autauga County near Goolsby's store, between the Prattville spur and Mountain Creek With the pouring of this concrete by workmen for the Davis Construction which has the contract for paving the final link in the new road, the job will be done. The highway will be ready for use sometime between May 26 and June 1.

By automobile the distance over this highway between Montgomery and Birmingham is approximately 100 miles Formerly it took from two to three days to make the trip by horse and buggy under the most favorable conditions. The first automobile scout journey from Birmingham to Montgomery, which was made in 1909, consumed from 9 o'clock one morning until three o'clock the following afternoon.

By the paved road the same trip can be made easily by automobile in from two and a half to three hours. How vastly the opening of the new paved highway will increase traffic between Alabama's capital city and Alabama's largest city, can well be imagined.

Movement for the construction of this important road was launched some ten years ago by an organization that was known as the Birmingham-Montgomery Highway Association, which held its first meeting at Clanton. Later when state funds became available the highway was paved with asphair over Shades Mountain, in Jefferson county. The Shelby County link followed. Laying of the remaining pavement has since progressed with ever-increasing rapidity.

Contract for the first paving was let on Jan. 12, 1923. Contract for the first cement concrete paving was awarded Aug. 28, 1927.

A series of cultivator demonstrations is being held in south east Alabama by the county agents with the cooperation of J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer, Auburn, and representatives of the farm machinery manufacturers. The introduction of more improved machinery is the goal.

While visiting, recently, a farm in in Wilcox County, J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer, Auburn, saw on one farm 16 negroes following 16 mules. He said that this impressed him as a big waste of human labor and he declared that with two horse cultivators 8 men could have done just as much work and fully as well.

Sixty head of beef cattle fattened by Christian and Faucet of Northport, in Tuscaloosa County, were sold on the Birmingham market, and the quality of the beef was up to Western beef, reports reveal. They were bought and sold by the Evansville Packing Company, Birmingham and the meat was sold to Birmingham Industrial concerns in line with the movement to consume Alabama products within the state.

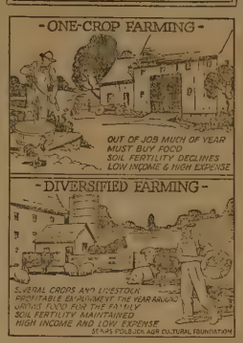
CLUB GIRLS WILL MEET IN AUBURN MAY 28 TO JUNE 2

Auburn, Ala., May 14.—May 28 to June 2 has been named as the date for the annual State short course for 4-H club girls of Alabama at Auburn. Announcement of this is made by Miss Helen Johnston, State chairman of home demonstration work. The two outstanding girls in each of the forty counties having a home demonstration agent will attend.

While in Auburn these prize-winning club girls will live in the college dormitories which will be vacant at that time which will be a part of the period between the close of the regular session of college and the opening of the first sesion of summer school. For them it will be five days of instruction, of recreation, of amusement, and of entertainment. Coupled with this they will engage in contests to determine the most proficient in different lines.

Diversified Farming Is Safe Farming



One-crop farming in the long run will make both farm and farmer poor, says the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. To make farming safe, a variety of crops must be grown and part of the crops must be marketed in the form of live stock and live-stock products.

Neither factories nor workmen can hope to prosper unless they are busy the year around. By growing a variety of crops, it becomes possible to arrange the farm operations so as to have field work from spring to fall, and feeding these crops will enable the farmer to turn his winter time into cash. Caring for live stock, including poultry, and for a garden provides useful work for the younger members of the family and gives them an opportunity to earn money and possess something of their own.

The farmer who raises only one crop is rushed part of the year and idle the rest. Usually this type of farmer does not grow his own living and, therefore, is in debt when harvest time arrives. He must rush his crop to market irrespective of price. With a variety of crops, it is unlikely that all of them will be failures or low in price at once. Diversified farming, including the growing of the family living in the form of a garden, poultry and eggs, milk and meat, leads to a bank account instead of a store account.

Live stock production leads directly to growing a variety of crops, the Foundation adds. These will include legumes which aid in maintaining fertility. Also, three-fourths of the fertility removed from the soil by the crop can be returned in the manure. For this reason, live stock farms almost invariably have higher yields per acre, which mean lower crop production costs. Live stock farming feeds the soil, while one-crop farming robs the soil.

If the one-crop farmers of the South, collectively, would grow their own food and feed, reducing to that extent the acreage and supply of cotton, the higher price which the staple would bring would go far toward compensating them for the smaller amount they would have for sale. They would receive nearly as much cash for cotton as they do under their present method and they would have much more cash left after taking care of necessary farm and family expenses. Thus, they could largely free themselves from fear of those twin disasters, an excessive total crop and ruinously low prices, or a crop failure with high prices and nothing to sell.

HIGH MARK IN HIGWAY CONSTRUCTION

Road construction in 1928 will at least equal and probably exceed the highest mark recorded in any pre-year.

Programs of state and federal-aid highway systems include new construction of more than 20,000 miles of surfaced roads and about 8,000 miles graded and drained. In addition, maintenance and repair work will be done on at least 240,000 miles of state highways.

Funds available to state highway departments are fully 25 per cent greater in amount than last year, amounting this year to $750,000,000. Expenditures by county and local units will swell the highway total to upwards of $1,300,000,000.

BONANZA MINING DAYS PASSING INTO HISTORY

The Portland Gold Mining Company of Colorado, is preparing to make exhaustive tests of low-grade Colorado ores at its new Victor mill. It will treat ores yielding only $2 to $4 a ton from various big mines that can produce an enormous tonnage, and will seek to prove that even these cheap ores can be profitably mined.

Metallurgy and mining have made extraordinary strides in the past few years. The old bonanza days are being overshadowed by the later steam-shovel "pluging" days, when quantity and trained skill are better than mere luck.

The mining industry, by improving methods of mineral extraction, is doing its share and more to conserve our natural resources.

JUNKING THE BUNK

Following the now popular de-bunking sport, a recent writer disposes of some old ideas in the following fashion:

Cancer is not hereditary.

Sulphur and molasses are not good for children in the spring, or at any other time.

Linseed poultices depend for their value entirely upon their heat; the linseed has no effect.

Mild winters do not necessarily fill the graveyards, but are more healthful than severe ones.

Gas stoves are not unhealthful, neither do they dry the atmosphere unduly.

Owls do not avoid daylight and cats do not see any better at night than other animals.

Ostricks do not bury their heads in the sand and a beaver does not use his tail as a trowel.

Alligators do not attack man, but crocodiles do.

It may be added that horsehairs in a rain barrell do not turn into snakes.

THE SAFETY OF RAIL-ROAD TRANSPORTATION

The railroads, during the past eight years have made the greatest progress in increasing safety of rail transportation ever attained by the carriers of this country, culminating in the year 1927 in the best safety record ever established by them, R. H. Aishton, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Association of Railway Executives told the Interstate Commerce Commission in asking that body to permit the managements free opportupity to exercise their judgment in determining in what direction expenditures can best be made to insure the greatest possible safety for employees and the public and generally increase safety in train operation.

Despite the hundreds of millions of pesons who ride on the railroads each year, only ten were killed in train accidents in 1927, a new low record for any one year and a decease of 69 under 1926. An improvement in safety among employees was also reported in 1927.

Duing the past eight years freight speed between terminals increased nineteen per cent, freight car miles per day increased twenty per cent, and gross ton miles per feight train hour increased 47.5 per cent. The results obtained in safety are a growing indication that the efforts of the railways to secure the greatest measure commendable results.

Transportation for al l explosives moved on railroads in the United States and Canada, including a total of about 500,000,000 pounds of dangerous explosives without any loss of life or injury to life, and with a total loss of only $45.

The bureau for the Safe Transportation of Explosives and other Dangerous Articles was organized in 1906 under the auspices of the American Railway Association. At the outset its principal concern was to throw safeguards around shipments of explosives, but experience has shown that there are many products other than explosives requiring attention; in fact the list now includes 227 of them. For more than two decades the bureau has made a careful study of the causes of fires and explosions occuring on railroad property in order to know how to prevent them. And this information has been made the basis for Federal regulations now in effect.

MRS. LOWDEN SHATTERS ANOTHER U. S. TRADITION

The Pullman car myth, long cherished by Americans dreaming of great wealth easily made, was shattered in an interview given the Womans Home Companion which was put on sale today.

One by one the pillars of tradition on which American civilization has been built have been seen to totter and crumple.

Washngton did'nt cut down the cherry tree.

Brodie didn't jump off the bridge.

Mrs. Lowden, brought out into the limelight due to her husband's candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, denies that she named the Pullman cars.

Mrs. Lowden was Florence Pullman, daughter of George M. Pullman, creator of railway travel de luxe. At an early age she begged her father to let her name the Pullman cars and for each she received a silver dollar. As time went on she was supposed to be receiving $10,000 for choosing pretty names.

"Father denied the story," Mrs. Lowden told the magazine, "I have denied it many times. But no one seemed willing to print the denials. I wish they would, for I still get letters from girls offering to do all the work if I'll only share the salary with them."

The old-fashioned boy who used to be yanked out to the woodshed every day and got a good lambasting because he was lazy, now has a son who gets by, calling it liver trouble.

Don't be in a hurry. Remember the fate of the early worm.

Some of our Doctor of Laws in Congress try to do too much doctoring.

No Accident Week has just ended with no great increase of accidents over the week before.

Miami treated the Shriners royally. Even the city jail bore the inscription "Welcome Nobles."

A lady bather "barely escaped drowning" in Florida. "Barely" is doubtless the right word.

The Chinese want a national anthem. We might spare that one of ours with the funny line about a "sweet land of Liberty."

The Topeka Journal asserts that "pretty colored sandals are now being worn on the feet." If they were being worn on the hands or head the Journal probably would have said so.

About sixty different races are represented in the population of China, which has approximately one-fourth of the world's population.

The largest painting in the world is Robusti's Paradise.

AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION AT SAN ANTONIO, TEX.

San Antonio, Tex., May 14—The national convention of the American Legion and its Auxiliary to be held here October 8 to 12, will surpass in wealth of entertainment in interest and in notable events the great convention held by the organization in Paris last year, according to National Adjutant James F. Barton.

Barton, here to check over plans for the convention, expressed himself well pleased with the convention entertainment program.

Entertainment features include a world's championship rodeo with the biggest prize money of the year and the leading cowboy and cowgirl contenders, a decision prize fight at Fort Sam Houston with two principal contenders for the world's welterweight title, spectular battle exercises by the Second Division using tanks, airplanes, liquid fire, and all the latest methods of warfare, the greatest air circus ever staged in America.

Other entertainment specialists will be a Broadway show, a Mexican revue with the best actors, singers and dancers from the City of Mexico, the famous City of Mexico Police Band.

More than 100 Legion bands and drum corps from all parts of the United States are expected to be in attendance at the convention, according to Philip B. Stapp, general director. Distinguished visitors from abroad and leaders in many fields of American life will be present.

To the convention parade, always a spectular affair with its thousands of marching men and women, the entire day of Tuesday, October 9, will be devoted, Mr. Barton said. The marching columns will be reviewed on historic Alamo Plaza, where stands the Alamo, crade of Texas liberty.

In addition to the convention entertainment planned at San Antonio, side trips will be conducted to various point on the border. One will cover Corpus Christi and the principal towns of the Magis Valley of the Lower Rio Grande, ending up with a Spanish celebration at Matamoros. Others will go to Nuevo Laredo and Piedras Negras, where bull fights will be staged and a Spanish fiesta held. Elaborate preparations are being made for these.

WALLACE COX INJURED IN ACCIDENT LAST WEEK

Wallace Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cox of Clanton, was painfully injured in an accident in Birmingham last Thursday, when a truck he was driving, moving a steam shovel became unmanageable on a down-grade, crushing young Cox's left leg.

Cox was rushed to St. Vincents Hospital, where he is still confined, with little hope of physicians being able to save the leg. His leg was caught between the frame of the truck and the cement curbing, crushing it between the knee and thigh, crushing the knee cap and tearing the flesh from the bone for some distance.

Wallace had just begun working for Nixon and Phillips, road contractors, the day before, and had worked all night moving the machinery while traffic was light, when the accident occurred. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cox have been constantly in touch with attendants at the infirmary, and the last report reaching Clanton, prior to going to press, is to the effect that he was doing as well as could be expected and the doctors still had some hopes of saving the injured limb.

ONE OF OLDEST RESIDENTS OF THORSBY PASSES AWAY

Mrs. E. F. Mead, Dies At Home In Thorsby Friday Night May 11

Mrs. E. F. Meade died at her home in Thorsby last Friday night, May 11, at 8:15 o'clock. Her death came as a shock to the entire section. She was ill for only a few days.

At the time of her death, she was sixty-five years old. She was born in Minnesota, where she was married and later moved to Thorsby, along with the early settlers of that section in 1897.

Since the time of her arrival with her huband, Mr. E. F. Mead, in Thorsby, she has been one of the most active workers in all religious affairs of Thorsby ,having taken a most important part in the establishment of the Thorsby Baptist Church there, of which she was a member. There could not be enough said about her wonderful personality, and her most untiring efforts to help the needy and sick. And there could not be enough said about her splendid work for the progress of Christianity.

Mrs. Mead is known to everyone of that section, and loved by all who knew her. She will always be remembered with loving kindness to those who came in contact with her. She has a large circle of friends who will greatly miss her from their midst.

Mrs. Mead is survived by her husband, and two sons, Erle of Birmingham, who holds a responsible position with the L & N Railway; and Clyde of Thorsby. Both sons are married.

The beautiful floral offerings from her many friends around Thorsby, and from other sections far and near, were complete evidence of the great esteem in which she was held.

The funeral was held at the Congregational Church in Thorsby, with Rev. J. E. Each, Rev. J. H. Roberts and Rev. E. W. Butler conducting the ceremonies. J. Mell Martin, local funeral director, had charge of the body

A history of her life was read at the funeral. She was laid to rest in the City Cemetery in Thorsby.

WHEN you gamble with cheap oil, the odds are all against you. You stake a valuable motor against a few pennies difference in price. The pennies you save may later go out as dollars on repair bills that a good motor oil would have prevented.

"STANDARD" MOTOR OIL is refined up to a standard—not down to a price. It is the most popular motor oil wherever it is sold, because motorists KNOW from experience that it gives them the best lubricating value.

Went to Pieces

"I suffered a long time, before I tried Cardui," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "K" St., Anderson, S. C. "I was badly run-down in health. My nerves 'went to pieces', and I had to go to bed.

"I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild.

"One day I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it. It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable my family and friends were delighted."

BELL TELEPHONE SERVICE

The Bell Telephone System will spend more than $400,000,000 for new equipment and plant facilities in 1928. This is the largest construction program ever contemplated in telephone history. When we consider that this is more than the entire cost of building the Panama Canal, a slight idea can be obtained of what this new construction really means in better telephone service to the public.

Plans call for 950,000 telephone poles, which would be sufficient to construct over 23,000 miles of pole line with 40 poles to the mile. More than 1,000,000 crossarms will be used; and 19,000,000 duct feet of conduit will be provided for under ground lines. Over 17,400 tons of bare copper wire and 5,000 tons of galvanized iron wire will be needed, in addition to 34,750,000,000 conductor feet of wire in lead-covered cables.

The construction program contemplates additional long-distance circuits in various parts of the country, and progressive development and improvement of local telephone facilities, by the various Bell Telephone companies, in their local territories.

NEGRO BOY INSTANTLY KILLED BY ANOTHER

John Anthony Holyfield, negro boy age 15 years, was instantly killed last Friday, night by a knife stab received from Allen Wilson, another negro boy age 16.

Holyfield was stabbed once in the neck and once in the heart, according to reports, and died almost instantly. The killing was the result of a quarrel which took place at the Colored Training School, west of Clanton, late Friday night, of last week.

The Wilson boy was arrested by the Sheriff and one of his deputies, soon after the killink took place, and was brought to Clanton and lodged in the County jail.

Miss Willodean Reynolds left last Thursday for Pine Hill, Ala., where she will be the guest of Mrs. J. B. Cox. Before returning home she will also visit Mrs. Geo. Miller at Livingston, and also friends in Thomasville.

ELMORE MAN IS HEAD OF UNITED CONFEDERATE VETS

LittleRock, Ark., May 10.—A youth who left college to fight for the Confederacy, Gen. A. T. Goodwyn, of Elmore, Ala., now 86 years old, is the new commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans.

He was elected at the veterans reunion here today to succeed Gen. J. C. Foster, af Houston, Tex. Charlotte, N. C., was selected as next years' reunion city, thus taking the assembly of aged warriors to that state for the first time.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans, who also wound up the business of their reunion today elected E. R. Wiles of Little Rock, chairman of the reunion and commander of the trans-Mississippi department, as their commander-in-chief to succeed Dr. S. L. Lowery, of Tampa, Fla.

Reject Joint Meeting

The business session of the vetefans' reunion ended without any further action having been taking on a resolution providing for perfection of plans with the Grand Army of the Republic for holding their reunions jointly in the future. At the morning session the resolution first was tabled and later a motion to reconsider was adopted.

The Sons of Veterans however rejected by an overwhelming vote a proposal that they support a bill now pending in Congress for a joint reunion of Northern and Southern veterans.

With all business disposed of the veterans and sons organizations had only the parade left on the program of the annual reunion.

Gen. Goodwyn, who fought at Lookout Mountain, Chicamauga, and Missionary Ridge, was elected to head the forces of veterans over Col. R. A. Sneed of Oklahoma City. The vote was 707 to 306.

Charlotte Gets Meeting

The most spirited fight of the reunion was over selection of next year's meeting place. Atlanta's delegation, headed by Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, made a strong bid for the reunion, but when the votes were counted, Charlotte, whose campaign was led by the Rev. Albert Sidney Johnston of that city, was found to be the favorite and the vote was made unanimous.

Charlotte based its claim to the reunion on the fact that the fast dwindling veterans had never met in North Carolina.

Department commanders of veterans were elected as follows:

L. W. Stephens, Coushatza, La., department of Tennessee; J. A. Yearger, Tulsa, Okla., trans- Mississippi department; Homer Atkins, Richmond, Va. department of Northern Virginia.

Well Known Here

General Albert T. Goodwyn is a native of Elmore County. He was born Dec. 17 1842 at Robinson Springs, then Autauga, but now Elmore County. Gen. Goodwyn received his first education at Robinson Springs and vicinity in 1859-61, he was a student at South Carolina College; in 1866-67 was a student at the University of Virginia, graduating in the school of moral philosophy.

Gen. Goodwyn has been a life-long planter. He has taken an active part in public life. He was state inspector of convicts in 76-80; representative from Elmore County in 86-87; state senator from Elmore, Chilton and Shelby Counties 92-96; member of the Fifty-fourth Congress 95-97; served as clerk in the Department of Agriculture and Industries; served as chairman of various school boards; served as Trustee of the Fifth District Agricultural School at Wetumpka; and of the Confederate Veterans Home at Mountain Creek.

When the Civil War broke out, General Goodwyn was a student at South Carolina College. As a member of the college cadets he was at the bombardment of Fort Sumter. He was later a private in Captain Breedlove's company, 45th Alabama Infantry. He was later transferred to the 58th Alabama Infantry Regiment in which he served as a lieutenant. He was in the battles of Chicamauga, Lookout Mountain and Missionary Ridge, and while a prisoner at Johnson's Island in 1865, was promoted to the captiancy of his company

General Goodwyn is a member of the Masonic fraternity.

General Goodwyn is father of Tyler Goodwyn of Montgomery. Other children are Mrs. John D. McNeel, of Birmingham; Gardner Goodwyn of Bessemer; Col. Albert Goodwyn of the United States Army, and Mrs. Frank Hastings Griffin of Wawah, Pennsylvania.

IT DRIVES OUT WORMS

The surest sign of worms in children is paleness, lack of interest in play, fretfulness, variable appetite, picking at the nose and sudden starting in sleep. When these symptoms appear it is time to give White's Cream Vermifuge. A few doses drives out the worms and puts the little one on the road to health again. VOLUME 6 CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY MAY 24, 1928 NUMBER 35

Rev. J. A. Bryan Here Wednesday

Tells of Recent Trip To The Holy Land In Talk At Methodist Church

Rev. J. A. (Brother) Bryan of Birmingham came to Clanton Wednesday evening of last week and delivered an address in the auditorium of the Methodist Church on the subject of Jerusalem, and other ancient cities and Biblical events.

Rev. Bryan was invited to Clanton by Mr. and Mrs. Joe W. Franklin, and was their guest while here. At 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, a most delicious dinner was served by Mrs. Franklin to Rev. Bryan, Rev. L. B. Green, pastor of the local Methodist church; J. B. Atkinson, Mayor of Clanton; J. H. Plier, City Clerk and Mrs. C. H. Plier. Mrs. Franklin proved herself a charming hostess.

Brother Bryan's address at the Church was one of the most forceful, entertaining and instructive ones delivered in Clanton for some time. He recounted the many scenes of his trip to the Holy Land, which was made possible by kindness of his numerous friends in Birmingham, where this gentlemanly man has made an enviable record for services to God and his fellowman. He stated that the Holy Bible was true and must needs be accepted by us, as the only rule and guide to our faith and that we may, by devotion to Christ and a strict adherance to the Commandments of the Bible and a genuine love for Him, shown by our works, receive our rewards and an eternal inheritance in that house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

A large and interested assemblage of people from Clanton and Chilton County, awaited Rev. Bryan at the appointed hour for his address, and we believe that every one present would be glad to go back and hear him for another hour and thirty minutes.

DAIRY SERVICE TRUCK WRECKED NORTH OF TOWN

A large truck, the property of the Dairy Service Company, which makes regular trips from Montgomery to Birmingham turned over off a fill on the highway just a short distance north of Clanton Tuesday evening.

At the time of the accident, the truck was returning from Birmingham and was loaded with empty milk cans and a load of mixed freight. When the truck left the road, it struck a telephone pole, severing the pole near the ground, and turning over, damaging the truck and freight very little apparently. The truck was driven by P. G. King, who escaped injury. The accident is said to have been caused by defective steering apparatus.

Milk Boosts Bank Cash $800,000 in Two Years

Dr. E. R. Loyd, Farm Development Director of Memphis Chamber of Commerce, Tells Wonderful Story of Farm Progress in Oktibbeha-co, Miss.

(By Dr. E. R. Lloyd)

MEMPHIS, TENN.—Agricultural conditions in the South are not nearly so bad as some profess to think. The dairy development in the cotton states has made more progress in the past 2 years than in any 10-year period of our history.

Cites Mississippi

While this wonderful development in dairying is more or less spread over the cotton states, I will use Mississippi in this article, since I am familiar with what has been done in that state.

The movement of the dairy industry from the old established dairy centers of the North to the cotton belt of the South has been so rapid that I fear we have not had time to work out a well defined plan for the future.

Two Years' Growth

The first condensary was opened in Mississippi at Starkville, April 1, 1926. Now we have in the state four condensaries, eight cheese plants and 25 creameries. The annual value of dairy products in the state has gone from $3,000,000 a few years ago to $15,000,000 in 1927. Are we making progress too fast? It has never been our policy to advise farmers to add dairying to cotton simply as an emergency means in time of low-priced cotton.

Unless the cotton farmer intends to make diarying a permanent adjunct to his cotton program, he had better leave it alone. Some of the more progressive famers have for some time felt the need of some crop to supplement cotton, for which there was an easily accessible market, for either small or large quantities at standard prices and he has found this in his milk and cream.

First Condensary

As a concrete example of what diarying will add to the prosperity of the South, I will take Oktibbeha-co, Miss., a small hiss county. While a large part of the land in this county is prairie or lime land and will grow clovers, alfalfas and all the best grasses it is, agriculturally speaking, a poor county. This county produced 4000 to 500 bales of cotton per year. Dairying has been practiced in this county for many years and the farmers were fairly good dairymen, but little real definite progress had been made until 1926, when the first condensary ever built in the South was built at Starkville.

What Milk Has Done

In addition to the condensary, Starkville has a splendid co-operative creamery. The two plants pay the farmers from $110,000 to $166,000 per month for whole milk and cream. Eighty-five per cent of the milk handled by the condensary comes from a radius of 12 miles from the plant and 15 per cent from 25 miles from the plant. Two years ago there were about 10,000 dairy cows in the county. Now there are over 20,000. There are three banks in the town, and the combined deposits of these banks have increased over $800,000 in four years. This increase did not come from cotton, since we produced about the same amount of cotton each year. The increased deposits come from dairying and poultry. Eighty per cent of the cotton produced in 1927 within 12 miles of the milk plant was free from debt. The milk check has paid all expenses in producing the crop and made the farmer a living.

There are two branch railroads into the town, and one road's business showed an increase of 310 per cent and the other an increase of 110 per cent, since 1925.

Tenant Farmers Win

R. B. Wilson, a young white man with six children, four in school and large enough to work, bought a farm of 137 acres in November, 1925, for $6000. He borrowed $3000 from the federal land bank, and his local bank loaned him $3000, taking a second mortgage on the land and first mortgage on 60 head of cows. Thirty of the cows were heifers. In November, 1927, he paid in full his mortgage to his local bank and has never failed to pay his annual note to the federal land bank. He now has 60 good grade cows.

Another small white farmer in November, 1925, bought 40 acres of thin land for $750, borrowed all the money from his local bank. He had 10 good Jersey cows. His milk check enabled him to pay his mortgage in November 1927, and he has several more good cows.

Negroes Become Dairymen

There are about 55 negro tenants running dairies on a 50-50 basis. The landlord furnishes the land, cows and equipment. The tenant furnishes all labor and pays for half of all the feed purchased.

One of the tenants is milking from 30 to 35 cows, has 180 acres of land and in 1927 his gross income was $119.-30 per month, the landlord getting an equal amount. The total feed bill was $4000, one-half of which was paid by the tenant. The rest of the feed was produced on the farm.

Eight Demonstration Farms Are Located

Other Three Farms Will Be Located In State In The Near Future

Montgomery, Ala., May 22, 1928.—Eight of the eleven demonstration farms, in connection with the State Secondary Agricultural High Schools, have been located by the Commission appointed by the Legislature, according to S. M. Dunwoody, Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries and Chairman of this Commission, who in a public statement yesterday discussed matters of importance relating to the various farms, saying:

"Great public interest has been aroused in connection with the location of these school demonstration farms; and the commission has visited every school and given careful and extended study to each farm site submitted. The duties of the Commission have been very painstaking. Over 2,-000 miles have been traversed—mostly by automobiles; some 40 possible farm sites have been examined in detail as to type of soil, drainage, crop adaptation etc. Many citizens have been interviewed, committees heard, and every site examined. It is believed that the operation of these farms will add materially to the value of demonstration work in Alabama and will give school pupils a living example of the best kinds of farming possible."

"The school demonstration farms are in no way connected with the substation farms, which are under the direction of the State Experiment Station at Auburn. With the completion of the task of locating, the Commissioner appointed by the Legislature will have no further connection with the farms of the State Secondary Schools."

"The Commission charged with the location of the farms as designated by the Legislature were: S. M. Dunwoody Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries, Chairman; J. B. Hobdy, State Director of Vocational Education, Secretary; M. J. Funchess, Director of State Experiment Station, Auburn; L. N. Duncan, Director of Extension, Auburn; and Representative S. A. Burns of Talladega ,farmer member, as appointed by Governor Graves, according to law."

"It is the purpose of the State to equip these demonstration farms with suitable buildings, fences, tools and general farming equipment and to expend not to exceed $3500.00 for annual running expenses. The farms will be operated by the Extension Service of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, under a cooperative plan with the Board of Control of the College and the State Board of Education. The students of the secondary schools will have all the instructional advantages afforded by the farms. They will learn to do by doing—and observeing, in addition to the classroom and laboratory. DEATH OF MRS. GUY CAFFEE GREAT SHOCK TO FRIENDS

Mrs. Guy H. Caffee, age 34, died the family home in Verbena Tuesday evening at six o'clock after an illness of less than one week.

The announcement of the death of this popular matron was a great shock to the many friends and relatives of the family, as her condition had not been considered grave, up until a short time prior to her death, when she suffered a hemorage, and owing to her weakened condition, she could not rally sufficient strength to recover.

The deceased was one of the popular young matrons of Verbena. She was reared in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Oliver and was an active member of the Baptist Church of Verbena.

The funeral services were conducted from the Baptist Church where she held her membership Wednesday evening, Rev. Arthur DeLoach presiding with J. Mell Martin in charge.

The beautiful floral offerings and the large number present indicated the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Active pall bearers were H. W. Davis, J. M. Hurtt, W. B. Strock, S. L. Gibson, D. I. DeRamus and Flow Irvin.

Left to mourn her death is a husband and two small girls, aged 2 and 8 years.

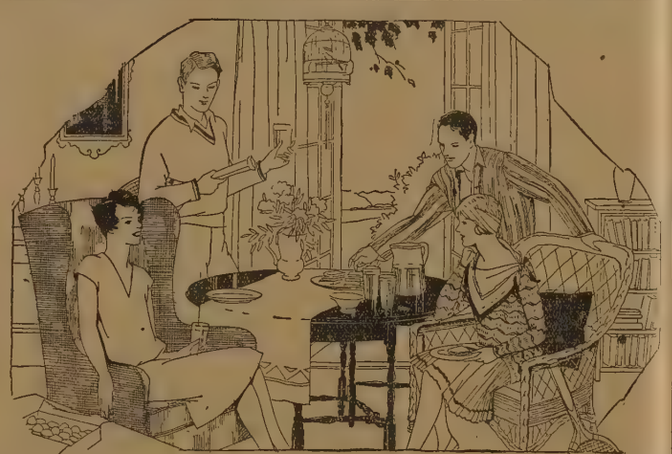
FRUIT FOR FUN



THE summer sport season is here again. Already the sports goods dealers are going around with smiles wreathing their faces. Already the outdoor lover is counting over his cash and spending his evenings figuring on his summer vacation. What shall it be—motoring, camping, sailing? Or, if these ideas seem too strenuous, how about renting a summer bungalow with enticing tennis courts, golf courses, and swimming pools nearby? Or else, if you prefer to stay home, there are always picnics which can be organized at a moment's notice.

However different these methods of fun-making are, they all have one question in common. What shall we eat? And it is no little question, for even the man who eats to live may find that the fresh air and sunlight or the outdoors makes him want to live to eat.

Feeding the Sportsman

After a strenuous day in the open, substantial foods are needed, and the woman who prepares a meal for a party just returning from a long motor drive, or an afternoon of sport, realizes that dinner, the climax of the day, must be made as good fun as the rest of it. Of all the fruits which can be used in party menus, pineapple is undoubtedly the most versatile one. For a breakfast to follow a mountain hike to see the sunrise, what could be better than pineapple waffles or fried bacon and pineapple? For the luncheon preceding a tennis match there are numerous pineapple entrées, salads and desserts. After the match a cooling drink with the syrup of canned pineapple as an ingredient, and perhaps pineapple sandwiches or cakes, are delicious. In both the formal dinner and the impromptu supper pineapple can once more play its part.

A light tea which will be refreshing and cooling after an afternoon in the hot summer sun could consist of society punch, pineapple sandwiches, and cheese straws. To make the punch mix three-fourths cup sugar and one cup water, and boil for five minutes. Chill and add one cup syrup drained from crushed pineapple, the juice from two oranges, and one cup of ice water. Add one orange sliced very thin without removing rind, one-half cup crushed pineapple, and one tablespoon minced Maraschino cherries. Pour over a square of ice in a pitcher. The sandwich filling is so delicious that it is wise to make an extra large quantity of sandwiches. Blanch one-third cup of almonds, shred them and brown gently in two tablespoons butter. Drain two cups crushed Hawaiian pineapple and add to nuts, browning very slightly. Cool. Add twelve pickles chopped fine. Work in one-fourth cup cream cheese gently until soft paste is formed, adding a bit of pineapple syrup. Season with salt and paprika.

For the Beginning or End

Either to begin or to end the day pineapple waffles are delicious. Mix and sift one and three-fourths cups flour, four teaspoons baking powder and one-half teaspoon salt. Add gradually one cup milk, two beaten egg yolks, and three tablespoons melted butter. Add one-half cup thoroughly drained crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Fold in two well-beaten egg whites. Bake on waffle iron. To the syrup drained from the pineapple add one and one-half cups sugar and one cup water. Boil this to a syrup, and serve with the waffles. This dish is suitable either at breakfast or at a late supper.

Another breakfast dish de luxe is French toast with pineapple. Sift together one cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder. Add one cup milk and two well-beaten eggs; beat well. Dip round slices of white bread into batter and fry in hot fat. Lay on plate, dust with sugar and top with a slice of Hawaiian pineapple. In the center of the pineapple put one-half teaspoon red jelly.

When Days Are Warm

With spring comes the possibility of making lovely salads with the fresh fruits that are on the market. A delicious salad is made as follows: Arrange six slices of canned Hawaiian pineapple on the leaves from a head of lettuce. Cut two medium-sized bananas into slices, cover with one-third cup lemon juice. Let stand five minutes and drain. Arrange a circle of banana slices close to the edge of each piece of pineapple. Pile some stemmed strawberries in center of each pineapple slice, and garnish with unstemmed strawberries; it will take about two cups in all. Serve with pineapple cream dressing made as follows: melt one tablespoon butter in top of double boiler, add one tablespoon of flour, one-eighth teaspoon of salt. Stir well and add one cup pineapple syrup and two tablespoons lemon juice. When smooth, remove, chill and fold in one-half cup beaten cream.

A novel sherbet for warm days is pineapple ginger sherbet. Cut one ounce candied ginger in small pieces, add three cups water, one cup sugar and one-third cup lemon juice. Boil fifteen minutes. Cool. Add one can of crushed pineapple and freeze.

TELLING CONGRESS

General Rethers appeaed before the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives, and in telling about "soldierly pride," said, "They buy a cap which has been termed the Pershing cap, because it looks better than the regular cap, and by the way, Mr. Chairman we have now adopted that style of cap and are going to manufacture it. The men will go out and buy a hat cord of rayon silk, rather than use the mohair hat cord we give them, because it is nattier looking. Very often they will buy a service hat, rather than wear the issue one, because the one they purchase is something on the order of a Stetson hat, which has a much better appearance."

FOREST AREAS

The area of forest lands in the United States is estimated at 355,000,000 acres, and it will surprise most people to know that two-thirds of these forests are in the East. The official figures include the forested areas of parks which are found in practically all villages and cities.

Canada has greater forest areas than the United States. and Brazil has nearly as large an acreage of forests as both Canada and the United States.

The older nations of the world have been regrowing their forests for several generations. We are doing that very same thing in some parts of the United States today. The State Conservation Department of New York shipped out 23,375,502 trees from its nurseries last year. New York state is now engaged upon a plan for the reforestation of more than 4,000,000 acres of land and the undertaking is being planned for a period of twenty years.

In reforesting through New York State the trees that will be most largely used will be pines, spruces, cedars. European Larch, balsam, and black locust.

This work which is being done for the future generations seeks to reforest large areas of idle acres, and it will take from thirty-five to sixty years for the new timber to grow to its fullest extent, although new forests planted with about 1,000 trees to the acre will provide good game refuges inside of four of five years. The State game associations and sportsmen clubs are vitally interested in the work of reforesting because they will have the early benefit of the covers that these new State planted forests will provide.

PLIGHT OF THE AGED

If it were possible to bring home to the young and middle-aged the pitiful condition of a large percentage of all old people, it might be easier to inculcate habits of thrift.

One of the saddest things imaginable is to see aged persons who are dependent upon charity for he bare necessities of life. About 80,000 are in the poorhouses of the United States, but the number who are supported in various ways outside of these institutions is many times as large. It has been estimated that about 80 per cent of all persons more than 65 years of age are dependent to some extent upon the charity of relatives or others.

Many of these have seen prosperous days, but through wastefulness, bad investments, sickness, accidents, or other misfortunes have been reduced to their present plight.

Unfortunately, the examples of old age poverty which may be seen on every hand are ignored by the very ones who will experience a similar situation in their later years.

AIR RECORD BREAKING

So rapidly are new air records being made that it is difficult to keep pace with them. Before a magazine article recounting some wonderful feat has gotten into print still more wonderful one is told in the newspapers.

The few months of 1928 already past have seen Haldeman, and Stinson bring back to America the endurance air record with a continuous flight of 53 1-2 hours. While this was going on, Major de Bernardi of Italy was smashing the speed record, in four flights over a 10-kilometer course at an average speed of 318 1-2 miles an hour. Hinkler flew from London to Australia alone in a light plane of low horsepower in 15 hops covering 15 days without a mishap setting a new record.

The great feat of Koehl, von Huenfield and Fitzmaurice, two Germans and an Irishman, has caused the world to resound with their fame as the first to make the westward trans-Atlantic flight in an airplane. And there are many others who have accomplished thrilling feats in the air.

But Lindbergh holds a record that is still unique in two respects. He is the only person to fly across the Atlantic alone and the only one to cross it in an airplane who picked his exact destination in advance and landed there without a stop. Someone may duplicate his feat some day, but his record has stood for a year—and that is a long time in these days of new records overnight.

This is the season when father takes a few furtive glances at the clothing store windows and then gets the old Palm Beach pressed.

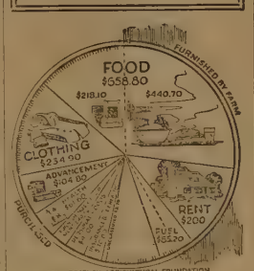
How Farm Family Spends Its Money



SEARS-ROEBUCK AGRICULTURAL FOUNDATION

Farming is a family business and its success in keeping its workers satisfied depends on how well it provides the family with the necessities, conveniences and comforts of life, says the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

From one-third to one-half of the value of the farm family's living represents food products, use of the house and fuel furnished from the farm, according to a study of the expenditures of 3,000 representative families by the United States Department of Agriculture. This is not free of cost to the farmer, of course. It represents labor as well as an outlay of capital.

The total value of the farm family living averaged $1,597.50 annually. The value of the food used, which was the largest item in the total, averaged $658.80, or 41.2 per cent. Of this amount, however, the farm itself furnished $440.70 worth, or about two-thirds. The rest was cash spent mostly for coffee, sugar, flour and other staples.

Clothing expenses averaged $234.90 per family, or nearly 15 per cent of the total budget. The largest clothing expenditure was for ready-made garments. Shoes made a good-sized dent in the clothing account, as did purchases of yard goods, trimmings and similar items for the home dressmaker.

Rent, which was furnished by the farm, was estimated at an average value of $200. Operating costs, which included the family use of the automobile, household labor, fuel, cleaning supplies, and so on, averaged $213.10. Fuel cost was estimated at $63.20, of which 60.7 per cent, or $43.20, was furnished by the farm.

Money spent for "advancement," including education, vacations, amusement and books, averaged $104.08. For maintenance of health, the average family spent $61.60. New household furnishings cost on the average $40.20 a year. Personal goods, which included money spent for gifts, candy and tobacco, cost $41. Payments on life and health insurance averaged $40.80.

While much baking, canning, churning and sewing is still done on the farm, and probably always will be, the tendency is for these household industries to be slowly supplanted by factory-made goods. Cream is delivered to the creamery and butter is purchased; live stock is sold to the packer and fresh or cured meat bought from the butcher; the ready-made dress has replaced many a farm-made one. These changes are gradually lightening the burdens of the farm housewife, the Foundation adds.

CHEVROLET MOTOR CO. CONTINUES BIG PRODUCTION

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—Assurance that production of the Chevrolet Motor Company this year would top by a wide margin the million units built a year ago was felt here today with the announcement by W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, that April was the third consecutive month this year to set a new all-time monthly production record for the manufacture of gear shift cars.

Chevrolet volume for the month just ended, Mr. Knudsen announced, was 135,832 cars and trucks—an increase of more than 20,000 over the 111,939 units built in the same period a year ago and more than twice the output in April 1925. Of the April volume this year, more than 100,000 units were required for the domestic market, Mr. Knudsen said.

Not only did April set a new record for the month, but it topped by 2,000 units the output for March, 1928, which was the previous high month. March also was 17,000 units in excess in the history of the company.

Combining the output of these three months with the 32,000 Bigger and Better Chevrolets built for display purposes in December, and the 91,000 turned out in January, the total output of new 1928 models up to May 1 was in excess of half the entire output in 1927 With eight months remaining in the year, optimism everywhere abounded in the Chevrolet organization that the year's output would shoot well beyond the million car mark.

The record volume achieved to date, and the bright outlook for the future, show the measure of confidence placed in the company by the millions of people now driving Chevrolets, Mr. Knudsen pointed out. He asserted that this good will factor is Chevrolet's greatest asset and puts the company under obligation to maintain the standards of quality which the public has so overwhelmingly accepted, thus making possible the new production marks now being set.

In addition to the high figures already hung so far this year, still higher records are possible, Mr. Knudsen said. He pointed out that the fifteen great Chevrolet factories are operating on a schedule for the present month that may carry them beyond the high volume attained in April.

Prizes for Best Cotton Stalks

A National Single Stalk Cotton Show which will award approximately $10,000 in prizes was the basis of an announcement recently made over WSB, the Atlanta Journal Radio Station by Louis E. Brackeen, Secretary of the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation at Atlanta.

In the belief that successful cotton production is built around the producing ability of the single stalk the Agricultural Foundation in co-operation with the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association will award twenty-eight prizes in the Southeastern territory including the states of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama. The judges of the show, who will be outstanding cotton authorities from the Southeast, will award to the grower of the best single stalk of cotton in the territory named a cash prize of $500. To the grower of the second best stalk $250, third best $200, fourth $150, and numerous other prizes for the runners up scaling down to $5.00 for the last prize. In the possible event of a tie, duplicate awards will be made. The contest is open to every cotton grower, landlord or tenant, man, woman or child, in the territory named. There is only one condition to the contest. The entry must be selected from a field containing not less than one acre. The cotton when matured will be sent to the Agricultural Foundation at Atlanta and will be judged during the Southeastern Fair where it will be on exhibition during the judging period.

Another feature of the show will be the awarding of expense paid educational trips to the county agents and Smith Hughes Vocational Agriculture teachers whose efforts in the county are outstanding. To the four county agents in the territory named through whose efforts are sent in the largest and best number of entries there will be granted all-expense educational trips anywhere in the United States. Duplicate educational trips will be awarded to the Smith Hughes teachers who give evidence of the best work in community standardization of varieties by encouraging the growth of one or two varieties best adopted to the soil, climate and market conditions of their respective communities.

Similar shows, offering identical prizes, will be held about the same time in Dallas representing the Southwest and Memphis representing the Mid-South. The prize winning stalks in all three districts will be taken to Memphis during the Tri State Fair at which time the best stalk in the entire South will be awarded the capital prize of $1,000. This prize will be in addition to the regional prize.

"The interest that has been displayed since the radio announcement," declared Mr. Brackeen, "is very encouraging. We are going to broadcast cotton authorities and suggestions for entrants all during the growing season. From the number of letters from farmers who desire to enroll, the show is meeting with no little enthusiasm in the field."

GOV. GRAVES ESTABLISHES STATE FORESTS IN CLARKE

Montgomery, May 25.—Alabama now has two State Forests established by Governor Graves April 17. Both of these are in Clarke County, one comprising an area of 1280 acres and the other of 1920 acres.

While under general provisions of law, all State lands are designated as forest reserves, the only guarantee that may remain as such under forestry administration lies in the terms of the State Land Act passed by the recent session of the Legislature. Under this Act the State Commission of Forestry may file a list of lands to which the State has absolute title and which are chiefly valuable for timber growing purposes and, upon the approval of the Governor, such areas remain under the management of the Commission of State Forests.

Pursuant to these provisions, the Commission of Forestry examined and recommended Sections 21 and 28, Tp. 5 North, Range 2 East and Sections 21, 22 and 27, Township 7 North, Range 1 East. By virtue of the authority vested in him by the new law Governor Graves approved these selections and, subject to existing rights, the areas are now definitely segragated as permanent State Forests.

ALABAMA ADVANCES IN PECAN BUSINESS

Auburn, Ala., May 22.—In the production of pecans, Alabama is steadily forging to the front among the states in the Southeast. Likewise, Alabama is one of the leaders in marketing pecans on the cooperative plan. This information was made known by Clifton Kirkpatrick of Selma, who is president of the Alabama Pecan Growers Association and first vice-president of the National Pecan Growers Exchange, a cooperative marketing organization having headquarters at Albany, Ga. At the recent annual meeting of members of the Exchange in Albany, Mr. Kirkpatrick was re-elected.

Returning from the Alabama meeting Mr. Kirkpatrick said that the Exchangewas never in a better position than it is now. Due to the unusual marketing conditions caused by the largest crop ever made the Exchange carried over in cold storage 1,800,000 pounds of pecans of the 1926 crop. These were all sold during the 1927 season, the average price for all grades, including seedlings, being 23 cents per pound. And the Exchange sold all pecans of the 1927 crop, leaving none on hand to start the 1928 season.

Membership reports reveal that pecan growers are joining the Exchange continuously and that more new members are being received this spring than ever before at this season.

Mr. Kirkpatrick says that the present outlook is for a good pecan crop in Alabama this season. He explained, however, that future weather and other factors may upset the prospect.

MORE FERTILIZER BEING BOUGHT ON CO-OP PLAN

Auburn, Ala., May 22.—During the spring season just closedmembers of the Alabama Farm Bureau bought on the co-operative plan through their or- [illegible] en out by Edward A. O'Neal, pres- Montgomery. This figure compares with 58,379 tons in the spring of 1927, 73,215 in 1926; 81,763 in 1925; 68,000 in 1924; 39,00 in 1923.

As revealed by these figures it was by far the largest business for any one season. Farm Bureau officials say that it indicates the popularity of cooperative buying of fertilizer.

Meantime, officials of the college of agriculture at Auburn regard it as necessary a part of the scientific use of commercial fertilizer in Alabama. The Farm Bureau buys and recommends the use of fertilizers approved and ommended by the Experiment Station at Auburn. County agents direct farmers locally in the use of fertilizer so as to enable them to get maximum returns per dollar invested.

Most of the fertilizer bought on the cooperative plan was home-mixed as recommended by the Experiment Station and county agents. In this way the farmer uses the best fertilizer for his soil and thereby gets larger returns He puts science into the uses of commercial fertilizer because it is all based upon scientific experiments conducted by the Experiment Station atAuburn during the last 15 years.

The system is proving helpful to the fertilizer industry because it is causing the farmers to use more of it. And farmers are increasing their profits.

One way to help in farm forestry is to remove the crippled and stunted trees, giving the normal trees a better chance to grow.

It is estimated that the total value of the dairy industry in the United States in 1928 will be approximately three billion dollars.

Phosphate and potash are relatively cheap fertilizer elements without which nitrogen does not produce maximum results. Therefore, plenty of phosphate should be applied.

W. J. Armstrong, Well Known Citizen Meets Death By Suicide

W. J. Armstrong, age about 54, committed suicide at the home of J. W. E. Gulledge in South Clanton Wednesday afternoon just as the News goes on the press.

Mr. Gulledge stated that Mr. Armstrong, who was employed by the Post Office department, returned from his regular trip about noon, but complained of feeling bad, and did not eat but very little dinner. After sitting on the porch for a short while, Mr. Armstrong got up, went into the room where his niece, Mrs. L. E. Parrish was, and gave her a letter, requesting Mrs. Parrish to deliver the letter to his wife, whom Mr. Armstrong said would arrive in Clanton from Birmingham Wednesday afternoon. Little attention was paid to this by Mrs. Parrish, and soon after Mr. Armstrong entered his room, the report of a pistol was heard, and upon investigation, by members of the household, where Mr. Armstrong was boarding, he was found lying across the bed with a bullet wound through his head, the belief being that the deceased placed the gun into his mouth and fired the fatal shot.

The death of this prominent and well liked citizen was a great shock to the people of this entie section, for he has made his home here for a number of years and was well and favorably known throughuot the entire section.

The deceased was very active in church work, and was prominent in fraternal organizations. Yesterday he returned from Montgomery where he attended a convention held in that city of members of the Order of the Redmen.

Mr. Gulledge stated that Mr. Armstrong was very enthusiastic over the convention held in Montgomery, and spoke of the great future he saw for the order.

Mr. W. J. Armstrong had been connected with the post office department as mail carrier for almost thirty years, and at the time of his death was carying mail on Route 4.

In making his trip Wednesday Mr. Armstrong complained of feeling bad, and carried Chester Mims with him to assist in handling the mail, and it is reported that Mr. Armstrong complained several times of suffering from choking spells, and it is believed that ill health was the cause of his having ended his life Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

Hhe is survived by his wife, and three sons, Stewart, Jackson and Bill and numerous other relatives.

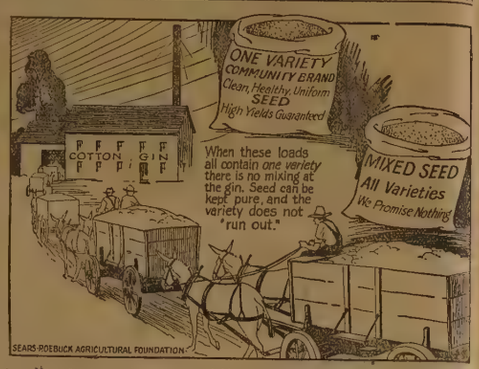
ONE-VARIETY COMMUNITIES, EASY WAY TO PRODUCE BETTER COTTON



ONE VARIETY COMMUNITY BRAND
Clean, Healthy, Uniform SEED
High Yields Guaranteed
COTTON GIN
When these loads all contain one variety there is no mixing at the gin. Seed can be kept pure, and the variety does not "run out."
MIXED SEED
All Varieties
We Promise Nothing
SEARS-ROEBUCK AGRICULTURAL FOUNDATION

No way to produce larger yields per acre of better cotton which will command higher prices can be applied so easily and cheaply as the method of growing one variety in a community, says the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

It is virtually impossible for the individual farmer to maintain pure seed owing to the unavoidable mixing of seed that takes place at the public gins. It has been shown that as much as one-fourth of the seed delivered to a farmer may be seed of a different variety from the preceding customer's crop. Owing to this inevitable mixing of varieties, crossing in the fields takes place and the cotton "runs out," compelling the farmer to go outside the community for fresh seed.

This "running out" is accompanied by deterioration in the length of staple of which both domestic and foreign buyers complain. As a result, it is becoming increasingly difficult to obtain large lots of even running cotton of good length, and a high percentage of the American crop must compete with the short staple cotton of India and China. Those countries probably can produce such cotton at lower cost than American growers.

The demand for better cotton has been increasing while the average quality of the cotton produced has been declining. Today the mills want cotton of a higher average grade and staple length than that of the American crop, according to studies made by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Varieties of early, prolific cotton, of 1 to 1 3-16 inch staple, have been developed, so that there is little excuse for growing cotton under 1 inch in length in most parts of the United States. While a larger number of communities have organized to produce one variety in recent years, reliable observers have estimated that about 90 per cent of the seed planted is mixed gin run, the Foundation states.

Aside from the fact that organizing to produce cotton on a one-variety community basis makes it possible to produce larger yields of superior cotton per acre, the quantity grown in this way becomes large enough so that buyers will pay full commercial value for it. Usually they will not do this when only a few bales of superior grade are offered in communities where most of the crop is inferior short-linted cotton.

That the standardization of varieties may be brought out in the National Cotton Show the Agricultural Foundation together with the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association have set aside twelve educational trips for Smith Hughes Teachers. To the twelve Vocational Agriculture Teachers who give evidence of the best community development along one or two variety lines, there will be awarded expense paid educational trips anywhere in the country.

DURING 1927, the steam railroads of the United States paid in State, County and Federal taxes the highest proportion of their revenues ever recorded in any one year.

As shown in the graph above, of every $100.00 received by the carriers during 1927, $6.13 was paid out in taxes; whereas in 1912 but $3.90 from each $100.00 was required for taxes—an increase in the aggregate amount paid of more than $271,000,000.00, or about 247% during the past 15 years.

In 1912, the daily tax bill of American Railroads was $298,000.00; whereas in 1927, more than $1,000,000.00 a day was paid by the carriers for the support of schools, institutions, governmental expenses and other tax requirements. Again, in 1926, and for the fifth successive year, the taxes paid by the American Railroads exceeded the amount of cash dividends received by their stockholders.

Railway taxes constitute one element in the cost of producing transportation today over which the railroad management has absolutely no control. Over the things that can be measurably controlled, such as economy and efficiency in operation, a remarkable improvement has been made. As an indication, notwithstanding the vastly greater and improved public service rendered by the railroads, they have, since the end of Federal control in 1920, reduced the direct operating costs by more than $1,200,000,000.00, or 20%. Against these economies, however, the railroad taxes—in the same period and without any commensurate increase in the investment—have increased by over $108,000,000.00, or 40%.

CHEVROLET HEAD TAKES NEW SLANT ON USED CAR

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—An entirely new slant on the used car elevating it to its rightful place in the industry, was taken here by R. H. Grant, vice-president in charge of sales of the Chevrolet Motor Company, in an interview just prior to sailing for a month's trip to Europe.

As evidence of the growing importance of the used car, Mr. Grant pointed out that during the first quarter of 1928, when the Chevrolet dealer organization was moving 250,000 new cars, it also was delivering at retail more than 200,000 used cars.

This was made possible by a changing attitude toward the used car on the part of both the automobile dealer and the public, Mr. Grant said.

"Where the automobile dealer formerly paid little attention to the used car," Mr. Grant declared, "the proportion of used car to new car sales has mounted so high that used cars are now an important part of his business. Today, practically all the direct dealers in the Chevrolet organization have Ducoing equipment with which they refinish used cars in a manner similar to the factory. Cars are gone over from head light to tail lamp by skilled mechanics trained in approved factory methods. The reconditioned cars bear an 'O. K. Tag' showing that every vital part has been checked. They are then displayed attractively, and lenient time payments are made available to the purchaser.

"The public owes directly to the used car the wide range of prices at which transportation may be purchased, and the wide variety of models from which selection may be made. If there were no such thing as a trade-in price, the owner of an automobile, instead of turning it into a new model, would drive it himself, until the usefulness of it was spent, just as he now uses his furniture or his farm or garden implements. There would consequently be no used car mart for the man who wants to buy a car at less than the new car cost. Millions of present motorists who were attracted by used car prices would not now own automobiles if there had been no used car market.

"Our dealers know that the used car buyer of today is the new car buyer of tomorrow. They are anxious to satisfy him because it means future business. By reason of the unprecended demand for the Bigger and Better Chevrolet, our dealers have a better variety of used cars than ever before —cars that are better serviced, better finished and that represent better values.

There is every indication that our used car turnover this year will establish a new high record even though both our new and used car sales are bigger than ever before during the season of the year."

Dr. Knapp of Auburn Sees State Progress

Makes First Convention Talk Since Being Elected New Head of A. P. I.

Auburn, Ala., May 28.—In his first address before a State convention in Alabama since he was elected president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Dr. Bradford Knapp told the bankers of the State at their meeting in Mobile that the road to permanent prosperity in Alabama is through the further development of both agriculture and industry. The road to such development is through education, he declared.

Dr. Knapp had addressed small groups of Auburn alumni and friends at different points in the State but this was his first convention address—to bankers inviting him soon after he was elected to the position at Auburn. His subject was "A Sound Economic Program for Alabama." He declared that industry is coming rapidly to Alabama.

Dr. Knapp lamented the fact that Alabama is as yet too much a raw-product state. He said that any state which ships out only raw products and buys back finished products is at a disadvantage because it sells raw products at wholesale and buys finished products at retail which means that part of the cost of transportation, manufacture and distribution go to other states.

He pointed out also that the producer of a raw product receives only about 20 cents of the consumer's dollar paid for the product in finished form. The next 40 cents cover cost and profits from time of sale of the raw product though the process of manufacture; and the remaining 40 cents cover the process of distribution including wholesale and retailing. Using these figures, he declared that if Alabama would adopt a policy of buying out finished products instead of raw products the people of the State would retain 60 cents of every dollar the consumer pays for Alabama products instead of 20 cents.

TWO CARS BADLY DAMAGED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION HERE

Last Sunday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cook of Selma and two negroes, John Burdette and son, figured in a head-on collision on the Birmingham-Montgomery highway here.

The negro was driving a Nash automobile and was enroute to Montgomery when the other car, a Chrysler, driven by Mrs. Cook, collided with it while attempting to pass a wagon, it is stated.

Both cars were badly damaged, although none of the occupants of either were injured. Both drivers were arrested and charged with collision. The negro was tried in Mayor's Court the following Monday morning, and was not guilty. Trial for the other will be held next Monday, June 4.

RUSSELL VINSON, NEGRO, CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

The Mayor's Court last Monday morning Russell Vinson, negro, was tried on a charge of assault and battery on another negro. Vinson plead guilty and was fined, being given twenty-four one-half days of hard labor on the road.

New Cotton Mill Site Scene of Much Activity

Work on Cottages Rapidly Progressing; To Begin On Plant Soon

Work on the new cotton mill and village now under construction here is rapidly progressing, and the site is now beginning to look like a real village.

Several of the dwellings are nearing completion, and the streets are taking on the appearance of a city. The buildings to be used as dwellings are modern and will be an attractive feature of the cotton mill village.

The actual construction of the mill has not yet begun, though the site has been levelled down, and work on the foundation is to begin within a very short time. While actual construction of the mills has been underway at other cities for some time, the building of dwellings has not yet advanced as far in other cities as on the local project. The contractors are endeavoring to work the different units whereby crews can be moved from one town to another and thus keep the construction work about even in all ten towns.

The mill at Aliceville was damaged considerably last week when the steel framing of the cotton mill was struck by lightning. We understand that the crew of steel workers engaged in the work of erecting the mill there are to be transfered here when the mill has been erected there.

Mr. Cook, a member of the firm of Batson-Cook Company of West Point, Ga., who have the contract for the construction of the buildings now being erected, spent a part of last week here looking over the properties.

Mr. G. M. Crusselle, resident engineer for Robert-Cook Co., architects and engineers, states that he is highly pleased with the progress being made.

SEVERAL PERSONS TRIED FOR VIOLATING TRAFFIC RULE

Last Monday morning several cases were tried in Mayor's Court for violation of the traffic rules here. Most of the charges were for driving past the "stop" signals, that have recently been placed on the streets of Clanton.

A fine was placed on the alleged violators of the traffic rule, and Chief of Police Boockholdt, stated that they have given the people sufficient time to become accustomed to the new rules, and that he intends to enforce them hereafter. So it would pay automobilists to take a little more precaution and obey these new rulings.

Mrs. Bruner will be employed as a teacher again also. She is very popular and is loved by the students. She is active in all the social affairs of the school.

SAMPLE COPY OF THE NEWS

A great many of the people of Chilton County have not had the pleasure of reading a copy of the Chilton County News, especially since the new management took charge in January 1927. Hwever, we are taking it upon ourselves to send a sample copy to every box holder in the county, both post office and rural routes, and hope that the people will read and study the paper from every angle.

Our aim and intention is to publish a clean, newsy, weekly paper, and though we now have a circulation that is far above the average weekly paper, we are anxious to increase it still, and will not be contented until a copy goes to every home in the county each week.

In this issue will be found some valuable information, and many illustrations that will be looked back on within a few years with no small degree of delight, so we would suggest that you preserve this issue of the News for future reference and to look back on for proof of progress made as the years go by.

With the regular subscribers and extra papers sent out this week, it is estimated that over 30,000 people will read this issue of the News.

In the pages of this issue will be found photographs of many schools, churches, and other public buildings. We were anxious to have a picture of every school building in the county but circumstances prevented us getting many of them.

The merchants, business and professional men and the citizens in general have aided us in no small way in the publishing of this issue of the News. Some have aided in a financial way, while others aided by giving information and co-operation, and we wish to express our thanks for each favor shown us. We acknowledge with thanks, the co-operation of the Union Banner and the Alabama Sportsman

AUBURN ADVISES PLANTING OF MORE SOYBEANS

Auburn, Ala., May 28.—Among the crops which have become of more than minor importance in Alabama in recent years is the soybean. It has established itself chiefly as a hay crop but to some extent for soil improvement and also as a crop for inter-planting with corn to be consumed in the field by hogs in the fall, thereby finishing them for market.

And the college of agriculture at Auburn recommends further expansion of the soybean industry. It is one of the best crops for hay. It grows well throughout the State and in feeding value soybean hay is practically equal to alfalfa hay. The chief difference is due to the fact that a part of the soybean hay is too coarse to be consumed.

For work stock as well as for dairy cows, soybean hay is excellent. Dairymen who produce their own hay have found the soybean very desirable. As yet it is not established as a commercial hay but it is probable that this will be done within the next few years Already a few dairymen near Birmingham are feeding soybean hay from Alabama farms. Where it was standardized and of good quality they are well pleased with it.

There are several good varieties of soybeans and farmers who are uncertain as to which to plant should consult their county agents.

Board Condemns Local School Building

Calls For New Building, But Unwilling To Go Fifty-Fifty

The following letter has been received by Mr. M. A. Gore, a member of the board of trustees of the Clanton Grammar School, and is self explanatory in many ways:

Mr. M. A. Gore,
Chairman Clanton School Board,
Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

At a meeting of the county board of education held Friday, May 25th, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"Mr. Webb moved that on the recommendation of the County Superintendent of Education that the Clanton Gammmar School building be condemned as unfit for use as a school building and that the trustees be notified that the County Board is unwilling to operate school in the said building any longer.

Mr. Robinson seconded the motion. Motion carried by unanimous vote."

I trust that in view of the above condition at the Grammar School you will be able to take such steps as to enable us to operate a school in the town of Clanton next year. The County Board is willing to co-operate with you in every way possible and to this end they have authorized an appropriation of $12,000.00 from district funds to be used in erecting a building when the town has raised a minimum of $20,000.00 in cash or negotiable instruments.

Assuring you of my co-operation in helping you to provide adequately for the children of Clanton, I am,

Yours very truly,

The Mexican Bean Beetle and Its Control

County Agent C. E. Stapp Advises Farmers How To Combat Pest

(By C. E. Stapp)

Six to fourteen days are required for beetle eggs to hatch. During mid-summer weather about five days are required for the eggs to hatch the total period of development from egg to adult requires about thirty-three days.

The beetles eat from the time they are hatched to their death, and they eat on the under side of the leaves, making it necessary to dust or spray the under side of the bean leaves to control them.

Quite a few farmers say that there is no control for the bean beetle, while many other farmers say they can control them all right.

The secret of success in controlling the bean beetle, like all other insects, lies in the time of application of the poison and in using poison of the right ingredients mixed in proper proportion Because of the burning effect of Paris Green and Arsenate of Lead on the bean plant, they cannot be used.

There are several other commercial mixtures on the market for bean beetle control. You may use one of these commercially—prepared mixtures, or make your own mixture, but in either case, follow directions closely.

One of the following sprays may be used effectively at the rate of about 100 gallons per acre:

Magnesium Arsenate Spray—2 lbs. Magnesium Arsenate (fresh), Water, 100 gallons, for large areas. For small areas use 1 oz. Magnesium Arsenate (fresh), and 3 gallons water.

Calcium Arsenate Spray—For large areas use 1 1-2 lbs. Calcium Arsenate. (fresh), 3 lbs. lime and 100 gallons of water. For small areas use: 3-4 oz. Calcium Arsenate, 1 1-2 lbs. lime and 3 gallons water.

One of the following dusts may be successfully applied at the rate of 12 to 15 lbs. per acre:

Magnesium Arsenate Dust—Magnesium Arsenate (fresh), 1 part and Hydrated lime, 3 parts.

Calcium Arsenate, Sulphur and lime Dust— Calcium Arsenate (fresh), 1 part; Fine dusting sulphur, 1 part; Hydrated lime, 4 parts.

If either of the above named formulas is properly applied to the under side of the leaves every six or seven days, little damage will be caused by the beetle.

FIVE AND TEN CENT STORE ADDITION BEING RUSHED

The addition to the building occupied by the V. J. Elmore 5c, 10c and $1.00 Store on Main Street is nearing completion, and the management announces that they expect to occupy the new addition within the next few days.

This gives the above store just double the floor space they have occupied in the past, and will enable them to carry a much larger stock of goods in the future.

The building is owned by Dr. Napoleon Johnson, and while it is only one story high, foundation was laid for an additional story, shoul the owner decide for another addition in the future. The addition was erected under the supervision of Mr. Wess Danforth.

STEWART ARMSTRONG ACTING AS MAIL CARRIER ON ROUTE 4

Stewart Armstrong, son of the late Will Armstrong, who ended his life last Wednesday by shooting himself, has been temporarily appointed as mail carrier on Route 4.

Stewart was the regular bonded substitute for his father's route and will continue to handle the mail on this route until the department sees fit to make other appointments.

We have been informed that it is now the policy of the department to consolidate routes when possible, thereby giving men employed on the routes more income, but whether this route will be consolidated, or an examination held and a regular carrier appointed is not known at this time.

Years of Service in Model T Fords

Expenditure of few dollars may enable you to get thousands of miles from your old car

THE Model T Ford is still a great car. It led the motor industry for twenty years and it is used today by more people than any other automobile. More than eight million Model T Fords are in active service in city, town and country, and many of them can be driven for two, three and five years and even longer at very small up-keep expense.

The cost of Model T parts and of necessary labor is unusually low because of established Ford policies.

New fenders, for instance, cost from $3.50 to $5 each, with a labor charge of $1 to $2.50. Tuning up the motor and replacing commutator case, brush and vibrator points costs only $1, with a small charge for material. Brake shoes can be installed and emergency brakes equalized for a labor charge of only $1.25. A labor charge of $4 to $5 will cover the overhauling of the front axle, rebushing springs and spring perches, and straightening, aligning and adjusting wheels.

The labor charge for overhauling the average rear axle runs from $5.75 to $7. Grinding valves and cleaning carbon can be done for $3 to $4.

A set of four new pistons costs only $7. For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. Parts are extra.

All of these prices are approximate, of course, because the cost of materials needed will depend on the condition of each car. They show, however, the low cost of putting the Model T Ford in shape for thousands of miles of additional service.

See the nearest Ford dealer, therefore, and have him estimate on the cost of re-conditioning your Model T Ford. He will tell you, in advance, exactly how much the complete job will cost.

UPSET

With Stomach Spells

"I have taken Black-Draught ever since I was a child, and can recommend it as a splendid medicine for family use," says Mrs. Cora Maberry, of Sageeyah, Okla. "My mother used it, in bringing up her family, and after I had a home of my own, I continued to use it, as I thought it was good to give the children.

"My children did not mind taking Black-Draught, and so when they got upset with stomach spells, or were constipated, I gave them Black-Draught tea.

"They are all grown now and have homes of their own, but I still keep Black-Draught in the house and use it myself when I wake up in the morning feeling dull and 'headachey', and have a bad taste in my mouth."

In use over 87 years. Price 25c.

THE ESSENCE OF CONTINUED SOUND GOVERNMENT

"Faith in the ability of the people collectively to make sane orderly plans for the future, is the very essence of continued national existence. We must lurching back and forth from one desired expenditure of money to another, and like grown men and women, learn to stick to proportion and to plan," says Albert W. Atwood in the Saturday Evening Post.

QUEER REASONING

An ordinary citizen who infringes on the law by parking his car in the wrong place or exceeding the speed limit, is summarily dealt with, fined, and made to feel that he is an undesirable character and lucky to be out of the penitentiary

On the other hand, an honest-to-goodness crook who helped steal the $500,000,000 worth of loot that was taken from property owners last year, is treated in a manner which permits and encourages the continuance of these thefts.

It is even difficult to secure the passage of legislation which interferes with the business of "fences" (the receivers and sellers of stolen property)

SALVAGE THE OLD ROADS

With an automobile owned by practically every family in the land, the problem of good roads is an intensely local issue in every community. State highways cannot be built around every farm but every farmer must get to the through roads.

Old roads upon which money has been spent for grading and graveling, cannot be recklessly "scrapped" without tremendous loss to the taxpayers. How to protect the old worn-out rock surface and save the well-packed foundation for further use, has been a considerable problem.

Today, however, methods have been developed for widening and resurfacing these old roads or broken-down narrow pavements with two inches or more of asphaltic concrete, thereby saving the old road investment and giving rural communities hundreds of miles of smooth hardsurfaced highways at a price they can afford to pay.

"Salvage the old roads" should become a slogan of every rural section.

A NATIONAL JOKE

It is impossible to figure what Muscle Shoals has cost the taxpayers. Few persons know just how many years it has been kicked around Congress. It anyone tried to figure up the time which the paid servants of the American people in the House of Representatives and the Senate have wasted on the question, the value of the lost time charged against the public pay roll would be astounding.

For political purposes Muscle Shoals has been magnified into a national issue, when in reality it is just one ordinary power project similar to many which are built and operated by private companies all over the United States.

Muscle Shoals is a typical example of what happens to an industry which becomes bogged in the quagmire of politics—the taypayers lose, the country looses and private development is discouraged with resulting loss and detriment to territory affected.

CONSERVATION IN HOME AND IN THE FACTORY

The waste of natural resources, the effects on life and property resulting from the use of coal and other raw fuels, has encouraged the gas industry to substitute its product for the chimneys of urban domestic and industrial communities.

Each succeeding year will undoubtedly witness the steadily widening availability of gas fuel, both as a result of the gas companies' initiative and of the desire for clean and economical heating service in the home and in industries.

WORLD EVENTS BY TELEPHONE

Most of us do not appreciate the great work of the telephone in handling important events, and its share in news dissemination.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, which covers the Republican and Democratic convention cities, already has skilled workers busy constructing and rearranging long distance lines to handle the increased demands for service that will result from the two national political conventions to be held at Houston and Kansas City in June.

The Kansas City convention will require about 30 new circuits to adequately handle the calls. Work is being done on the same scale for the Houston convention.

We are oblidged to the telephone for much of the news we receive, immediately on its happening, whether it be sporting events or presidential nominations. It has become so integral a part of modern business and private life that we cannot imagine the difficulties which would ensue were we to be suddenly without it.

YOUR INTEREST IN "THE OTHER FELLOW"

No business today, regardless of how thoroughly it may be intrenched in the progress and prosperity of the country, can stand alone or fall alone. A loss of efficiency in one industry not only hurts that enterprise itself but slows up every other key industry, shaking the credit foundations of the nation and causing unemployment, low-or wages and eventually higher prices. The link between all industries therefore, must be particularly close and dependent. The closer the relationship becomes, the greater the efficiency and progress that can be developed until we have an inter-relationship of all business life that is the backbone of the nation's progress.

Highlights of Chilton County's History and Strides of Progress

Indications Of Future Prosperity and Development. Industrial Opportunities, Poultry and Truck Farming, Churches, Schools and Social Advantages

It would be a pleasing diversion for the historian to tell how De Soto crossed the county of Chilton and camped near the present site of Verbena. That narrative makes interesting reading and has but one defect, which is that not a word of it is true. Peter A. Brannon, of the State Department of Archives and History and other authorities on the travels of the Spanish explorer which ended with his burial in the Mississippi river, which he discovered, never came within 50 miles of that point in the present county of Chilton.

Chilton County's history is made up of relatively small incidents. The annals of that geographical and political subdivision of Alabama record no great battles upon its soil, no outstanding event of world importance. They tell rather of the struggle of a courageous people against the handicap of many years of isolation through lack of roads and other means of transportation; their efforts to combat the evils of illiteracy, to establish schools and churches, to build towns and homes. One must look for Chilton's great achievements in the near future, instead of in the past.

That section of the hilly country west of the Coosa river was originally the hunting ground of the Upper Creek Indians. Their towns were chiefly on the Coosa county—east side of the river. West of the stream were the wooded hills where deer, bear and smaller game were hunted in due season, where numerous creeks afforded good fishing and refuge for beavers, valued for their meat and pelt. The Indian, on his own hunting ground, was a conservationist, rarely killing game during its breeding seasons. The territory reserved for hunting was often used in common by numerous tribes, that recognized a truce from tribal wars when their hunting parties met upon these reservations.

There were Indian villages along Mulberry creek, and the mound builders left their monuments at various points, the largest of which may still be seen about 1 1-2 miles southeast of Thorsby.

Pioneers from the Carolinas, Virginia and Georgia came with their negro slaves in 1833 and established permanent settlements, chiefly along Big Mulberry creek and other streams in the Coastal Plain areas of the county. Corn and wheat were grown in quantities for local use and ground at numerous mills operated by water power along the streams. Whenever the land became worn out by the crude and wasteful farming methods of those days, new forests were deadened, cleared and planted, while the old fields were used for grazing sheep and cattle and soon were covered with second growth timber.

Before the war between the sections freed the slaves, cotton became the staple crop of that region and some of the plantations contained from 1,000 to 5,000 acres. After the close of the war most of the large plantations were broken up and a new system of agriculture was gradually developed, though cotton has remained the chief crop.

Forests of long-leaf and short-leaf pine covered the greater part of the land and the first industries were the manufacture of lumber and naval stores. Logging and lumbering became the later occupation of many of the small farmers. When the railroads came, larger tracts of timber were soon removed and sawn into lumber at several large sawmills in different parts of the county.

Chilton County Established

Bibb, Autauga, Perry and Shelby counties lost portions of their territory when the legislature carved out of these four the present boundaries of Chilton county, on December 30, 1866. When first established the new political body was given the name of Baker county, for Alfred Baker, a prominent citizen of the Autauga section. On December 17, 1871 it was changed by act of the legislature and named in honor of Judge William Chilton, chief justice of the supreme court and former member of the Confederate Congress, who in he represented the Montgomery district.

The act of establishment named Reuben Powell, Anderson Baker, William [illegible], E. Ward and John Pernell as commissioners to hold an election, locate a county seat, build a court house and jail, and levy a tax to pay for these evidences of civilization and government. The first county seat of Chilton county was at Grantville, about four miles east of the present county seat of Clanton. The old building was made of logs. It had [illegible] room, about 16 x 20 feet. [illegible] have been a jail, also, though [illegible] is made of such [illegible] far discovered [illegible] first officers were Mordecai Robertson, probate judge, and Thomas H. Williams, sheriff. Both were commissioned in 1869.

The town of Clanton was laid out in 1872 and was named for the Confederate General James Holt Clanton, a native of Georgia and long a prominent figure in political life of Alabama. A more imposing courthouse was built of lumber [illegible] the new county seat and served [illegible] until it was burned [illegible] th and North rail[illegible] became the Lo[illegible] hed the p[illegible] in 1870.

[illegible] 12, on the Coosa river about 12 from Clanton, was one of the western part of the county, giving transportation to the markets of Birmingham and Selma. A branch of the Mobile & Ohio railroad crosses the Southern at Maplesville.

The pure air and a moderate summer climate is due in part to the high elevation of the greater part of Chilton county. North of Clanton about 6 1-2 miles, is an elevation arising about 830 feet above sea level, known as Jemison [illegible] Near that point is said to be the highest elevation of the L. & N. road south of the Tennessee river. The county is shown by Government survey to have an average eleva[illegible] first of the giant hydro-electrical power plants completed in Alabama by the Alabama Power Company. Some years later Mitchell Dam was completed further south. The Power company is by far the largest tax payer in the county by reason of these plants and other improvements and a good part of the prosperity and development of the county within recent years is due to expenditures made for construction and other purposes by the big corporation.

Strawberries, poultry raising and diversified farming have also contributed to improve the income and general prosperity of this section, though cotton remains the chief money crop. The county produced and shipped about 20,000 bales of the staple in 1926 and almost as many with a shorter crop the following year. Indications are favorable to a large acreage in cotton for the present year. The strawberry crop was valued at $58,000 for the year 1926. ALABAMA!

Nearly two generations ago some far-visioned men foresaw an industrial development in Alabama of the first magnitude. That was before the days of the United States Steel Corporation, the Alabama Power Company and similar business building enterprises, and the pioneer of the Enoch Ensley type at times experienced many difficulties.

Today Alabama and its chief city, Birmingham, look into the future with every confidence. Steel is being produced there at probably less cost than at any other point in America. Water transportation to ship side in the Gulf has been made available. Hydro-electric power is now opening the eyes of an intensely industrial nation to new and as yet almost wholly undiscounted industrial possibilities in Alabama.

The mineral resources of Alabama are more than abundant. In iron ore alone the state is better supplied than any other known region in North America. Probably a thousand years' supply exists there. Coal and limestone are equally abundant.

Able to supply steel and cement, and to turn the wheels of industry—all at less than the average cost elsewhere—Alabama is blessed to an uncommon extent.

Agriculturally, the potentiality of Alabama equals that of any other temperate zone region.

In the generations to come Alabama will sell more at a profit and buy less at a loss than other states and, should it plan well, may enjoy a long life of economic comfort and ease.

Interesting History and Future Prospects of Clanton and Vicinity

Diversified Agriculture, Improved Highways, Excellent Citizenship, Water Powers and Invitation Extended To Home Builders and Investors

Diversified agriculture has made great strides fosward within the past ten years and its progress is assured by the cooperation given progressive farmers by far sighted banks and business people, generally. The work of the boys' clubs is educating and training a new generation to better production in the fields of general farming, poultry and livestock raising and in the growing of berries and other sure fire money crops. Taken all the way round, the prospect for tillers of the soil and those engaged in kindred industries was never so bright in all of Chilton county's history

The first cooperative carload shipment of poultry from the county was made April 11 and 12, when a poultry car was loaded at Clanton, Verbena, Maplesville and Jemison and 15,000 pounds of chickens, geese, guineas and turkeys were shipped by fast freight to New York. The record shows that 7,176 pounds of these birds were loaded at Clanton.

The entire deal was made through the Farm Bureau Federation. Farmers were paid cash for their fowls according to their weight. This was done through cooperation of the state and county farm bureau, which sold to the Tennessee Egg Company for shipment to New York. The producers received more than $3,000 for this one carload, and C. E. Stapp, county agent, who was in charge of the transaction, gave assurance of a carload of "culls" soon to be made up at the same points, to relieve local and nearby markets of the danger of a surplus.

Large as these shipments may appear to be, they do not check egg production to an appreciable extent, as they are made up largely from "culls" taken from the numerous poultry yards, which find it an economy to market the poor layers and surplus males. The crop from this county in 1927 was 75 cars, and this year it is expected to reach 125 carloads. The Thorsby Fruit Growers Association and the Clanton Berry Gowers Association will handle the greater part of the crop.

Watermelons are becoming more and more a mid-season money crop for Chilton County farmers and the prospects are for a big acreage this year. FOSHEE-CALLOWAY MOTOR CO.

While the Foshee-Calloway Motor Company is comparatively a new company in Clanton, it numbers among its membership and salesmen some of the pioneers in automotive salesmanship in Chilton County.

The Foshee-Calloway Motor Company is the only agent in this county for the celebrated Willys-Knight and Overland Whippet cars. Mr. L. E. Foshee and his partner, Mr. J. N. Calloway, could have had the choice of numerous agencies, but they selected the Willys Knight and Whippet as giving the widest range of cars particularly suited to the various needs of this section of the country. Mr. Foshee has had long experience in selling motor vehicles to Chilton county people, and his brother, Mr. J. S. Foshee, salesman, is said to be the oldest auto salesman in the county in point of service in that capacity.

Whippet and Willys Knight service, repairs, parts and accessories are an important part of this firm's business. Their mechanics know their cars from the ground up, and are prepared to give expert service thereon. The company carries a complete line of parts and accessories. While well prepared to work on autos of other makes, they make a specialty of keeping the kinds of cars they sell in the best possible condition. This kind of service is an added inducement for buying their cars.

The Foshee-Calloway Motor Company carries a complete stock of Fisk Tires, than which there is no better or more satisfactory to the buyer on the American market.

Whippet "96" Four-Door Sedan

Both Mr. Foshee and Mr. Calloway are natives of this county. They were reared here and are known to the people. Their guarantee goes with the motor vehicles and tires they sell, and it is good as a government bond.

Willys-Knight Standard Six

Speaking of some of the outstanding qualities of the Willys Knight motor, Mr. Foshee said:

"Now, for the first time, the important advantages of the patented Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine—its silence, its velvet smoothness, its surging power, its marked economy, its easy starting, and its simple, trouble-free design—are brought to the low-priced Six field.

"The new Standard Six possesses the qualities that Willys-Knight stands for in beauty, luxury, performance and stamina. Presenting this distinctive car at so moderate a cost as to place it comfortably within the reach of countless new buyers, marks an achievement resulting from fourteen years' experience in developing and perfecting the Knight-engined car—the one American car whose power principle has been adopted by European designers.

The supremacy of the Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine is a matter of general knowledge—not only to hundreds of thousands of enthusiastic owners, but to leading engineers as well. It is only today, after nearly a decade and a half of ceaseless experiments, and with greatly improved and increased manufacturing facilities, that we have reached our goal of incorporating this exclusive engine in a low-priced six-cylinder Willys-Knight.

The Foshee-Calloway Motor Company sales rooms and service department is on 6th Street, one-half block from the courthouse. They love to talk about the cars they sell and welcome all visitors.

In the opinion of many automotive engineers, there is nothing in the light, low-priced car class that can compare with the Whippet for fuel economy, appearance and performance. In a recent test under the auspicies of the American Automobile Association, a stock Whippet was driven from Los Angeles to New York on 82 1-2 gallons of gasoline, averaging 43.28 miles per gallon. This spectular run is shown to have shattered all previous records.

UPCHURCH DRUG COMPANY

One of the largest and Most Complete Retail Drug Houses in Alabama

It takes a fisherman to understand the needs of those who fish for sport. It takes a sportsman, in the true sense of the word, to know the various requirements of other sportsmen in his own line of outdoor sports. Others may get things most right, but the man who knows by practical experience and application, gets 'em just right.

When Mr. E. E. Upchurch, of the Upchurch Drug Company started out to supply Clanton and the territory round about with the most complete line of fishing tackle and equipment needed by fishermen and campers he was on familiar ground, for he has fished the waters of this territory for a number of years, that being his favorite outdoor sport.

The Alabama Power Company built Lock 12, about a dozen miles from Clanton, backing the bright waters of the Coosa river up into the creeks and rivers of Chilton County on the north and east and created some of the most attractive fresh-water fishing places to be found anywhere. Then the government came along and supplied from its fish hatcheries many thousands of young bass, locally called "trout." They may call it what they please, but it is one of the gamest fishes that swims in southern streams, grows to good fighting size and is one of the very best for eating purposes.

Later the Power Company built Mitchell Dam, further down the river, and these two improvements give Chilton county as much good fishing waters as any other county in the state, scarcely even excepting the coast counties of Mobile and Baldwin. All of the streams on the east including the Coosa united in the lakes behind the dams, and created a fisherman's paradise.

Gradually the people in the surrounding country who love to fish for pastime began to revise their methods, and to go after the game varieties with rod, reel, artificial minnows and flies. The bait casting rod and the fly casting outfit came into use, and the Upchurch Drug Company began about the same time to supply this demand.

In some of the large cities there may be larger stocks of fishing tackle; but it is doubted if one of them carries a stock as well selected with reference to the requirements of these waters. It is a known fact that fish of the same varieties respond differently to the various baits and lures in different streams and surroundings. Bass, bream, crappie, and perch are the principal scale fish of this section, and the men who have studied them know how to catch them in due season.

Upchurch Drug Company sells fishing rods at from $1.25 to $25 each and there is almost as much range in the value and price of their reels. Shakespeare level wind reels, Pfleuger's variously assorted line and others of standard make are there, together with four or five lines of artificial baits and lures, including the famous South Bend tackle. Cuttyhunk and Shakespeare lines of various size and strength, and the enameled silk casting line for bait casting.

With the good fishing, came the camper. Many Alabama fishermen, and a growing number from other states, and numerous clubs, now own fishing camps along the river or streams that flow into it, and the Upchurch Drug Company early started out to supply their special needs; camp stoves, camp lanterns, flash lights, Kodaks and finishing, thermos [illegible] thermo jugs, and can now [illegible] a short advance notice, [illegible] boats and outboard mot-

All good fisherman smoke, and the company is prepared to supply smokes to suit the taste of the individual, by the box, carton, or in smaller quantities. The United Cigar Stores lines have recently been added to the already large assortment carried, which gives to many city smokers the brands to which they are accustomed.

City Store in the Country

It must not be inferred from the foregoing statements that the Upchurch Drug Company is not what the name indicates. It is essentially and primarily a DRUG STORE, and is known from the Florida line to Tennessee along the main highway as "A CITY DRUG STORE IN THE COUNTRY." Travelers come to the store to see about- it. In many in many instances the UPCHURCH signs along the orad are the tourist's first introduction to the Capital of Chilton.

It is a "REXALL" store and also carries the "NYAL" line of preparations and articles, and a very complete line of standard medicines, toilet articles, perfumes and sundries.

Mr. Upchurch is a registered pharmacist and prescriptions invariably receive the attention of a registered pharmacist in that store.

Home folks and travelers have discovered that the large line of candies carried is kept cool and fresh. These include Whitman's, Nunnally's and other standard confections.

Nationally advertised items carried include Waterman and also Schaeffer fountain pens, and many other items of "The kind you have always bought". The store is also the text book dispensary here, and is well stocked with school supplies.

Soda Fountain Attractive

Being located on the corner of the principle street of Clanton and the Montgomery-Birmingham highway, the traveling public has long since acquired the habit of dropping in at this near-half-way station for a cool drink at the Upchurch soda fountain, where due attention is paid both to the quality of the things served and to sanitation in service.

Many metropolitan jewelry stores do not carry a better assorted stock of jewelry and silverware than does the Upchurch Drug Company, which has also, by careful buying and close selling, developed a local market for diamonds.

Mr. E. E. Upchurch has literally built his business from the ground up, and has done his full share for building up the town of Clanton at the same time. He started business here in 1903; which in October this year will be 25 years of continuous service. He has seen the city grow from a wide place in the road with a wooden courthouse and frame business houses, churches and schools and mud streets, to a small city of permanent buildings, paved streets, a hospital and other evidences of civic consciousness and pride.

Mr. Upchurch has been president of the First National Bank since its organization, and has been one of the leaders in other progressive community enterprises, including the new cotton mill, for which a site has been selected and engineers' plans are now being drawn, at the instance of a citizens' committee, of which Mr. Upchurch is a member.

A [illegible] as busy as is Mr. Upchurch [illegible] orily take some time off [illegible] n and he just naturally [illegible] as one of the most healthful, interesting and beneficial of all manly sports. Even the highly educated bass or "trout" might feel a reasonable pride in being caught on Upchurch Drug Company tackle; or at least it has a good excuse for getting caught.

CLIMATE OF CHILTON COUNTY IS A BIG ASSET

"Chilton County is favored with a climate that admits of the profitable cultivation of a very wide range of crops. The staple products of both the North and South can be grown. Fruits and vegetables of all kinds thrive, and the winters are so mild that some crops make growth the year round."

A table in the same publication shows that the mean annual temperature is 63.2 degrees, F. Mean annual precipitation, 47.18 inches, and that extremes of heat and cold, wet or dry, are extremely rare.

WHAT'S NEW

The first comet of 1928 was recently found by the French astronomer Phillippoff of the observatory at Algiers, in northern Africa.

An airplane with two decks, designed to carry 50 passengers, is being built at Amsterdam.

An Englishman has invented a musical instrument that combines features of the harp and guitar and is played like the guitar, being held horizantly.

An automatic vending machine has been developed which says, "Thank you", after a coin is inserted for the purchase of goods.

A new electric clock, which tells the time by red and white flashes from 16 lamps, has been set up in Baltimore and can be seen 20 miles.

An X-ray apparatus has been perfected which will photograph the heart at the instant of pause between pulsations, insuring a clear and accurate reproduction.

WHAT IS FAIR WEATHER?

Front page news for a good many people begins with the little box in the upper corner of the paper that tells them whether or not to leave their umbrellas at home in the morning. A porphecy of "fair" is often disappointing for the term may include a cloudy or threatening sky, or even a slight sprinkle, not enough to dampen the front lawn, but quite enough to spot a new spring hat. Is the weather man wrong, or merely understood?

One difficulty is that "fair" as applied to weather is a meteorological term. Most dictionaries take note of this in defining the word, but the lay reader of the newspaper, hoping for a beautifully clear day, may expect too much. Official observers of weather conditions are told to use the word "fair" in rendering reports. The Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture on its forecast work considers a day as "fair" when not more than 0.01 inch of precipitation is expected to occur within the period covered by the forecast.

By precipitation is meant rain, or snow reduced to its water equivalent The term has in the past also been used, although not in forecasts, to denote a state o fthe sky between overcast and clear. The expressions "cloudy" or "partly cloudy" are modifications of a fair weather forecast, indicating that the weather is not expected to be clear.

Looking over various dictionary definitions and standards set for Weather Bureau observes, "fair" is generally found to embrace a certain degree of cloudiness and unsettled conditions. In forecasts it signifies absence of measurable precipitation.

Town of Maplesville Has Many Progressive and Interesting Citizens

On the Western borde[illegible] of Chilton County is situated the Town of Maplesville, one of the most progressive towns of the County. Near it is the big Mulberry Creek which furnished it's sportsmen and citizenship territory for fishing and hunting and has a great potential value as a water supply for the future use of Town, for domestic and commercial purposes. The altitude of the Town of Maplesville is 338 feet.

This little city is traversed by the M & O and Southern Railroads which render to the shipper and passenger adequate and convenient service. The Town is known for it's convenience as a place to market lumber, and agricultural products, and is a fine place for the marketing of cotton, the merchants always giving the best prices for agriculture products, thereby stimulating a spirit to sell and buy at home.

The citizenship of Maplesville is of the original Southern stock and can trace their descent back to the original settlers of the Mississippi Teritory, which later furnished the soil for Alabama. They also maintain with pride the Southern hospitality and a person may visit the town as a stranger, with expectation of being treated as such, but as soon as he enters the gates of Maplesville, he finds that he is among friends who are friendly, and people who live on a high plane and are charitable and work for the ideal that the world may be made better for their having lived. The town has a splendid graded public school and it's citizens are wide awake and always grasp every opportunity to improve the educational facilities of the town and county. In their school, the students are offered the same opportunities as are furnished in the larger cities of the state. There is employed a high class and efficient corps of teachers and with the co-operation of the Trustees and P. T. A.s, the school has made a splendid record and one that the citizenship of the town can be justly proud.

There is located in the Town, two churches, the Missionary Baptist and Methodist Episcopal Church South, each having a large and enthusiastic membership. Rev. Grady Williams is pastor of the Baptist Church, and Rev. G. W. Carpenter pastor of the Methodist, and both maintain a standard Sunday School and with the ability of the pastors of these churches and the lay leaders, the town is kept up to a high standard in it's morals and a spirit of brotherly love prevails, and a real loyalty exists for the ideals of American citizenship.

We find in this Town, a large number of Masons, who are members of Mapelsville Lodge No. 706 A. F. & A. M. This order has just recently rebuilt their Masonic Hall, which compares favorably with any in the small towns of the state. W. T. White is Worshipful Master and W. E. Northup is Secretary. Until recently the late George W. Fox was Secretary of this lodge, which position he held for a number of year s prior to his death. Due to the work of Mr. Fox and his untiring efforts, it is said, the Masonic order of Maplesville was enabled to hold high standing in the state in the Masonic Fraternity, and at his death, Mr. Northup took up and is carrying on this splendid work.

There is also in this Town an Eastern Star Chapter, which has an enthusiastic membership of both ladies and men. This Chapter ranks among the best in the state, and among the ladies of its membership are to be found some of the most proficient in the work of the order. Mrs. J. B. Hicks is Worthy Matron and Mrs. P. C. Puliam is Secretary, and H. L. Smith Worthy Patron.

Maplesville has a strong and substantial bank, which carries the town name, it being designated: "The BANK OF MAPLESVILLE," which institution is backed by men of high standing in the state and county, its directors, Messrs H. M. Nix, W. Foshee and F. H. Brown, are citizens as well as prominent business of the Town. [illegible] of the county as well as the Town and Community of Maplesville each of them is a genuine booster for the Town and county and foresee much progress in this section in the next few years.

As indicated by [illegible] Maplesville's professional and business men are of the highest type of citizens who are well and favorably rated in the business and commercial world.

One of the oldest firms of this is that of T. U. C[illegible] Co., who handle a general line of [illegible] and do a large furnishing and supply business for the farmers in the Western part of Chilton County. They has a large business that comes to them from Dallas and Bibb Counties. This firm is managed by Mr. C. M. Foshee, whose knowledge of the agriculture condition of the country and his experience as a dealer in merchandise enables him to carry on this business successfully year in and year out without encountering the difficulties that sometimes are met by extensive supply merchants.

It is said that this firm owns a large amount of [illegible] lands in this county which are highly productive. Their business house is one of the largest of the Town of Maplesville and the business done by them will match that of many [illegible] concerns of the larger cities. This business was established some four or five years ago, and is located on the main street of the Town, near the bank building. They carry a general line of hardware, neatly and attractively displayed. The well known VULCAN PLOWS, are one of the special features of this store as this plow has a reputation as being the farmer's friend. This store believing that the interest of the farmers should be given first consideration, carry and recommend only the best articles for the farmer's use. They also carry a general line of AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORIES, including the famous FIRESTONE TIRES, and with a splendid line of goods and with an efficient man in the person of Mr. Payne to push the business, it is useless to say this store has been a success and a genuine asset to the town and county.

Mr. F. H. Brown, dealer in General Merchandise, is another of Maplesville's boosters. He was born and reared in Bibb County and some eight years ago moved to Maplesville, and entered the mercantile business. His store is located on one of the main streets of the Town and is considered one of the leading stores of the Town. Mr. Brown is a careful buyer and careful buying he is enabled to sell his merchandise at a small profit and thereby saving his customers the overhead expense. His store is minus the so-called old or odd stock of goods. The volume of business done each year by Mr. Brown means much to the Town and community.

Among the other leading merchants of the TOWN OF MAPLESVILLE, are: J. [illegible] Hicks, P. D. Williams, C. C. Cobern, Hill J. Foshee, and J. B. Hardy,, and each of these men are believers in the Town, and are interested in its civic and business progress.

There is also located in the TOWN OF MAPLESVILLE a neat little cafe which is [illegible] and is operated by Mrs. [illegible] Hondson. Here select foods are served to the public at reasonable prices.

He is one of the few doctors that find time to get hold of the rod and reel, and frequents the lakes and creeks for a try out with the game fish of our waters, and from information that is reliable, it is said that he is not only well versed in medicine but knows the art of luring and catching the big bass.

Dr. Parnell owns a large acreage of farm lands around Maplesville, and besides his professional duties, he looks after his farming interests. He is a booster for his town and county and is very active in all progressive movements which tend to make progress in the state and nation.

MAPLESVILLE is indeed fortunate in having Dr. Harvey M. Nix, as its dentist. He is known all over the state as being one of the dentists that stand among those at the head of the dental profession in Alabama. He has patients from all over the County as well as from many parts of the state. It is not unusual to see people from Birmingham or Montgomery, or Selma and many other towns and communities of Alabama embarking from the trains and automobile and making for his office. He is one of the leading citizens of the Town and County. He takes an active interest in all church, fraternal and school affairs of his town and county, and is also a real booster for Maplesville as well as Chilton County.

Polk Bros. Motor Co., Inc.

Polk Brothers Motor Company, Inc. Chevrolet Sales and Service at Clanton have been dealers here since 1924 and the number of cars they have distributed to satisfied customers runs into the thousands. Last year their sales set a pace in this market for others to follow.

Mr. W. M. Polk, is president of the company and George C. Polk is the secretary-treasurer. They are progressive citizens of the city and take an active part in all forward movements for the community.

An inspection of their store rooms shows that the company carries a larger stock and assortment of genuine Chevrolet parts than is usual for agencies of this size. It is kept full and complete. The stock of accessories is likewise complete.

The company maintains an efficient shop for repairing and overhauling motor vehicles, especially Chevrolet cars, and its service cars go to all parts of the surrounding territory when called.

Something new that they have installed is equipment for applying the VESUVEIUS TREATMENT, to graphite all working parts of motor vehicles. This treatment prevents wear, takes out the "squeak" and relieves unnecessary friction. The great benefit to autos of all kinds is out of all proportion to the small cost of its application.

In their tire department the company sells GOODRICH SILVERTOWNS, which the public knows to be one of the very best makes of tires on the market. Polk Brothers believe after test of exprience that GOODRICH SILVERTOWNS are THE best tires for this section of the country; its climate and prevailing road conditions considered. Prompt and efficient tire service is given on the road or at the shop.

The DUCO shop is in charge of experts in this line of work and is fully equipped to do re-DUCOING like a factory job. In addition, the company sells ESCO batteries and gives an eight-hour service in charging storage batteries of all kinds; also expert battery repairs. Washing and Alemiting are well and efficiently done.

The used car bargains which they are prepared to offer for sale are of various makes and have been carefully overhauled. They are real bargains, for those who desire a used car.

DIXIE CAFE

Clanton has, without a doubt, one of the most modern and up-to-date little cafes of any town its size. This is none other than the DIXIE CAFE.

This cafe is located directly on the Birmingham-Montgomery paved highway, on what is known as Seventh Street, in the business section of Clanton, and bears the reputation of being the most up-to-date cafe between the Capital city and the state's largest city.

The DIXIE CAFE is owned and operated by Messrs. L. D. and L. P. Easterling. These brothers up until the sixteenth of last April had the cafe leased. Since the time of purchasing the business, they have added no little amount of new fixtures in catering to the demands of the public. Among these many improvements is the recent installment of an automatic orthophonic Victrola, of the very latest design. This machine plays several numbers, changing the records by its own mechanism, and furnishing a pure tone of mellow, uninterrupted music, most pleasing and refined to a degree of perfect reproduction almost incredible. The latest numbers are played on this machine, furnishing a class of entertainment to the patrons, that is seldom found in a cafe in a town like Clanton.

The Easterling brothers have been operating the DIXIE CAFE for some seventeen or eighteen months, and during this time, they have made scores of friends, not only in Chilton County, but over the entire state, by the remarkable manner in which they carry on their business. It is possible that in other states will be found people who will speak highly of the service received at this popular eating place.

The DIXIE CAFE is noted for its wonderfully prepared meals and quick lunches, and on account of its location on the said highway, has had the opportunity of advertising itself to the fullest extent through its customers as being a pleasant and clean place where one may come and dine with pleasure.

The operators of this cafe endeavor, at all times to keep on hand a supply of fresh vegetables of the season, and other foods. The menu is changed daily, giving a complete list of palatable foods. The customer can find anything from a tasty quick lunch to the most palatable dinner, both served with the same politeness and courtesy found in all the larger cafes.

The employees of this cafe are five experienced chefs and assistants, who can not be found. They are men with a knowledge of preparing foods to please the most fastidious. In the front part of the cafe, polite and efficient waitresses. These girls are well trained in waiting on the public in a manner that pleases the critics of which are seldom be found. Each of the tables is of the most rigid sanitary size, a more sanitary table can not be found.

se thickets and settled in the shrub-
ry in great numbers for a distance
3 or 4 miles along both sides of a stream flowing between mountain ridges. So dense was the flight of the birds that every afternoon during the middle of January people drove to the southern end of the roost, where it touched the main highway, to see the robins. The birds would begin to arrive about a quarter to five, and in five minutes the air would be filled with them. As far as the eye could see, robins seemed to be dropping like enow flakes out of the heavens, to be lost in the cedar thickets. The arrivals would continue for at least half an hour. The flight cloud was described as being apparently more than 15 miles in extent, and the birds seemed to be traveling at about 30 miles an hour.

In addition tothe many who came merely to view such an unusual spectacle were numbers who seemed to feel the urge to hunt and kill the birds.
These began a period of wholesale slaughter, which was carried on for two nights, resulting in the destruction of hundreds of birds. Local sportsmen and public-spirited individuals brought this wanton slaughter to the attention of the county game warden, a member of the State game commission, and a Federal game warden of the Biological Surevy of the United States Depart-men were stopped from molesting the bids, and it was found that public feeling was so thoroughly aroused against such wholesale killings that it would not be necessary to take further steps to impress people with the fact that the roost should be protected and that rob-

PRINTED COTTON BROADCLOTH NEW IN SPRING WASH GOODS

Printed cotton broadcloth seems to be one of the most noteworthy newcomers among wash fabrics this season on the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture believes. Some of the designs are printed in small or medium floral motifs only, some have dots of various kinds, either as the chief pattern or scattered among flawer figures, and the newest offerings have stripes. These are used effectively in contrasting colors in ribbon designs, or as "candy" stripes in pastel shades. A few plain plaided patterns are seen, as well as those having plaid backgrounds with tiny floral designs runnign over them.

Cotton broadcloth is popular because it has so many uses. It has a firm plain, weave, and a smooth finish, making it especially serviceable for sports or house wear. It sheds dirt and dust sufficiently to be practical for the street in warm weather, and does not muss easily. Broadcloth in plain colors has long been found serviceable for children's bloomer dresses, men's shirts pajamas and other garments that must stand frequent laundering. The new printed broadcloths are equally satisfactory for all thes uses.

DOING MEANS REMEMBERING

Why the Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture always endeavors to get people interested in doing something rather than in listening to a peaker or watching him is indicated by a letter from a state demonstrator who has been conducting schools in farm accounting. In these schools each person who is present and ready to learn is expected to work out the business record of a typical farm in one of the account books provided in the course. Each step in the record keeping is explained as the school progresses until each pupil understands it. The pupils are then able to go home and work out the record for thei own farm business, using the one they have already worked out as a guide.

"From our experience in holding these schools," says the demonstrator, "we have arrived at the following statistics: People composing a general audience will remember one-tenth of what they hear, three-tenths of what they see and hear, seven-tenths of what they say, and nine-tenths of what they do. Therefore, we believe in having people do for themselves that they will remember."

W. T. Baker Dry Goods Co.

Among the many business houses of Clanton that have contributed to the progress of our little city, which all have done, there is one establishment that met a demand of the people at the logical time and that store is the popular W. T BAKER DRY GOODS COMPANY, where can be had everything in dry goods and gents furnishings that is carried by the larger stores in the cities.

Mr. W. T. Baker the owner, is a man who is experienced in the buying of ladies and gents ready to wear articles and makes it his business to purchase his goods in quantities so that he may at all times supply his customers with the best quality goods in all of the latest styles and varieties to suit each season of the year.

The beautiful line of ladies' hosiery, negligee, hats and notions, which he keeps well displayed in the cases and show windows makes his store neat and attractive, and not only that, but adds much to the appearance of the town itself, saying nothing of the help it gives the many shoppers in supplying their wants.

The stock of men's shoes, hats, and caps are well selected and of the best quality and are sold at prices that are reasonagle. And with a corps of clerks who are courteous, pleasant and energetic to wait on you, the store a place where the people feel at home while doing their shopping.

The popular line of NUNN-BUSH men's shoes are carried in this store and those who are looking for real service in a dress shoe, will never regret giving this brand a trial, and Mr. Herbert Lowery, popular salesman for the W. T. Baker Dry Goods Company states that all he wanted a man to do was to buy one pair and there would be no trouble in selling the second pair to the same customer. This line of shoes have been on the American market for a number of years and has a reputation of meeting every requirement for neatness and service, which means a satisfied customer. This store also features the famous line of "BILLIKEN" shoes for children, which stands for better service, style and more comfort for children.

The line of work shirts, shoes, hats, and hosiery for men is of the best quality that the American mills produce, and at prices that are very attractive.

Mr. Baker is not only a very energetic merchant and worker in civic and religious affairs of the town and community, but boosts Clanton and advocates the buying at home of every article that can be had there When one trades at W. T. Baker's large store, he can feel assured that his "round dollars will get a square deal."

INTERESTING HISTORY AND FUTURE PROSPECTS

the prosperty of the people. The Belle Meade Creamery at Montgomery, is receiving cream or whole milk from 150 Chilton county farms. The Southern Butter Company of Birmingham is also getting a good share of the dairy products, while the western part of the county is shipping also to the creameries at Selma.

County Agent Stapp reports that cotton acreage in Chilton county will scarcely show an increase of five per cent above last year, while the use of fertilizer by cotton planters will show an increase of approximately 25 per cent. Much of the fertilizer is bought cooperatively through the Farm Bureau Federation.

Last fall more than 30,000 pounds of vetch seed were planted in the county by about 370 farmers, and turned under for the nitrogen and other fertilizing properties this wonderful legume gives to the soil. Last year, W. L. Popwell, vice president of the county farm bureau, raised 600 bushels of corn on six acres of land, with no other fertilization than a heavy crop of hairy vetch turned under the spring before.

There are 341 boys in the Boys' Clubs of the county, the agent reports. Their projects are generally two acres of cotton, fertilized according to Auburn recommendations; one or more acres of corn, pure bred poultry, cattle and hogs, or one-quarter acre or more of strawberries. Not only is the educational value of this work important, but the actual production from these efforts shows a large annual value in cash money.

General Characteristics of Land

The soils of the county are roughly divided into Costal Plane and Piedmont types. About 65 per cent of the land is classed as Rushton Fine Sandy Loam, and this type constitutes about 85 per cent of the present cultivated lands. The hill farms are generally well terraced, and the farmers are well started on an extensive soil improvement program, in which terracing and winter crops play their part. Official reports of the government show that cotton, corn, peanuts, cowpeas, velvet beans, soya beans, strawberries, sweet and irish potatoes, peaches and plums are well adapted to the prevailing farm soil types in Chilton County, and that they respond well to accepted methods of cultivation and fertilization.

A soil survey map made in 1911 by U. S. Bureau of Soils, shows where the best lands lie, and gives information in regard to the climate of the county.

THORSBY INSTITUTE RANKS HIGH

Largely as the result of the interest of some Alabama Congregational leaders, Thorsby Institute was started on September 17, 1906 with a High School department and two grade preparatory for High School. At the time it began there was no High School in the county. Its first Principal was Mr. J. Lampke, a graduate of Brown University. He stayed only a year when Rev. S. B. Groves became Principal.

At first the school had no Boarding Department, but as students wished to come from a distance it was found necessary to open a boarding department in what was originally built as a hotel east of the railroad. Both boys and girls came as boarding student. A house and land were bought for the boys in another section of the town; but the teachers, boys and girls ate together in the Dining Hall of the Girls' Dormitory. A number of the boys and girls needed an opportunity to work a part of their way through school and did the housework, janitoring, carpentering, etc.

Later it was decided to require each pupil to work a certain amount every week. It was found that the training the girls received in preparing the meals, etc. was about as valuable as what they learned from their regular lessons in school. At present each pupil is required to work 6 hours a week, and board is $4 a week plus 6 hours a week work. Whatever is worked beyond that number of hours is credited on the next term's tuition or board.

Mr. N. W. Hinson of Peabody College, Nashville, Tennessee, was Principal after Mr. Groves resigned and was with the school for three years. Then Rev. S. H. Herbert, a graduate of Beloit College, became Principal and was Principal until 1919 when he entered the Red Cross work. During his administration more land was bought by the Institute, making quite a large campus around Bates Hall, the Recitation building. This Recitational building was named after Rev. George E. Bates, Pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, Birmingham. Mr. Bates was the first President of the Trustees of Thorsby Institute.

After Mr. Herbert resigned, Miss Helen Jenkins, who had been Associate Principal, was elected Principal. Her main task then and now is getting the necessary funds to support the school—for the tuition of $25 a year plus $3 registration fee is so small that it cannot possibly support the school. Miss Jenkins has to raise about $10,000 a year for current expenses aside from some special needs. Almost since it started a band of Thorsby ladies of different denominations has raised money each year for the school. This has been a great help.

The school aims to train young people to high standards of scholarship amid Christian environment. It is strict in its discipline, but not unreasonable. It is careful in the selection of its pupils and if it makes a mistake and gets some one who is not worthwhile it does not keep such a one for the sake of numbers or money.

It's graduates who have gone with the school's recommendation have done well in college and are known for their high moral standards. Colleges have often said they want more of the graduates from this school because they are so dependable and studious.

One of its graduates able in three years to college, Iowa, one of the best Middle West. He worked a part and yet had time to render such work that he was elected to Sopa. a national honor society to which a few Seniors and Juniors are elected each year.

It has maintained for years a Literary Society called Keller Literary Society. Recently sent the school a lovely pi other to replace the one burned in the Bates Hall fire.

A few years ago the school lost it's Girls' Dormitory by fire and later Bates Hall. However, it has erected an attractive new Dining Hall which has also rooms for some students and teachers. Near by is the new Recitation building, Helen Jenkins Hall, named after the Principal. Both buildings are of stucco. The Recitation has several pleasant recitation office, auditorium, etc. It to the public and is one School libraries in the st books to places wishing the some to the new Clanton lil

Crestview Poultry Farm

Crestview Poultry Farm, five miles north of Clanton on the old highway to Birmingham, has demonstrated beyond doubt the fact that the Clanton neighborhood is an ideal location for the raising of high grade poultry on a large scale.

F. E. Mastin, proprietor of the Crestview Poultry Farm, has had fifteen years of practical experience in the breeding of white leghorns and has produced some of the best birds ever raised in Alabama. His pens have taken high place in the laying contests at Auburn and awarded many prizes and premiums.

Adding to a place and prestige already earned, Mr. Mastin purchased the best and most of the breeding stock of the celebrated Golden Glow Farm, at Mobile, including the two 311 and 312 egg hens as well as the fine breeding males of the Golden Glow Farm. With these additions to his already fine Tancred stock, he is now able to offer customers some of the best Tancred chicks that money can buy. His poultry, in fact, has acquired something more than a national reputation, for he has sold choice birds to Cuba and other countries.

Eggs from the special breeding pens

at Crestview Farm are the equals of any offered in this country and Mr. Mastin will gladly quote prices and pedigree of those from the different matings.

Baby chicks of Standary Mating pens are sold at $6 for 25; $11 for 50; $20 for 100 and $95 for 500. Franklin Garage, Thorsby

FRANKLIN GARAGE, situated on Jones Street in Thorsby, near the Bank of Thorsby, and next to the railroad, is a thriving automobile repair business, owned and operated by Mr. R. R. Franklin, of that place.

The building was erected early in 1924, of concrete blocks which were manufactured at Thorsby, and has a floor space of over 2400 square feet. A store room and shed add greatly to the convenience of the business. The operators began business in April of that year, and since that time the growth of business has been almost immeasureable, due primarily to the fact that service, quality of material and workmanship have been held as the only good standard. Another factor which goes for quality of the work is the complete equipment. Hundreds of dollars have been expended in the acculation of complete sets of tools of the highest quality, making possible the efficient repairing of any make of car.

The enduring friendliness of the proprietor and employees always pleases, whether your repair be large or small.

Quality of material is evident in the lines of materials used and sold. Genuine Ford parts are carried, a good supply being always on hand. Firestone, Fisk and Michelin tires and tubes are carried in stock at all times thus assuring first class tire repair service. Exide, the world-famous battery for any car, is sold here, as well as the ESCO and Ford batteries.

The popularity and greater power of Woco Pep and the accompanying motor oils is demonstrated here by the large number of gas and oil customers.

A thing which the whole world is now seeking is economy, without reduction in quality. This, too, is found at Franklin's. You get the best of service, best of materials, at the lowest price anywhere. It will take only one trial to convince you.

Mr. Franklin was reared at Thorsby and is well and favorably known practically all over the county. His reputation is one of honesty and conscientous work. Patronize his garage for perfect repairs and courteous treatment.

His facilities for conducting such a business is modern and up-to-date in every respect, and while his ambulance, which is absolutely independent, is considered among the best in the state.

It is eminently fitting in this review that we devote conspicious space to a well merited tribute to the efficient and conscientious work that has won for this well known professional firm a place among the most modern funeral directors in the state. There is no vocation requiring for its successful prosecution a greater natural aptitude than that of the modern funeral director, and this particularily applies to the well known operator of the local funeral parlor. Through untiring efforts and commendable methods he has progressed from a modest beginning, until today he posesses a clientele that extends over many miles of territory.

As is generally known, J. MELL MARTIN has won recognition from the outside world as a proficient and conscientious man in this line of business, a distinction which is merited as the result of the splendid service he has and is continually rendering.

Few cities posess such an elegant mortuary as that of Mr. Martin's here in Clanton, provides. Distinct and separate from each other by ...steal arrangement are private mortuary, and casket display rooms

Most truthfully may it be said that he provides a funeral home which merits the praise he receives on every occasion.

Mr. Martin, known and valued as one of Clanton's progressive citizens and representative business men, was born in Coosa County, Alabama, January 24th, 1884, and is a son of Rev. Darius S., and Aurabelle (Nolan) Martin. After having finished school in his native county, Mr. Martin engaged in the grocery and undertaking business at Equality, in that county. In 1921 he sold his grocery business, and removed his undertaking department to Clanton where he has since in his line and where he has gained the confidence and esteem of the community.

Mr. Martin also takes an active part in fraternal and religious affairs, and during the Masonic year just closed, he was Eminent Commander of Clanton Commandery, No. 27, and during his administration, the meetings of the Commander were enthusiastic and well attended, and a large number of candidates were taken into the organization. In fact, the year was most sucessful from every standpoint. He is also a very enthusiastic member of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, and is assigned to several important committees of this civic organization.

YELLOW PINE LUMBER AND COAL COMPANY

The Yellow Pine Lumber and Coal Company, located at Clanton, which is operated by Mr. Bob Baker, has added much to the progress of the town and is a business that has been conducted on a firm and substantial basis. This concern keeps a supply of high grade coal and stove wood on their yards during the entire year, making deliveries to their customers promptly.

Besides the coal and wood business carried on by this concern, they manufacture well and culvert concrete tilings, cast in steel molds, and of different sizes, which are said to be one of the highest grade tileing marketed any where in the South. Besides the above business, this concern has recently purchased a supply of up-to-date concrete brick molds, which cast ten brick in one block, ventilated and ready to lay in the walls, and it is said that a wall constructed with this product will not get moist inside during damp or wet weather and that the ventilation prevents the heat and cold penetrating the inside of the building.

Mr. Bob Baker has charge of the coal and wood department, while Mr. Ed Edwards, has charge and superintends the manufacture of the tile and brick.

This firm has illustrated the fact that home talent can be secured to produce products that heretofore have been considered impossible to obtain, other than through the foreign manufacturers. Mr. Ed. Edwards has been engaged in making cement products for several years and has given considerable time and thought to this work, and he knows how to obtain the highest grade articles manufactured with cement. The brick blocks now being manufactured by this concern have a ... and attractive appearance, and from tests made they are substantial and durable and will give the same if not better results than the clay brick, and the saving in the cost of laying these blocks is said to be of no small item to the person who is engaged in erecting a business house or dwelling. The brick have the same appearance as the press brick and are made in different colors.

SPORT ROADSTER ON ESSEX CHASSIS

New roadsters of smart sports appeal are announced by the Hudson Motor Car Co., for both the Hudson and the Essex chasses. Both of these body styles are of aluminum panels instead of sheet steel, saving weight and adding to the ranges of performance Both of these models have sepcial gear which permit exceptionally interesting running ability. The color schemes are duotones; tops of kaki; lamps nickeled; top bows of natural wood; upholstery and finish in the approved sports style. Comfortable and roomy rumble seats are standard equipment.

Hudson and Essex enthusiasts will have available this spring the new Hudson and Essex Super-Six roadsters designed along sport lines and equipped with a rumble seat.

"The roadster type is always essentially a personal car, and wanted for its individual attractiveness more than as a means of transportation," said Mr. H. M. Bates, Hudson Essex distributor. "These roadsters, following out that line of thought, seek to express the true sporting spirit of the open road.

"The color shade of both cars is a duo-tone in browns, with the darker shade above the belt line. The radiator is nickeled; vertical shutters are lacquered to match the lower body. The whole result is striking and attractive indeed.

"Mounted on the Hudson and Essex Super-Six chasses these two distinctive roadsters assure owners of most satisfactory performance—in acceleration, in smoothness and open road running. Naturally the sport loving and youthful motorists will turn to this type of car with immediate enthusiasm.

"As only a few of them will be built the owners will have the benefit of exclusiveness as well as sports appeal."

1,250 BRITISH CONGREGATIONALISTS TO VISIT AMERICA

New York City, May 28.—An approaching "goodwill" visit of 1,250 British Congregationalists to this country will be celebrated in Congregational churches of both United States and Great Britian b ya "Pilgrim Fellowship Sunday," June 3, 1928.

The visiting Congregationlists will disembark at Boston, Monday, June 10, and will sail on their return journey from New York Saturday, June 16.

The purpose of the "Pilgrim Fellowship Sunday" is to strengthen interest in the historic ties which unite the Congregationalists of Great Britian and the United States. The observance of the Sunday was proposed by the Commission of International Relations of the National Council of the Congregational Churches in the U. S. The chairman of the Commission is Hon. William E. Sweet of Denver, former governor of the state of Colorado.

The first Congregationalists were called Separatists. They were persons who rebelled against the Act of Uniformity passed by the English parliament under Queen Elizabeth. The Act required all English subjects to worship according to the system prescribed by the government. The Separaists in protest separated themselves from the national or state church and formed their own independent congregations. Later they took the name Congregationalists. They declared for absolute freedom of the individual soul in its religious life and for the right of each church or congregation to self-government.

Many Separaists were put to death or imprisoned by the English government. The "Pilgrim Fathers" and others came to this country to escape persecution. The first Congregational Church in America was organized by the Pilgrims who landede on Plymouth Rock, Plymouth, Massachusetts, in 1620

Principles which Congregationalists on both sides of the Atlantic are emphasizing today include religious freedom, international peace, human brotherhood and Christian fellowship throughout the whole world.

The British visitors to this country are being called "Twentieth Century Pilgrims and the White Star liner Celtic on which they will sail is being designated "The Twentieth Century Mayflower." The pilgrimage, it is said, will be the largest goodwill party ever to have crossed the Atlantic from Europe to America.

VOLUME 6 CLANTON, ALABAMA, THURSDAY JUNE 7, 1928 NUMBER 37

Local B. Y. P. U. Reorganized Sunday

Officers Elected And Union Named For Pastor Of Church

The Young Peoples Union of the local Baptist Chucrh was reorganized last Sunday evening at a meeting held at the church. Invitations were sent to the young people of the town, and although the weather was very unfavorable, there was a large number present at the meeting.

Members of the Intermediates and Seniors were united into one union and it was decided that this union be named the "Ezell Union" for the pastor of the local Baptist Church, Rev. S. J. Ezell, who has worked earnestly and faithfully in the effort to organize and hold the B. Y. P. U. together here.

At the meeting the following officers were elected: President, Miss Eugie Baker; vice-president, Miss Gladys Williams; secretary, Joseph Hester; treasurer. Euell Hyman. The Group Captains are as follows: Group No. 1 Mrs. Grady Heflin; Group 2, Charles Moore; Group 3, Ralph Johnston; and Group 4, Miss Delene Williams.

It is believed that this move of uniting the two groups into one will be a great step forward toward the upbuilding of the B. Y. P. U. here, and will without a doubt, increase the interest in this work among the older people, as well as the young folks of this immediate section. An invitation is extended to everyone to attend the meetings of the B. Y. P. U. each Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock, at the Baptist church. The programs given are instructive, and a great help in the training of the mind in the right way. Don't forget these meetings each Sunday.

MONTGOMERY-BIRMINGHAM HIGHWAY DAMAGED

South Approach Fill at Reece Ferry Bridge Caused To Sink by Heavy Rains

Montgomery, Ala., June 4.—Rain, which fell Saturday and Sunday, and all day Monday, caused a perceptible further deepening Monday afternoon of the two depressions in the paving on the south approach fill at the Reeces Ferry bridge on the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway. The original depressions resulted from a settling of the fill that followed the torrential rains of last month.

H. H. Souk, bridge engineer, for the State Highway Department, who made an inspection of the two sunken spots in the paving, issued warnings Monday night to motorists to proceed slowly over this part of the fill so as to avoid danger of accident. One warning sign was built at this spot weeks ago. Others will be added and the work of repair will be carried out at once, it was stated.

The plot of "Arabella" has to do with a little girl stolen by the gypsies who tires of her tribe and runs away to look for happiness. She encounters the champion woman-hater in his studio, and her sincerity and simplicity win his admiration. He sends her to a couple of old anunts of his to ask for a home, and her plea will bring tears to the eyes of any audience, only to be turned into spontaneous laughter when the Ladies Aid pack the missionary barrel. All of this to be soon forgotten in the bauty of the three-act scene and the Grand Finale.

The edition of the Chilton County News of May 31st. attracted no little attention over the state, and the Alabama Journal published daily at Montgomery, had the following to say about Clanton and the edition in its editorial columns of June 2nd.:

CLANTON, AND CHILTON COUNTY

"A number of things have been occurring recently to attract the public attention to Clanton, the county seat of Chilton County, and to indicate the spirit of civic progress that is in evidence there. Chilton county is one of the potentially wealthiest counties in Alabama for it not only has soils in which are grown a wide variety of products, but it has mineral, waterpower and timber resources which promise to add abundantly to its future wealth. Clanton is located in a valuable stragetic position for building up trade. It is almost at the half way point between Birmingham and Montgomery, the center of the finest stretch of through paved highway in Alabama. It is at the junction where travel for Selma and points to the South diverges from the Montgomery-Birmingham highway, and Clanton will soon be a terminal on an improved highway extending from that city all the way to Mobile.

There is perhaps not a better paved city in Alabama of its size than is Clanton. Its citizenship long ago caught the vision of their city's future and they have builded accordingly. Chilton County is one of the few counties in Alabama where there is close division between the Republican and Democratic party leaders believe they have excellent opportunity to elect their ticket of county officers in the November elections and the campaign now being waged between the two tickets promise to arouse interest all over the state.

Among the factors which have contributed to the recent growth of civic spirit in Clanton it is not inappropriate to mention the Democratic mayor of the city., J. B. Atkinson, who is not only a live wire in advancing the business welfare of his city, but whose temperament and personality are such that he has, the friendship and good will of thousands of transients through personal contact, won for himself and his city who use the highway which passes through the heart of the city. He is the kind of man who goes far out of his way to show courtesies and do favors to visitors and there are many evidences that these acts have been as bread cast upon the waters which has returned many fold.

To the citizen interested in Clanton and what the city is doing, no better immediate source of information can be found than the current edition of the Chilton County News which contains what is designated the "Know Clanton and Chilton County Section." The Chilton County News is published by Mr. Atkinson and it is the leading spokesman of the Democratic party in the county.

The special edition of the Chilton County News issued this week is unusually attractive because of the quality of paper upon which it is printed, the excellence of the illustrations it contains and the thoughtful care and accuracy characterizing the special articles about the county's assets and advantages as a place to live and carry on business. The people of Alabama will do well to keep an eye on Clanton for it is one of the coming towns of the state."

Methodist Pastor's School Being Held In Capital City

Rev. L. B. Green, pastor of the local Methodist Church, left Monday to attend the Pastor's School at Montgomery. This school will be in session June 4 to 15, at the Womans College of Alabama. It is provided for the benefit of the pastors and other Christian workers. Courses are given in Bible, Church, History, Missions,, Religious Education, Church Administration and Theology. The courses in Religious Education include units in Sunday School and Epworth League work. Quite a number of laymen and women take these and other subjects.

The school is for West Florida and all of Alabama. The best of instructors are secured. For this session they come from New York to Japan.

Mr. Green is studying in subjects taught by Dr. E. C. Webb of the University of Texas, and Dr. B. S. Winchester, late of Yale University, but now Religious Education Secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Winchester is noted as a teacher and Mr. Green says Dr. Webb is a "seven-day wonder" in the class room.

The evening hour is given to platform addresses by Bishop Dobbs, Dr. Webb, Dr. Winchester, Dr. H. B. Trimble of Nashville, Dr. W. K. Matthews of Japan, and Dr. S. T. Slaton of Birmingham. If you are in Montgomery any evening between now and the 15th, go out to the college and enjoy a treat.

ATTEND EPWORTH LEAGUE CONFERENCE AT MONTEVALLO

Messrs L. B. Green and H. L. Tate spent Wednesday in Montevallo, attending the Epworth League Conference of North Alabama. There were about 800 Leaguers registered and they were still coming in on all trains. Some splendid class work was being done by the young people. With three hours of class work, one hour for business, one for the open forum, the morning is pretty full. The afternoon is given to recreation which is varied and well organized. The evenings are given to addresses. The open forum is a gerat feature. The delegates fire point blank at the leader any question and problems that they wish cleared up. They are earnestly calling for solutions and Dr. L. D. Patterson and Dr. P. B. Kern proved equal to the demand. This service was brilliant and very helpful.

It is hoped that Clanton will send several delegates to the Alabama League Conference in Montgomery, July 17-23.

Eagerly Awaited Film To Be Here Soon

Announcement of Showing Of "The Big Parade" Excites Interest

"The Big Parade," which has been rightly called the biggest picture in screen history, has been eagerly awaited in this city. King Vidor's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of Lawrence Stallings' story is coming to the Wadesonian Theatre next Thursday, and Friday, June 7th and 8th, with Matinee and Saturday afternoon, June 9th.

Briefly the story of "The Big Parade" centers in Jim Apperson, a typical fun-loving American and much like every other rich man's son. In the spring of 1917, fired by anew patriotism, he enlists and departs for service in France. The succeeding scenes show Jim and his two buddies; Bull, a former Bowery bartender, and Slim, an ex-riveter, and their life in the doughboys' billets in rural France. Mr. Stallings is said to have created a trio as original as Kipling's "Soldiers Three."

And then Jim meets Melisande—I as played by Renee Adoree—and forgets about his American sweetheart. This little French girl in her wooden sabots and milkmaid garb is a figure of high romance. Some of the most touching scenes ever filmed are those of the lovemaking of Jim and Melisande. Then comes the advance to the front and the lovers are separated. Vital moments of drama are shown in the advance through the forest, the attack on the French village, the trenches, shell-holes, machine guns nests, the wounding of Jim and the final fight for his two pals. Then home again and the reconstruction period when the two lovers are reunited. Realism dominates every scene. Supporting John Gilbert are such sterling players as Renee Adoree, Karl Dane, Tom O'Brien, Claire McDowell, Rosita Marstini and Robert Ober.

Mr. W. C. Robinson left last Monday for Colorado, New Mexico and other points in the West, where he will spend several months for his health.

Two Local Barber Shops To Consolidate

New Shop To Operate Under The Name Of "Exchange Barber Shop"

Two of Clanton's popular barber shops are to effect a consolidation next week, when the Star Barber Shop, on Main Street, and Sanford's Barber Shop on Seventh Street will unite and form the Exchange Barber Shop.

The quarters to be occupied by this barber shop are now undergoing the finishing touches that go to make a modern shop. They are located on Seventh Street, three doors above the Exchange Hotel, and two doors below the Farmers Hardware Company.

AGED PREACHER-HERMIT FOUND DEAD IN BED

Buried At Liberty Hill Cemetery Beside Grave Of Wife

Rev. William A. Wood, age 79, was found dead in bed at his home, four miles west of here, Sunday, by neighbors. He had lived by himself for about 13 years, his wife having been dead that long. Neighbors state they had not seen him for a week, and on passing his home Sunday were attracted by several buzzards on the roof of the house. Upon investigation they found the dead man and immediately notified authorities.

The body was badly decomposed, and J. Mell Martin, undertaker, who was summoned, after an examination, estimated that the man had been dead for about a week. A shotgun and a large dagger were found in the bed with the dead man but there were no signs of violence. He had been in ill health for several years and it was reported that his mind was unbalanced. Money amounting to $118.70 in gold, silver and currency was found on him. He had a large amount of ready cash in one of the banks here and is said to have owned considerable stock in the Alabama Power Company.

The deceased, who had resided in this section of the country for a number of years, is survived by a sister, who resides in Tennessee, and other relatives in this county.

The body was laid to rest in the Liberty Hill cemetery, according to instructions of county officials, interment being made by the side of the grave of his wife, who preceded him some 13 years ago.

CHIEF OBJECT OF CULTIVATION IS TO KILL WEEDS

Auburn, Ala., June 4.—Answering questions from farmers regarding how to cultivate crops, the Experimeent Station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn is pointing out again that the chief object of cultivation is to kill weeds, and that cultivation which is effective in weed control without injuring the crops is ideal.

On the "why" of cultivation the experiment stations throughout the U. S. have conducted agricultural experiments. The Federal Department of Agriculture has taken part; and cotton corn and other crops have been studied. The conclusion of all is that the main reason why framers cultivate is to kill weeds and that cultivation should be planned accordingly.

This conclusion explains the merits of shallow cultivation which kills weeds and breaks a minimum number of roots of the growing plant. It explains further the "why" of killing weeds and grass when small, because such weeds are killed easily by shallow cultivation.

In their work with cultivators J. B. Wilson, extension agricultural engineer and the county agents, are emphasizing the main purpose of cultivation and demonstrating and recommending cultivators that will achieve the same. They cause also 2-horse cultivators in place of 1-horse because a 2 horse cultivator enables a farmer to cover twice as much ground, kills twice as many weeds, and do twice as much good.

FARM CLUB GIRLS END SHORT COURSE AT AUBURN

Auburn, Ala., June 4.—After spending four days in Auburn at the annual state short course for 4-H club girls the 80 girls who attended left for home Saturday, June 2. They came from 40 counties. Each county having a home demonstration agent sent the two girls whose work entitled them to make the trip.

During their stay in Auburn they were given intensive training in subjects pertaining to their work. Of special interest was the instruction in home industries given by Miss Isadora Williams, the chief objective of this work being to suggest opportunities for club girls and women to make and sell products; and thereby add to the income for the farm home.

Foods, clothing, home management, and other subjects were taught. Along with these the girls had their social functions, including a [illegible] at which they were hosts and ladies of Auburn were guests.

One night program was devoted toh stunts. The girls divided themselves into three groups and prepared diffferent stunts for the entertainment of the other groups and visitors.

As usual, it was the big annual event for the 4-H club girls of Alabama. They lived in the college dormitories and had their meals in Smith Hall. After this training in Auburn they are better prepared to be leaders and to further the work back at home.

BRIEF NEWS NOTES

The Duroc Breeders Farms in Autaugaville, Autauga County, has been started on 11,000 acres and the first shipment of hogs consisted of650, making a trainload. They came from the famous Telling herd at Danville, Ill. The owners of the farm plan to make it one of the biggest in the world.

The fertlizer business of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation during the spring of 1928 amounted to $3,250,000, according to a report by Edward A. O'Neal, president. It was by far the biggest fertilizer business in the history of the Farm Bureau, exceeding 100,000 tons. A patronage dividend of $125,000 was returned.

A press dispatch from Odessa, Tex., says that an expenditure of approximately two million dollars in construct ing a potash refinery, making a shaft and installing mining equipment ten miles south of that city is being made by the American Potash Company which is a new corporation.

Consumption of chewing gum in the United States totals 70,000,000 pounds annually, or 100 sticks for every man, woman and child, in the country. The total value of domestic consumption is nearly $100,000,000. Since 1914, total gum shipments overseas have increased from $200,000 annually to more than $1,600,000 annually. Great Britian is the greatest foreign consumer of American gum.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

The main reason for cultivating is to kill weeds and grass.

A costume of soft gray blue will make blue eyes look even bluer.

If a "V" is cut in the center of a lamp wick the flame will burn more evenly.

Stout persons should wear clothes made of plain material with a dull finish.

Old crank case oil will kill chicken mites if applied to the poles on which chickens roost.

Cultivation that breaks on excessive number of roots of plants may do more harm than good.

The price of cotton next fall is sure to be too high to allow boll weevils to eat it this summer.

Soybeans interplanted with corn will make a splendid combination for finishing hogs at a low cost next fall.

Boll weevils began appearing in cotton fields in large numbers during June. It does not pay to poison the very early weevils but plans should be made for poisoning later.

Either nitrate of soda or calcium nitrate is recommended by the Experiment Station at Auburn as a top dressing for cotton and corn. Such an application should pay well.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

Beat sour milk with a dover egg beater before using it for cooking.

For every-day dresses, soft tints are most serviceable; bright colors grow tiresome.

Tomatoes like phosphate and an extra application of phosphate usually pays.

Green feed or grazing is an appetizer and aids digestion for chickens. It supplies vitamins also.

Soybean hay is almost equal to alfalfa hay in feeding value and soybeans yield well if properly handled.

One way to help the cotton situation is to give it a topdressing of nitrate of soda or calcium nitrate.

The chief object of cultivation is to kill weeds and the best time to kill weeds is when they are very small.

In feeding value soybean hay is almost as good as alfalfa hay; and soybeans grow well throughout Alabama.

The demand for grass hays is decreasing because work stock are decreasing in numbers but the demand for legume hay for dairy cows is increasing.

It takes Nature 10,000 years to form a foot of fertile soil from the rocks of the Earth's crust yet some landowners permit this foot to be washed away in one year.

TIMELY FARM FACTS

Infertile eggs do not decay even during warm weather.

Cowpeas or soybeans in corn should increase soil fertilhty and provide more grazing.

If your hens are not laying as they should it may be that lice and mites are the cause. Consult your county agent.

High production per acre is essential to successful farming but a bigger essential is high production per man.

Now that the hatching season is over roosters should be penned, killed, or sold in order to have infertile eggs during the summer.

The Federal Radio Commission has revoked the license of 174 radio broadcasting stations, effective either July 1 or August 1. Most of them are in the Chicago and New York districts.

By doing what amounts to turning a terrace over, Prof. M. L. Nichols, of Auburn, has developed an improved terrace which is shallow ditch

Total consumption of cotton for the half year ending January 1 was 12,987,000 bales as compared with 12,729,000 bales the corresponding half year of 1927, according to the Bankers Trust Company of New York. Of the total 8,226,000 bales were American cotton.

Brazil has a scheme for controlling the movement of coffee to market, thereby stablizing the price, but economists are still uncertain as to what the outlok will be.

Little profit is secured from poisoning the early boll weevils. Many of them die naturally. It is best to dust later when the pests are more numerous, say entomologists at Auburn.

An auction sale of registered bucks will be conducted at the Union Stock yards at Montgomery on June 12 in connection with a cooperative lamb sale, according to J. D. Moore, Auburn.

Severe weather last winter took its toll in the peach orchards of Alabama. Julian Brown, extension horticulturist at Auburn, reports that many peach trees have died or will die as a result of the freeze.

"Growth Studies of the Pecan" is the slubject of a new bulletin published by the Alabama Experiment Station. Prof. C. L. Isbell is the author, and the bulletin is a report of his research work covering several years.

The British price fixing scheme for rubber will come to an end November 1, according to government action. When the scheme went into effect Great Britian and her colonies were producing 75 per cent of the world's supply of rubber. They are now producing only 50 per cent and the price at the end of this price-fixing scheme will be about the same as at the beginning.

SAFETY FIRST PAYS

Now that the vacation period is here in full swing, and we know that our young people usually utilize a part of their vacation with picnics and outings on the river banks, and at the swimming pools, the parents and others who have charge and control of these youngsters, should use due care to see that there is with them, some elder person, capable of protecting them against the dangers incident to such outings—such as drowning and automobile wrecks. A stitch in time saves nine. The daily papers have already carried sad stories of children being drowned this year. Let the people of Clanton and Chilton County play safety first, and let us have none of these sad stories.

CHARACTER IN PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Much is being said of the importance of character training in educational institutions, from the greatest universities down to the smallest public school in the country.

The essentials of character building are being studied by Child Welfare Associations and colleges for the training of students in university and post graduate courses.

The Dean of New York University speaks of charcater instruction as all-important and that it must never be made a mere classroom exercise, divorced from conduct and conscience.

Dr. John H. Denblight of Parker Institute, Brooklyn, insists that in our social relationships behavior be made more enlightened, more consistant, more vigorous and less selfish.

Apply this need of stressing character and conduct to our political affairs and the conduct of public officials and we would have better standards in local and national affairs.

CRIME AND ITS SUPPRESSION

The report of the Sub-committee of the National Crime Commission has caused much comment. It shows how little authentic data there is available on crime.

While every state keeps a concrete record of every law-abiding automobile owner, it does not keep a similar uniform record of every criminal, available for scrutiny and consideration.

Thousands of law abiding citizens are today made to feel almost like criminals because of the prohibitory laws which hedge them about, while a large number of criminals have actually reached a stage where they consider themselves to be the equal of, if not superior to, self respecting, hard working citizens upon whom they prey.

The gang leaders of today in the crime world have built up an aristocracy of their own. They are well dressed, they ride in the best automobiles, often associate with the better classes of people and, if they happen to be arrested and convicted, a jail sentence often adds glamour to their name.

In discussing the lash as a crime deterrent, Superior Judge Kavanaugh of Chicago, declared: "No underworld lord can retain the respect of his followers after he has winced under the pain of a whipping; no juvenile culprit can strut before the gang after an official spanking; the cat-o'-nine tails is feared more by the moron and the racketeer than a jail sentence.

The National Crime Commission has pointed out that we are lax in catching our criminals and in punishing them. It is also possible that we are lax in providing a type of punishment which commands respect rather than ridicule.

So far, our efforts have been directed at drawing the lines tighter around the lawabiding citizen on the theory that this will reform the criminal. The mania to make it unlawful to buy or own small arms on the theory that this will prevent crime, simply adds to the safety and the feeling of self-importance of the criminal, for he can smuggle in all the arms he desires and, therefore, will be a privileged character compared with the average citizen.

Let us reverse the process and, instead of trying to reform the criminal by punishing the innocent, let the criminal pay for his misdeeds. The Oregonian says: "It is not improbable that Judge Kavanaugh's suggestion will some day, and soon, be a general law in this country. The criminal is asking for it more than any other is asking. The criminal is begging for the lash."

BUILD TO RESIST FIRE

Every effort of medical science has been united to combat plagues and infectious diseases. Sientists have given their lives, willingly, in the dangerous tests and strenuous health battles which have been fought and won. With America's sickness and death rate decreasing and a remedy for nearly all the serious epidemic diseases found, it is high time that more attention is given to another serious problem—fire!

Many of our great industries have begun to recognize the importance of fire prevention work, and for sound economic reasons have developed a program of fire prevention to render themselves safer from fire. These industries have accomplished remarkable results and emulations of their example would contribute to the strength, durability and unhindered progress of any business.

People must be more careful—they must think about their own hazards; moreover, they must construct their buildings scundly to resist fire. It is indeed a shame if a man is so careless as to throw a lighted match into a waste paper basket, but if the resultant blaze destroys the building, that is a disgrace. A building should be so constructed that it would resist fire.

One valuable lesson can be learned from a review of fire loss figures. Teach carefulness but, more important build to resist fire.

CLANTON!

(Selected)

Clanton was, fourteen years ago,
A sure 'nuff country town;
It had no water main that run,
Way down beneath the ground;
It had no sewerage system there,
To take the filth away,
In fact, you never dreamed 'twould be
The town it is today.

We have beneath this noble hill
A water main complete,
The bonds we issued from our town
Accomplished this great feat,
And made it possible to have
Pure water in our homes,
We're glad to know the infant days
Of Clanton have long been gone.

We have a sewerage system here,
That covers a very large scope,
It carries off its million germs
To regions quite remote
And thus helps preserve our health
Of which we should always be proud
That Clanton will no longer dwell,
Beneath a threatening cloud.

We have a plant up near the hill,
In which we take much pride,
Its built of brick and finished up
Quite right and unique inside;
We have our fire protection which
We've not had in the past;
And hope to extinguish every fire
In less time than fast.

CHEVROLET ASSEMBLY PLANT TO OPEN IN KANSAS CITY

Detroit, Mich., June 3.—Marking the latest step in a movement to keep pace with the growing demand for its product, the Chevrolet Motor Company announced today that construction will start shortly on a mammoth assembly plant in Kansas City. This follows closely on the opening of a similar plant in Atlanta to serve the Southeast.

When completed in October, the Kansas City plant will be the largest automobile factory in the Southeast and will represent an investment of more than $2,250,000. Like the Atlanta plant, the Kansas City factory will have a capacity of 350 cars a day, providing Chevrolet with facilities for the production of more than 1,250,000 cars annually. The new factory will serve Western Missouri, Kansas, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Colorado.

W. S. Knudsen, president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, declared today that the opening of a plant in Kansas City has been made necessary to relieve the St. Louis and Janesville factories, where the demand has been taxing production facilities and making it necessary for both plants to work overtime for the last three months. It is a further step in the company's program to insure a regular flow of cars in line with the exceptional public demand, he said.

Twenty eight acres in the Leeds district have been taken over for the various buildings which will include the main Chevrolet-Fisher assembly unit, an office building, parts and service building, driveway shed, loading dock and power house. With the exception of the office building the units will all be of one story, monitor type roof construction, allowing for the maximum amount of light for workmen. Nearly one half of the huge Chevrolet-Fisher assembly unit will be occupied by the Fisher Body Corporation for the building of bodies for all Chevrolet closed cars. This close association of the world's largest and foremost automobile body builder will enable Chevrolet to provide the same type of service available in other Chevrolet assembly plants throughout the country. Buildings will have a total of 410,000 sq. ft. of floor space.

Work will be provided for 1,500 people and the payroll will exceed $9,000 daily. Following the Chevrolet policy of recruiting workmen from the respective communities in which its plants are locatad, local help will be employed almost exclusively, with the exception of a few technically trained men heading the various departments. This plant will be equipped with the latest appliances for the efficient manufacturing of automobiles similar to those in use in other Chevrolet plants throughout the country. Edward Shaw at present general superintendent of the Chevrolet assembly plant in Flint, will assume maangement of the plant.

The Sales Department, now operating in Kansas City Zone location, 8th and Grand Avenue, Kansas City, Missouri, will be removed to the plant as soon as the plant is ready for occupancy and Mr. Paul M. Seese will be in charge of the work of the Sales and Service Department. Appointment of a resident Comptroller will be announced at a later date.

Plans were drawn by Albert Kahn, Detroit architect.

The plant will be served by the Missouri Pacific railroad and the Kansas City Southern, with track space allowing for the storage of 300 freight cars.

Completion of the Kansas City project will provide Chevrolet with nine assembly plants throughout the country and an export plant at Bloomfield N. J. Domestic assembly plants are located in Flint, Atlanta, Tarrytown, Norwood, Oakland, Buffalo, Janesvile, and St. Louis. In addition Chevrolet maintains manufacturing plants in Detroit, Bay City, Saginaw, Flint, and Toledo.

Ready cooperation on part of city officials of Kansas City in changing slightly the course of the Rayton road and unusual assistance from the railroad companies made possible the rapid completion of arrangements for the location of the plant, Chevrolet officials pointed out.

Stalk Basis of Cotton Production

In a recent radio speech given over WSB the Atlanta Journal Station, J. C. Pridmore, Director of the Soil Improvement Committee of the National Fertilizer Association, outlined the reasons prompting the National Cotton Show which is being staged by the Committee together with the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

"The stalk," stated Mr. Pridmore, "is the basis of all cotton production. No single acre yield, no ten acre yield is greater than the average stalk yield within that acre or ten acre tract. It was with the development of the unit, namely the stalk in mind, that the National Single Stalk Cotton Show was conceived.

"If we can stimulate the farmer's interest in the single stalk and bring his attention to the bearing of the stalk on his entire yield, our purpose in conducting the show will have been served."

Mr. Pridmore has just returned from a trip throughout the cotton producing territory where he has consulted with the agricultural leaders of the South. In addition to outlining the general plan of the show, Mr. Pridmore in association with outstanding cotton authorities has developed a score card by which the cotton is to be judged.

"The show has been announced early," concluded Mr. Pridmore, "in order that every cotton farmer may have ample time to select his best stalk. We are going to broadcast about successful cotton practices all during the summer. Seed selection, preparation of seed bed, proper spacing, and approved means of fertilization and cultivation will be among the subjects touched upon. It is going to be a dirt farmer's show and it has been arranged and planned so as to make it easy for the average farmer to enter. It is only by appealing directly to the farmer himself that a project of this kind can be made successful and that is precisely what we have set out to do."

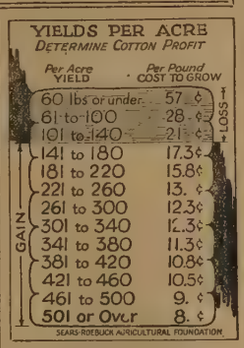
High Yields Lower Cost of Growing Cotton

Planters who succeeded in growing 380 pounds or more of cotton per acre in the four years from 1923 to 1926 produced it at a cost equal to about half of the selling price, states the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. For yields ranging from 61 to 100 pounds, the cost averaged 28.3 cents, or nearly 40 per cent more than the selling price. This conclusion is based on production cost records for individual farms compiled by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The net cost of growing lint cotton where 501 pounds or more were produced per acre averaged only 8.3 cents a pound during this four-year period. For yields ranging from 461 to 500 pounds, the cost averaged 9 cents; for 421 to 460 pounds, 10.5 cents; and for 381 to 420 pounds, 10.8 cents. The average price paid to farmers for these four crops of cotton was 20.9 cents a pound.

The average cost of production where the yield was 60 pounds per acre or less was 57 cents a pound. This was nearly three times as much as the cotton sold for.

Yield per acre and cost per pound are on a teeter board. As the yield goes up, the cost goes down. To obtain higher yields, better farm practice is necessary. This means more cost per acre for such items as labor, fertilizer, and seed. But the yield tends to move upward faster than the costs of the additional efforts which bring about the increase. In effect, pushing the yield up by this extra effort forces down the cost per pound, concludes the Foundation. Cost per pound rather than cost per acre, or the selling price, is the most reliable barometer of profitable production.



Successful Dairy Interests

A. M. WILDE WRITES ABOUT SUCCESSFUL DAIRY INTERESTS

Columbus, Miss.,

Fellow Citizens of Alabama:

I hope you will take this letter in the sense in which it is given. It is merely a statement of facts that I have observed in my travels through the State of Mississippi. I will endeavor to outline the success that the State of Mississippi is enjoying through the dairy interests.

Should you wish to get better understanding I am mailing you under separate cover papers and data that lead up to their present state of development.

The Dairy Cow will surely place any section on a firm base. It of course means a great undertaking, but no achievement that is worth while will be accomplished without concentrated effort.

I have taken considerable time to gather this information for you, so that can work your problem out to the best advantage, should you care to do so. You will find a package of circulars that Mr. S. J. High President of the Peoples Bank and Trust Co., Tupelo, Miss., has published from time to time. You may form an idea of what a great effort Mr. High gave to his people, and at the present date they are enjoying conditions that they never had before.

Carry the thought that Alabama consumes 55,000,000 pounds of butter fat annually and we only produce 5,000,000 pounds. We should at least be self-supporting.

Can't we organize in the State of Alabama as the State of Mississippi has done and put forth every effort and enjoy the success that our neighboring states are having.

We all know that the prosperity of the farmer is the barometer of business If the farmer prospers we all prosper. It is a known fact that the prosperity and success of the present plan of farming has been decreasing annually. We must give our farmer friends new thoughts by which he will increase his earnings.

I wish to call your attention to an article in the Starkville News issued Febraury 10, 1928, headed "Cows and Cotton". I am setting forth a brief outline showing where the value of 1927 cotton crop, Oktibbeha County was placed between $500,000 and $700,000.00. The two milk plants in this county paid out during 1927 the sum of $1,348,586.96 to the dairy man for milk and cream. This does not include milk shipped to other points, or consumed locally or surplus cows and heifers sold.

Take for instance, the total crop of this county for the year of 1926 was $1,270,208, approximately $100,000 less than that paid for milk and cream in 1927. The dairy business in this county is still in its infancy. You may visualize what the future has in store for these people.

My personal success in business for the past two weeks has topped any week I have had this year; in fact, far beyond my expectations, and every salesman whom I meet gives the same report of success.

If there is any question or further data that you may wish please do not hesitate to call on me. I am continually gathering new ammunition as I complete this trip.

This plan does not hinder the raising of cotton but really helps as the farmer has large quantities of barnyard fertilizer which he may use to strength en his land. It also puts him on a basis where he can pay for his supplies as used where as before he has had to depend on the merchant to carry him for months at a time, gambling on the success of one crop.

Reports show that the health condition of cattle in the South is far in advance of the North. An inspection of 33,000 jersey cows in Oktibbeha County Mississippi showed that only 8 had T. B. cows in the county.

Please note in several publications of the Starkville News, news items marked for your inspection. I would like to suggest that the Bankers and Merchants of your city give the data I am sending a thorough inspection.

I not at Starkville, Miss., and Tuscaloosa, Ala., are exchanging visits with each other. Tuscaloosa has been fortunate enough to secure a Libby, McNeill and Libby condensary. This has been accomplished since the first of the year.

The Carnation plant located at Tupelo, Miss., is paying out $63,000 per month for milk.

According to the report of the Editor of the Starkville News, the money paid in that county would average $100 for every man, woman and child.

At Columbus a cheese factory is being constructed by A. H. Barber and Company of Chicago, which will have a daily initial capacity of 50,000 pounds of milk with an ultimate capacity of 200,000 pounds. This firm is establishing other cheese plants in this immediate section and Columbus will be their southern headquarters. In this County of Lowndes, they have established a cheese plant at Billups (10 miles west, with a capacity of 20,000.

Why not get together and boost for a bigger and better Alabama?

Yours truly,

HALF-HEARTED
Never Felt Well

"I don't see why women will drag around, in a half-hearted way, never feeling well, barely able to drag, when Cardui might help put them on their feet, as it did me," says Mrs. Geo. S. Hunter, of Columbus, Ga.

"I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks.

"I could not work, and just dragged around the house.

"I got very thin. I went from a hundred and twenty-six pounds down to less than a hundred.

"I sent to the store for Cardui, and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. My side hurt less, and I began to mend in health.

"Cardui acted as a fine tonic. I do not feel like the same person. I am well now, and still gaining."

MORE HTAN HALF MILLION 1928 CHEVS ON ROAD END OF MAY

Detroit, Mich, May 28.—More than a half million new 1928 Chevrolets were on the road by the end of the fourth week in May, H. J. Klingler, General Sales Manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, announced here today.

This establishs a record high figure for the public acceptance of a new model, since never before in the history of the industry has such a volume of new models been delivered in a similarly short space of time, Mr. Klinger pointed out.

It also is more than 100,000 units in excess of the corresponding performance of the company in 1927, he said.

In view of this new record, and the fact that the peak selling season has just gotten under way, the entire Chevrolet organization felt unbounded enthusiasm over the prospect that this year's performance will comfortably surpass the 1927 record, and that more than a million new cars and trucks will be in operation on the highways and boulevards of the United States alone before the close of 1928.

Reports of retail deliveries for the first four months this year, plus the estimated figure for four weeks in May, indicate that the domestic dealer organization with General Motors of Canada and General Motors Export, delivered approximately 525,000 Chevrolets to date, Mr. Klinger said.

Every month showed a consistent gain over the corresponding period last year, according to Mr. Klinger, the average per month gain being above 20,000 units, with the result that deliveries to consumers the first four months of 1928 were nearly on a par with deliveries for the first five months last year.

This unusual performance was made possible, Mr. Klingee asserted, through the farseeing policy of the company in planning its production facilities so that cars might be immediately available to the public every where.

The Merchandise Mart of Chicago, Twice the Size of the World's Largest Business Building, to Cost $30,000,000.

GIGANTIC MERCHANDISE MART TO BE TWICE SIZE OF WORLD'S LARGEST BUSINESS BUILDING

New Project for Chicago's Great Central Market to Cost $30,000,000—Involves the Greatest Single Development of Air Rights in the West.

Foremost Manufacturers, Wholesalers and Importers Will Be Housed Under One Roof in New Wholesale District; Inbound and Outbound Freight Station on Ground Floor of Building; Club in Tower for Nation's Merchants.

Chicago, (Special).—Chicago is to have a gigantic Merchandise Mart housed in its own building, which will be twice the size of the largest business building in the world. This mammoth structure, two city blocks in length, 18 to 23 stories high, is planned for the service and convenience of merchandise buyers of the United States and to achieve for Chicago a still greater prestige as a Great Central Market. It was declared today. It will cost $30,000,000. Construction will begin immediately.

The project will be the largest single development of air rights. The property of the new building except for caissons begins 23 feet above "datum."

The big business of the country is now done mainly in concentrated market places, as evidenced by the Garment Center and Cotton Goods Center in New York City, automobile rows in all leading cities, financial buildings, and the Furniture Mart in Chicago, where more than 700 furniture manufacturers show their products side by side, in the most modern manner and under ideal conditions. Business men have learned that the nearer they are to the centers of these market places, the greater is their opportunity for volume and profit.

The establishment of the Merchandise Mart is a dramatic development in the program to make Chicago the Great Central Market, a movement which the Chicago Association of Commerce started a number of years ago and a goal toward which it has been devoting its energies continuously ever since, under the leadership of its Foreign and Domestic Commerce committee.

Located on River Front.

This great Mart, which will house sales quarters and merchandise displays of several hundred of the country's foremost manufacturers, wholesalers and importers, will be located in the rapidly developing new river district, and will occupy a distinctly conspicuous position just across the river from Wacker Drive at Wells street, where the southern facade of the structure will be visible for blocks. The site was formerly that of the Chicago and North Western Railway Company's passenger station The building will extend 724 feet on Kinzie street, 577 feet on the river front and 324 feet on Wells street, with a diagonal frontage facing Orleans and Franklin streets. It will be set back from the river about 80 feet to accommodate a broad upper level drive extending from Wells to Franklin. The main entrance of the building will face the river and the drive.

The Merchandise Mart will have a total floor space of about 4,000,000 square feet as compared with slightly less than 2,000,000 square feet, which is the floor area of the Furniture Mart, the next largest building. Each of the eighteen main floors will have an area of more than 200,000 square feet.

Within the walls of this huge edifice the retail merchants of the United States, Canada and foreign countries will be able to see, under one roof, hundreds of lines of the world's best merchandise. The manufacturers' exhibits will include textiles, ready-to-wear, toys, laces, gloves, corsets, millinery, silverware, glass, rugs, knit goods, hosiery, shoes, men's wear, fancy goods, sport goods, art and antiques, jewelry, trunks, toilet articles, house furnishings, office equipment and scores of other merchandise displays.

Ten Largest Business Buildings in the World

Comparison of the cubage of the largest buildings in the world shows the Merchandise Mart, to be erected in Chicago, will be more than twice the size of the largest business building ever constructed. Here are the figures in cubic feet:

1. The Merchandise Mart, 53,000,000.
2. Chicago Furniture Mart, 25,370,000.
3. Equitable Building, New York City, 24,000,000.
4. General Motors, Detroit, 20,411,000.
5. Union Trust, Cleveland, 20,000,000.
6. Railway Exchange, St. Louis, 18,893,000.
7. Illinois Merchants' Bank, Chicago, 17,850,000.
8. Continental & Commercial Bank Chicago, 13,200,000
9. Woolworth Building, New York City, 13,200,000.
10. Straus Building, Chicago, 10,000,000

Among the largest tenants will be the wholesale and manufacturing-sales departments of Marshall Field & Company.

Time Saver for Merchants.

Every possible facility will be provided for the comfort and convenience of the retail merchant, who under one roof will be able to see hundreds of lines, thus saving time and money by doing in a few hours what ordinarily would take him days to accomplish

On all floors of the Mart will be great corridors, with all the appearance of boulevards, more than 650 feet in length, on either side of which will be the shops displaying their varied lines—veritable "business streets." These great corridors will be impressively treated architecturally and with the large space available it will be possible to house the selling activities and warehousing of many allied concerns on one floor, thus attaining the advantages of concentrated groupings.

The facilities for handling merchandise within the building will embody the best and most modern achievements of engineering science, including fast elevators, freight conveyors of both the gravity and endless chain type and quick horizontal distribution on every floor.

Probably no building in the world will have such facilities for receiving and shipping merchandise as the new Merchandise Mart. The entire ground level below the street floor will be a modern freight station. Private tracks for incoming carload freight will extend under the center of the building. The Chicago and North Western Railway will operate an inbound freight station for less than carload lots, as well as an outbound station, which will connect with all other roads through its new Proviso yards. The merchandise as it comes into this big freight station will be loaded into high-speed conveyors and transported immediately to the exact floor and aisle of the merchant for whom it is intended.

Connection will be made with the Illinois Tunnel Company's system of freight transportation, which has more than sixty miles of tracks beneath the streets and buildings of the city, reaching all other railroad terminals. A river dock for vessels will connect with the south freight elevators of the building.

Club Planned for Tower.

One of the interesting features planned for the Mart will be a Merchants' Club in the tower of the building, with lounging rooms, reading and smoking rooms, where the retailer may relax and meet his friends. The Mart will provide the retailer with everything but a place to sleep He can go direct from the train to the Mart with his baggage. Here his hotel reservations will be taken care of, his baggage transported to his hotel and placed in his room. Restaurants, lunch rooms and grills in the Mart will further economize his time. He will have the facilities of a barber shop, and a branch postoffice, telegraph office and public stenographers will afford him the opportunity to handle his correspondence without leaving the building. One of the biggest telephone exchanges in the world will be installed in the Mart.

Many other unique features are being considered for the Mart, including an Assembly Hall, where trade meetings, business conferences and fashion shows may be held from time to time As the plans are worked out, many other features may be decided upon Within recent years Chicago's central business district has been developing northward across the Chicago river. East of State street, along north Michigan avenue, Cass, Rush and other streets, this development has reached impressive proportions evidenced by more than twenty large buildings. To the west of State street a comparable development is underway. The site of the new Merchandise Mart is in the direct path of this new northward movement.

In the new river district where the Merchandise Mart is to be located many great buildings have been erected, and others soon will be begun The Builders' Building, the Engineers Building, the Chicago Evening Post Building, have been completed opposite the new Mart on Wacker Drive The new Chicago Daily News Building and the great new opera house of the Chicago Civic Opera Company are being constructed on the river three blocks south.

WAXAHATCHIE TRIBE NO. 9, I. O. R. M. ON THE DEATH OF REV. W. J. ARMSTRONG

The Red Men of Waxahatchie Tibe No. 9, stand bowed in sorrow at the end of the earthly trail of one of our beloved chiefs, Bother W. J. Armstrong. He has left his accustomed walks of life among us to roam the great undiscovered forests of the happy hunting grounds of our Father. His spirit has taken flight to that mysterious country from whose bourne no traveler returns.

Overwhelmed by this great sadness, we invoke the Great Spirit for comfort, for life, for light.

We feel that in the loss of Brother Armstrong the Improved Order of Red Men thoughout the Great Reservation of Alabama and Waxahatchie Tribe in particular, has lost one of its most powerful and valuable exponents. He was a chief both firm and true. For many years he labored here with an untiring zeal for the cause of Freedom, Friendship, and Charity, the three cardinal precepts of our totemic bond.

We who mourn his passing bow in humble submission to the will of the Great Spirit, and feel that loss which is so keen to the hearts of a people who realize that one of their trusted leaders has fallen a victim of the grim reaper.

The Red Men of Waxahatchie Tribe hereby ask the privilege in love and humility to extend sympathy and condolence to the family of our deceased and beloved chieftain. We ask to share with them their appalling sorrow, because we loved Brother Armstrong with a love that can be excelled only by that love which exists in the hearts of his own family.

As fellow Red Men of his we are left here to take up the banner of Freedom, Friendship, and Charity, which fell from his hands. We renew our vows with each other that we will carry on with greater zeal to the end that our noble band shall continue as a comforting and helpful agency to the needy, and meet the approval of the paleface nation in our hunting ground.

G. Culp, Manager.

MIMS GIRL INJURED WHEN CAR STRIKES ROAD MACHINE

Miss Ola Mims, age about 15 years, was painfully injured last Saturday night, when she was thrown from a light car, driven by her brother, C. E. Mims, when the car collided with a County road machine parked in the street near the home of Dr. Arthur Johnson, on Fifth Screet. Miss Mims was rushed to the private hospital of Dr. Arthur Johnson, where her injuries were treated, it being necessary to take several stitches to close the ugly gashes over her face.

Mr. and Mrs. Mims escaped serious injury in the collision, though Mrs. Mims was bruised and shaken up considerably.

When seen by a representative of the News, Mr. Mims stated that he had his car parked back of the feed house of J. L. Ruffin, where he is employed, and that he had started to his home in South Clanton just as the heavy rain began to fall, about 8:30, and had proceeded that far when his car struck the road machine, which he stated had been left there by some employee of the county, almost in the center of the street, without any lights and that he was further hindered from seeing it in time to stop because of the heavy rain. His car was running at a very low rate of speed, so stated Mr. Mims.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. G. H. CAFFEY, OF VERBENA, ALA.

On the 22nd. of May 1928, sadness and gloom fell over the towns of Verbena, and surrounding section, because death had snatched from the home of Mr. Guy H. Caffey, a loving wife and mother. Mrs. Caffey was one of the leading young matrons of Verbena, was brought up by the loving care of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Oliver, into a beautiful life of joy and usefulness to everyone with whom she came in contact. Besides her love for those who took the place of her parents, she was true to her home, church and friends. She had worked in almost every depart ment of the church during her short life. She had taught in two departments of her Sunday School, had been vice president of the W. M. U. for a time, and president of the same organization. She was on the building committee of the Verbena Baptist Church at the time of her death.

Since Mrs. Caffey has been such a blessing to all of us, and has been called to a still higher life, be it therefore resolved: That the Matrons Class of the Verbena Baptist Sunday School recall with high appreciation the work she did for our class, school and church

FIRST—That we extend condolence to the bereaved loved ones, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver, Mr. Caffey and the two motherless children.

SECOND—That we try to emulate her life of love, sympathy and service for others.

THIRD—That we strive harder to make our class and church what she wanted it to be.

FOURTH—That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the husband, Mr. G. H. Caffey, one to Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Oliver.

CITY OFFICERS HOLDING FORD CAR FOR OWNER

Last Saturday night, Officer T. E. Wyatt, of the city police force, came upon some boys who were taking advantage of the absence of the owner of an automobile that was parked near West End, and were relieving same of the gasoline that was in the tank. They had cut the hose from a nearby gasoline pump and were using it for a syphon tube, they also were in the act of removing the tires from the car.

When the boys saw Officer Wyatt they seemed to have some very urgent business elsewhere, and hastened to attend to that, leaving the car which they were using, not far from the car that had fallen victim to these fellows.

Upon investigation, Officer Wyatt found a large number of empty bottles that is believed to have contained home brew, in the rear of the car the boys were using, which was a Ford touring, about a 1923 model, according to information. The car was brought to town and now awaits the return of the owner, who will have several difficult things to explain if the matter is really as complicated as it seems now.

The license tag on the Ford is not really "a" license tag so it seems, but resembles the halves of two tags. The car is not assesed in this county it was later found, and at the time of this writing, the owner has not been located, however the search has not been abandoned.

ALABAMA'S OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS

The plans of the 1928 summer session of Alabama's opportunity schools, as the schools for the removal of illiteracy from Alabama have come to be called, will be inaugurated at a conference which opens at the University of Alabama on June 5 and continues for three days. The conference has been arranged by the division of exceptional education of the state department of education and will assemble a number of state and national educational leaders.

According to the census of 1920 the United States ranked tenth in illiteracy among the countries of the world, and Alabama ranked fourth among the states of the Union. Through a united program of many educational and social agencies, Alabama is making a determined effort to do her part in improving this unfavorable ranking of both the state and the nation.

That gratifying progress is being made is proved by the reports received from the opportunity schools conducted during the summer of 1927, when 2059 white pupils were enrolled.

Cullman County, for example, during the 1927 term enrolled 517 men and women, the largest enrollment in the state. Interest in the work among Cullman's illiterates is proved by the fact that one school began with nine pupils and closed with fifty-three. Superintendent Dowell reported that at the close of the summer term illiteracy had been entirely removed from five of the school districts.

The Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs assisted in financing the opportunity schools in Covington County. As a result that county maintained twenty schools for white illiterates, the largest number conducted in any one county.

The legislature of 1927 made it possible for every county in the state to receive as much as $600.00 as state aid for the elementary education of adults. Plans for the coming summer, as will be announced at the conference at the Univeristy make it certain that nearly every county will repuisition its para of this fund. In certain counties this state money will be increased by money from other sources.

More Millions Required To Serve You Better

THE continued growth of the Southeastern States will require an expenditure of more than $27,173,000 this year for additions, extensions and replacements to the Bell Telephone System in this section.

This big construction program follows a gross expenditure of more than $25,275,000 for similar purposes last year.

A substantial share of this investment will be made in Alabama and it is now estimated that more than 5,580 new telephones will be added in this state during 1928.

These large additions and replacements are a part of our policy of building in advance to keep pace with the anticipated growth and progress of the state.

This expansion makes the service more valuable to every community and provides the entire Southeast with an unequalled modern system of quick communication.

Auction Sale To Be Staged June 27

Free Barbecue, Twenty-Five Piece Band Among the Many Attractions

A real estate auction sale that is scheduled to be one of the largest and most interesting land sales ever conducted in Clanton will take place at Candler Terrace, Clanton's newest subdivision, Wednesday, June 27.

There will be free barbecue dinner served to all attending this land sale. A bag of gold will be given away also. These and the special music to be furnished by a twenty-five piece band from Birmingham, are among the many features that are to be presented during the day.

One hundred and thirty beautiful building lots are to be sold at this big sale. All are located at Candler Terace, just west of Clanton. This well laid out subdivision is owned by the Candler Terrace Land Company of Clanton. The sale will be conducted by the Britt Davis Auction Company of Florence and Monroeville, Alabama, which is rated as one of the largest organizations of its kind operating in the South.

Aside from the features mentioned above, the promoters state that other forms of amusement will be arranged, and in fact, a real gala day is assured all who visit Clanton and attend the auction sale on June 27.

Candler Terace is ideally located for a residential sub-division and already a large number of lots have been bought, though no formal sale has been held. The lots are all level, and this is one of the most desirable residential sections to be found anywhere.

The promoters urge all who are interested, to attend and take advantage of a chance to buy desirable property at a price set by the buyers.

BURGLARS ENTER WINDOW OF THE LEADER STORE

Early last Thursday morning about 1:30 or 2:00 o'clock, a burglar, or burglars, entered one of the show windows of The Leader, one of Clanton's popular dry goods stores, and made away with a large amount of clothing.

Entrance was made by using a concrete brick, to break the large plate glass window. The brick was found nearby the next day.

Clothing to the amount of $90.00 or $100.00 was stolen from the window, ed shirts, ties, a suit of men's clothes, according to information. This included numerous pairs of trousers and other articles of men's wearing apparell.

While no arrests have been made, officers have every evidence that will likely result in arrest of the guilty party or parties, at any moment, so it is said.

NEW LUNCH SHOP TO OPEN IN HAYES BUILDING SOON

Information reached us yesterday that one of the most modern and up to date eating places ever opened in a place of this size will open for business in the Hayes Building on Seventh Street, adjoining that part of the building which is being made ready for the Exchange Barber Shop.

We were informed that modern fixtures that go to make a "swell" eating place will be installed. This will not be on the style of a regular cafe, but more on the order of a light lunch or sandwich shop. A fine soda fount will be installed and a large number of tables and chairs, also, enough to accomodate at least 25 persons.

When interviewing the manager of the shop he stated that it would be a "real keen place" for light lunches, cigars, cigarettes, soda fountain drinks, candy, etc. Watch for future announcements in the papers.

Democrats Should Win Easy

The motive that prompts the assertions by some citizens of the County that the Republican party has a large majority over that of the Democratic party, is very easily comprehended. It is easy to make assertions of this kind, and they help keep up the moral, tend to reassure the rank and file of victory and are in keeping with an old political strategy that has been used in politics perhaps as much as the defense in murder trials, in our courts, that the deceased man ran his hand toward his hip pocket just as the defendant fired the fatal shot. These assertions go further with the so-called voter that wishes to be on the winning side. They work nicely when the facts will justify them, but when the facts belie them, the author finds hard sailing in making his lieutenants continue to believe them.

Before going iinto the discussion of the relative strength of the two parties in this county, the News believes that the Democrats of this county, if they were in fact, in the minority can take the ticket they have nominated and go to the people of this county with the assurance that the voters will approve them, for these candidates are each and every one well qualified for the places they are asking the voters to elect them and they are promising the people, Democrats and Republicans alike, that they will give their very best to make the county a success. That the roads, schools and general government affairs, will have their best attention and that the people will be treated courteous and that they will leave politics out of the office, when the electiion is over, and each of them being men of the highest type of citizenship, the people of this county can well approve the Democratic party, and its ticket in the General Election. The people are assured beyond any doubt that the Democratic candidates when elected will not hire members of their families, but will go out into the county and fill the places with men who are tax payers and who deserve and will appreciate the work.

As to the relative strength of the two parties, it may be of interest to our readers to know that the official published list of voters of this county showed that there were around 5800 qualified electors. Out of this number the two candidates in the recent Republican Primary received 2792 votes, leaving over three thousand voters who did not participate in the Primary or who voted in the Democratic Primary. If we assume that the vote which Judge Reynolds and Ex-Sheriff Littlejohn received is the full Republican strength, then there is left over three thousand voters who vote the Democratic ticket. The News has no authentic evidence that there were Democrats that went into the Republican Primary, however, it has been stated that from two hundred fifty to five hundred did so, but we would not be willing to vouch for the truth or falsety of the statement. We do know that there were no major contests on in the Democratic Primary in the county, and that a major portion of the Democrats of the county did not go to the polls and vote and on the other hand that nothing was left undone by the followers of the two candidates in Republican Primary to get out their voters.

Without making any assertions and leaving the people to judge for themselves as to the relative strength of the two parties the News, takes the position that Chilton County can make better progress and accomplish more for the people as a whole, by the election of the Democratic ticket in November, 1928, and that the people of this county will no longer be swayed from voting for the best interest of the county by prejudice or hatred ingendered for political purposes and done to perpetuate some few families in office. And if the Democratic nominees will go to the people of the county and make no promises that they cannot carry out, and let the people know their positions on the important matters of Government, they will find easy sailing when the results are ascertained next November.

SATURDAY FIRE BRINGS OUT NEW FIRE TRUCK

Warehouse of Farmers Hardware Is Scene Of Blaze

Damage estimated at several thousand dollars was caused by fire last Saturday night that originated in one of the warehouses at the rear of the Hayes building, which is a two-story spread to two adjoining warehouses. The origin of the fire has not yet been determined.

The warehouses are the property of Mrs. P. D. Wilson. Two were be used by the Farmers Hardware for storing lime, cement and shingles. The other contained drug store fixtures belonging to Dr. J. P. Hayes.

The fire was first discovered about 10:50 P. M. and the alarm was given immediately, bringing the new fire fighting equipment of the town of Clanton on its first call. Through untiring efforts of volunteer firemen, the fire was extinguished by 11:00 o'clock.

Slight damage was done to the Hayes Building, which is structure. No other damage was to other buildings, ording to information. The damage to the proper of the Farmers Hardware Co., will amount to near $800, and damage to the fixtures belonging to Dr. Hayes, will amount to near $1000.00 or more, according to report. Damage to the warehouse buildings has not yet been estimated.

Praise is high on the remarkable work rendered by the new fire fighting equipment recently purchased by the town of Clanton, at the fire, and also those who rendered their services in helping to extinguish the fire, which with a few moments more headway would undoubtedly have done damage amounting to several thousand dollars more than it did.

Opportunity Schools To Open In County

Prof. H. A. Harris To Act As Organizer For The County

In an effort to place an opportunity school in every community possible in Chilton County, Prof. H. A. Harris, has been appointed as organizer.

The intention of these schools is to give those who have not reached their desired goal in education, a fair chance to further aid themselves. Schools will be arranged in communities with an enrollment of 15 or more. No school will be established where the enrollment does not reach as high as 15 pupils. The age limit is 16 to 20 for all who have not passed the fourth grade. No limit to age of adults who wish to take advantage of these opportunity schools.

The school is in every way true to the name, as it is really an opportunity school, affording every adult a chance to learn to read and write, and to conduct their business affairs in a modern and business like way. Everything, even the books are furnished free.

When interviewed by a News representative Prof. Harris stated that the trustees of the different schools over the county are looked upon as leaders in this matter, and that he, Prof. Harris, is very anxious to have any of them write him for an appointment and further information in regard to establishing a school in any community where one is desired.

While no definite date has yet been set, for the beginning of the schools, Prof. Harris stated that he thought that everything would be in readiness by the sixteenth of July, and that they would continue for a term of six weeks.

OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS EXPLAINED BY SUPT. EDUCATION

Claton, Ala., June 11th, 1928.

Dear Editor:

I am taking this means of expressing my appreciation to the editors of the local papers for the splendid articles published recently about the opportunity schools being offered in the state. You called attention to the fact that nearly every county in the state was taking advantage of the appropriation made for opportunity schools. This county is one of the group you mentioned which has taken steps to accept the appropriation referred to above.

The County Board of Education has selected Mr. H. A. Harris as organizer and director of this work. We feel that out of his experience as an official and teacher he is perhaps better qualified to do the work than any other man we could secure. He konws the people of the county as well as the geography of the county and has first hand information about every community in the county. This coupled with his ability as a teacher certainly [illegible] or the place to which he has been [illegible]

[illegible] a time when we neither [illegible] rest nor the money to do [illegible] we are doing today. Many [illegible] I gladly accept the opportunity [illegible] by the present school [illegible] if it were possible. Many of our fathers constantly tell us of their unfortunate situation when they were

Mrs. L. F. Gerald Entertains At Bridge Honoring Bride-Elect

One of the prettiest parties of the season was that given by Mrs. L. F. Gerald on Tuesday afternoon at her beautiful home on Fifth Street. Mrs. Gerald entertained in honor of Miss Marzelle Mullins, a popular bride-elect whose wedding will be solemnized on Thursday June 14th.

For this occasion the entire home was thrown together and decorated in masses of Summer flowers. Ten tables for bridge with appointments of pink and white were arranged in the rooms. A color scheme of pink and white was effectively carried out in the decorations which were beautiful silver baskets of gladioli, roses and dahlias, tied with bows of white tulle. An attractive miniature wedding with a cupid bride and groom formed a pretty decorative motif for the living room mantle.

In the dining room the table was centered with a beautiful brides bouquet of lillies, snapdragons and delphininum. Four burning tapers in silver holders completed the pretty effect. Delicious fruit nectar was served by Misses Mary Heard and Myra Johnson from a prettily appointed table in the hall.

Little Mary Courtney Jones and Celia Gerald passed the tallies, which also carried out the suggestion of June weddings.

After a series of bridge games, Mrs. Gerald assisted by Mary Heard, Myra Johnson, Mrs. V. J. Heard, and Mrs. Jack Bowen served a delicious salad plate with ice tea to her guests. The high score prize, a pretty boudoir lamp was awarded Mrs. C. Fenn Jones. Miss Marzelle Mullins was also presented a dainty lamp. The consolation, a French novelty fell to Mrs. George Polk.

Included in the guest list for this delightful affair were the following:

Mrs. Frank Callen, Mrs. H. M. Simpson, Mrs. Jack Bowen, Mrs. Hugh Jones, Mrs. J Watts More, Miss Kathleen Mullins, Miss Marzelle Mullins, Miss Willodean Reynolds, Miss Frances Lingo of Montgomery, Mrs. Burt Higgins, Mrs. Eric Hart, Mrs. Heard, Mrs. Grady Reynolds, Mrs. Norman Roberts, Mrs. Hance Alred, Mrs. Page, Mrs. Milton Smith, Mrs. Ben Goltsman, Mrs. Laurie Farrior of Birmingham, Mrs. Chas. Popular Bride Elect Honored With Handkerchief Shower

On last Saturday afternoon at three thirty o'clock Mrs. J. W. Hayes entertained at a lovely party honoring Miss Marzelle Mullins, bride-elect.

For the occasion three tables were arranged in the spacious living room for bridge. The room was porfusely decorated in baskets and vases of gladiolus, delphininum and sweet peas. Six games of bridge were enjoyed. The high score, a bottle of powder, was awarded Miss Mullins who also received the guest prize, a dainty handkerchief.

After a delicious salad plate carrying out the color scheme of yellow and green was served by the hostess and Miss Madelyn Orr, the guests were invited into the dining room, which was attractively decorated in nasturtiums and dahlias. The dining table held as the center decorative motif, a miniature bride with a shower bouquet of pink and white sweet peas. From the bouquet ribbons extended to the edge of the table and each held a dainty handkerchief, gifts from friends. Two tall burning white tapers tied with bows of white tulle completed the pretty effect.

The guest list for this delightful social courtesy consisted of members of the younger set and relatives of the hostess and bride-elect. Those included were: Misses Willodean Reynolds, Kathleen Mullins, Marzelle Mullins, Jean Johnson, Madelyn Orr, Louise Orr. Mesdames Norman Roberts, J. P. Hayes, Omar Reynolds, J. Mrs. Frank Callen Compliments Bride-Elect with Luncheon

Among the series of prenuptial social affairs was the beautiful luncheon given Tuesday by Mrs. Frank Callen at her home on Fifth Street honoring the lovely bride-elect, Miss Marzelle Mullins and her maids.

The living room was attractive in its decorative arrangements of silver baskets and crystal bowls of delphinuim dahlias and gladioli.

In the dining room baskets of white lillies, gladioli and perenial phlox formed a pretty setting for the luncheon table, covered with a Maderia cloth and holding as its center decorative motif, a brides' bouquet of white lillies, snapdragons and delphinuim, showered with gladioli and fern. The candlesticks holding long white tapers and crystal bowls of nuts and mints, were placed at intervals around the table. The place of each guest was marked with cards holding miniature brides. The favors were shoulder corsages of pink gladiolus, sweet peas and orchid delphinuim.

A delicious four-course luncheon was served to Misses Marzelle Mullins, Kathleen Mullins, Frances Lingo and Willodean Reynolds; Mesdames Laurie Farrior, J. R. Mullins and the hostess.

FEEDING THE WORLD

Ever since the beginning of life on this planetthe quest of food has been the most vital activity of man and beast. The search for food has given rise to mighty migrations, and the earliest gropings toward civilization were made under the urge of hunger.

And, in spite of man's intelligence and ingenuity he has often failed to find the means of sustenance, and starvation has taken its toll of millions. Even to this day famine stalks in many lands.

[illegible] are apprehensive that in time famine will become constant and general, instead of occasional and local, a conditions of which Malthus gave warning a century and a quarter ago.

As nearly as can be estimated, the world's population has practically doubled in the last 100 years, increasing from apuproximately 850 to 1,750 million. Considering that it took the human race perhaps half a million years to reach the first 850 million and only 100 years to double that, what may happen in the coming centuries can only be conjectured.

While this problem may not seriously affect the Americas for several generations, at the present rate of increase in population it will only be a question of time until the food situation will be a grave one for the entire world.

Possibly the civic organizations of the future will be found trying to get rid of people, instead of boosting for bigger towns.

AIDING THE FARMER

Among the many schemes which have been projected in the past few years by politicians and others in real or pretended efforts to aid the farmers of the country, very few have been of any practical benefit. In fact, some of them have been productive of more harm than good.

But there is one species of government aid, at least, which has on the whole been really helpful. It is the agricultural extension service, whereby farm and home demonstration agents, trained for their important duties, have gone among the farmers, their wives and daughters, and taught them how to help themselves.

The various field and home projects and demonstrations carried on by these faithful workers, often under the most discouraging circumstances, have materially raised the efficiency of farming and rural homemaking.

Especially effective work has been done with the boys' and girls' clubs; work which will exert a tremendous influence upon the rural life of the future. This training of farm boys and girls for community leadership is perhaps the most important activity for the betterment of agriculture today.

A reasonable wish is more likely to come true.

1928 ASSOCIATED TOURS GUIDE FOR MOTORISTS

Motorists who plan to take a vacation tour, this summer, will be interested to know that The Automobile Club of America has just published the fourteenth edition of its annual road book, the 1928 Associated Tours Guide, which is now ready for distribution.

The Guide, nearly one hundred and twenty eight pages, contains a wealth of useful information for exactly planning where to go on your vacation trip and how to get there. The Motor maps [illegible] and itineraries shown in the Guide, covering the vast area of the United States east of the Mississippi and eastern Canada, as well as the more popular transcontinental and trans-Canadian routes, afford the motor vacationist a wide range of touring fields from which to select.

In all, the Guide gives over one hundred and twenty-five thousand miles of the best, hard surfaced highways in the country, especially chosen for their charm of scenic outlook, leading to seaside, mountain and inland resorts of rest and recreation. For motorists who plan to drive to any of the big conventions which will be held this summer, the complete motor map of the United States and corresponding itineraries given in the Guide, will furnish adequate information for the entire trip. A large folding map of the entire eastern section of the country, bound in the Guide, is handy for planning a large scale tour.

A feature of the Guide that motorists are apt to appreciate is that all itineraries are so arranged as to allow for a logical stopping place at the end of each days' run, where accomodations for the night in a good hotel or inn may be found. Both the National and State Highway numbering systems are shown on the maps and in the routes. There is also a digest of all the state motor laws, speed restrictions, license regulations, ferry schedules, as well as numerous maps showing how to enter leave or avoid them.

Among the tours with large maps in the Guide are: Adrirondack, Canadian-Pacific, Cape Cod, Capitol, Dixie, Granite State, Maine, Mid-West, Great Lakes to Gulf, Green Mountain, Lake Land, Ideal, Long Island, Montreal, Quebec, New Jersey, Post Road to Boston, Real Tour to the Berkshires, Scenic, Shenandoah, and Transcontinential.

For the convenience of motorists the Guide will be distributed through local newsdealers in all parts of the country or may be obtained by remitting [illegible] cents, to cover cost and postage, to The Automobile Club of America, 12 East 53rd Street, New York City.

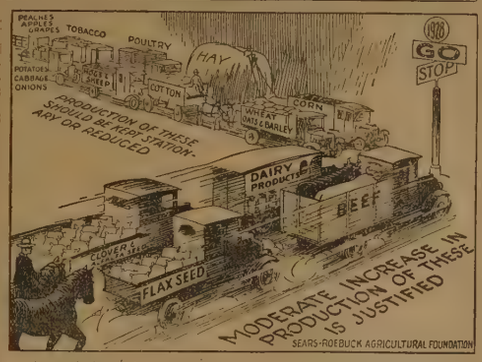
FARM PRODUCTS THAT LOOK MOST FAVORABLE



An analysis of the government report on the agricultural situation for this year shows that the outlook for dairy products, beef cattle, horses, flax, and alfalfa and clover seed is favorable, and that moderate expansion of production is permissable, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation points out. In other words, the signal for these products reads "Go ahead."

In case of most other products, however, the signs direct farmers to keep production stationary, or even to back up a little, if they wish to avoid the penalty of low prices. Among the products against which the stop sign is turned, or which should not be increased in 1028, are corn, oats, wheat, hay, cotton, barley, hogs, poultry, sheep, potatoes, sweet potatoes, tobacco, rice, dry beans and peanuts. The same is true of such other crops as cabbage, onions, cantaloupes and watermelons. Curtailment, rather than expansion, is needed in commercial plantings of strawberries, grapes, peaches, and citrus fruits. Plantings of apples are not justified except under exceptionally favorable conditions.

Unfortunately, the area in each of the five major crops in 1927 was fully as large as or larger than was needed, so that it is not possible to shift from one of these products to another in order to bring about a better adjustment of production to demand. These five crops range in size from about 100 million acres of corn down to 42 million acres of cotton with tame hay, wheat and oats coming in between.

No other crop occupies as much as 10 million acres, however. It is possible to correct for any overplanting of these minor crops by shifting acreage into the major crops without materially affecting the output of the latter.

It is true that weather conditions cause large variations in crop yields from year to year, and sometimes are responsible for surpluses which depress prices. In the long run, however, changes in acreage are most important. Over a period of years the decisions which farmers, collectively, make as to acreage of various crops and size of breeding herds and flocks play a larger role than the weather in determining financial results.

In making plans for 1928, each farmer must consider the conditions relating to his own farm, the Foundation states. If prospects are favorable for any product, not all farmers should expand, and if it is unfavorable, it does not follow that all should reduce production. For example, even if no general increase in production of feed crops is justified, each farmer should endeavor to produce his own supply. Likewise, he should plan for a supply of food crops, eggs, milk and meats for home use, irrespective of the market outlook for those products.

STATE ANNOUNCES POLICY OF COMPLETING GREAT ROADS

Montgomery, Ala., June 8.—Col. Woolsey Finnell, state highway director, announced this week that the State Highway Commission has decided upon the policy with regard to building good paved roads, to concentrate upon the paving of the principal north and south highways.

These roads he explained are the Bee Line Highway, extending from the Tennessse state line via Birmingham and Montgomery to Mobile; the road extending from Montgomery via Tuskegee to the Georgia line, near West Point and the road from Chattanooga, Tenn., which enters Alabama near Valley Head and extends to Tuscaloosa.

This announcement was made in connection with the rejection by the commission yesterday, as unsatisfactory, of all bids received on 21 miles of paving in Lowndes County. New bids will not be advertised for immediately on this project, it was stated.

ALABAMA POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE ADDS APPLIED ARTS

Auburn, Ala., June 6.—A five-year course in applied art has been added to the courses of the school of architecture and allied arts at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute for the coming year. Announcement to this effect was made Wednesday by Dean Frederic Child Biggin.

So far as is known, this is the first such course given for both men and women by a Southern college. Heretofore, southern boys and girls wishing a thorough training in the many branches of applied art have been forced to leave their state and bear the heavy expenses of attending a northern school. Their training accomplished, such students are often lost to the industry of the state by a failure to return.

The applied arts underlie all forms of industry, because the modern world requires in products beauty of line and mass as well as utility. Everything must be designed in a drafting room before it can be constructed in workmanship or field.

The course in applied art at Auburn offers a groundwork in drawing, painting, modeling and the history of art. Design courses and electives of the later years provide opportunity to specialize in several branches, such as commercial art, design of furniture, costumes, textiles and wall paper, interior decoration and landscape.

In addition to the course in applied art, the school of architecture offers degree courses in architecture and architectural engineering. The former specializes in planning, design and the allied arts. The latter specializes in advanced construction and related studies.

For further information in regard to any course offered by the school of architecture address Dean Frederic Child Biggin.

LEADERS SUGGEST WORK FOR SEASON

Auburn, Ala., June 11.—Three suggestions are offered by Dean M. J. Funchess of the College of Agriculture at Auburn and Prof. L. N. Duncan, director of the Extension Service, Auburn, for the benefit of cotton growers.

The first is that maximum use be made of improved machinery for cultivation; the second is that farmers apply a topdressing of 100 to 200 pounds of either nitrate of soda or calcium nitrate per acre immediately after chopping; and the third is that they prepare for poisoning boll weevils.

The machinery suggestion is based upon the fact that great efficiency per man is needed in all farm operations and especially during emergecies. Crops are late, rains have been above normal, and grass is growing. To handle the present situation to best advantage added power and machinery is needed.

For many years the Alabama Experiment Station and county agents have recommended top-dressing with nitrate of soda. With crops late and part of the nitrogen applied before the rains washed away emphasis is being placed upon more nitrogen at this time.

The boll weevil recommendation is based upon the fact that poisoning done properly by farmers who have fertilized and made other preparations for producing satisfactory yields of cotton has been very profitable. With the present crop late and boll weevils emerging the boll weevil hazard is greater this year. Therefore farmers are advised to buy supply of poison and machinery for applying and have it ready for use when needed. In case it is not needed this year it may be kept until next year or until it is needed.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Ex-Governor W. W. Brandon of Alabama was re-elected president of the United States Good Roads Association at a meeting in Des Moines. J. A. Roundtree of Birmingham was re-elected director general.

At the end of the fiscal year, June 30, it is estimated that the surplus of the Treasury of the United States will be beween $375,000,000 and $450,000,000. The exact amount will depend upon income tax collections.

The Delco-Light Company began operation twelve years ago last April and has sold more than 300,000 domestic electric light plants. This concern in now owned by General Motors Corporation.

It is announced that the Federal Government has discovered that a paper made from one-quarter cotton and three-quarter linen will give longer service than all-linen paper now being used. The addition of this cotton and making bills smalled will save the government nearly $2,000,000 a year in the cost of paper money.

In 365 days Abigail, a native Jersey cow owned by Hillside Jersey Farm in Massachusetts, produced 23,677 pounds of milk containing 1,197.51 pounds butterfat. Her milk averaged 5.06 per cent butterfat. With this production she established a new Jersey record for all time, and the record for all breeds on milking three times a day.

ORGANIZED WAR TO BE WAGED ON BOLL WEEVILS

Auburn, Ala., June 11.—Organized war is to be waged on the army of boll weevils of which the advanced guard is now emreging in Alabama. At a conference at Auburn of entomologists of the College of Agriculture and Extension Service officials it was decided that preparations should be made for poisoning Mr. Boll Weevil and his tribe; and, to this end, demonstrations will be conducted and other steps taken to arouse interest among farmers.

Experimental results presented by Prof. J. M. Robinson, head of the department of entomolgy, showed that poison has been very profitable as an average the last four years. Three experiments were reported—one at Auburn, one with a farmer in Lee County, and one with a farmer in Montgomery County. The average cost of poisoning was $7.25 per acre per season. For each dollar spent in the form of increased production, as an average.

Already Weevils are emerging in central and south Alabama and county agents are planning early demonstrations in poisoning. Such demonstrations are being recommended by J. P. Wilson, R. G. Arnold and J. T. High, district demonstration agents.

Although weather during July, August and September may be such as to make poisoning unnecessary entomologists at Auburn say that it is a mistake to risk the weather. It will be much wiser and safer to get a supply of calcium arsenate with machinery for applying it and have it ready, they say. If not needed this year it will keep until it is needed. The State Farm Burau is assisting in the boll weevil control movement by arranging to buy poison on the cooperative plan.

MONTEBARRO CASE SET FOR HEARING IN SEPTEMBER

Montgomery, Ala., June 12.—At the conclusion of a conference yesterday between Atty. Gen. Charlie McCall and attorneys for the three persons charged with assault and intent to murder upon H. F. Blake in the court room at Columbiana last April, the attorney general agreed to postponement of a special term of the Shelby County Grand Jury to investigate the affair, until September. The special term was to have been held next month.

As the result of conferences by the attorney general with Circuit Judge E. S. Lyman of Columbiana, the circuit solicitor and Gov. Bibb Graves, agreement has also been reached for the deferring from July to September of the trial of W. D. Farmer, Calera motorcycle officer, charged with the murder of Miss Louise Montebarro, who was shot and killed near Calera last November. At the trial, the prosecution of Farmer will be conducted by Atty. Gen. McCall. The controlling reason fo rthe postponement in each instance was the fact that at this season of the year, farmers throughout the territory included in the circuit of which Shelby County is a part, are very busy with their crops.

H. F. Blake, Calera chief of police, was co-defendant with W. D. Farmer in connection with the death of Miss Montebarro. Blake was tried and acquitted of a charge of murder in the first degree. Immediately after the verdict was announced, he was attacked by Mrs. Montebarro, mother of the dead girl, and Miss Cecil Tubbs, an aunt. The mother fired a pistol at Blake, but the missile went wild. The aunt, however, stabbed Blake in the shoulder with a hunting knife. He was seriously injured, but recovered.

The two women and A. H. Tubbs, an uncle of the girl, were arrested on charges of assault with intent to murder. They later waived preliminary hearing and were released on bond.

Three Ex-County Employees Condemn Present Methods

MR. EDITOR:

Please allow us space for a few lines in your paper to explain to the people of our good County why we, the undersigned are no longer employed on the road crew. This is our first effort along this line, and these statements are made purely for the purpose of the public being made familiar with the way certain things are done in the county.

We want to say first that the good people of our good county seem to be disturbed over the condition of the roads as they are now being maintained. We wish to say that we were pleased with the people and we triedto please them. We tried to give them our best work and as good time as we knew how, and the way this disturbance came about was through the grader men asking for a raise, and as the Commissioners seemed to have no funds available to meet this raise with, decided to cut our wages and give them the 50 cent raise, in other words, the Commissioners "robbed Peter to pay Paul," is the way it looks to us, and as a result of this "robbing Peter to pay Paul," we drivers quit, as our wages were barely enough to live on befoe the cut was put into effect.

We have worked at public roads for a long while, but have never before heard of one fellow getting a raise in salary by cutting the wages of another co-worker, and it seems to us that this was intended to be a family affair, as you will find now employed on the road crew the following men and boys: H. B. Vinson, son of Commissioner Vinson, D. H. Arant, son in-law of Commissioner Vinson, and three sons of Commissioner Burnett. Good people figure this out and see if we are not right.

We have some good men on the other side. We feel like we need a judge and a set of Commissioners that will give justice, and we believe that if the voters will go to the polls and vote for Dr. Hinkle, and elect him, they will be assured of JUSTICE. We have known Dr. Hinkle over twenty years and have found him to be a straight and upright man, and know that he is well qualified to fill the office to which he aspires. Next November when we go to the polls, lets make some changes.

"HERE COMES ARABELLA" BIG SUCCESS IN VERBENA

"Here Comes Arabella", a three-act musical comedy presented in the Verbena High School auditorium June 8, was indeed a success.

Never before has the superior quality of local talent in the little town been so well displayed and so marked.

The play was given under the auspices of the Verbena P. T. A. and was the second of its kind to be given here. The director came from Wayne P. Sewell Lyceum Company of Atlanta.

The play being a rich combination of humor, pathos, romance and rhythm swayed the delighted audience between tears and laughter and brought forth much enthusiastic applause.

Arabella, the principal character in the play (played by Elizabeth Hubbard) is a run away gypsy girl, who finds a home with the Toppincrofts, two interesting old maids and a bachelor brother. With her sweet voice, girlish charm and magnetic personality, she wins the audience at her first entrance and holds them throughout the entire play with her artistic interpretation of the leading role.

Playing opposite Arabella is Robert Adair. Robin, in disguise is Arabella's first benefactor whom she later learns to love as the nephew of her foster parents. The portrayal of this character required dramatic ability, dancing and song and was cleverly acted by Audrey Robinson.

The parts of Aunt Debby and Aunt Prudence were played remarkably well by Cordelia Gulledge and Mrs. Irby Deramus. Uncle Josh, played by Sam Bolding of Brundidge (formerly of Verbena) kept the audience rippling with appreciative laughter.

The packing committee of the Ladies Aid, Mrs. Meeks, (Mrs. J. E. Barrett) Mrs. Waddles (Miss Frances Gulledge), and Mrs. Lurkins (Ada Glenn) added greatly to the sparkling humor of the play.

No character was more laughable than Luvinski, a Russian Jew, played by Mr. W. A. Gulledge.

The flappers, Imogene, Crystalbel and Henrietta, who maneuvered skillfully to win Robin, were played exceptionally well by Bertha Barrett, Virginia Scott and Ladean DeSear.

Three other characters in the play who deserve special mention are Syd Hopwell, a playwright and friend of Robin (played by Melville Baker) and two college boys Bill and Jack, played by Houston Robinson and Ralph Barrett.

The success of the songs and dances was due largely to the splendid piano accompaniment of Miss Juanita Gordon of Deatsville.

The talented cast, supported by 12 graceful chorus girls (in beautiful costumes) eight "Little Grandmas" and eight Robin Redbreasts, coached by Miss Edna Yost of Atlanta, produced a performance, which had an artistic polish rarely seen in a small town.

OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS TO BE CONDUCTED IN COUNTY

boys that did not afford them the opportunity of training. In the opportunity schools the state is making an effort to serve, not only the children of the present generation, but the adults as well, by giving them an opportunity to get the training which they now realize is so much needed. All children from sixteen to twenty who have not passed the fourth grade are admitted to the schools and all adults.

The opportunity schools will be had beginning about the middle of July and running for a period of six weeks. There will be no charge for books or fees. Mr. Harris will take the matter up with the communities and I trust that every individual will give his utmost support and assist him in every way possible to make the schools a success.

The funds for this work are limited and it will be impossible to hold a school in every community this Summer and our policy will be to serve those schools which make application first. If the reader is interested in one of these schools being held in his or her community please write or see Mr. H. A. Harris, Stanton, Alabama, at the very earliest date possible in order that we may know how many books to make application for. Fifteen applicants to a community are required for the establishment of an opportunity school. Reading, writing, arithmetic, and practical business methods of every day life will be stressed in these schools.

Again exppressing my appreciation to the editors of the local papers for the interest already shown in the movement and assuring them of our appreciation of anything they may be able to do in this matter in the future, I am,

Yours very truly,

Rush Work On Clanton-Maplesville Highway

When Completed Will Connect Selma, Montgomery And Birmingham

The work on the highway between Clanton and Plantersville, which is a part of the highway that is under construction between Clanton and Selma, is rapidly going forward, according to Mr. C. B. Cox, contractor.

Mr. Cox stated that they have about one hundred and eighty mules on the job, and two steam shovels, one drag line and three mixers, already. Approximately one hundred and forty men are employed on the job.

The construction crew is divided in to seven camps, which are at different places along the road between Clanton and Plantersville. The contract for the building of this road was awarded to Nixon, Phillips and Cox, contractors of Clanton.

The work that is being done at the present is principally the grading of the road, and the building of concrete culverts, and laying of pipe for drainage. This work will require several more weeks for its completion. Mr. Cox stated that the graveling of the highway will begin just as soon as the preliminary work is finished, and if the rain does not hinder them, they will soon have a road that one may speak well of.

When completed this highway from Clanton to Selma will serve as a long needed convenience, as Clanton is approximately half way between Alabama's largest city, Birmingham and Alabama's capital city, Montgomery, and having a through paved road connecting the three, it will doubtless make Clanton, which is one of Alabama's fastest growing little cities, and which is at the junction point where travel to Selma and points to the South diverge from the Montgomery-Birmingham highway, a terminal on an important highway extending from that city all the way to Mobile.

ADJUSTED COMPENSATION ACT LIMIT FOR FILING EXTENDED

The office of Congressman Lamar Jeffers, Washington, D. C., announces the enactment, during the session of Congress just closed, of a amendment to the World War Compensation Act, which will be of benefit to those who failed to file claim for adjusted compensation, or the so-called "Bonus." In a case where the veteran died, without filing claims for adjusted compensation, his dependents were entitled to file claim for benefits in the following order of preference: (1) the widow, if unmarried; (2) if no unmarried widow, the children; (3) if no unmarried widow or children, then the mother; (4) if no unmarried widow, or children or mother, then the father. Under this Act the time limit for filing claims EXPIRED on January 1, 1928.

The PRINCIPAL PROVISION in the amendment to the law which has recently been enacted, IS THE EXTENSION OF TIME FOR FILING APPLICATIONS for adjusted compensation by the veteran himself, or by the preferred dependent of a deceased veteran, until JANUARY 2, 1930.

Congressman Jeffers' office will be glad to answer any inquiries regarding this matter, or to render all possible assistance to any veteran, or the dependent of any deceased veteran, who has failed to file application and who may now desire to claim the benefits under this extension of time for filing application.

AMERICAN GIRL IS FIRST TO FLY ACROSS OCEAN

Boston Society Woman And Two Companions Land In Wales

Burry Port, Wales, June 18.—The first woman to ever cross the Atlantic Ocean in an airplane, and the two men who aided her in crossing tonight sought well-eared repose in this little Welsh town. Today shortly after noon Miss Amelia Earhart of Boston with Wilmer Stultz, pilot, and Louis Gordon, landed their tri-motored monoplane "Friendship" in Burry Port estuary, off this port, completing in 20 hours and 49 minutes the flight from Trepassy Bay, Newfoundland.

Tomorrow they will fly the Friendship to Southampton, which, as an alternative to Valencia Bay, Ireland, they had set as the goal of their trans-oceanic flight. Southampton they missed by flying about 130 miles too far northwest.

It was shortly after noon that watchers on the Welsh coast saw an airplane approaching from the southwest like a great black bird. As it drew nearer the drone of its three powerful engines became audible, but it was not until the big ship flew low over Llanelly railway station(four miles from Burry Port) that it dawned on the curious crowds that this was the Friendship and that aboard it was the first woman to cross the Atlantic in an airplane.

The Stars and Stripes painted on the fuselage and the printed letters of its name could be seen. Once Burry Port had seen this insignia it was a town transported with excitement.

Narrowly Escape Disaster

After circling gracefully over the town the plane continued at a low altitude along the river to the coast and there narrowly escaped disaster when it passed only a few yards to the side of the Burry Port Cooper Works chimney stack. Observess held their breath but the plane slipped by to make a graceful landing a few minutes later in the estuary. The tide was almost dead low when the plane skimmed the water, taxing up to a buoy where the fliers made fast while launches and boats from the shore scuried out to greet them.

The great voyage from America had ended; their dreams were realized and the plane and its occupants safe "on land" once more.

The entire population of this little

Highway Dedicated With Ceremonies

Gov. Graves And Officials Speak At Opening Exercises Followed by Barbecue

Montgomery, Ala., June 18.—The overland journey from Birmingham to Montgomery, which formerly took from two to three days, in the horse and buggy era, and a day and a half in the pioneer stage of the automobile industry, was reduced Monday to from two and a half to three hours when the new Birmingham-Montgomery paved highway was formally dedicated and opened to the public over its entire length of 103 miles.

The dedication ceremonies, which began at 11 a. m., were held at Prattmon in Autauga County, and were presided over by Col. Woolsey Finnell, state highway director.

The weather was perfect and a throng from many places was present. The exercises were sponsored by the Alabama Automotive Trades Association, of which W. Cleve Stokes, of Montgomery is president.

The program opened with special music by the Masonic Home Band of Montgomery. The first address was by A. C. Davis, of Montgomery, who welcomed the visitors. The response was by Ted Brownell of Birmingham. Five-minute talks were made by Lieut. Gov. J. Lee Long, speaker of the House of Representatives of the state; Fred J. Cramton, president of the Bee Line Highway Association; Senator John Craft of Mobile, and Hugh Morrow of Birmingham.

The main address was by Gov. Graves. The speech of formal dedication was delivered by Col. Finnell.

Following the ceremonies, the guests proceeded to the Graham-Haven, a few miles away, to a barbecue dinner. Following the barbecue, boating, dancing and swimming was enjoyed.

To Hold Factory Demonstration Soon

Will Demonstrate Wares Of Majestic Manufacturing Co. All Next Week

An event that is to be of no little interest to the housewives of this section is the Factory Demonstration of the Majestic Range, which is to be conducted at the Jones Hardware all next week, June 25th through June 30th

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a large display ad giving details of the demonstration as well as special Free offer made.

A prominent women's magazine recently printed an article on "False Economy in the Kitchen", dealing with the short-sightedness of many housewives who are really being extravagant when they think they are economizing.

"Some women," the article said, "keep just enough ice in their refrigerator to last them from one day to the next, thinking they are saving. It has been demonstrated, however, that food would keep much better and their ice bill would actually be less if they kept the ice compartment full at all times.

"Many housewives worry along with an old, inefficient range that consumes twice as much fuel as it should, instead of buying a new range that would pay for itself in a short while through the fuel it saves, besides being more convenient and pleasant to work with."

The demonstration of the new All-Enamel Majestic Range at the Jones Hardware should be of interest to the women who want to economize in their kitchens and get better results from their ranges. The factory expert, according to Mr. Jones, will explain just how this new range cooks and bakes with less fuel. He will also explain how the range may be bought on the new "pay-as-you-use-it" plan, without interest or other carrying charges.

"It's the finest looking and does finest cooking."

"The Snob" Topic for Sunday

Webster's New International Dictionary says that a SNOB is: A person who does not belong to the upper class; one obviously without rank, or gentility; a vulgar or oshtentatious person, or one who has an excessive and vulgar or mean regard for wealth and social standing, or one who vulgarly affects the manners or station of those of superior rank by display of wealth."

Rev. L. B. Green, pastor of the Clanton Methodist Church, according to announcement last Sunday will tell his congregation next Sunday moring somethig of a SNOB, and as he is one of the most learned ministers of the Alabama Conference, we believe that his sermon will be interesting and instructive, and that those who hear him will be fully compensated for their time. It may be he will tell something of the upper class and why the SNOB does not affiliate with them or why he does not seek a rank or gentility or perhaps he will give some interesting facts about the oshtentatious fellow.

Should there be a SNOB in town, he may rest assured that he may attend this service without any fear of being embarrassed for Mr. Green, is capable of, and always delivers his sermons so as not to offend those whom he is challenging to change their ways and yet, at the same time, imprint on their minds the main thoughts which he wishes to convey.

Scott-Mullins Wedding A Recent Brilliant Affair

Beauty and dignity prevailed at the marriage of Miss Marzelle Mullins, beautiful daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Renfroe Mullins, of Clanton, to Mr. Frank Noah Scott, of Anniston, Ala., at the local Baptist Church last Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Rev. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Clanton, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. J. Toy Williams, recently returned Missionary from China, and a cousin to the bride.

The handsome church which lends itself so charmingly to decoration, was a bower of loviness. The altar was banked with stands palms and ferns placed in pyramidal form, and in the center of the greenery was a huge hydranga. Flanking each side of the altar were Marie Antionette baskets filled with white gladioli, and snap dragons Under the three huge arches of the church stood three smaller arches interwoven with Southern Smilax. Placed alternately were broad, seven-branched candelabra holding burning tapers which shed a sofe light [illegible] Tall white burning tapers were also placed in each window.

Preceding the entrance of the bridal party, a musical program was given by Mrs. Percy Pitts at the piano, and Mrs. Will Longshore, violinist. Mrs. Colquitt Majuire and Mr. Frank Mullins sang several beautiful selections.

Miss Kathleen Mullins, the maid of honor, wore green chiffon with picture hat to match, and carried an arm cluster bouquet of gladioli tied with pastel shades of tulle.

Mrs. Laurie Farrior, of Birmingham was chosen Matron of Honor. She wore orchid chiffon with picture hat to match.

The bridesmaids included Miss Gertiwyl McDonald of Wetumpka. Miss Willodean Reynolds of Clanton and Miss Frances Lingo of Montgomery. Miss McDonald was gowned in orchid chiffon with picture hat to match. Miss Reynolds and Miss Lingo wore pink chiffon gowns, with picture hats to match. Each carried arm clusters of gladioli tied with pastel shades of tulle.

Little Billy Callen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Callen, acted as ring bearer the ring bein carried in a large white lily. Grace Ezell and Nell Rockett were flower girls, wearing pink chiffon. Six ribbon girls marked the aisles with white tulle, wearing large bows of white tulle on their arms. They were little Helen Moore, Celia Gerald, Eloise Rasberry, Peggy Page, Mary Courtney Jones and Peggy Mullins.

The groom had as his best man, Mr. Cecil Stokes of Anniston. Acting as groomsmen were Charles Moore of Clanton, John DeRamus of Selma and John Durwood and Edwin Mullins, brothers of the bride.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was an exquisite picture of loveliness in her wedding gown of white satin, fashioned with charming simplicity. She wore a beautiful veil of Princess lace, and carried a bouquet of brides' roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Approximately two hundred were in attendance.

SHUN THE PEDDLER

The summer season, now at hand, brings with it an economic evil that annually takes a toll of thousands of ill gained dollars. It is the time of the peddle, the house to house door bell ringer and those of his kind who travel from place to place plying their trade and imposing on the credulity of the unthinking, offering bargains in this and that which most always turn out to be inferior merchandise sold at higher prices or in short measure. It is well to beware of these fellows and the plausible stories that they tell to engage the interest and confidence of their prospect.

They are of many varieties and have as many kinds of merchandise to sell. Inferior articles of many kinds are peddlers about hither and yon during the summer months. The automibles has been a great aid to this kind of chicanery for after he has landed a few gullable prospects today's journey will take him far away and beyond the reach of the buyer who discovers that he has been victimized.

What better insurance can there be that buying from the home town merchant. If for any reason the article proves unsatisfactory, he is ready and willing to correct the trouble and satisfy his costomer. not so with the peddler he is gone tomorrow or yet today if the chase gets too hot.

He is not seeking to satisfy his customer he is after the money alone. The home town merchant stakes his reputation and his success on his record for [illegible] and honest dealing. He must be [illegible] as [illegible] day in and day out, year in and year out. There is nothing elusive about him.

When folks want support and con[illegible] they can [illegible] their wants [illegible] and [illegible] will [illegible] gladly [illegible] one [illegible] of the itinerant merchant contributing a single cent for the advancement of a local cause? There is one real way of [illegible] good goods, at reasonable [illegible] the way of getting good value [illegible] dollar expended and that is to [illegible] reputable home town merchants.

BOYS AND GIRLS

Charles P. Cole of Burxton, Me., who for four years has walked 12 miles a day to and from school at the head of his class.

Shurt Drovine, 4 years old, of Baltimore plays the masterpieces of Czerny and Beethoven in public. At six months, while sitting on his mothers lap he beat perfect time to her playing.

Mildred Erzinger, near West Plains Mo., who hikes 8 miles a day for a high schol education expects to accumulate record of more than 5,000 miles before finishing her course.

Mary Lee of St. Louis, aged 15, recently won a harmonica playing contest against 250 competitors, before a great crowd in the city hall.

FORETASTE OF THE NEXT WAR

A faint forcast of what may be expected in the next war is seen in the recent killing of eleven persons outright and the probably fatal injury of many more by Phosgene gas in Hamburg, Germany.

This deadly gas, which is used for industrial purposes, escaped from a leaking tank, not larger than an ordinary gasoline wagon carries, and spread rapidly over a section of Hamburg, spreading death and terror. Had not rain fallen at the opportune moment to change the chemical properties of the gas, thousands might have perished.

It is said that only half a gram of phosgene in a cubic meter of air is sufficient to cause death. One small tank dropped from an airplane in the center of a city would probably destroy almost the entire population.

This is but one more illustration of the terrible perils which not only soldiers, but the civil population as well, may expect to face in case of another war of large proportions should unhappily occur.

WHATS NEW

One of the newest inventions is a new orthophoto machine which it is claimed will print pictures at a rate of 4,000 per hour.

A British chemist has discovered a metallic compound which, when applied to glass, renders it unbreakable, and attempts are being made to use it in construction of radio vacuum tubes.

Two French engineers have invented an aerial torpedo for transporting letters and packages at a speed of nearly 300 miles an hour.

Aviation engineers of England have invented a new airplane engine that burns heavy oil instead of gasoline.

Dr. N. D. Zelinsky, a German chemist, has found that by covering insects with powdered copper oxide and heating them in small platinum crucibles in an atmosphere of carbon dioxide that they will turn to metal.

SIDELIGHTS

The dead body of a man found shot in a Chicago alley was identified as that of Arthur McCaffary by his own father and sent to an undertaker establishment. While preparations for the funeral were in progress McCaffary appeared, explaining that he had been attending a sick friend. The item was published in only one newspaper, the Jester edition of the Macon Telegraph, edited by Wesleyan students. It was a joke but the Advocate swallowed the yarn, hence its anger.

With SICK HEADACHES

Mr. Charles F. Todd, of Estesburg near Waynesburg, Ky., says: "I was suffering with nervous headaches. About once a week I would have these headaches, and have to quit work, and go to bed for about twenty-four hours. I would have pains in my neck, and right behind my right ear.

"A merchant at Estesburg told me to try taking Black-Draught, which I did.

"It relieved me. From that time on, I would take Black-Draught as soon as I felt like I was going to have one of those headaches—and they wouldn't come on.

"Every few weeks, I take three or four doses of Black-Draught, and I feel so well, and do my work, and don't lose any more time with headache."

A. R. Adams Writes And Condemns County "G. O. P."

Clanton, Ala.
June 18, 1928

Editor Chilton County News:

Please allow me space in your paper to express a few of my thoughts in regards to our county affairs and our officers. Now first, I want to state that I have always voted the Republican ticket until I found out that the Republican party did not have but one man fit for Probate Judge. I don't reckon they have for the past two elections some of the people have put out two good men and nobody wins but Reynolds. So he must be the only man they have, so ladies and gentlemen, lets all of us meet at the polls this fall and elect a new judge for one more session while in life, and show Judge Reynolds that there is one more man fit for judge and also elect a new set of men in every office.

If we can get a new set of officers, maybe they will make some arangements to work our roads and fix our bridges, instead of walking over them and walking around our bridges, for they can't walk over them because they have no floors.

Now, gentlemen, as you all konw that there is just afew of these stick pets that have had a job on the road ever since Reynolds has been in office, and they have all picked up lots of dollars at their leisure time, when we all had nothing that we could make anything out of. So now lets change officers and stop this use of the county's funds. Lets see if we can't divide this thing up equally among us all and live and let live, we can't make it any worse than it is.

I for one do believe that Dr. P. T. Hinkle can transact any business for Chilton County that may be required. So lets meet at the polls and put him in this fall and give him a trial.

Yours for better county affairs,

(Signed) A. R. Adams

GRAND OPENING OF I. G. A. STORE IS ANNOUNCED

In this issue of the News will be found the large display ad announcing the Grand Opening of Moatts Brothers I. G. A. Store, which will be an event of this week end.

This, as is known, is a chain store, and with the added buying power, will be of great benefit to the local dealers as they will naturally be in position to offer their groceries at a lower price than in the past, so we are informed.

The Moatts Brothers business which has been in operation here for several years as an independent grocery and market, has built up a splendid business and with the affiliation with the large chain store there is no doubt but that their business will make even greater strides than in the past. Read their ad, and watch for the specials offered in their ads in the News—It will pay you.

SHERIFF'S FORCE HAS UNUSUALLY QUIET WEEK

Just as we went to press Wednesday afternoon, a representative of the News called the office of Sheriff Collins in search of news in regard to arrests, and was informed that no arrests had been made since our last issue.

This is unusual for a county with the population of Chilton County, and is an indication that the people are evidently too busy with farming and other business affairs to violate the laws.

Mrs. C. V. Heath and Hal Broadhead accompanied Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Ezell as far as Wetumpka Monday morning. They will be the guests of friends and relatives in Wetumpka and Montgomery.

ILLNESS FATAL TO CHAS. M. ROY, L. & N. VETERAN

Birmingham, Ala., June 20.—Charles M. Roy, for 24 years a resident of Birmingham and one of the veteran employes of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, died at a Birmingham hospital at 4:45 p. m. Monday.

Mr. Roy had been in ill health several years and his illness finally forced his retirement from active work about two years ago when he was pensioned by the L. & N. after 36 years' service with that road. At the time of his retirement, Mr. Roy was assistant supervisor of bridges and buildings on the L. & N system.

For some time Mr. Roy had made extended trips in search of health and in recent months had shown considerable improvement. In the hope of fully regaining his health he entered a hospital here two weeks ago and apparently was showing marked improvement when an operation became necessary. He was operated upon Monday morning but to no avail and he died Monday afternoon.

Mr. Roy was a Mason, a Shriner, a member of the Grotto and of the Eastern Star. He was a member of the Helena Masonic Lodge 30 years, and for 20 years had belonged to Zamora Temple. He joined the third class of Kamram Grotto a few years ago. Mr. Roy had been a member of the Sixth Avenue Preshyterian Church 20 years.

The deceased was at one time a resident of Clanton, and at the time of his death was a member of the Clanton Commandery No. 27.

TALKING PICTURES AT STRAND THEATRE IN MONTGOMERY

Announcement is made by the Strand theatre Montgomery Alabama, that Vitaphone, an invention said to be the greatest development in the movies since the movies themselves, has been installed and the intial program will be the week beginning Sunday, June 24th.

Vitaphone, the "singing and Talking pictures" is an invention of the Western Electric Company and Bell Telephone Laboratories, supplimetned by the Warner Brothers, who are principle owners of the corporation sponsoring it. Vitaphone syncronizes voice and sound with motion, an effect, engineers have been working on for years.

By means of the Vitaphone, the greatest artist of the operatic and concert stage, the foremost entertainers of the Vaudeville stages, and the most noted bands and orchestras of the world will be seen and heard in Montgomery.

In addition to the Vitaphone, the Strand announces that Movietone has also been installed. Movietone works on the principle of photographing the sound waves at the time the picture is being made, upon thesame strip of film, and then at the theatre, by a reverse process, converting the photograph sound wae back into actual sound.

Through a great bit of experimenting this process of photographing sounds and images at the same time was developed by an almost unknown man whose name is Case, working in conjuction with the fox Film Movietone Talking newsreel will open together with Vitaphone at the Strand on Sunday, June 24th, presenting the first absolutely accurate synchronization of pictures with sound. It is marvelous to contemplate that the shadows from the screen is the means of bringing to your eyes and ears the actual sound of the object that you are seeing on the screen.

For the initial program which will run for the entire week beginning next Sunday, June 24th, John Barrymre in "When a Man Loves" with Delores Costello was chosen for the Vitaphone picture. It is synchronized with a 107 piece Symphony Orchestra and a choir of 200 voices

In addition to the feature Vitaphone picture, there will be there acts ofDe Lux Presentations featuring comedy, singing and dancing. Through the Movietone you will see and hear Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh and President Coolidge talking, it was said.

According to the management of the Strand, the Vitaphone and Movietone equipment weighs over fifteen tons ad represents an investment of $25,000. It was also stated that the equipment is of the latest type and the same as used in the larger theatres in New York, and Chicago.

MORE SERVICE to Distant Points

THE work of extending and improving long distance telephone service in the Southeastern States will continue this year. The program calls for an expenditure of more than $4,000,000. Present long distance facilities in this section will be augmented by the construction of 11,385 miles of new circuit, including 134 new direct circuits.

In Alabama seventeen new circuits will be added by the close of 1928, representing 1,486 miles of new circuit. This will give this state 22,000 miles of circuits and 3,240 miles of pole line.

Many long distance users are expressing surprise at the speed with which toll calls are completed. New operating methods, now in effect throughout the territory, make it possible to establish long distance connection at an average time of 2.7 minutes. Incidentally, the quality of voice transmission is also perfect in 97 per cent of all toll calls.

These new circuits and improvements have been planned to care for the increasing volume of long distance business and to provide facilities for high speed service to additional points.

town soon had rushed to greet the fliers, and the entire district about here was soon in a ferment of excitement. Not in years had the vicinity been so awakened.

Boatmen rowing out to the plane saw first Miss Earhart, bobbed hair swathed in colored bandeau, and face wreathed in a tired, happy smile. They stretched their hands up from their skiffs to the cabin of the plane and grasped her hand congratulating her.

She thanked them simply, one of them said upon returning, adding: "I am the proudest woman in the world."

Stultz and Gordon were then seen and after some conversation with the boatmen Stultz put out with one of them for land where he procured fresh fuel supplies. Gordon and Miss Erhart wanted only to sleep, and, after awhile they too were rowed from their plane into Burry Port.

Big Celebration Here Next Wednesday

Methodist Ladies Again Sponsoring Annual Event Here

The forthcoming Fourth of July will mark a day that will not be soon forgotten by those who are so fortunate as to be in Clanton on that day.

There has been planned for this day one of the most wonderful days of celebration that Clanton has ever witnessed in the past. This is to be a regular day of celebration, a day for play, and a day set aside for everyone to have a glorious time in Clanton.

July 4th, 1928 will be on Wednesday, and next Wednesday is the day. The middle of the week when everyone can catch up with their work during the first part of the week, so that they can be in Clanton to participate in the celebration, and then there will be the remainder of the week left for the finishing of whatever work is to be done. One will never regret losing this one day from their work. It will be worth it.

The main attractions for the day will be at the Chilton County High School, the place where these celebrations have been held for the past several years. This is an annual affair in Clanton that one dare miss, for they all know they will miss the time of their lives if they do.

For the past several "Fourths," the people of Chilton County and surrounding sections have gathered in Clanton for this day of celebrating, and each time, they reported the best time ever. But this Fourth of July will be one that will beat them all.

There will be a Ferris Wheel, Merry-Go-Round, barbecue dinner, baseball games, and a Chero Plane. And of course there will be numerous games and contests where valuable prizes will be awarded. The above mentioned entertainments are only a few of the many things that will be in Clanton this Fourth of July. The Chero Plane will be something new for Clanton. Thrill after thrill will come to you from these rides. Each ride will call for another.

This day of entertainment and celebration is sponsored by the Ladies of the Clanton Methodist Church. These ladies have never failed in putting over a successful day when it comes to celebrating the Fourth of July, or any other day. They really know how to plan for a real gala day.

Would you want anything better than that is planned for the Fourth this year for Clanton. It will pay you to be here as early as possible, and then stay the entire day.

Remeber that things will begin to get lively at the Chilton County High School here this coming Wednesday, the Fourth of July, 1928, early in the forenoon.

You will always regret it if you miss this day in Clanton. It will be the talk of the country around.

COMPLAINTS COMING IN ABOUT LOOSE CHICKENS

Chief of Police John Boockholdt stated to a representative of the News this week that he had had several complaints from different parties concerning the chickens that are running at large in town. The fowls are doing no little damage to gardens and flower beds around the homes in Clanton.

Chief Boockholdt stated that they must be kept up after this week, or other steps will be taken.

PARTY FROM CHILTON COUNTY VISITING IN WEST

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. (Ben) Sims and children, and Mrs. Wm. Doff of Clanton left last Thursday for Denver, Colorado, and other points in Colorado. They will also visit Mr. Sim's sister, who lives in Arizona. The trip will last approximately five or six weeks.

Men With Constructive Records

Before the State Highway Commission of Alabama began to function with any appreciable degree Chilton County was fortunate enough to have three men in office, who had the foresight and wisdom to visualize and appreciate the value and importance that two main highways meant to this county. Some fifteen years ago Judge of Probate E. B. Deason and commissioners Moses Robinson and R. J. Williams, realized that if the county was ever to make any degree of progress, that it must first have a system of main trunk roads. In the face of much opposition, but with the courage of conviction that characterizes men, who have wisdom and foresight and realize the needs of the people, they put their shoulders to the wheel and built a road from the north to the south line and one from the east to the west line. These two roads were then, especially the north and south road, considered some of the best highways in the state.

The present paved highway is of course one of our best assets, and when the state completes the road from Clanton to Plantersville, the original plan of Judge Deason, and said commissioners will have been made permanent.

There is no way of estimating the value to Chilton County of the two roads that Judge Deason and his Commissioners built. They opened the county so that the tourist and the outside world could see what we had. These roads advertised the county more than anything else we have built with the tax money. The right of way used by the Deason road, was partially used by the state in the construction of the new highways.

Judge Deason's administration, although severely criticised by his opponents, was constructive. He left something to point to for the money spent. He accomplished something.

He and said commissioners belonged to the construction gang and not with the wrecking crew. The people of Chilton County know what went with the tax money, although it was small, while Judge Deason administered to the county affairs. If the tax money had been, during his administration, what it is now, and the machinery and implements for road working as modern, we wonder if they would not have built every road in the county with chert and gravel.

The citizens of this county are appreciative of the public servants who have contributed to our progress. The building program inaugurated by Howard L. Foshee, while Superintendent of Education, and carried to completion, will cause his name to go down in the history of the county, among the builders, public officials and citizens who also accomplished something in life worthwhile.

While on the subject of those who have accomplished and made achievements while in public office, we remember the work of W. H. Conway, while demonstration agent for the county. Through his efforts the farmers of this county first began to build terraces, which protected the lands and made them more fertile and kept them in cultivatable condition. He started the new ideals and ideas for improved farming in this county. He put his heart in his work, with a desire to be of help to his fellow farmers. We owe him a debt of gratitude and hope that the day will soon come when the people will be big and broad enough to tell Mr. Conway that they appreciate his work and what he has done for the county.

NEW BARBER SHOP OPEN FOR BUSINESS

The Exchange Barber Shop, one of Clanton's newest and most attractive barber shops, is now ready for business. It is located in the Hayes building on Seventh Street, which was formerly occupied by the J. Lee Smith Wholesale Grocery. There is five chairs, and all will be operated by experienced barbers, including two of the oldest barbers in Clanton, so it is said.

Mr. W. L. Sanford has been in the barber business for approximately 20 years, and Mr. I. O. Blalock has had fourteen years experience as a barber. Mr. Blalock will operate the first chair, and Mr. Sanford will operate the second chair. The third chair will be presided over by Mr. Adolphus Martin of Shelby, Ala., at which place he has been in the barber business for the past three years. Mr. Martin who is a splendid barber, is a brother of Prof. W. E. Martin, who is well known in Chilton County.

The fourth chair will be ruled by Mr. Joe B. Downs, who is proprietor of the shop, and the fifth chair will be in charge of Mr. Leon Sanford, son of Mr. W. L. Sanford. This completes a barber line that will be hard to equal. Mr. Downs states that they have some of the fastest barbers to be found anywhere and that they guarantee to give satisfaction or your money refunded. Ladies and children are especially invited to visit this shop, and everyone is invited to inspect the shop, whether you patronize it or not. You will be sure of receiving every courtesy and a royal welcome.

Cullman County Citizens Greatly Enthused Over Success of Last Year

Dear Editor:

The following is an article taken from a Cullman County paper. This aricle was written by Mr. H. G. Dowling. If you will read it you will find that the people of Cullman are taking a pride in the development of their own county. This is always commendable and I feel that we could do just as great things in Chilton County as anywhere else if we will remember that it is the people of any county that make the county. I feel that we are waking up to some of our responsibilities and that we are going to convince other people that one of the best places in the world to live is in Chilton County. Please read and study the article and let us join hands in beating Cullman County in this splendid work they are doing.

If you are interested in one of these schools please communicate with Mr. H. A. Harris, Stanton, Ala., requesting that one be held in your community and do this at once as the number of schools are limited and furthermore in order that we may know how many books to apply to the State for. Our policy will be to serve those who ask for the schools first.

MASTER FARMERS ARE COW—HOG—HEN FARMERS

The names of our big business men and our captains of industry are on everybody's tongue. The outstanding achievements of our artists, scientists, doctors and statesmen are common knowledge.

Farming is a business, big business, the biggest in the world, involving sales and purchases which reach totals that stagger the imagination. It is an industry that is producing while we are awake and while we are asleep. It is an art, a science, and a profession. We have been all too slow in honoring our farm owners and operators who have rendered distinguished service to the cause of agricultural progress and development.

Last year, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina, Mississippi, Tennessee and Texas publicly acclaimed their Master Farmers. Other Southern states are joining the movement to discover and suitably reward their most successful and accomplished farmers.

Master Farmers make money farming but money making is only one of the many exacting requirements. The proverbial Philadelphia lawyer, the fellow who draws up the income tax returns and the chap who prepares civil service examinations must have gotten together and made up the score card with its 1000 points by which Master Farmers are judged. Yet, when you boil it down, there isn't any reason why every Southern farmer shouldn't qualify as a Master Farmer.

Master Farmer C. P. Bulloch, Meriwether County, Georgia, has never had to buy feed and during the fifteen years he has owned his farm he has never failed to make a profit. He says his wife takes in enough cash at the door for chickens, eggs, fresh pork, cured hams, fruits, vegetables, etc., to pay the hired help, the grocery bill and other items of expense.

Fred P. Latham, Master Farmer, of Beaufort County, North Carolina, owns 550 debt-free acres. At one time or another throughout each year all of the cultivated land is pastured. He says he would as soon try to farm without plows as fences. In 1900, J. C. Causey, Master Farmer, Guilford County, North Carolina, undertook to pay $800 for 310 acres. He sells enough butter every year to pay nearly three times what his farm cost him.

The 520 acres owned by T. H. Peters, Master Farmer, Oktibbeha County, Mississippi, are earning 10 per cent on his investment, above a living and taxes. He has 260 acres of pasture and his average gross income per year from milk, cotton, hay, turkeys, hogs, and sheep is $12,500. He has two to three thousand dollars' worth of fences on his farm. Two large pastures are fenced completely with hog wire, permitting their use for sheep and hogs, as well as dairy cows. His cross fences permit a rotation in grazing and division of herds.

Montgomery, Ala., June 15, 1928.

Mr. C. E. Stapp,
County Agent,
Clanton, Alabama.

It will soon be time to begin inspection of sweet potatoes for certification of seed and plants for next year. This work has progressed very satisfactorily during the past two years and your cooperation has had much to do with its progress.

When the inspectors are in your county, they will come by to see you in regard to any additional farmers who may want inspection.

Assuring you your cooperation is highly appreciated, I am

Yours very truly,
B. P. Livingston.
Chief, Division of Plant Industry.

Farmers who expect to sell plants, please notify Mr. Stapp, so he can meet with this request.

Regulation B.

In order to discourage the introduction into the dissemination within Alabama of mosaic, scab, leafroll, spindle tuber, late blight, wilt, wart, and other diseases of Irish potatoes, the use of the terms "certified," "inspected," "registered," or any other terms conveying a meaning substantially equivalent to these terms, either orally, or in writing, or in advertising in reference to such potatoes, or on the labels or containers thereof, is hereby prohibited, except when such potatoes shall have been inspected and certified by the legally constituted inspection officials of the State in which they were grown, or by such other agencies as may be approved by the State Board of Agriculture of Alabama.

The regulation above to be effective on and after July 1, 1928.
Approved May 10, 1928.

POPLAR SPRINGS NEWS

We are glad to say that our church and our Sunday School are getting along nicely. We had a good class last Sunday. After the school was over Rev. Lowery preached a good sermon. If the people would heed what he tells them, they would never go wrong. We are glad to have him for our pastor.

After the church service, and the people had gone home for refreshments the Poplar Springs and the Maple Springs Singing Societies met. Our chairman, Mr. O. L. DeVauhn, not being present, the Society was called to order by W. F. Gilliand. Prayer was led by Brother J. L. McDowell. After Mr. Gilliand had sung a few songs, Miss Gladys Wilson sang for us. She was followed by Miss Myrtle McDowell, Mr. Hadie Jones, Miss Gracie Williams. The pianists were Misses Gracie Wilson and Myrtle McDowell. A few more songs were then rendered by Mr. Gilliand. Then dismission by Rev. Willie Wilson.

We are proud of our society. We meet again at Maple Springs, the Second Sunday at two o'clock. We hope to have a good crowd and invite all singers to be with us. Those who can't sing are invited to come and listen.—O. L. DeVaughn, Chairman; W. F. Gilliand, Secretary.

PAST PRODUCTION RECORDS SMASHED BY CHEV. MOTOR CO.

Detroit, Mich., June 18.—All previous production records in the sixteen year existence of the Chevrolet Motor Company were shattered here in May when the company turned out 140,700 units.

The output for a single day also reached a new level on May 28 when 7075 finished cars and trucks rolled off the assembly lines.

These figures, released here today by W. S. Knudsden, president and general manager, lent substance to a growing feeling in automotive circles that Chevrolet would not only equal its 1927 volume of a million cars well before the close of 1928, but that it also would duplicate its 1927 performance of building and selling more cars than any other manufacturer in the world.

Production of Bigger and Better 1928 models to June 1 was 651,500 units. Mr. Knudsen stated. He pointed out that this figure includes production since the first of the year as well as 32,000 new cars built in December so that dealers in all parts of the country would have cars for immediate delivery when the new model was publicly announced on January 1.

Up to June 1 last year the company had built 513,000 new models; in 1926, 326,000 units, and in 1925 less than one-third the volume achieved during the corresponding period this year, according to Mr. Knudsen.

The output for the month just ended was 25,000 units in excess of the 115,000 cars and trucks built in May 1927, which, until this year, had been the largest production month in the history of the company. In May, 1926, the turn out was 74,000 units, and in May of the previous year 52,000 units.

The record set up last May was bettered by 2,000 units during the past February. March in turn was 17,000 units ahead of February; and April with a volume of 135,800 cars and trucks exceeded the March performance by 2,000 units.

In view of the high May volume, and the schedule for June, Mr. Knudsen stated that by the middle of the year the number of new cars built would be well beyond the three-quarter mark.

All production operations of the company have been running at capacity since early in the year, Mr. Knudsen said. He explained that the high May volume was made possible because several of the domestic plants have been expended and because a new assembly plant recently opened at Atlanta, Ga., to relieve the other fourteen domestic manufacturing operations got in its first full month's production during May.

Another new plant of similar size to the one at Atlanta, recently announced for Kansas City to supply the territory immediately North and West of that city, with a capacity of 350 cars a day, will make possible even greater achievements in the future, Mr. Knudsen said.

"Month by month our sales organization is making increasingly heavy demands upon the production facilities of the company to provde cars for immediate delivery in the domestic market," Mr. Knudsen said. "More than 80 per cent of the May output was absorbed in the United States alone despite the fact that the number of units going into the export field was greater than ever before.

"We interpret this expansion in volume and sales to a growing public confidence in us and our product. This is our greatest asset, and to the public is due whatever credit may accrue the new records now being published."

Mr. Knudsen stated that extraordinary achievements of his company may also be taken as a trade index of the country.

"The automobile is a sensitive barometer of business conditions in every territory where it is marketed in quantity," he said. "The fact that our sales have been consistently good in every area of the United States indicates the healthful purchasing power of the great mass of people. That means, of course general distribution of present wealth and a satisfactory future outlook."

"I took Cardui at intervals for three years, and have been in good health since last fall," says Mrs. Noble J. Hayes, of Waterloo, S. C. "My improvement after taking a course of this medicine was really remarkable.

"I am much stronger and can accomplish so much more work now. My weight increased twenty pounds, and my color is good.

"For a long time I had been feeling poorly. Some days I dragged around the house and had not enough energy to do my housework.

"I worried a lot about myself. I did not seem like myself, and my nerves were all on edge. I did not sleep well, and my appetite left me.

"I found Cardui to be an excellent tonic. After I had taken it a few weeks, I began to pick up and to gain in weight and strength." At all drug stores.

MULLINS-MCDONALD WEDDING SOLEMNIZED JUNE 20

Wetumpka, Ala., June 21.—The First Baptist Church was the scene of a beautiful nuptial event on Wednesday evening at the twilight hour when Miss Gertiwyl McDonald became the bride of Mr. Frank Arthur Mullins of Clanton and Montgomery. Dr. W. L. Dockery pronounced the wedding vows using the impressive ring ceremony.

Perfect in every detail were the appointments of this wedding which centers the cordial interest of so many friends. The chancel of the church was a bower of beauty. Banked ferns and palms and trailing smilax formed the tropical background for large baskets of perennial sweet peas and hydrangeas and cathedral candelabras holding tall tapers that cast a soft glow over the decorations in a color motif of green and white. The reserved pews were marked by white satin ribbons and clusters of sweet peas. The auditorium was filled to overflowing with friends and well wishers long before the appointed hour.

Preceding the ceremony a beautiful musical program was given with Mrs. Margaret Humphries at the piano. Mrs. L. W. Dockery's lovely voice was at its best in her rendition of Bertrand Brown's "All For You" and "Because'." Miss Eugenia Tate played exquisitely on the violin "Meditation" from Thais and Mr. Chas. Moore of Clanton, sang with artistic interpretation "When You Are Truly Mine."

Entering the church to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin first came the brides maid, Miss Elizabeth Moon and Mr. Otto Jones of Clanton, entering up either aisle. The maids and matrons were gowned in toilettes of chiffon in pastel shades and fashioned decolette with cape collars and uneven hem line and they carried pink sweetheart roses tied with pink tulle. Miss Moon was lovely in orchid. Then came the matrons, Mrs. Colquitt Majuire in flesh chiffon and Mrs. Whitley McDonald in yellow chiffon, and Mr. John DeRamus of Selma and Mr. Whitley McDonald. The maid of honor, Miss Kathleen Mullins, wearing green chiffon entered alone. The little flower girl, Ara Beth Martin, a dainty figure in ruffles and pleats of pink chiffon with a basket of pink roses, entered strewing rose petals in the pathway of the fair bride. Up the opposite aisle came the ring bearer, little John Billy Macon, dressed in a white satin suit and carrying the ring in the heart of a lily. The men wore tuxecos and their buttonier was a white rose bud. The grouping at the altar was most artistic.

Entering on the arm of her father, Prof. H. C. McDonald, by whom she was given in marriage, came the exquisite young bride in her regal robe of ivory moleskin satin fashioned tight bodice with uneven hem line and appliqued with rare lace. Her veil was of princess lace worn cap shape with a bandeau of real orange blossoms from sunny California and sprinkled with clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a gorgeous arm shower of brides roses and valley lillies with love knots of white satin ribbon. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, Mr. W. K. Mullins of Mobile, who acted as best man. During the ceremony "Traumerei" was softly played by Mrs. Humphries who used Mendlessohn's Wedding March as a recessional.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Mullins left on a wedding journey to Northern points. Upon their return they will be at home here with her parents, Prof. and Mrs. H. C. McDonald, and in Clanton with his parents for the present. The bride traveled in a handsome coat dress of navy blue crepe elizabeth with touches of ecru lace. Her hat was a chic French model in blue and tan, her shoes were blue and tan, and hose, bag and gloves were tan.

Mrs. Mullins is the younger daughter of Prof. and Mrs. H. C. McDonald. She has enjoyed a happy and popular young ladyhood in Wetumpka and friends are so glad she will still be with us a portion of her time anyway. She was educated in the schools of Clanton, the State Secondary Agricultural School here and Judson College. The past two years she has taught in the city school here and has always taken an active part in social, club and church circles. Sweet and dainty with a cordial manner toward everyone, she carries a feeling of happiness wherever she goes and every happiness is wished for her in her married life.

Mr. Mullins is descended from an old and prominent family of Alabama. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Mullins of Clanton where he is very popular among a large circle of friends. He received his education in the city school of his home town, at the University of Alabama and Howard College and is a member of the Pi K. A. fraternity. Of pleasant, graceful manner and a happy disposition he readily makes friends and is generally much liked. At present he is with the McFadden Cotton Co. of Montgomery. Friends extend to him congratulations and best wishes at this happy time.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Mullins of Mobile; Mr. John DeRamus of Selma; Mr. and Mrs. Colquitt Majuire, of Birmingham; Mr and Mrs. W. I. Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. Watts Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Renfroe Mullins, Miss Kathleen Mullins, Mr and Mrs. J. C. Jones, Mr. Otto Jones, Mr. Chas. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Upchurch, Mrs. Hance Alred, Mrs. Arthur Johnson and Miss Bettie Mullins of Clanton.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. MARY ANN HOUSE, DECEASED

Last Wednesday night the death angels visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mage Blow and took their daughter, Mrs. Mary Ann House. She had been sick a great while, her home was in Birmingham, but she had been at her fathers all the year to try to regain her health, but all in vain. Her health grew worse and worse, untill God in his wisdom, saw fit to take her soul away. She was loved by everyone who knew her and will be greatly missed.

She leaves her husband, and one son, her father and mother, and five sisters and two brothers, several other relatives and a host of friends.

Her body was laid to rest at the Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

Rev Fred Wollard conducted the services.

Weep not dear loved ones, your loss is heavens gain. God teaches us that life is uncertain and death is sure a debt we all must pay sooner or later.

A precious one from us has gone. A voice we loved is stilled. A place is vacant in our home which can never be filled. God in his wisdom has recalled the boon his love had given and tho the body slumbers here, the soul is safe in Heaven.

Written by one who knew her.

CINCINNATI

here the South begins

Cincinnati, known as the northernmost Southern city, and the southernmost Northern city, has had a re-awakening. There is a new spirit abroad among her people, not only in greater devotion to their city, but in their vision of the task that lies before them in serving her neighboring communities.

This renaissance of the spirit has been accompanied by tremendous material progress. New union passenger and freight terminals are being built and improvements made in transportation facilities at a cost of more than $70,000,000. Scores of modern buildings have been, and are being, erected; outstanding among them the new 15 story home of the Chamber of Commerce.

With the largest municipal airport in the country, and with three factories producing planes and engines, Cincinnati has taken a leading part in the aircraft industry. Her 3,000 industries are diversified, stable, and progressive.

Cincinnati's public utilities are serving efficiently and economically. Electricity in unlimited quantities for domestic and industrial use is assured for years to come.

Her new city manager form of government has become the model toward which other cities are striving.

Cincinnati's people are cultured, home-loving, prosperous and forward-looking, with the will to serve. Cincinnati has the material equipment to realize her ambition as the market center of the vast and prosperous Mid-West and South.

Visit Our Music Department And Hear Tones Like Life Itself—FARMERS HARDWARE, Clanton, Ala.

GRASS AND WEEDS ARE SOIL ROBBERS

Auburn, Ala., June 25.—Cultivation should continue long enough to control grass and weeds and it should stop when there is not enough grass and weeds to warrant cultivation, according to representatives of the experiment Station of Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn. Cultivation that kills grass and weeds with minimum injury to the roots of cotton, corn and other crops is ideal cultivation they declare.

Grass and weeds should be killed to prvent their competing with crops for water and plant food. Water and plant food are limiting factors in crop production, as every farmer knows. Twenty tons of water are required to produce half a ton of weeds and grass.

Due to excessive rains throughout the spring, weeds and grass got ahead of crops in Alabama this year. They absorbed much fertilizer; and this is being revealed by slow growth of crops. It will be evident in smaller yields next fall, as farmers and county agents are now foreseeing.

Contrary to views held by some farmers, officials of the experiment station at Auburn say that late cultivation of crops is not needed unless there are enough weeds and grass to warrant it. For example, corn that is silking and tasseling and free from weeds should not be cultivated. In fact cultivation may do more harm than good by destroying roots of corn. The same principle holds true for cotton and other crops.

Buick Sets New Sales Record

Flint, Mich., June 30.—Buick sales for May exceeded those for April by almost 5,000 cars, C. W. Churchill, general sales manager of the Buick Motor Company, announced this week. The figure is taken from retail delivery reports, which reflect considerable improvement in business conditions practically everywhere in the country.

Mr. Churchill also made public a set of tables showing the dollar value of various makes of automobiles sold in the 12 months ending March 31, 1928. These tables indicate that the public paid $365,000,000 for Buick cars during that period, as compared with $250,000,000 for the cars of the second highest producer in the fine car field, and $221,000,000 for those of the third.

SUPERINTENDENT OF EDUCATION APPEALS TO CITIZENS

ularly in certain Southern states to offer a measure of educational advancement to grown people whom the state did not properly train during their period of school age. Last year's Legislature appropriated $20,000 per year for this purpose to be divided equally among the sixty-seven counties. Miss Clutie Bloodworth is at the head of this work.

In 1926 nine schools for grown-ups were successfully operated in Cullman County. Forty-three totally illiterate adults were taught to read and write and three hundred and twenty-five received needed instruction. Cullman County ranked second in the state in such work that year. Last year, 1927, our County led Alabania in adult school work in every respect—enrollment, average daily attendance, number of persons removed from the illiteracy column, age of pupils, etc. Schools were located in fourteen districts. Five of these districts reported no illiteracy existing within their boundaries at the close of the summer term. It is the sincere wish of state and county officials that these five districts will see that new-comers are made and kept literate so that their record will remain a source of pride. It is also urged that every other district prepare to be listed in the honor roll of those free of this blight.

For this summer, 1928, beginning on July 23, we are planning the greatest effort made in this direction. Our success last year led the State Federation of Women's Clubs to center their efforts in Cullman for 1928 and to locate some special funds with us. We hope to operate at least twenty schools and we intend to enroll one thousand people. Already six hundred and sixteen people in thirteen districts have agreed to attend. These districts are as follows: New Canaan, Addington Chapel, Brier Pond, Birdsong, Flat Rock, Logan, Blair, Trimble, Adcock, Ebenezer, Oak Level, Chances Cross Roads, McMurray. An excellent colored teacher has been secured to organize the negroes in Colony district also. Other centers where an attempt to organize will be made are as follows: Mountain Grove, New Hope (in Morgan County), Arkadelphia, Crane Hill, Midway, Holly Pond, Gold Ridge, Shaddrix, Athens.

These schools are open to people sixteen years of age or more who have not completed a standard fourth grade course as outlined in the state course of study. Experience has shown that practically all our people can profitably attend. Some of the very best students have been trustees and other community leaders. Your school workers realize fully that very little can be accomplished without the active support of the trustees. These are great possibilities in this movement. People who have little or no education cannot possibly realize the needs of their children in this direction. Just a sample of schooling will make a wonderful change in the minds of many backward school patrons. It is sincerely hoped that every trustee will see the opportunity and take the lead in adult education."

Methodist Revival To Begin Next Sunday

Rev. I. W. Chalker And Son Tom, To Have Charge Of Services

According to announcement a revival meeting will begin next Sunday morning, July 8th, at the First Methodist Church in Clanton, and will continue until Sunday evening July 15th. Rev. L. B. Green, pastor of the church, has secured Rev. I. W. Chalker of Montgomery to do the preaching and Tom Chalker, to have charge of the singing.

Rev. Mr. Chalker and his son are well and favorably known to the people of Clanton and Chilton countyC. It will be remembered that Rev. Chalker was, several years ago, pastor of this church as well as other churches in the county at the same time.

Rev. Chalker is one of the outstanding ministers of the Alabama Conference. He knows how to preach and always preaches as hard as he knows how. He has a host of friends and followers in this section and with his ability to conduct a revival meeting and with the assistance of his son, in conducting and directing the singing, and the able assistance of Rev. Green, this meeting promises to be one of the best and biggest conducted in the town for quite awhile.

The people of the county are invited to attend these services—a welcome hand will greet everyone—so come and enjoy another real religious feast.

The Methodist church building is equipped with modern cooling machinery, which makes it cool and comfortable, and the auditorium is large and the invitation is extended, so there only remains your acceptance and presence at each of the services to help build and maintain the morals of your town and county.

MOONLIGHT PICNIC ENJOYED BY VERBENA PARTY

A moonlight picnic given last Wednesday evening at Gibson's Camp on Coosa River in honor of Miss Frances Gulledge, who left Sunday for New York, where she will attend summer school, was immensely enjoyed by a large crowd.

Among those enjoying this delightful picnic were Misses Fannie Jo and Virginia Scott, Kathryn Gaines, Elizabeth Hubbard, Frances and Cordelia Gulledge, Ladean DeSear and Mr. and Mrs. Sid Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Irby DeRamus, Mr. and Mrs. Barnett DeRamus, and Messrs Houston and Aubrey Robinson, L. C. Baker and Gene Baldwin.

PICNIC ENJOYED BY MEMBERS LOCAL B. Y. P. U.

One of the most delightful affairs enjoyed by the younger set of Clanton took place Monday evening at7 p. m. o'clock at Gores' Swimming Pool. The affair was in the form of a moonlight picnic, planned and carried out by the local members of the Baptist Young Peoples Union.

The participants of the affair met at the Baptist Church and from there motored out to the pool, where a delightful plunge in the refreshing water was immensely enjoyed. With the rising of the moon, which greatly aided in making this evening a most decided success, a delicious aand invigorating picnic lunch of fried chicken, salad, sandwiches, cake and ice tea was served.

After spending a while at various pastimes, those who made up the party returned home, with the fact in mind that this will not be the last social affair to be enjoyed by the members of the B. Y. P. U.

Those enjoying the picnic were:

Misses Delene and Gladys Williams, Ruth Sessions, Mary Ellis, Kathryn Hayes, Mildred Danforth, Erin Danforth, Carrie Foshee, Sallye Mae Hefin of Moulton, Ala., Eugie Baker and Mrs. L. C. Ross and little daughter, Nine.

Messrs Arthur Burnette, Ruphus Brown, William Hester, Charles Moore Tom Roberts, Billy Smith and L. C. Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Ross acted as chaperones during the evening.

This affair was one of the many that the members of the local B. Y. P. U. enjoy throughout the year. The membership is steadily growing. They meet in the Baptist Church on Sunday evenings at seven p. m.

RAIN PREVENTS EXPECTED SUCCESS OF BIG AUCTION

The big auction sale held at Candler Terrace last Wednesday was attended by a fairly large crowd, despite the fact that a heavy downpour of rain fell from early morning up until near the middle of the afternoon.

While quite a number of lots were sold, they did not bring anything like what they would have if weather conditions had been normal. Many of the farmers who attended the sale were discouraged over the outlook for a crop at this particular time (and right here we wish to say that there is no ground for discouragement, for we have seen good crops made with even a later start than we have now) and did not buy. The weather prevented many from attending, and enthusiasm in general was hampered by the inclement weather.

The Chevrolet was given away as was advertised, the winner of the car being Mr. W. G. Gray of near Enterprise, who was granted permission to participate in the awarding of the grand prize through the purchase of a second hand truck during the campaign. Many other premiums were awarded, the bag of gold being one of the other big prizes.

This piece of property being located west of the corporate limits of Clanton, is in the path of progress, and there is no doubt but that it will be built up with good homes in a very short while. The type of homes already built at Candler Terrace and the ones now under construction, would indicate that this will be, in time, Clanton's choice residence section.

The barbecue dinner was on a large scale, and though there must have been 1200 or 1500 served, there was ample barbecue to have served a much larger number. Altogether the affair was a great success, as an advertising foundation for future success.

J. D. TIPPET REPLIES TO COMMISSIONERS LETTER

Dear Editor:

Please allow me space in your paper this week as I want to reply to the article written by Judge Reynolds and the Commissioners.

First, I want to say that I gave the Union Banner a copy of my article just as I did the Chilton County News. The Union Banner did not publish it. I asked Mr. Wyatt why he did not publish it. I also asked him if he would publish a letter for me later. The reply he gave me was "What are you going to write?" My answer was, "I am going to give the facts". He said, "I can't publish it if you are against us. You will have to get the News to publish it." I said "alright."

The Judge and Commissioners said in their letter that Mr. Burnett's boys were employed temporarily. Mr. Vinson's boys were not mentioned.

I want to state that Judge Reynolds son may be off temporarily until the election is over. Judge Reynolds and the Commissioners said they cut wages to equalize them. I never knew of a foreman cutting one man's wages to raise another man's. The way I figure it is: We men, whose wages were cut, paid the raise. If we can elect P. T. Hinkle, I don't think he will do that because he has no relatives in the county to put on the job.

Jack Bethea Found Dead In Hotel Room

Well Known Writer And Editor Found Hanging In Hotel Room

Birmingham, Ala., July 3.—Jack Bethea, editor the The Birmingham Post was found dead at 4 p. m., Monday in a downtown hotel. His body was suspended at one end of his belt, the other end of which had been tied to a clothes hanger bar in a closet.

Coroner J. D. Russum pronounced his death "suicide by hanging." Authorities Monday night had assigned no motive for the act, although relatives and business associates were inclined to believe that ill health was responsible.

The body was discovered by Mary Jane Williams, negro maid, when she went into the room to make the afternoon inspection.

Poison Found In Room

A small quantity of poison and a bottle of chloroform were found in the room, but the coroner said there was nothing to indicate Mr. Bethea had taken poison.

Mr. Bethea apparantly had been dead an hour or longer.

The hotel manager said he came into the hotel about 1 p. m. Monday. After talking with hotel attaches and friends he complained of being tired and asked to be assigned a room that he might rest awhile.

He was not seen again until his body was found by the maid.

His body was in a crouched, kneeling position, his feet touching the floor

Coroner Russum and officers of the police squad who investigated advanced the theory that Mr. Bethea had carefully planned his act.

Negroes Apprehended In Series Of Robberies

Oscar Quinn And Several Others Landed In Jail Here

The arrest of Oscar Quinn, negro man, which occured last Saturday night marked the end of series of robberies on the Farmers Hardware Co., where Quinn was employed as truck driver.

After finding a quantity of whiskey on the premises of Albert Rucker, another negro, living near West End, in the negro quarters, Chief of Police John Boockholdt and special officer M. C. Smith, began an investigation unearthing five gallons of paint on the same premises. The paint is alleged to have been stolen from the Farmers Hardware Company.

Rucker was arrested on a charge of violating the prohibition law. Later it finally developed that the Quinn negro had stolen the paint from the hardware company and carried it to the home of the Rucker negro. Rucker was also charged with having stolen property in his possession.

Quinn finally confessed to other robberies, and also admitted where the stolen goods were to be found. The articles included several gallons of paint, several gallons of shingle stain, a number of chairs, and a phonograph. The mentioned articles are those that have already been located by city officers Boockholdt, Smith and Wyatt. The Quinn negro at the time of this writing is still in the county jail here awaiting trial next Monday morning.

Other arrests that followed during the week end included Homer Green, charged with possession of stolen property, Henry McCrary, possessing stolen property, and Hayes Varner, also charged with possessing stolen property

All the above mentioned are negroes living in and near Clanton and who are alleged to have had in their possession a part of the goods said to have been stolen from the Farmers Hardware Co.

It appears from the evidence collected from the various sources that the Quinn negro was the outstanding figure in the burglary of the Hardware store and the distribution of the stolen goods, some of which he is alleged to have sold.

At the time of this writing, no other arrests have been made in connection with the case. All those arrested are to be tried in Mayor's Court next Mon-

FIRST COTTON BLOOM OF SEASON BROUGHT HERE

The first cotton bloom of the 1928 season that has been shown in this city was brought to the News office last Saturday June 30th, by Mr. W. J. Best from the farm of Ocie Payton, of the Pleasant Grove community.

Mr. Payton has several acres of cotton that is said to be above the average found this year, and as we note from papers of South Alabama, the local cotton is not so far behind that of the southern portion of the state. According to the Brewton Standard, a newspaper published in Escambia County, the first cotton bloom for 1928 was only carried in on Monday, June 25th, at that place, and as Mr. Payton's blooms was of Friday there appears to be only a difference of three days.

While some of the farmers are somewhat discouraged over the outlook for the present year, but our predictions are that the farmers will receive a good price for their crops this fall, and by this we mean that the prices they receive will be so much above the average prices received last year that the short crop will thereby be offset.

INTEREST BEING TAKEN IN OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS

H. A. Harris, Organizer, Appreciates Cooperation Of Citizens

Editor Chilton County News:

Let me express my appreciation of the interest you are taking in our Opportunity Schools, and ask that you give me the opportunity of saying a few thing more about this work.

I am glad to say that the trustees and patrons of almost every community I have been in have shown a great interest in the work. I have been greatly pleased with the interest taken and the way in which the trustees have co-operated with me. Thru this co-operation four schools have been located. They are to be had at Enterprise, Fairview, Baker and Cane Creek, with a possibility of schools being organized at Concord, Dist. No. 32, Union Grove, Pleasant Grove and Mt. Pleasant.

It seems that a bit of misunderstanding exists as to who shall be eligible to attend these schools. Let me say again that all boys and girls sixteen years old to twenty-one years of age, and who have not completed the fourth grade are eligible. All adults regardless of age or grade are admitted. In these schools we will teach Penmanship, Spelling, and practical Arithmetic and every-day business forms and methods.

Anyone desiring to take these studies may attend these schools. There will be no cost whatever for books or fees. These schools will open July 23 and continue six weeks. We must know immediately if your community wants one of these schools.

Within a few days the school enumerators of the county will begin their canvass, and I respectfully ask their co-operation. Especially would I appreciate a list from them of a list of all who cannot read and write, irrespective of age.

Respectfully,
H. A. HARRIS, Organizer.

Al Smith Nominated By Democratic Party

Ex-Governor Patterson Of Tennessee Eulogizes Alfred E. Smith

EDITOR'S NOTE—Elsewhere in this issue will be found a page devoted to the Democratic Convention held in Houston last week, at which time Alfred E. Smith of New York was selected as Standard Bearer for the Democratic party, with J. T. Robinson as running mate.

(Former Gov. Malcom R. Patterson of Tennessee, a former lecturer for the Anti-Saloon League, writes in the Memphis Commercial Appeal as follows:)

We always feel a little closer to the man who bears a short name we can all pronounce and spell without going to the dictionary.

The conjunction of Al with Smith is a fortunate one for the candidate and they make it easy on the people when they talk about politics. The name Al Smith admirably fith the idea of Democratic simplicity.

In comparison the name of Hoover as a vote getter sinks rather low in value.

Like his name, Gov. Smith, is an unaffected American citizen, who has kept touch with the people and all that interests them or affects their being.

He presents to the eye a clean picture. There seems to be no bombast or conceit about him. Success has never turned his head. As the Governor of the greatest State in the Union, he has been approachable and unpretentious and now as the most talked of man in America with his name on the lips of millions he preserves his balance and keeps on an even keel.

It is one of the penalties of fame that the eyes of people are directed to the man who has achieved it, and ears are alert to catch anything they may hear about him while the records and impressions thus made are stored away in the memory.

Thus far the eye has seen no wrong nor has the ear heard anything derogatory to the man Smith nominated by the Democratic party as its choice for President of the United States. He is but one more example of struggling youth achieving success born without money or other prestige of social distinction to aid him. His rise to prominence has been due to his native ability his loyalty to friends and his faithfulness to trust.

Gov. Smith's family life has been of the old-fashioned kind that has made our country what it is—strong at home and powerful abroad. He has been true as husband and father and politician, and the man of which this may be truthfully said, has a strong claim upon the people.

So far as his religion is concerned the important thing to be considered is not what particular form that religion may be called, but the fact that he has religious convictions which have never been changed in these days of

MORE COTTON BLOOMS COME TO HERALD OFFICE

Several other cotton blooms have come in from the fields of Nathan Turner and Joe Gray. They arrived several days after the one rbought in last week by Mr. Griffin. At this writing the cotton bloom has become common. This is rather late this far south. However, I once saw a fine cotton crop made after a late spring, and after blooms were scarce on July 4th.—Green County, Mississippi Herald.

FARMERS INSURE BUILDINGS ON MUTUAL INSURANCE PLAN

Auburn, Ala., July 2.—Following a recent investigation J. D. Pope, farm economist for the experiment station of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute Auburn, makes the statement that nearly half of the farm buildings in the United States are insured in farmers' mutual insurance associations. In some sections practically all farm buildings are insured this way, but in South Alabama in particular, there are only a few cooperative fire insurance associations.

"This," said Mr. Pope, "is one of the oldest and most successful forms of cooperation among farmers. It began more than a century ago in the New England and Atlantic states. Farmers found that it was to their advantage to carry insurance mutually; and where these associations have been properly managed they have been remarkably successful."

Mr. Pope found that farmers' mutual fire insurance associations are cheaper because (1) of the low cost involved in getting business; (2) the low cost of operating an association; and (3) fewer fires which means fewer claims to settle. Many of these cooperative concerns are local and this makes for a selective membership. Hence the moral risk is better which means fewer fires.

In Cullman County, Alabama, Mr. Pope found that a group of German farmers have operated for 20 or more years a mutual fire association at a cost of around $1.00 per $1,000 of insurance. On this basis a man with $5000 worth of insurance paid $5.00 a year which was almost nil.

CULLING OF POULTRY IS ADVISED NOW BY EXPERT

Auburn, Ala., July 2.—By continuous culling and by vigilance in the control of lice and mites poultrymen can increase their profits at this season of the year and prepare for bigger profits next fall and winter, according to G. A. Trollope, extension poultryman for the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

"Spring chickens have advanced far enough", said Mr. Trollope, "to detect inferior birds which should be removed immediately or as soon as they are ready for market. In this way a better flock is being prepared for fall and winter egg production when prices will be high. There will be fewer boarders to consume profits.

"At the same time, the culling process should be in progress for hens. Poultrymen who have watched their birds know those that should be removed. As long as production is up to 50 per cent or above rigid culling may be postponed but as soon as it is down to 20 or 30 per cent during should begin. By July a poultryman or farmer should know each bird that has been a consistent producer."

Mr. Trollope said that lice and mites are prevalent at this season. A thorough cleaning of the house and roost poles with a 4-per cent coal tar dip as spray kills mites. In addition all cracks and crevices should be painted with creosote. Remove and burn the old litter and nest material and replace with new.

Sodium fluoride kills lice. If in doubt about how to apply it consult the county or home agent.

TIMELY FARM FACTS

The farmer who knows that boll weevils are in his cotton field but concludes that they will not hurt his cotton will live to realize his mistake after it is too late to correct it.

Due to excessive rains and unseasonably cool weather Alabama crops are late and grassy and the outlook on July 1 is not good. The conditions is general throughout the state.

4-H YOUNGSTERS ATTEND CAMP

Auburn, Ala., June 25. — At the national 4-H club camp in Washington, June 21-27, Alabama was represented by four prize-winning club boys and girls who were accompanied by T. A. Sims and Miss Bess Fleming, club leaders of Auburn, and L. M. Hollingsworth, county agent for Lee County.

The four club members who won this trip by excellence in club work over a period of several years are Bonnie Keltz of Baldwin County, and Agnes Whetstone of Coosa County; Milliard Yates of Tallapoosa County, and Robert Cecil Whatley, Lee County.

The Alabama Farm Bureau sends the four Alabama winners to the national camp at Washington. The trip is being offered annually by the Farm Bureau to reward merit and stimulate effort. Winning this trip is considered by leaders to be the highest honor which a 4-H club boy or girl can win.

By their work, their interest, their enthusiasm, and their leadership the two boys going from Alabama this year were pronounced the best among 6,000 4-H club boys in Alabama last year. The two girls were the best among 8,000 club girls.

While in Washington they met state winners from other states, each state sending four. This makes it a national gathering of those who have made their way to the top by excelling in interest, enthusiasm, and in work.

The untimely death of Mr. Jack Bethea, editor of the Birmingham Post has taken from the State one of the outstanding journalists and novelists. He had applied himself in life, in a way which won the confidence and admiration of those who knew him, as well as those who did not know him, but who had read his boks and editorials.

It is regretable that we should lose a man who had the ability as a novel and journal writer, as did Mr. Bethea, and especially a man who possessed a keen sense of justice and fair play toward all mankind, as was characteristic of this man.

FAIRPLAY BEST POLICY FOR INDIVIDUALS & GOVERNMENT

A great word is this. A vital word: a vast comprehending word. A solvent word it is, acting as some, until then, missing chemical element, needed to complete the processes of protracted experiment acts.

Genuine democracy is just honest fairplay. Its policies contemplating the whole in the integrity of its parts, seeking no indirect or covert advantages or ulterior ends.

"Honesty is the best policy" is nothing more nor less than a home-spun but profoundly philisiphical definition of fairplay. It reaches all the way from a football game to judicial administration; national and international administration. Home-spun, it is the secret of peace, confidence and content in the home—and beyond.

So basal principles, "little" and "big" have no existence. A principle is like the elephant's trunk, that picks up a needle or rends an oak. Like the sea which floats a navy or a cork, and nourishes leviathan and the anemone. Fairplay is just such an adjuster and solvent of problems. One of life's self-evident simplicities to be relied on. To discard it is to court dangers.

When have monarchies and republics alike gone down? When they have persisted not to play fair. It is integral to the maintenance of balance. Without it, not everybody will know what is wrong; but everybody will know something is wrong.

To come to nations: Why has Great Britian been the most successful colonizing power yet? Because she has been the fairest. Often bungling enough, no doubt; sometimes "blundering through." But it is that quality which has brought her through vicissitudes, and held her to the track.

Nobody contends, least of all her progeny, that she has invariably been impeccable in administrative policies or always wise; but no great ruling power has had a juster sense of fairness and true sportsmanship. So she has, in general, successfully unpired herself. Human nature is very human and not a stable quantity anywhere because essentially volunteer; and so seldom wholly admirable. Governments have but men to recruit from. A certain bishop, asked by a quizzical layman why his clergy were such a defective lot, answered, "Because we have only laymen to make them out of". Supermen are the exception or they would not be supermen. But if people as a people are strong enough to be fair, it shuld be no great marvel if they are strong enough to govern successfuly. There is an instinct as well as an art of government. To illustrate by one notable character in Britian's record—South Africa after a gengration, while the leaders who the Boer War. Within much less than fought were still foremost in council, deadly animosties and bitterness so yielded to fairplay as to give place to loyal cooperation in the broad commonwealth. So that today there is no more honored name within its dominion than the name of Jan Smuts, general and statesman.

What is the seeret of the phenomenal transformation?

Fairplay, the only sane and safe policy.

The key-word of the unity of the British empire—a group of self governing commonwealths tituarly crowned—is democracy, and the key-principle fairplay.

Granting this of ours to be the real democracy it believes itself to be, honoring its great name, it may be prognosticated that the party to convince the elective majority taht its prospective administration will be fairest, contemplating impartally uncontrolled by segments, the greatest good of the greatest number, unhanded of whatever prejudicies, will win the opportunity so to administer.

Of course, the value of pledges is guaged by experience and inherent character. The practice of fair dealing is essential to the appreciation and appraisement of its value and justice; essential indeed to the ability to know it in all its bearings. There can hardly be a greater injustice to oneself than to be unfair to others, whether in judgment or practice.

It is an open secret that this type of business man is preeminently the successful man, winning what he earns. The so-called golden rule is the fairlayp rule, and deserves a better and less equivocal name.

Loyalty is based on confidence and confidence on experience.

There is a fundamental integrity in fairplay that will not fail to justify and vindicate its practice in the best results.

It is a twice blessed quality.

Let us play with our cherished traditions.—Birmingham News.

EASY FOR THE QUACKS

The ease with which charlatans of all kinds, particularly medical quacks, defraud the public would be incredible were it not for the evidences to be seen on every hand. A few of the schemes whereby the gullible and superstitious have been separated from their money by these swindlers are mentioned in a recent article by Dr. Morris Fishbein.

Soon after Franklin made his famous kite demonstratian in electricity, everyone was discussing the wonderful new force. A doctor named Elisha Perkins manufactured a lot of short metal rods, which he claimed were charged with electricity and therefore capable of drawing disease from the human body. He sold many of the rods—one pair to George Washington.

Electric bolts and similar appliances have been sold by the millions, not one of which, of course, had any [illegible] whatever. A few years ago a widely advertised product called Santatogne had an enormous sale, and testimonials were obtained from many persons of prominence. The stuff was composed of 95 per cent cottage cheese and the remainder glycerine phosphates, neither of any medical value.

One promoter acknowledged making $45,600 profit in a year from the [illegible] to cure diseases of the blood, but in reality no more efficacious than a twinestring tied around one's finger.

But we can hardly wonder at the success of quackery in a state of civilization which still accepts mass of medieval superstition as gospel truth.

ADVERTISING STRENGTHENS FINANCIAL STANDING

With the electric light and power industry on the threshold of developments surpassing even advance made in last decade it has reached the stage where it requires a widespread comprehensive and consistent advertising program in the opinion of J. E. Davidson, vice-pres., and general manager, of the Nebraska Power Company.

We live in an era when sound business turns wholeheartedly to advertising, he said. It has been employed by great public corporations. Securities that show consistent market increases are those of organizations that advertise. Even most conservative bankers are not too proud to offer their wares in print, and these same financial supervisors look askance at a would-be borrower who does not advertise his product.

TELEPHONE PROGRESS INCREASING

It is estimated that at the end of 1927 there were 18,500,000 telephones in the United States, 60 per cent of the world's instruments. They are increasing in number at the rate of 1750,000 a year and the forecast is made that at the beginning of 1930 more than 20,000,000 telephones will be in use.

This is the result of untiring initiative and enterprise. It seems that 1927 reached the heights of telephone Transatlantic became an actuality, and television practical; was instituted to other counties on this continent.

But the industry did not rest on its laurels. The 1928 program is the great est in telephone history. More than $400,000,000 is being making changes, additions and improvements to plant and exchange equipment. Service in every state and in thousands of communities is to be bettered at a cost largerthan that of constructing the panamn Canal.

All this is being done that we may have the invaluable privilege of picking up a receiver and talking immediately to anyone we wish. The telephone industrial motto, "the best possible service at the least possible cost," is splendidly lived up to.

SPEAKING HIS PIECE

For the benefit of a certain class of citizens who delight in criticising the newspaper, and we still have a few of them left in and around Clanton we want to call attention to a little article clipped from an exchange coming to our table. It isn't often an editor wastes his time in answering chronic, but there is at least one not far from here who pauses to pay his respects to them and we believe his answer is worth printing. Here's what he has to say: here's how he speakes his piece.

I have been criticised quiet a little by some of the town smart alecks for using poor grammar. Now, I have three good reasons for this in the first place, I don't know any better. Second, half of you would not understand it if I did useit. Third, if I did speak and write correctly I might be managing some big New York paper at a large salery and you birds would lose the best editor in this county.

PAVED STREETS SAVE MONEY

Highland, Illinois, a city of three thousand population, this spring embarked on a program to pave 13 or 14 miles of its streets. According to the mayor this will actually save the municipalaity money, because of the tremendous upkeep cost of dirt roads. In the last 11 years their maintenance has cost $160,000.

It has been the repeated expepience of cities and towns of all sizes that money spent for hardsurfacting dirt streets, or salvaging worn-out paved ones is not an expense. On the contrary it is an economy and a dividend paying investment. In our modern life good roads and streets are as necessary as telephones and electricity.

THE SCIENCE OF INSURANCE

Insurance underwriting is now regarded as virtually a science, said RalphS. Child of Boudright and Company, recently.

This is evident in the mathematical reliability of the mortality table in use in life insurance; the effectiveness of the ratings in the coverage of fire risks and the dependability of the widening fields of applications of casualty indemnity. This growth upon a foundation based upon science has naturally brought the functioning of the underwriting side of insurance to a position of such practical certainty that its continued progress and development [illegible]

"The making of maps of cities, the daily reports of agents, the establishment of rating for fire risks, have all been steps in advance in the underwriting fire hazards and their devlopment is almost entirely the work of the fire insurance companies through their various technical rating and inspectors services. The progress and development of the business of fire underwriting has been marked by constantly better serving the public interest.

In the general casualty field, the forms of indemnity have so multiplied since the day of accident insurance for railway travelers, that now there seems scarcely any menace that might arise in this complex present-day life, against which protection may not be secured through some form of casualty insurence.

There would appear to be no question but that the conduct of the business of insurance underwriting upon a scientific basis is definitely established.

TO PUBLISH SERIES ARTICLES ON SCHOOL CODE OF 1927

I feel that one of the greatest assets in the development of an educational program in the county is a better informed citizenship in matters pertaining to school administration and in order that the people of the county may be informed as to the present school laws we are publishing a series of articles in which we shall give exact copies of the School Code of 1927. The decision to do this has been made after consultation with the editors of the local papers.

I wish to say in the beginning that both the county papers are exceedinginterested in matters pertaining to the development of a better school system. They have shown the County Superintendent every courtesy from time to time that editors could be expected to give. It is a great blessing to Chilton County that we have editors who are interested in the school system. The fact is, I envy the opportunity of newspaper men in rendering to a people a service that is to be appreciated by all the friends of education.

The first series of articles will be quotations of the law pertaining to the board of school trustees. Following this will be on laws pertaining to the County Board of Education and the County Superintendent. If these articles prove of value to the people we are going to continue until the citizenship of the county have had an opportunity to inform themselves about all the laws pertaining to the school system.

ARTICLE VIII

Section 179.—Secretary of Board of School Trustees—The principal teacher of the school attend all meetings of the Board except when the Board is in executive session. The principal teacher shall, with the consent of the majority of the members of the Board, have the right to speak upon all questions, but shall have no right to vote, shall prepare for adoption all reports required by the County Board of Education, shall keep all records of incidental funds, shall keep the minutes of the meetings of the Board in the record book provided by the County Board of Education, and shall conduct the correspondence of the Board of School Trustees.

Section 180—Teacher May Be Refused By Trustees—The Board of School Trustees may by unanimous vote refuse to accept the assignment of any teacher within ten days from the date of the Superintendent's notice of assignment, upon written notification to the County Superintendent of Education setting out the reason for such refusal, and it is hereby made the duty of the County Superintendent of Education to nominate another teacher for such school.

Section 181—Dismissal of Pupils—No teacher shall dismiss pupils during school hours, or close the school during school hours, unless in case of emergency, without the consent of the Board of Trustees or the County Superintendent of Education.

DEMOCRATS ROAR AS CONVENTION NAMES AL SMITH

New York Governor Made the Party's Standard Bearer—Robinson His Teammate.

President—
ALFRED E. SMITH
New York

Vice President—
JOSEPH T. ROBINSON

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Sam Houston Hall, Houston, Texas.—With Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York as its standard bearer, and Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas in second place on the national ticket and a reasonable amount of harmony within its ranks, the unterrified Democratic party is all set to give the Hoover-led Republicans a hot battle that will last until the polls close in the November election.

In this huge convention hall a wildly cheering throng of delegates made Al their Presidential nominee on the first ballot, and then pandemonium reigned. State standards were torn from their places, big lithographs of Smith appeared on every hand and the delegations began their joyous march through the aisles, while the alternates and the thousands of spectators stood up yelling at the tops of their voices and the bands, playing—one guess what—were drowned out by the shouting and singing multitude. Hysterical women threw their arms around one another or around the men nearest to them and wept for joy. Mrs. Al Smith and Mrs. Walker, wife of Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York, sitting together in a box, made no attempt to restrain their triumphant delight.

It was an emotional demonstration that needed no artificial coaching and pushing, and lasted a long, long time. The cockles of the hearts of every Democrat there were warmed and when order was restored every one of them resumed his seat glowing with serene confidence that the convention had picked the man who would be inaugurated President of the United States on March 4, 1929.

Platform Built for Harmony.

The reasonable harmony mentioned above was brought about by the smart work of the committee on resolutions, always the most important body in a national convention. It was no easy task this committee had, for the dry South was arrayed against the wet East, and apparently each was determined to have its own way about the enforcement plank to be inserted in the platform. The formulation of this resolution required infinite tact and patience, for though the Smith forces knew they could nominate their man, they could by no means afford to alienate the bone-dry states of the South and West.

Farm organization leaders from the corn belt, who failed to obtain from the Republicans in Kansas City what they wanted, also demanded the attention of the resolutions committee, and though the Democratic party naturally could not afford to put itself on record in favor of the equalization fee in the McNary-Haugen bill, pledges of aid to the farmers were made which, it was hoped, would capture many rural votes that otherwise would go to the Republican ticket.

Planning to make "corruption" the dominant issue of the campaign, the platform builders constructed a plank that vigorously attacked the record of the Republican administrations of Presidents Harding and Coolidge, reviewed at length the oil lease scandals and other instances of alleged misbehavior in office, and pledged the Democratic party to give the nation a clean and honest government. Campaign contributions and expenditures also came in for lively comment.

The platform roundly assailed the Republican administration's foreign policy, especially as to intervention in other American republics. The Fordney-McCumber tariff law, now in effect, was denounced as inequitable and tending to foster the growth of monopolies, but no sweeping downward revision of tariff rates was proposed. The Mellon taxation program was attacked as not based upon the fundamental principle of ability to pay.

Altogether, the platform was vigorous, snappy and notably short.

Couldn't Stop Smith.

Opponents of Al Smith, both those who wanted the nomination for themselves and those who just didn't want Smith, had less chance to stop the idol of New York than the "allies" at Kansas City had of stopping Herbert Hoover. In the first place, they were not nearly so numerous as were the allies; and in the second place, there was no such outstanding opposition possibility as was Senator Curtis among the Republicans. Senator Jim Reed of Missouri made such play for the honor as he could, insisting to the last that he could at least stop Al even if he could not himself secure the nomination. But as he was credited with being as wet as Smith the dry southerners could scarcely be expected to stand by him in large numbers. Reed's headquarters were busy places and his boosters, many of whom were women, kept on distributing documents and oral arguments. And early in the convention proceedings Senator Jim found opportunity to make one of the fiery speeches for which he is famed, assailing the Republican administration record and demanding a platform free from evasion and indirection.

Evans Woollen of Indiana, Jesse Jones of Texas, and other favorite sons, received the complimentary votes of their state delegations, but nearly all the delegates were ready to jump into the Smith band wagon when the appointed time came, and jump they did with the utmost enthusiasm.

Opening the Convention.

Conforming to the official call, the convention was called to order by National Chairman Clem Shaver at noon on Tuesday, and the preliminaries, including the naming of the committees, were gone through with. Then, in accordance with the decision of the national committee, adjournment was taken until 7 o'clock in the evening, when Claude G. Bowers of New York city, temporary chairman, delivered the keynote address. This change of hours was made partly to avoid the daytime heat and more especially so that Mr. Bowers' speech might have better distribution over the country by radio. The address of the editor, historian and scholar was well worth hearing, being breezy and lively and remarkably free from the heavy platitudes that ordinarily characterize such productions. It was what was expected from the man who created such a stir in the circles of his party by his speech at the Jackson day dinner in Washington last January.

Riddling the Enemy.

Chairman Bowers gave little time to telling in detail what the Democratic party had done in the past or what it proposes to do in the future. Opening with a ringing call to the party to arm itself for a war of extermination against "privilege and pillage," he went on to a contrasting of Jeffersonian democracy with Hamiltonian republicanism, and of the latter with Lincoln's republicanism, which he accused the Republican party of having abandoned. It now, he said, is openly following the Hamiltonian theory of government for the benefit of the wealthy and powerful.

In incisive language, full of epigram and invective, he attacked the Republican administrations of Harding and Coolidge, describing with bitter irony their alleged shortcomings and misconduct. Of course, the Teapot Dome oil scandal and allied affairs came in for a full measure of denunciation. Winding up a brief summary of what the eight years of Democratic rule from 1912 to 1920 did with an eloquent eulogy of Woodrow Wilson, he brought his great audience to its feet with ringing cheers.

Demonstration for the Farmer.

Turning to the farmer, Mr. Bowers said his portion had become one of thorns and thistles and that in seven years the Republican party had utterly failed to do anything for him. Closing this portion of his speech, he thundered: "We do not propose that the most basic of all our industries shall longer be a doormat for all the others to wipe their feet upon as they enter the Temple of Privilege." Responding with a mighty shout, the delegates and alternates sprang to their feet and, as the two bands played their loudest, pulled up the state standards and marched around the aisles for about fifteen minutes. Skeptical ones in the audience believed a demonstration at that point in the address was prearranged to impress the corn belt. Anyhow, it was impressive at the time.

The speaker directed a hail of verbal bullets at the Republican claims of having protected business from Democratic enemies and of having brought about prosperity and economy. Said he: "Mythical prosperity, mythical economy, mythical facts, mythical figures and mythical men. The last eight years may well be treated by the historian of the far future as the mythical age of American history."

Omitting from his address as given to the press a long paragraph denouncing the administration's policy of "dollar diplomacy" in Latin-America and Nicaragua especially, Mr. Bowers moved rapidly to his peroration, finishing with the words: "And we shall win because our cause is just. The predatory forces before us seek a triumph for the sake of the sacking. Their shock troops are the Black Horse cavalry whose hoofbeats have made hideous music on Pennsylvania avenue during the last eight years. They are led by money-mad cynics and scoffers—and we go forth to battle for the cause of man. In the presence of such a foe he who dallies is a dastard and he who doubts is damned.' In this connection we close debate and grasp the sword. The time has come. The battle hour has struck. Then to your tents, O Israel!"

Senator Joseph T. Robinson was made permanent chairman and near the close of a rather long speech, with one brief sentence concerning the Constitutional provision against a religious test for office, he started a grand parade of the state standards.

The committee on rules took into account the advantages of radio distribution and provided that the nominating speeches for President should be made before the presentation of the platform. Therefore those oratorical efforts were heard at the Wednesday evening session.

Smith's Victory Too Easy.

Governor Smith's name was presented to the convention by Franklin Roosevelt, who performed the same service for him four years ago in Madison Square garden. Still vigorous despite his long illness, Mr. Roosevelt made an eloquent and spirited speech that often aroused the audience to loud applause, and at its close there was a wild and uproarous demonstration that could not be quelled by the chairman for many minutes.

Nearly every state standard was in the parade within a minute, New York modestly giving the lead to others. Missourians sat put and so did the delegates of several other states. In the Mississippi delegation there were several lively fights between the anti-Smith and pro-Smith groups. The standard was broken in the struggle and some seats were smashed before two squads of Houston policemen could quell the row. Governor Moody refused to permit the Lone Star flag of Texas to be taken into the demonstration, so Mrs. Laura Burleson Negley, daughter of former Postmaster General Burleson, found a small Texas flag and, waving it, led a small group of Texans who were for Smith. At one time most of the standards were grouped in front of the box wherein sat Mrs. Smith, and she arose to acknowledge the compliment. After 35 minutes of uproar tactful Mayor Walker ordered the New York standard withdrawn, and so order was restored.

Georgia's Favorite Son.

United States Senator Walter F. George of Georgia was placed in nomination by Judge Charles R. Crisp in a long speech in which he attacked Smith without naming him. The George demonstration was participated in by Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and Nebraska, and was fairly satisfactory to his admirers. W. H. O'Brien presented the name of Evans Woollen, favorite son of Indiana; Congressman William Ayres of Kansas was put in nomination by George McGill of that state; there were several seconding speeches for Smith, the most notable being by Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming, and the convention adjourned to Thursday morning.

When the delegates assembled Thursday the Smith seconding speeches were resumed. Governor Ritchie of Maryland, who withdrew in favor of Al, was first on the list and was followed by former Mayor Peters of Boston and Andrew Nelson of Minnesota. Mississippi did not put Senator Pat Harrison in nomination, though he was scheduled to get a complimentary vote. Then Charles M. Howell took the platform and offered to the convention the name of Missouri's fighting senator, James A. Reed. This man, he said, was made to order as a candidate for the Presidency against Herbert Hoover. Howell described at length Reed's career in congress, his defense of constitutional privileges and his lifelong fight for democracy.

Demonstration for Reed.

When Howell closed, the Missouri, Florida, Oklahoma and Philippines delegations started a demonstration that was extraordinarily noisy and long continued, considering their scanty numbers. Banners, lithographs and standards were carried around the hall, and the uproar was out of all proportion to the number of Reed votes. Next to be put in nomination for the honor none of them could hope to attain were Huston Thompson of Colorado, Atlee Pomerene of Ohio, Gilbert M. Hitchcock of Nebraska, and Cordell Hull of Tennessee and then the audience was given something a little more lively in the nomination of Jesse E. Jones, pride of Houston, and the man whose efforts brought the convention to this city. Not one of his excellent qualities was overlooked, and the galleries cheered him wildly. Huge paper bags full of toy balloons had been suspended from the girders of the hall and these were torn open at the proper moment, filling the air with the gay little spheres. Houstonians are very proud of Jesse Jones and rejoiced at the opportunity to evidence that. Too, he is financial director of the Democratic National committee and as such has made himself popular among the delegates. So, all in all, Mr. Jones may feel satisfied with the demonstration that followed the presentation of his name. Before it quieted down the cowboy band marched in, led by a pretty cowgirl mounted on a gray mare. Chairman Robinson enjoyed this as much as anyone else but was finally compelled to rule that the "Cavalry be now removed."

Platform Committee's Labors.

The platform committee had been laboring for two days and nights and for a time serious discord was threatened over the law-enforcement plank. Gov. Dan Moody stood out to the last for an extremely dry plank, but the harmony workers won out and adopted the resolution drafted by Carter Glass, pledging the party to honest effort to enforce the Eighteenth amendment and all other laws as well. When the platform was submitted to the convention Thursday evening this plank was mildly applauded. Moody, as a minority of one on the committee, explained his stand. Governor Ritchie of Maryland, outstanding wet, told why he was that way, but neither offered a minority report. Senator Glass explained the compromise for the sake of harmony, and the platform was adopted by an almost unanimous vote. Then came the roll call of states for the selection of the Presidential candidate.

Nomination of Smith came earlier in the balloting than his supporters really desired. They felt that a victory too obviously easy might savor of steam-roller methods and tend to injure the spirit of harmony that was the true keynote of the convention. Knowing pretty well their own strength, they wished every other candidate to have his full chance. But most of the delegates were eager to fall in line for "Al" and could not be long restrained.

On the first ballot Smith lacked but ten votes of the requisite two-thirds. Before the totals could be announced a dozen delegations were on their feet, each seeking to be the one to put Al across the mark. Amid increasing disorder Chairman Robinson first recognized the Ohioans, who gave their entire vote of 48 to Smith.

The deed was done.

Music in Profusion.

Bandsmen of Houston had set themselves the task of learning to play the state tune of every state in the Union, and the pleasing result was that each delegation, as it arrived in the city, was greeted with the air most familiar and grateful to its ears, rendered by the band assigned to escort it to its hotel.

The bands made music throughout much of the day and night during the week, parading the streets and invading the lobbies of the hotels, already crowded almost to suffocation. Among the most industrious of them—and incidentally among the best rewarded—was a "one-man band" who quite delighted the throngs and who rather haunted the extensive Smith headquarters in the Rice hotel.

Then there was a cowboy band which was a part of a rodeo outfit that was giving performances at the Rice institute, and a competent Boy Scout band.

Receiving Jimmy Walker.

What the local press called the largest and most enthusiastic crowd that ever assembled at a Houston railroad station gathered to meet the special train that brought Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York and a host of other residents of the metropolis. Jimmy, who is noted for his attire, was clad in a neat sports suit of purple. The throngs at the station and the Rice hotel fairly mobbed him, and as he already was under the weather he soon retired to his room. About the same time another group of New Yorkers, numbering several hundred, arrived at Galveston by boat, completing a sea voyage around Florida and up through the Gulf.

Ample accommodations for all the visitors had been arranged by the Houston committees, but even so, some of the hotels were rather swamped. The Rice was the center of most of the activity and it was almost impossible to force one's way through its lobby. As for the elevators in this hostelry, they proved utterly inadequate and the language used about them wouldn't get through the mails. One wild-eyed gentleman from western Texas waited so long for an elevator that his patience gave out. Pulling out his pistol, he deliberately put a bullet through the center of each panel in the door of the shaft. No one was hit and no one was arrested. The authorities looked upon the incident as just a case of pleasure shooting, like that of another westerner who was moved to step out on the balcony and put a bullet through a window of a hotel down the street.

Women Many and Active.

Women's organizations, that got something of what they wanted from the Republicans in Kansas City, came to Houston also in full force and presented the same demands for planks in the Democratic platform. The two especially active and vocal groups were the National Woman's party, whose plank for equal rights between men and women throughout the United States and its possessions was presented to the resolutions committee by Miss Sue White, practicing attorney of Jackson, Tenn., and those who demanded a prohibition plank equal in strength and definiteness to that adopted by the Republicans. Another earnest group was the Women's Committee for the Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, which worked in conjunction with the Constitutional Liberty league to a certain extent but had its own plank. As one of their leaders explained, the women of this committee "are for temperance as Jesus Christ was for temperance, and as the greatest prophets and leaders of civilization have been for temperance. Prohibition has proved the most colossal failure in the world today. We want to work with something that won't fail." This anti-dry group gained importance by its women personnel, which included many of the social and political leaders and writers of the country. Elizabeth Marbury, national committeewoman from New York, is honorary chairman and Mrs. Chauncey Olcott is a vice chairman. Others are Mrs. Douglas Robinson, sister of Theodore Roosevelt; Mrs. Marius de Brabant, daughter of the late Senator Clark of Montana; Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien, daughter of Clarence H. Mackey; Mrs. Frederick Nathan, head of the National Housewives' league; Mrs. Herbert Satterlee, sister of J. Pierpont Morgan; Anna Katherine Green, Mrs. Arthur Curtis James, Mrs. Alice Foote MacDougall, Miss Elizabeth Stokes, Mrs. Frederick Allen, and others of almost equal note. Their plank pledged the Democratic party to resubmit the question of national prohibition to the people in their state conventions or the equivalent of a referendum in every state.

Woman membership in the convention was smaller than in 1924. There were 146 women delegates with an aggregate total of 783½ votes, and 272 women alternates. No women at all were sent by Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oregon and Wisconsin. From Alabama, Delaware, Louisiana, Mississippi, Nebraska, South Carolina and Vermont there came women alternates but no women delegates.

Colonel Bell Was There.

There were few more spectacular figures in the convention throngs than Col. Nicholas M. Bell of St. Louis, who accompanied the Missouri delegation. Colonel Bell attended his first Democratic national convention in 1892, and he had the honor of nominating Seymour when that candidate ran against Blair. Then, in 1884, he nominated Grover Cleveland, and to the Houston convention he brought the chair which he occupied on that momentous day. His white hair and beard bristling and his eye flashing with old time fire, the pioneer Missourian stamped his hickory cane down upon the concrete with a bang when reporters sounded him as to his favorite candidate.

"In other words, whom are you going to vote for?" they asked.

"You can tell the cockeyed world that I'm not going to vote for any darned Englishman," snapped the fiery veteran as he was whisked away to his hotel.

One Pessimist Found.

Roy L. Fernal, the youthful national committeeman from Maine, he is only twenty-six years old—was the outstanding pessimist. Before the opening of the convention he asserted that this is not a Democratic year, and added that if Al Smith were nominated he would not have a chance to defeat Hoover. For the first time the Maine delegation was instructed—for Smith. "That killed Democracy in Maine," declared Mr. Fernal. He is himself a candidate for the United States senatorship, but said he did not see how he could win in what he considered the deplorable circumstances.

Dedicating Sam Houston Hall.

Fifteen thousand Houstonians gathered Sunday in the big structure they had built and given to the Democrats, and with dignified ceremony it was christened Sam Houston hall. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the last Democrat to sit in the White House, was the guest of honor. Handsome and gracious as ever, garbed in black and white chiffon and a blue felt hat, she sat in the box of Jesse H. Jones together with Governor and Mrs. Moody, Clem Shaver and Mr. and Mrs. Jones.

Jesse Jones was, despite himself, the hero of the occasion, for no one in the vast audience was ignorant of the part he had played in securing the convention for their city. So he was compelled to make an impromptu speech, which was greeted with vociferous acclaim. Mayor Oscar F. Holcomb displayed the gavel which the Sam Houston State Teachers' college was to present on Tuesday to National Chairman Shaver to call the convention to order. It was made from cedar of a tree that Sam Houston planted at his home in Huntsville. During the progress of the ceremonies Bishop Hay led to the front of the platform a small, thin, baldheaded, gray moustached man and presented him as "Col. Andrew Jackson Houston, son of our great hero, Gen. Sam Houston, for whom this hall is named."

After all the speeches and prayers the people were given an opportunity to look over the hall. Having the outward aspect of a gay exposition building, its interior was arranged to provide convenience and coolness for the convention throngs. Its seating facilities were better than in most such structures and the acoustics, with the aid of numerous amplifiers, were excellent. Decorations, while not lavish, were in good taste. Open sides, huge electric fans and plenty of ice water served well to offset the heat.

Provisions for Comfort.

Houstonites suffer from no illusions as to the heat that prevails there in summer time. They know it is going to be hot—and it is hot. But the local committees took whatever measures they might to mitigate the torridity of the days and insure the comfort of the city's guests. One of the most efficient of these measures was the erection, close to Sam Houston hall, of "Hospitality House." An entire city block was roofed over and filled with comfortable benches above which innumerable electric fans whirled unceasingly, and through the open sides of the structure such breezes as there might be passed freely.

DIZZY
Lost Appetite

Mr. M. F. Fink, of Harrisburg, N. C., says: "It must have been fully twenty-five years ago that I began taking Black-Draught regularly.

"I was in town one day, and while talking to a friend I stooped over to pick up something. When I straightened up, I felt dizzy. I spoke to him about this and how I had not felt like eating.

"My friend told me to take some Black-Draught. I knew my mother had used it, and so I bought a package. When I got home, I took a good, big dose, and the next night, another. In a few days I felt much better.

"A good many times I have had this dizziness and a bad taste in my mouth, or headaches, and then I take Black-Draught and get better. I do not have to take it very often. We buy from five to seven packages a year." Try it!

POSTAL REGULATIONS UNDERGO MANY CHANGES

Postal Laws and Regulations have undetrgone many changes that became effective July 1st. Through the courtesy of local postmaster, Mr. W. M. Bean, we publish the following data in regard to this change:

"Post cards can now be mailed for 1c postage each. Registration fees now go from 15c to $1.00 and letters can now be insured through registered mail for an amount of $1.000.00. A registration fee proportional to the value of the letter is charged. The postage to others than newspaper publishers is now much cheaper. You can now read your daily paper and pass it on to a friend through the mail for about half wha has been the rate up to July 1st.

Parcel post rates in general have been made less; patrons of rural routes are still able to mail parcels cheaper on rural routes than at post-offices. Money order and insurance rates have not been changed. Those mailing first class matter should be careful to see that full postage is paid, as this causes delay and annoyance to all concerned. The regulations effective July 1st, as relates to short paid first class matter is: Collect 2c if one ounce is due; collect 3c per ounce if more than one ounce is due.

J. A. M. JACKS WRITES CONCERNING COUNTY AFFAIRS

Editor Chilton County News:

Will ask for space to tell the folks how to change the present situation of County affairs of Chilton County. Vote the men out that never have time to do their duty as the office requires. We don't get a road or sewer or bridge fixed until they get through with their running around. I think there will be three, if not more, Democrats to go into office this coming November. The people are getting tired of some things and--they will see to it that they get reasonable service.

I have always been a Republican, when all was for the true principle, but when men work in office for the price it pays, there is no principle about the men. The long-term office holder is the one that usually loses his honor. We can get them out by the ballot. Let's go after them. They tell me that women play an important part in elections and they can do so this year.

Yours for good government,
J. A. M. JACKS.

FOUR great values—for every purse and purpose—offered to you right at the time of the season when every car owner wants to replace his worn tires for holiday driving. Take no chances with your holiday pleasure—on getting there safely, quickly, economically—and getting home again.

No matter what experience you have had with other tires—remember this: there is only one tire that is Gum-Dipped and that is the Firestone Gum-Dipped Tire. Firestone saturates every cord in the carcass in a rubber solution and insulates every fiber of every cord with rubber, which practically eliminates internal friction, heat and wear. That is why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are setting new mileage records on hundreds of thousands of cars, as well as on fleets of taxicabs and motorbuses. This tire has quality and construction features which absolutely assure you most miles per dollar.

You will be amazed to hear about our low prices on the famous Oldfield Tire, which Firestone has taken over from the Oldfield Tire Company. For more than four years these tires were sold by Oldfield distributors and dealers as the foremost quality tire, securing higher prices than for any other high grade standard tire. Now you will find our prices less than any others, for such quality.

Courier Tires and Tubes are other great values which Firestone manufactures and distributes direct to us. These are oversize tires, tough non-skid tread, and ribbed sidewalls that protect the tire from ruts and curbs. A very small investment will place a set of these tires on your car.

Airway Tires are our special Firestone-built bargain offer to owners of small cars. Our prices cannot be duplicated, because no one else has the advantage of the unusual manufacturing methods and processes used exclusively by Firestone.

All the service of applying these tires on your car—and of taking care of them later—is included in these money-saving prices. We want you to get every mile built into them by Firestone. Come in today. We know we can save you money and serve you better.

transition and challenge when old beliefs are being swept away, or modified under the terrific pressure to which they have been subjected.

The Democratic party could have done no better than to have presented this man to represent its ideals and send him forth as its champion to win back the heritages of the people.

Robinson, his running mate, is also a high type of Americanism, with even a broader experience than the candidate for President, himself. He, too, has a name which fits well into the setting. In the Senate of the United States he has proven the temper of his steel, and become strong and popular.

Robinson is conversant not only with practical legislation, but is imbued with the principles of the American government after years of study and reflection. He, too, is a clean man, and a very able one. His early environment stands in contrast to that of Gov. Smith Robinson is a Southerner—born in Arkansas. He has always lived in the South, except when away from his native state in public service. Thus are New York and Arkansas, the North and the South, again joined together after years of separation, and the spectral form of Charles O'Connor, the great lawyer of the Empire State, long since dead, arises to take its old seat at the council table as the defender, without reward, of Jefferson Davis, the chieftain of the Confederacy, against the charges of treason, and thus do the mists of prejudice vanish before the rays of the rising sun.

Smith and Robinson, one from the North and the other from the South, together stand as the representatives of a new order.

NOT ENOUGH REPUBLICANS TO NOMINATE CANDIDATES

According to newspaper reports, there is a very scant number of Republicans in Marshall County, where it is presumed O. D. Street, Alabama National Committeeman for the G. O. P. party, recently called a meeting with the idea in mind of there being a sufficient number of Republicans to nominate a ticket to oppose the Democratic nominees in the general election to be held in November. The following was taken from the Birmingham News of July 18th:

"Guntersville, Ala., July 7.—Marshall County Republicans failed to turn out in sufficient numbers Saturday for the convention which had been planned to nominate candidates for county offices and another meeting for this purpose will be called at a later date. Among those in attendance were O. D. Street, Alabama national committeeman and C. B. Kennamer, both of whom made short speeches."

NIVENS AND BROADHEAD TO MAKE CHANGES

New Fixtures Purchased And Store To Be Completely Remodeled

When seen by a representative of the News this week, announcement was made by a member of the firm of Nivens and Broadhead to the effect that there would be many changes made in their grocery store within the next few days.

According to information given the representative of the News, the store is to be completely remodeled, and new fixtures installed, and in many instances, a new line of groceries will be added, giving this firm a wide and varied line to offer their customers.

At present it is not the intention of the firm to affiliate with any of the chain store organizations, but to operate an independent, home owned and home managed grocery business, that is said to have sufficient buying power to assure the best and highest grade lines at the lowest possible prices.

While actual work on remodelling the building has not yet begun, as this is written, work was expected to start at an early date, the delay being necessary on account of some of the material and fixtures having failed to arrive. A formal invitation will be extended to all to visit the new store when completed. Watch for their ad in the News.

Thinks Negro Will Get Social Equality if Democrats Bolt

The following letter taken from the Birmingham News of July 8th, indicates the optimism prevalent in the East where the few Hoover supporters believe that if he is elected the negroes of the South will immediately be placed on social equality with the whites. The letter follows:

A LETTER TO THE REV. DR. PATTERSON

Editor of the Birmingham News:

The following letter has been mailed to the Rev. L. D. Patterson, of Birmingham by G. W. Gaines of Brooklyn N. Y.:

Rev. L. D. Patterson, Pastor South Avondale Methodist Church, South Birmingham, Ala.:

Reverend Sir—It was with a deep feeling of gratification that I read in the press dispatches last week that you, along with many of your Southern brethren of the ministry, have decided to cast off the yoke of Democracy and vote for the Hon. Herbert Hoover for president of the United States. This step will prove the opening wedge in establishing equality for the people of all classes in the South, which will be brought about by breaking what is called the solid South.

I assume that this has all been figured out to a mathematical nicety. And it bespeaks much for the splendid Christian character of you and your Christian associates that you have the courage to openly advocate this step. Of course you understand that I refer to the 15th and 14th amndments of the constitution, so long flouted by the people of your section.

The breaking of the solid South, of course, will pave the way for a strict enforcement of these two amendments, thus insuring civil and political equality for the people of the colored race. They will at least be accorded equal rights in hotels, restaurants, railway coaches, street cars, theaters, churches, in business life and in professions.

It is glorious to reflect that when this shall have been accomplished we shall have taken one more step toward the coming of the millennium.

G. W. GAINES.

Brooklyn, N. Y. July 3, 1928.

Former Chilton County Man Is Strong For Gov. Al Smith

Editor Chilton County News:
Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

I was surprised to find no editorial comment in your paper last week with reference to the National Democratic Nominees for President and Vice-President.

In the beginning, I am not a voter of Chilton County, but was born and reared there, and naturally my interest is always at the place I call home.

I believe, in the selection of Governor Smith and Senator Robinson, the Democratic party has picked its two most able and capable men. Some people are opposed to Governor Smith because of his religious belief. I am a Baptist, Odd Fellow, 32nd Degree Mason, and have always been a prohibitionist; but believe that every other citizen of our country is entitled to his own religious and political convictions, and hold no malice toward anyone who believes differen ly. The very foundation of our Government is based on that principal. One thing, to me, outstanding above all others indicative of Al Smith's greatness, is that he has never sold his birthright for a mess of pottage, nor sacrificed any great principal to dine at the political pie counter.

The Republican Press tells us that the "Solid South" will be broken this year—that the people who have always believed in and voted with the party standing for white supremacy, will vote the Republican ticket. Am wondering how they will explain Mr. Hoover's action in taking the negro clerks in the Departments at Washington, who were segregated, and placing them side by side with our Southern boys and girls, just before the Republican Convention.

Yours for a Democratic Victory in 1928.

JOSEPH G. POPWELL

Pension Plan Perfected For L. & N. Railroad Employees

The first pension plan ever perfected in this country which will be paid for and operated by a body of employees, is incorporated in the contract made June 26 by the Louisville and Nashville Veterans' Club with the Inter-Southern Life Insurance Company of Louisville, Kentucky. The premium involved in this pension plan wil probably be the largest ever paid in any single insurance transaction, according to W. W. Moore, Executive Vice President who represented the Inter-Southern in the negotiations.

This announcement comes as the result of years of effort on the part of the employees of the L & N Railroad to provide a pension fund supplementary to that already granted them by the railroad. Many difficulties were encountered, and from time to time efforts to devise a plan were dropped in discouragement. The successful plan was developed by the Inter-Southern Life Insurance Company.

Everyone of the nearly 50,000 employees of the L & N Railroad are eligible to participate in the plan, which offers monthly payments of from $25.00 to $100.00 to those who are disabled through illness or accident or who, after reaching the age of 65, retire from active service. Because of the great number of people concerned, the plan assumes wholesale proportions, and, threfore, offers much greater annuity benefits than could be secured individually from a life insurance company.

Every detail of the plan has been carefully studied and pronounced sound and practicable by highest actuarial pension authorities and is now ready to be offered to the L & N employees. As countless efforts have been made by other large organizations to develop a plan of this nature, without success, it is believed that the pension plan of the L & N employees will be used as a model by other employee groups that seek similar benefits.

The executive unit of the Pension Committee of the Louisville and Nashville Veterans' Club is composed of S. F. Arn, Montgomery, Ala., chairman; C. C. Regan, Covington, Ky.; J. E. Greathouse, William Elwell and J. P. Marrillia of Louisville.

OPPORTUNITY SCHOOLS OPEN ON MONDAY, JULY 23RD.

The preliminaries for the opening of the Opportunity Schools in Chilton County, have now been worked out, and plans for the opening of the schools on Monday, July 23rd, are going forward.

While several of the communities have not yet completed the number necessary to assure them securing one of these schools, in many cases those in charge are hard at work, and Prof. Harris, county organizer, states that all reports must be made on or before July 23, in order to secure a school in a community.

It will be impossible to place schools in all the communities this year, and Prof. Harris states that he will be governed as to where to hold the schools in order the reports are received. In other words, "first come, first served."

FOSHEE-CALLOWAY TO OCCUPY NEW QUARTERS

Will Move To Building Recently Purchased By Tom Rockett

A force of carpetners and workmen are busily engaged this week, rearranging and remodeling the two vacant store rooms adjoining the Union Banner Office on Sixth Street. When workmen have completed the work, this building will be occupied by the Foshee-Calloway Motor Co, local distributors of Whippet and Willys Knight cars in this territory.

This concern entered the automobile business here several months ago, but since then their business has grown to such an extent that it became necessary for them to secure larger quarters. Foshee-Calloway Motor Company is at present located just across the street from where their new home will be in the near future.

The building will be so arranged that the company that is to occupy it will have ample room for displaying their cars, office space, complete parts and accessories department, and a repair and service department with modern equipment.

Announcement of their formal opening will be made at an early date.

Highway Building Program Increased

State Highway Dept. Asking For Bids On Verbena-Rockford Road

The slogan used by certain politicians in the last gubernatorial race has evidently been put into practical use from the report following which appeared in the Montgomery Advertiser of July 6th:

"Highway work completed in Alabama since last August and now under construction, totals 1,800 miles. Three hundred and six more miles of construction will be added through contracts for more work to be awarded by the State Highway Commission this month and still more contracts are to be let on August 7.

Stating yesterday that records of the Highway Commission on August 23, will show that since that same date in 1927, approximately 2,300 miles of road built and under construction, Colonel Woolsey Finnell, state highway director, said that road building projects are now being completed in Alabama on an average of nearly one a day."

The present state administration has done more permanent road building in the shortest period at the lowest cost ever known, and if this continues until the expiration of the Graves term, Alabama can boast of a highway system that will surpass that of any other state.

At present the State Highway has under construction the highway from Clanton to Plantersville, which will be completed by fall, and elsewhere in this issue of the News will be found the legal ad from the State Highway Department asking for bids on the Rockford road from Verbena, a distance of 21 miles.

HIGHWAYS AS PUBLIC UTILITIES EXPLAINED

Highways should be considered as railroads, telephones and electric lights and power systems, said Walter J. Woodall, editor of the Industrial Index recently. "Highways that have been porperly mined are earning dividends, and extra dividends," he stated.

Twenty-five years ago, when good, paved roads were practically unknown, this statement would have seemed absurd. Today, with the revolutionary changes that a quarter of a century has brought about, it is no more than common sense. We depend on good roads as we depend on electric lights or telephone communication. They are no longer expensive luxuries, but economic necessities.

"BILLINGSLEY REUNION" HELD AT HOME NEAR THORSBY

Indeed, Sunday, July 8th, was a day enjoyed by all who were present at the reunion held in the grove near the Billingsley home in Thorsby.

Mrs. M. D. Billingsley, (Grandmother Billingsley) is glad to state that she enjoyed the day very much, having all her children, twenty-four grandchildren, one great-grandchild and her sister, Mrs. Hattie Johnson, present for the occasion. Her children are Mr. and Mrs. Claud Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Billingsley, all of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Sam Billingsley of Ocala, Florida; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Billingsley and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Billingsley of Mobile; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Lucy Martin and Mrs. Lela Martin, all of Thorsby. Among the grandchildren present were Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Billingsley, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Relious Franklin, Mrs. Curtis Billingsley, Misses Ruth, Jewel, Jessie and Lola Martin, Ira Marvin and Clayton Martin; Vastine, Ramond, Carson, Edward Lee, Laverne, Magric, Brady, Jane, A. Those visiting were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Davenport, Spurgeon Williams and family, Emmett Smith and family, Mrs. Myrtle Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Burgess of Collins Chapel; Mr. and Mrs. Dean of Centreville, and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Hayes.

At the noon hour many good eats were served picnic style, which were enjoyed by all.

About 5 o'clock supper was served, after which Mrs. Billingsley's three sons, Claud, Sidney and Wesley with their families returned to their homes in Birmingham, leaving Sam and Ed Billingsley wth their families and Mr. and Mrs. Ira Billingsley to spend a few days with their relatives in Thorsby.

HON. AND MRS. J. O. MIDDLETON OF MONTGOMERY HERE

Honorable and Mrs. J. O. Middleton of Montgomery were visiting friends and relatives in Clanton last Saturday and Sunday. Colonel Middleton called at the News office and had much praise to make of the progress the town is making. He was delighted to see the clean and neat appearance of our streets and the general appearance of the town, however, he called attention to the condition of the local cemetery which did not receive the same general praise from him. It will be recalled however, that during the closing days of May the Mayor and Council secured the services of one of the students of the High School, Rev. Mr. Huett, to clean up the cemetery after school hours which he did in a first class manner, and he and the city officials received commendation from the Union Banner. The excessive rains have aided a very prolific growth of weeds in the cemetery, which makes its appearance unattractive, however, the 'August clean up' will be made which will rid the cemetery of weeds until next spring.

NERVES
Went to Pieces
"I suffered a long time, before I tried Cardui," says Mrs. Lillie Pruitt, 130 "K" St., Anderson, S. C. "I was badly run-down in health. My nerves 'went to pieces', and I had to go to bed.
"I got so bad off, I could not bear to have anybody walk across the floor of my room. The least little thing upset me. Sometimes I became hysterical. I had bad pains in my back and sides, and my head and limbs would take spells of aching, which almost set me wild.
"One day I saw where a woman, who had a trouble like my own, had been relieved by Cardui. I decided at once to try it. It began to help me from the very first. I took Cardui regularly, for several months, and my improvement was so remarkable my family and friends were delighted."
Try Cardui for your troubles.

An Announcement of Polk Brothers

WE WISH TO ANNOUNCE that we have just completed the re-modeling of our building and in the process we have completely rearranged our Service Department as outlined by the Chevrolet Motor Company.

We have spared no expense to make this change, but by doing so, we feel that we will be in position to render even better service than we have ever been able to render before, on the Chevrolet automobile.

We feel that the owner of a Chevrolet is entitled to the best and we will not be satisfied until we have given the owner of a Chevrolet complete satisfaction.

Our shop is in charge of Mr. W. L. Maddox, who is assisted by Mr. J. O. McCallum. These men are both graduates of the Chevrolet service school, and we feel assured that they are men capable of handling any situation that may arise.

We wish to emphasize the fact that your Chevrolet should be properly lubricated at regular intervals, and we are equipped to do the job right. We are equipped to lubricate your car by the Vesuvious Method if you so desire, which is an entirely new principle.

We wish to emphasize the fact that we have a complete parts department, and we are able to furnish the parts desired, at once, thereby eliminating unnecessary delay, which is often very expensive to the owner.

We are very proud of our new place, and take this means of extending to you an invitation to inspect our modern plant, at which time we will be pleased to show you the different departments, as well as our special tool equipment, designed by Chevrolet Engineers for the Chevrolet Car. The use of this tool equipment enables us to give the owner a better job at lower cost.

KIWANIS CLUB WILL PAY EXPENSES OF ONE SCHOOL

Recognizing the great value of the Opportunity schools for adults which are being organized in Chilton County this summer, the Kiwanis Club of Clanton has put the entire moral support of the club behind the movement and has appropriated the necessary funds to pay the expense of one school in addition to the schools which may be held by state and county funds.

The matter was placed before the Club at its weekly luncheon last Thursday, whereupon, the action of the club in sponsoring one of the schools was made unanimously. A committee of the club was named to work out details of the plan with Prof. Harris, the county organizer. It has not been decided yet where the Kiwanis School will be located.

Concerning the action of the Kiwanis Club in this matter Mr. Harris gave us the following statement:

"As organizer of the Opportunity schools in Chilton County, I wish to say that I very much appreciate the action of Kiwanis Club of Clanton in expressing approval of this great work and further in providing funds to pay for one school in addition to those which will be made possible out of our regular available funds. I am sure that the endorsement of the Kiwanis Club for opportunity schools will cause the schools to be received more heartily by those whom we are seeking to reach with the advantages of a practical, though necessarily limited education.

"I am sure that the good that will be done by one opportunity school will be many times more valuable than the dollars it costs, and I am glad to know that Kiwanis has taken such a view of the matter."

"REPEATER CRIMINALS" ARE A PUBLIC NUISANCE

A recent news item states that Governor C. C. Young of California believes that the average convicted criminal should be pardoned only after he has worked for self-reformation, and has proven himself worthy of release. It is this policy he said that has caused him to issue fewer pardons and commutations of sentence than most of his predecessors in office.

Systems designed to help and urge the criminal to reform and prepare himself for a place in society, such as the parole, pardon and commutation of sentence are of great benefit and value when intelligently and conservatively used. But it seems unquestionable that they have been often abused, by mawkish sentiment that has issued pardons wholesale to criminals waiting for chances to commit further law violations, with the result that crime is encouraged.

Governor Young has taken the proper attitude. Most crime legislation, such as that having to do with the sale and possession of small arms, puts the cart before the horse and defeats its own purpose, for only the law-abiding citizen is inconvenienced by the restriction If we are to suppress crime we must act along lines of quick arrest trial and conviction and adequate punishment, without parole or pardon until it is shown that they are eminently deserved.

Further, the law should be so amended that a "repeater" criminal would automatically increase his own sentence with each crime repetition and conviction.

RAILROADS MAKE SAFETY RECORD DURING YEAR OF 1927

The railroads have made consistent progress in safety for employees and passengers. Of the hundreds of millions riding on the railroads in 1927, only ten were killed, a new high record and 69 less than in 1926. During the last eight years the lines have voluntarily spent $301,306,000 of new capitaal for safety purposes.

The railroads are bending every effort to reduce accidents at highway grade crossings, and the result of their work is shown by the fact that while the number of automobiles have increased 150 per cent in eight years, fatalities resulting from highway grade crossing accidents have increased but 32.4 per cent during that period.

ACCUMULATED MONEY

In a recent issue of his syndicated column, "Today" Arthur Brisbane refutes George Bernard Shaw, the English Socialist, when he says that accumulated money is the root of all evil.

Brisbane replied that it is accumulated money that has harnessed Niagara Falls, built the Panama Canal, and has placed automobile production on a quantity basis that has given the American people 24,000,000 inexpensive motor cars.

Great accumulations of capital, like great accumulations of water going downhill, represent power. Eliminate accumulated capital and you would eliminate possibilities of higher civilization.

He says the people have brains to watch and control accumulated capital and take advantage of the benefits conferred by it, quoting these figures to prove that the country is prosperous. In May, corporations in which millions of employees are stockholders declared dividends of $347,900,405, and in June dividends will total $500,000,000

The first of June, the total number of persons employed by all Detroit motor car factories was 359,073, highest on record—real prosperity.

VALUE OF HOME SUGAR INDUSTRY RATED HIGH

The action of the Cuban government in restricting the amount of sugar to be shipped to the United States, will be followed by expansion of the domestic sugar industry. Domestic growers have recently formed an organization to offset further foreign encroachment on the American market, and to oppose the granting of any further tariff privileges to other nations.

The United States consumes 6,000,000 tons of sugar a year, 60 per cent of which in the past has come from Cuba and the Phillipines, according to an authoritative statement, and spends $350,000,000 annually for foreign sugar that could be produced at home. The danger of our not having an adequate domestic supply was brought out graphically by the war. The Cuban restriction is another example of the danger we are facing, and the power we have placed in foreign hands by giving them a preferential tariff.

Domestic productions must be encouraged. Our tariff must not favor foreign producers at the expense of our own citizens. It is necessary that thru home production we place ourselves beyond the menace of another sugar shortage. A home sugar industry is also a heavy local taxpayer, which foreign sugar companies are not.

A SERIOUS QUESTION TO CONSIDER IN NEW LAW

The proposed law prohibiting American arms manufacturers from selling weapons to countries at war is a question of the utmost importance. Recent developments of the arms industry in a number of foreign countries indicate that such a law would only lead foreign powers to buy all their equipment elsewhere, instead of part of it in the United States.

We are a peaceful nation, not desirous of war. But unbiased parties realize that unsettled world conditions make such a contingency possible. Our own means of protection must be considered. When we embarked in the World War it was American manufacturers who provided our soldiers with their fine equipment. Obviously the arms industry, to stay in business and maintain plants suitable for quantity production, must have other than local markets for its products. The law now under consideration would to a great extent reudce American gun manufacture, with the result that, in case of necessity, we might be faced with a dangerous shortage of arms manufacturing plants.

If this law would be of material assistance in doing away with war it would be justified. But there seems to be little basis for such belief. Guns can be bought from many leading nations. The present unwritten understanding between our government and the small arms manufacturers, by which the latter refrain from selling weapons to warring countries when our government requests, has been respected by manufatcurers even though valuable business has been lost.

To abolish war would be a great thing, or to make armed hostilities more difficult. But the law as proposed would seem to endanger our means of national defense without securing compensating benefits.

Crisp uncooked vegetables should be used in abundance for summer meals where they are cooked with as little fat as possible and cooked quickly. Too much cooking takes away both vitamins and minerals.

Detroit, Mich., June 11.—Renewal of a unique series of advertising conferences, in which the automobile dealer is given a voice in the national advertising program of the factory, was announced here today by John E. Grimm, Jr., advertising manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company.

This company is now in the midst of the largest and most comprehensive advertising campaign ever undertaken in the history of the automotive industry.

The first of the new series of dealer conferences, held under the general supervision of Mr. Grimm, took place here a week ago when dealers selected from the domestic Chevrolet organization met with factory officials to discuss the publicity plans of the company for the next few months.

The object of these advertising conferences, Mr. Gimm explained, "is to keep the home office constantly in touch with problems faced daily by the dealers so that Chevrolet advertising may be guided by actual field conditions and thus prove most effective.

"The assistance given by dealers in these monthly conferences," he continued "is of invaluable benefit in adding to the efficiency of our advertising, which of course, forms the greatest retail advertising force for each individual dealer.

"While every type of advertising, magazine, outdoor and electric spectular signs to trade papers is discussed, major interest attaches to the newspaper schedule because this makes up by far the largest part of the year's budget. There are now more than 5,500 leading newspapers carrying the Chevrolet message to practically every city, town and hamlet in the United States.

"Particular care is taken in selecting the dealers invited to attend these conferences. Some are chosen because they have very large car contracts. Others because their contracts are very small. Every dealer also comes from a different section of the country. In this manner we get an ideal cross-section of the advertising needs of all classes of dealers in all parts of the United States.

"Dealer advertising conferences will be held every month this Summer, with a different group of dealers from different parts of the country present each time.

"Each conference is of two day's duration. The first day is given over entirely to the discussion of advertising in all its phases. The second day the dealers are taken to the General Motors proving ground where they are shown the rigid test Chevrolet cars undergo before they are put on the market."

An added feature of the recent conference was a radio party held for the dealers by W. S. Knusden, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company. The occasion was "Chevrolet Hour" on the General Motors Family Party program. This was held in celebration of the fact that there have been placed on the road more than a half million Bigger and Better Chevrolets since January 1, a feat never before duplicated by a new model in a similarly short space of time.

At a cooperative lamb sale in Montgomery, June 19, a total of 2,355 Alabama lambs were sold, tops bringing 13 1-2 cents per pound. It was the biggest cooperative lamb sale in the history of Alabama, being conducted by the Extension Service of Auburn, county agents, and the Farm Bureau.

BOLL WEEVIL BATTLE IS NOW IN PROGRESS

Auburn, Ala., July 10.—With cotton in most of Alabama now fruiting rapidly boll weevil control methods must be applied where needed to be effective, according to Prof. J. M. Robinson entomologist at the College of Agriculture at Auburn. A practical rule is to begin poisoning as soon as as many as 10 out of 100 squares gathereed in different parts of the field are punctured.

Experiments conducted by the department of entomology at Auburn and in cooperation with farmers have shown that each dollar spent poisoning boll weevils properly returns $2 to $3. This is an average figure for four years.

Repeating a former recommendation Prof. Robinson says that a supply of calcium arsenate and machinery for applying it should be kept on hand and used as soon as weevils become numerous and active enough for poisoning to start. The first application should be followed by two others at intervals of four or five days. This series of three should provide control for several days but additional applications of poison were applied each season as an average.

Reports reaching Auburn say that south Alabama farmers are leading in it because weevils are more numerous in that section. Prof. Robinson insists that poison applied properly when needed is a very profitable thing to do. If rains continue this season boll weevils are almost certain to play havoc with cotton in a large part of Alabama for it is late and weevils are plentiful.

TIMELY FARM FACTS

Experiments conducted by the United States Department of Ariculture show that cows lightly infested with ticks produced 18.6 per cent less milk than cows free from ticks, and those heavily infested produced 42.4 per cent less.

Be sure that hens stopped laying before culling. Many hens quit laying because of a shortage of feed and will begin again if there is plenty mash put before them.

Go over the peach orchard now and remove all dead twigs and mummied fruit, advise horticultural specialists. Twigs that have been killed by brown rot can be readilly seen while the trees are in foliage.

Mexican bean beetles are very active in a large portion of Alabama this year—specially in middle and north Alabama. To get rid of them mix one part of calcium arsenate with one part of hydrated lime and apply. County agents will give information as to details. This insecticide is recommended by entomologists at Auburn.

In Alabama and throughout the nation the number of producing apple trees is decreasing but production is increasing, due to bigger crops per tree caused by better production methods. The decrease has been greatest in home orchards and in sections where conditions were less favorable to commercial orchards.

NEWS IN BRIEF

At the end of July the supply of American cotton in foreign countries will be far below what it was at the end of July 1927, due to the fact that much of the 1926 American cotton bought by foreign spinners while the price was very low has been consumed.

Yellow bettles which are now numerous on cotton in north Alabama are not attacking cotton but they are attacking plant lice which would do much damage to cotton without the beetle to control them, according to Prof. J. M. Robinson of Auburn. If left alone they will control the plant lice, he said.

Announcement is made by the State tax commissioner in Montgomery that during the month of May each of the 67 counties of Alabama received from the gasoline tax collected under the act of 1923 legislature $4,115.71. This compares with $3,682.04, May, 1927; and $3,303.32, May 1926. The tax is increasing annually.

Imports of foreign products in the United States exceeded one billion dollars for the first quarter of 1928, this being the 13th consecutive quarter for imports to reach this figure. The figure for the first quarter of 1928 was two per cent greater than for the same period a year ago.

An estimate is that the population of the world in 1928 is 1,900,000,000 and there are in operation in the world 29,700,000 automobiles. This is one car for every 64 persons whereas in the United States there is one car for every five persons. Abyssinia at the bottom of the list has only one car for every 91,743 people.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

Milk can be knocked or kicked out of a cow but it doesn't go into the pail.

The supply of cotton now held by mills and in public storage is the lowest since 1920.

"The farmer should not forget to plant forage crops for the spring pigs to fatten on next fall."—F. W. Burns, Auburn.

Now is the time to cull out inferior hens and also the growing flock. All birds not developing properly should be removed before they eat more feed than they are worth.

F. W. Gist, agricultural statistican Montgomery, has figured the Alabama cotton crop of 1927 at $133,721,000, this being 44.5 per cent of total crop and livestock value for the state that year. Milk was second, corn third, and poultry and eggs fourth.

Wholesale prices of eggs in Birmingham June 1928, were 35 cents per dozen as compared with 25 cents per dozen, June 1927.

The action of the committee of inquiry of the League of Nations has added stimulus to the movement of adopting a thirteen-months calendar.

Good prime steers sold recently on the Montgomery market for 10 to 11 cents per pound, this being the highest in several years

72-YEAR OLD SHPHERD SEES NO FARM PROBLEMS

While much is heard from agricultural sections of farm problems and major political parties face these issues as among the greatest in the coming presidential campaigns at least one farmer, 72 years old, master of a flock of sheep for three score years, denies that any problems exist in his business.

Marketing problems are unknown to him, says R. P. Hite of Sumner County, Tennessee, writing in the Farm & Fireside magazine. Carrying through the same program each year this veteran sheep herder has made himself so well known in the state that he has served as Extension Professor of Animal Husbandry in the State University and has been asked for views on farming from various other states of the union.

"Marketing?" quiered Hite. "I don't believe I've ever had a marketing problem. My problem has been to be able to supply the demand. I've hardly ever had to change my plans, have made it a rule, in fact, to avoid abrupt changes. I carry about the same number of sheep each year and the same number of cattle and hogs. The same applies to my farming in general."

As "Daddy," Hite is known all over his native state as one of the ablest farmers in Tennessee.

ISABELLA HAPPENINGS

The Kansas City and Houston Conventions are now over and people here are chiefly concerned with getting grass out of their crops. The people here are not down in the mouth.

Prof. Thomas, wife and three baby girls have just returned from a week's vacation, visiting his and Mrs. Thomas' people in Butler and Tallapoosa Counties. He says there is a most excellent prospect of a big hay crop everywhere, judging from the prevalence of grass in the corn and cotton fields.

Rev. Mr. Tubb was to have started the revival at the Methodist Church Sunday, but could not be present until the evening service, by reason of the funeral of Mr. McMillan, who was buried in the Abney burial ground.

As the farmers here are late with their crops the revival was postponed for awhile.

Not very many seem to be ready for the singing school which is scehduled to start next Thursday. Mr. De Vaughn is to teach it again this year.

Some of Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Manning's children and grandchildren came to see them the 4th, and remained over till Sunday afternoon, when they motored back to their homes in Birmingham.

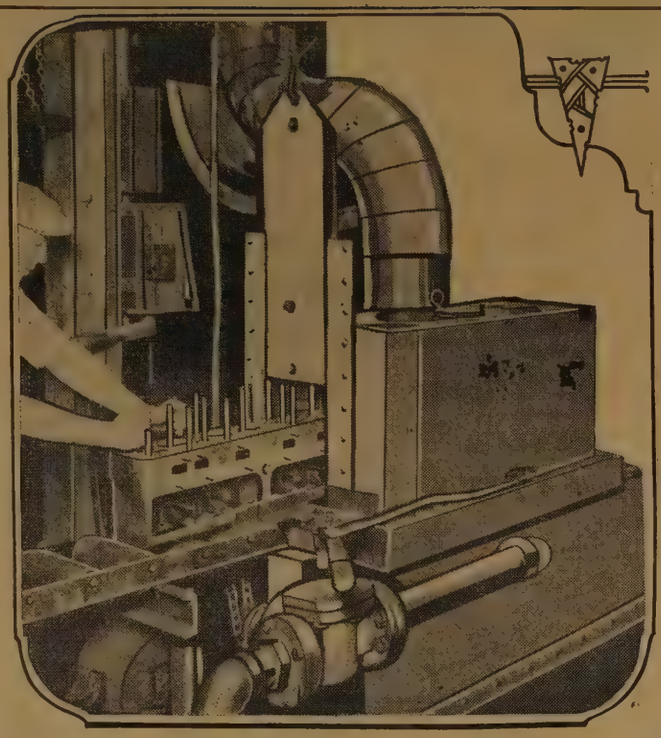
Alabama Power Company



PROBABLY one of the cleanest and most laundered articles in the world is a high grade automobile engine. It is washed with live steam, with boiling soda solutions and with kerosene and oil—not once, but repeatedly. It is scoured, sprayed, immersed and doused Cascades of swirling hot water under pressure are poured over it.

Each sort of dirt, grit or grease is attacked with a diffeernt method. Finally it is given an internal bath with oil under pressure. An example of how these operations are carried on under conditions of high production is affordede in the Hudson Super-Six. Following is a Hudson description of what is done to a cylinder block.

The block is cleaned by sand blast, then sprayed with paint to close pores in the metal. Next the interior of the cooling system is pressure-tested with water for leaks, following which a hot soda solution under pressure washes this whole system for sand, rust and other dirt.

Affer the valves are ground this part of the motor is sprayed with kerosene which loosens up any surface dirt.

Live Steam Bath

Next the whole block is subjected to a bath of live steam under pressure. Still this is not enough, so the whole block is placed in a rotary washer—an enclosed compartment within which the block is rotated while gallons of very hot metal cleaning solution are cascaded onto it and through every part of it. Now it is partly immersed in cold water—as much for cooling as for additional cleansing. It is dried with compressed air which blows away dirt.

Hot Oil Internal Bath

Finally and probably most significant of all, the whole interior of the motor is given a hot oil bath during the block test. As the motor runs during this test a constant fresh supply of filteredoil is fed the motor from special tanks. The motor warms itself naturally during the test, so that particles of grit, machine chips or other dirt are loosened and washed out of the motor by the supply of oil.

The oil itself is not carried to the pump for re-circulation but is led away from the motor, taking with it the various particles as sediment. This several hours of an internal hot oil bath so cleanses the inside of the motor that the closest inspector is said to discover no foregin substance. This system is employed by some of the finest European cars.

THOROUGHLY CLEANED

Meantine the aluminum crankcase, the cylinder heads and various miscellaneous parts have been subjected to similar washing system, so that the whole Hudson motorinside and out is said to be spotlessly clean.

This cleanliness at the very start of a motor's operation is declared highly important to its long life and Hudson's recent developments have been along the line of increasing the efficiency of each washing operation as well as adding new methods and new facilities.

Death of "Uncle Dick" Jones Occured July 6

Mr. Richard Toliver Jones died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. T. C. McSwain last Friday, July 6, at noon. He was known to his many friends as "Uncle Dick."

The deceased was 79 years of age, and would have reached his eightieth year on the 28th of next month. He was born in Harris County, Georgia, and came to Alabama when only an infant, and has lived in Chilton County approximately sixty years, of which a large part has been spent in Clanton.

Mr. Jones devoted the major part of his life to the lumber industry, and was a widely known lumberman throughout Chilton and other counties.

He was an active member of the Methodist church. His wife, who was Miss Rosa Wood of Cooper, preceded him to the grave approximately thirty seven years ago.

"Uncle Dick" was widely known as one of the greatest fishermen in this section, and had made many friends through his congeniality. He was also a hunter of great ability, in fact he was an all round sportsman up until his health began to fail.

Funeral services were held at the residence of Mrs T. C. McSwain at 11:00 o'clock Saturday, July 7, with Rev. L. B. Green, pastor of the local Methodist church conducting the services. Interment took place in the Clanton cemetery with J. Mell Martin local undertaker, in charge.

The large crowd of friends who attended the funeral of this beloved old gentleman, and the enormous floral offerings were evidence of the lov and esteem in which "Uncle Dick" was held.

The pall bearers were H. M. Simpson, Eric Hart, Dr. T. H. Nighbors, Charlie Wyatt, John Armstrong and John T. Robinson.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. J. H. Drake of Auburn, where he once lived. Two children, Mrs. T. C. McSwain and Mr Macey F. Jones of Clanton. Four grandchildren, Mary, Louise, Elizabeth and Thad McSwain Jr., all of Clanton.

KNOW Your South
and be a Partner ... in its Growth ...

ATLANTA

with its residence and industrial suburbs has about 300,000 inhabitants. It combines the charm of the old South with the vigor and enterprise of the new. Though considered the center of the southeast, Atlanta really is west of Detroit. It is more than 1,000 ft. above sea level, the highest large city east of Denver.

Atlanta is the great distributing point of the Southeast, and the headquarters of several hundred corporations. It is the home of the Georgia School of Technology, Emory University, Oglethorpe University, Agnes Scott College, and several other institutions of higher learning. For the past 18 years, each spring the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company has presented in Atlanta a week of opera, complete in every way, with 7 performances each season. Atlanta is the great golf center of the South, with 9 golf courses, including East Lake and Druid Hills, where Bobby Jones learned the game.

The residential suburbs of Atlanta, stretching far out the well paved roads to the great country estates, are among the most beautiful in America. Stone Mountain, the great granite monolith upon which is being carved the world's most gigantic group of statuary, a memorial to the Confederate Soldier, is 16 miles from Atlanta.

Every winter, more and more tourists are breaking the journey to or from Florida by a stay in Atlanta, whose climate offers a happy medium between that of the far south and the north.

What the "OLD RELIABLE" means to ATLANTA

The L. & N. R. R. has played an important role in the development of the Atlanta territory since its lines entered Atlanta nearly 25 years ago.

It now operates 216 miles of its lines in the State and an average of ten passenger and fourteen freight trains serve Atlanta daily.

Of the produce delivered to Atlanta proper, 97% is handled from L. & N. tracks through its large produce building which is one of the largest of its kind in the country and houses practically all of the city's produce dealers.

The L. & N. pays directly and participates in the payment of salaries of about 1,400 citizens of Atlanta whose L. & N. paid salaries total nearly $1,000,000 annually.

Mississippi G. O. P. Head Is Indicted

Deputy Leaves To Bring Negro Chief From Washington

Biloxi, Miss., July 16.—Sensations forecast Saturday when the Federal Grand Jury, investigating methods employed by state Republican leaders in distributing patronage, adjourned Monday, while the inquisatorial body continued to receive additional evidence from the scores of witnesses it had summoned.

Although the district attorney and other court attaches refused confirmation, from Washington it became known that Perry W. Howard, negro national republican committeeman from Mississippi and the acknowledged party leader in the state had been indicted for conspiracy to violate the law prohibiting the sale of public offices.

The indictment specifically charged that Howard, Scott Hubbard and deputy United States marshal stationed here; D. Redmond, his brother, A. M. Redmond, and Ed. L Patton, Jackson negroes, conspired and received $1,500 for the appointment of A. P. Russell, as deputy United States marshall for the Southern district. Russell, who has been summoned before the Grand Jury, served as deputy marshal from June until October last year, being succeeded by the incumbent, J C Buchanan. At present, he is a rural mail carrier.

G. O. P. AID TERMED BETRAYAL

Des Moines, July 16.—A plea for support of the Democratic party platform was made Monday before the Corn Belt Committee, by Milo Reno, president of the Iowa Farmers' Union. The committee met to analyze the national political platforms.

Mr. Reno, a member of the committtee, attacked the agricultural plank of the national Republican platform and charged that an attempt was being made by Republican leaders to distract the electorate from the party platform to the party nominee.

Upholds Farm Plank

Upholding the Democratic party platform on agriculture as offering American farmers more definite hopes of realizing the ideals as set forth in the conditions contained in the McNary-Haugen bill, Mr. Reno declared conference members would betray the cause and their followers if they failed to support the Democratic platform

Charles E. Hearst, president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, presided in the absence of William Hirth, of Columbia, Mo., head of the committee, who is ill in a hospital at Columbia.

BISHOP CANDLER'S POLITICAL VIEWS

Bishop Warren A. Candler, Methodist Episcopal Church, South, has stated his political views in the following article submitted to the Atlanta Journal for publication Monday:

In view of the many letters inquiring concerning my position on pending matters political, and asking advice upon the same, the following statement is made:

I see no reason to dissent from the position of my church on the subject of personal and party politics as that position has been proclaimed authoritatively by its leaders from the beginning of its history as a Christian body.

Aug. 17, 1865—before the clouds of war had been dispersed and while the most irritating conditions were prevailing in our country—Bishop James O. Andrew, Robert Paine and George F. Pierce met at Columbus, Ga., and issued a pastoral address to the ministers and members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, giving timely counsels and admonitions concerning the course to be pursued in the midst of the trying situation which confronted them. Bishops Joshua Soule and Hubbard H. Kavanaugh were prevented from attending the meeting by the disordered state of railway transportation, but they approved the address issued by the other bishops when it was sent to them.

With reference to political matters the address contained the following exhortation to the preachers:

> "Know your high calling. Preach Christ and Him crucified. Do not preach politics. You have no commission to preach politics. The divinity of the church is never more strikingly displayed than when it holds on its ever-straightforward way in the midst of worldly commotions."

In the Spring of 1866 the General Conference met in New Orleans, La., and the bishops said in the episcopal address to that notable body of able and devout men:

> "We do not attempt in this brief address to enter into a detailed account of the general state of the work. We thank God that we have so safely passed through a most painful and fiery ordeal; that the church has preserved under Her blessing her integrity; that she has in no wise become complicated with political affairs; but keeping in view her own high mission, has been satisfied to perform her legitimate duties."

In that expression of the non-political mission and work of the church all the bishops heartily united, and the general conference approved it.

The General Conference elected to the office of bishop Dr. William M. Wightman, Dr. David S. Doggett, Dr. Enoch M. Marvin and Dr. Holland N. McTveire, all of whom went forth to their new fields of labor in perfect agreement with the sentiments of their older colleagues and the general conference concerning the subject of the church and politics.

Some years later that most saintly man, eloquent preacher, and wise bishop, Bishop Enoch M. Marvin, published a very strong article in which he discussed the duty and destiny of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in the closing paragraphs of which he said:

> "We must stand in our lot. The future must be left to the men of the future and to God. Those who shall have the affairs of the church in charge 50 years hence will be as wise as we. Let us pray that they may be much more wise. Fifty years hence God will be listening to the prayers of His people. Fifty years hence—we cannot doubt it—there will be a Methodist Church in the land, in poise amid the factions of the hour, pure amid its temptations, her candlestick still in its place, her light burning with the pure flame of inspiration and faith, her eye lifted, her hands clean from bribes, her robes of linen clean and white, the righteousness of saints washed in the blood of the lamb revered by all who love the Lord Jesus, and hated only by His enemies; her children dwelling in the South, and in the North, the West and in the East, with Republican and Democrat, Radical and Conservative, alike calling her blessed. She will excite the suspicion and hatred of none by allying herself with an adverse party upon issues that arouse the passions of the hour, but lie outside of her sphere. She will move with a grand but quiet energy amid the affairs of men, the representative of Christ to all, the political ally or enemy of none. She will stand for Christ, recognized by all, upon a place far above the level of those contests which come and go with the energy and swiftness of a tornado. She will abjure both the riches and power which might reward a lewd and bewitching coquetry with some successful party in the state. She will be known, and loved, and hated, as the chaste spouse of Christ. Her character will give full force and meaning to the Word of God committed to her.
> "This is the destiny of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, a destiny that she cannot alienate. She must stand in her lot to the end of the days."

At the General Conference held in Memphis, Tenn., May 3-21, 1894, the bishops said in their address to that body:

> "It is not amiss to repeat what has often been declared—that our church is strictly a religious and in no wise a political body. Our sole business is to preach and serve the kingdom of God. There are many questions, economical, social, and in part ethical, of burning interest in the day, which our pulpit and churches may be tempted to substitute for the simple gospel. Men claiming to be advanced thinkers and wide-awake philanthropists may sneer at us as unpractical dreamers and devotees of shadows and abstractions, because we give ourselves wholly to things spiritual and eternal. But Christ is the Rock, and only those who build on him build safely. The

CONWAY AND SIMS BUY JEMISON HDWE. STORE

Health of L. H. Bean Causes His Retirement From Active Business

A business deal of no little consequence was that between Messrs. L. H. Bean and C. C. Conway and J A Sims, all of Jemison, whereby the latter two purchased the business formerly operated in Jemison by Mr. Bean and was known as the Farmers Hardware.

Messrs. Conway and Sims have been engaged in the same line of business at Jemison for some time, and the fact that they decided to branch out in the business is an indication of the faith they have in the future for Jemison. They will operate both stores at Jemison for the present.

Mr. Bean stated to a representative of the News that it was necessary for him to retire from business on account of his health, and that he has planned to enter a Montgomery infirmary at an early date for treatment. However, he stated that he intended to return to Jemison this fall where he would engage in the buying of cotton. Elsewhere in this issue will be found Mr. Bean's announcement of the sale.

Polk Brothers Are Enlarging Plant

Now Have One Of Most Modern and Best Equipped Shops in Section

In last weeks issue of the News appeared the announcement of Polk Brothers Motor Company to the effect that they had enlarged their plant to a large extent.

Undoubtedly, they have one of the best arranged and best equipped shops in this section. The entire office, the show rooms, parts department, and repair department has undergone a complete change throughout. New fixtures for the parts department have been installed, making it so that they are able to supply the parts desired at a moment's notice, thereby eliminating unnecessary delay which is often very expensive to the owner of an automobile. The parts department will be in charge of a very competent man, who is well versed in this line.

There will be a show room for used cars and one for the new Chevrolets, and both of these will be located in the front of the building. Just back of the show rooms will be found the roomy and attractive officies of the concern, and also the complete parts department.

In the rear of the building the repair department is located. This department has been well planned and laid out according to the latest plans to render the quickest and best of service to automobile owners. This repair department of the Polk Brothers Motor Company will be in charge of men who are graduates of the Chevrolet service school, guaranteeing satisfaction to their customers.

Each class of work to be done on an automobile has a special sub-department in this large repair department.

Everyone is invited to call at the Polk Brothers Motor Company, Inc., and inspect the entire plant, at which time they state that they will be pleased to show you the entire plant.

MABEL'S BEAUTY SHOP GIVES PERMANENTS TO TWO MEN

Miss Mabel Howard of DeMabel's Beauty Shoppe, local beauty parlor, in an interview with a representative of the News, stated that during the past week she gave permanent waves to two "men."

The first wave, given to a resident of Thorsby, was given last Monday. So far she states that both the parties were well pleased with the waves.

Now, all you "men" and "boys", it always takes a leader in almost everything to get it started, so now that someone has made the break, why not carry the thing on?

It has been predicted that soon it will be nothing out of the ordinary to see a "man" go into a beauty parlor and come out with a permanent wave in his hair, or a marcel or something in that line. We are informed that in the larger cities it is an everyday occurence. And now it has reached our city! Next?

ALABAMA FARMERS HAVE LARGE ACREAGE THIS YEAR

Alabama farmers were determined to do better this year than last, since they planted 176,000 acres more of crops, according to the first acreage crop report by F. W. Gist, State and Federal Statistician, who in his Alabama Report says:

"Corn, oats and sorghum alone show a decrease in acreage, all other crops have made an acreage gain. Cotton shows an acreage of 3,471,000 compared to 3,214,000 for last year at this date. This is an increase of 8 per cent over last year, and an increase of 9 per cent over the amount actually picked last year."

"The stand of cotton averages 75 per cent of a perfect stand, as compared with 84 per cent last year; in other words, the stand is 9 per cent lower than in 1927. The poor stand is undoubtedly due to the bad weather in spring and early summer."

"Corn makes even a poorer showing than cotton—it being only 60 per cent as compared with 80 per cent in 1927. According to present indications the crop will average 11.4 bushels per acre with a shortage of over 15 million bushels over last year. Late planting, a late season, excess of rains, and consequent lack of cultivation are causes of the poor crop prospect."

"Hay prospects are about the same although much depends on the weather with regard to planting of legume hays and harvesting of Johnson hay in the black belt, 66,000 acres of hay are reported with a condition of 75."

"Sorghum has o condition of 64; sugar can 65; sweet potatoes 73; soybeans 72; cowpeas 70; pastures 85; apples 60; peaches 76; pecans 77.

"Pastures, apples, pears, peaches and pecans are decidedly better crop than last year. Pastures are 3 per cent improved; apples 20 per cent; peaches 48 per cent; and pecans 9 per cent over last year."

With the growing dairy production it is good to note that cows are holding up well on the excellent pastures although but 58 per cent of cows were giving milk on July 1. On farms there were 194 chicks to every 100 hens. Egg production was down to 35.5 eggs per 100 hens.

June weather was very wet, with over 15 inches of rain in some places. This was highly unfavorable for the planting and cultivation and favored the growth of grass in tilled crops. Farmers are hoping for a hot dry July and August to increase their chances of a cotton crop. Mr. Gist said he was prohibited by law from saying anything about the condition of cotton before August 6 and anything about prospects of production before September 8th.

July 31 to August 3 is the date for the annual summer school for farm people at Auburn. It will be for men and women.

BUSINESS FARMING ON SUMMER PROGRAM

Auburn, Ala., July 16—Among the subjects which will be emphasized at farmers' week at Auburn, July 31 to August 3, will be the business side of farming. It will be taught by the members of the faculty of the college of agriculture and Extension Service and Dr. Bradford Knapp, president, who will give special lectures. Co-operation among farmers will be emphasized.

This subject is being included at the suggestion of Dr. Knapp who has studied cooperation among farmers in this country and also in Europe. His purpose is to place it before the people of the state in a practical way in view of the outstanding cooperative work being done by the farm people of Alabama. Through their state and county councils the farm women are organized and the same is true of the farmers through their Farm Bureau and also other organizations.

In making this announcement the committee in charge—composed of Dr. Knapp, Prof. L. N. Duncan, Prof. M. J. Funchess, and Dr. C. A. Cary—said that this will be only one of several subjects. The plan is to present practical information on livestock, poultry, fertilizers, crops, farm management, fruits, vegetables, and other things of interest to farmers.

A special program is being arranged for farm women under the direction of Miss Helen Johnston, state chairman of home demonstration work, and her associates.

The summer school will start the morning of July 31 and continue until the afternoon of August 3. Accomodations will be provided for all who come. "There will be room enough and meals enough for all," said the committee.

FARM AND HOME FACTS

The Alabama Farm Bureau Credit Corporation has announced that loans will be made on dairy cows. Heretofore this corporation has been lending largely on cotton.

The timber industry has been one of the biggest revenue producers the South has had and it will continue if timber is given the attention to which it is entitled.

Probably the biggest thing a farm woman gets out of the annual camp is the three meals a day that she does not have to plan or prepare.

A short cotton crop in Alabama is a cause for more cows and more chickens to replace part of the income lost by a short cotton crop which appears certain.

It is no disgrace to find red mites in the poultry house but it is a disgrace to leave them. Keep the brood coops and laying houses clean and sprayed with a good disinfectant.

Even the lowly egg when prepared in different ways will seem new and appetizing. The same vegetable or fruit may be served many times when prepared differently.

One way to increase farm income next fall, winter, and spring is to increase the number of livestock; and this calls for saving more feed this summer and fall.

R. H. GRANT, OF CHEV. MOTOR CO. RETURNS FROM EUROPE

Despite the desire of European automobile manufacturers to keep the business to themselves and regardless of the wish of European motor car buyers to support home industries, I feel that the great value of the American automobile at its price will break down those sentimental barriers and provide American manufacturers with a steadily expanding market abroad.

This is the home-coming statement of R. H. Grant, vice-president of the Chevrolet Motor Company in charge of sales, who recently returned from a six weeks tour of the leading business centers overseas.

"America's position in the European market has been made possible and fortified by the advanced production methods employed by the industry on this side of the Atlantic," Mr. Grant pointed out. "Our manufacturing facilities are vastly superior to those of European companies.

"This is true especially in the lower priced fields where Europe has only one maufacturer who has developed quantity production methods to any considerable extent. And as we know over here, volume manufacturing has been one of the foremost factors in permitting the industry to offer so much automobile at so low a price.

"By the very virtue of the speed required to attain volume, precision is constantly becoming more of an autocrat in the manufacturing of our automobiles. Parts must be machined to closer and more accurate limits to make this volume possible, and as a result of this precision we get a finer automobile and as a result of the quantity production which precision makes possible, American manufacturers are able to offer the public more automobiles per dollar than any other in the world."

Mr. Grant is keenly enthusiastic over the prospects for export sales and points to an increasing European trade as an important factor in the development of the automobile business generally.

"Unlike the average American, the typical European hasn't yet come to the realization that he must have an automobile," Mr. Grant observed. "However the desire to own one has always been there and with economic conditions in better shape now than at any time since the war, the prospective customer over there is in a more advantageous position to satisfy the need."

The wide-spread use of bicycles throughout Europe proved of special interest to Mr. Grant, as a seller of a low-priced car. There are twenty bicycles in operation in Germany for every automobile registered, ten in England, and seven in France. More than 27,000,000 bicycles are being operated in these countries alone.

"The vast number of bicycles now being used in Europe provides an accurate notion of the potentialities of the European automobile market and seems to indicate that one of the major sales duties of the automobile industry abroad is to place these 27,000,000 bicycle riders at the wheels of automobiles," Mr. Grant declared.

In the course of his tour Mr. Grant visited England, France, Belgium, Germany, Holland, and Denmark. In Antwerp, Berlin, Copenhagen, Paris and London he aaddressed meetings of Chevrolet dealers.

In his talks to the dealers, Mr. Grant outlined the selling methods which have made Chevrolet the most popular car in the United States. He advised them not to adopt but to adapt American methods to their own working conditions.

Two years ago Mr. Grant held dealer meetings in these same cities and expressed himself as gratified to find on his recent trip that so many ideas had been so successfully adapted to European sales requirements.

WIDE RANGE IN COTTON GROWING COSTS MORE

Costs of growing cotton ranging from 8 cents per pound of lint to 59 cents per pund during the 1927 season have been reported to the United States Department of Agriculture by 992 cotton growers Most of the growers reporting on their costs had yields higher than the average of 154 pounds per acre reported by the Federal Crop Reporting Board.

The department has tabulated the costs by yield groups. Forty-five farmers reported yields of 60 pounds and under per acre at an average cost of 69 cents per pound of cotton. On the other hand, 23 farmers reported yields of more than 500 pounds per acre at an avearge cost of 8 cents per pound. Seventy-two farmers who grew from 61 to 100 pounds of lint per acre reported an average cost of 26 cents per pound of lint, and 90 farmers who grew between 101 to 140 pounds to the acre reported an average cost of 20 cents per pound of lint.

More than half the group of 992 farmers had yields of 141 to 300 pounds per acre with an average production cost of 13 cents per pound of lint cotton. These farmers were among the group having the larger cotton acreages.

ACE, FOR SHORT

Asphalt Chromate Emulsion."Ace, for Short," is a new industrial discovery, with an asphalt base, that it is promised will put the kibosh on rust, decay and destruction by alkalis and grases, that have heretofore eaten up and through steel, iron and other piping, principally when the pipes are laid underground.

After long research work an asphalt has been produced that is not subjected to the shortcomings of the usual types.

The produce is designed primarily as an anti-corrosive and rust inhibitor for the protective coating of structural steel and other ferrous metal subjected to unusal corrosive conditions in contact with air, water or under ground agencies.

A SWIM IS NOT A BATH

These are the days when the joyous cry, "Come on in, the water's fine!" echoes alike from the old swimming hole and the modern tiled pool, while America's favorite summer sport cools and refreshes millions.

Timely, then, is the warning issued by W. W. Peter, M. D., Dr P H, nationally known health authority, in a recent issue of Cleanliness Journal. "A swim is not a bath," Dr. Peter points out. "One must be very dirty to have it count even partly as a cleaning process. The secretions of the body are only to a small extent soluble in the usually cool water of the swimming pool. A swim, especially in a pool, is not even a good swim without a previous soap bath.."

While no one can hope to have his own private Atlantic or Pacific, the cleanly person who shares his swim with hundreds of others enjoys it more when he knows that a preliminary bath is required of every one entering the water This satisfaction is due in large part, this authority believes, to the fact that it is "nice."

But strong reasons than aesthetic ones are behind the growing emphasis on the regulation of public bathing places. For years public health authorities have been aware of the health hazards of swimming pools. The possibilities of disease tranference in improperly operated swimming pools are too great to allow any standard lower than that of strick cleanliness for the bather, his suit, and the entire pool. Twenty-three states now have laws and regulations with respect to swimming pools and other bathing places. The usual requirement is that bathers must take a shower bath, using soap, before entering the pool. Health as well as general decency would seem to recommend such legislation throughout all the States.

MATCHING THINGS

Just where will this prevalent craze for matching things one to another end? Our purses must match our shoes; our scarfs and handkerchiefs are closely related sometimes not only to each other but to hat bands and belts; even the pocket camera has entered the fold and there are colored shell rimmed spectacles. Matching fabrics is an old story, with countless new angles since rayon grabbed up most of the field. And now in our less strenuous moods we are to not only blend into our surroundings, but almost literally to become a part of them. The latest pajamas repeat in color and design the patterns of our pillows and rugs. It's all for harmony to use the political term.

OUR SUMMER FRIENDS

When fleas become annoying or dangerous to health it is neccessary to take steps to alleviate immediate, but the important thing is to act energetically to eleminate the breeding places of fleas and so a check on the supply. This is the advice offered by the United States Bureau of Entomology in Farming . Bulleain 897-F, Fleas and Their Control, just issued in a revised edition by the United States Department of Agriculture and avilable for free distribution.

About 500 species of fleas are known to exist, but less than a dozen are of special interest as pests to men and domestic animals.

LEARNED DEGREE FOR EDITORS

Universities throughout the United States are showing an increasing tendency to recognize the editorial leadership of the newspapers and magazines by award of honorary degrees. During the commencement season which has just passed more than twenty of these degrees were conferred upon editors, and this total showed a total in crease of nearly 100 per cent above last year's honors. Heading the list of editors who were recognized in this manner was Merle Crowell, former newspaper man and now editor of the American Magazine, who received the degree of Doctor of Literature from Colby College, his alma mater. Two days before, he delivered the annual oration to the Colby graduates. As a college commencement speaker, Mr. Crowell tried the novel experience of offering no advice, nor did he attempt to propound any deep philosophy. He stood before his audience frankly as a reporter of men's lives and of deductions he drew from them.

For the past twenty years Mr. Crowell has been fortunate in his human contacts. During more than half that time it was his business to interview scores of reat industrial leaders, as well as many famous educators, scientists, and others who have reached conspicious goals of human achievement. Even since he has largely forsaken writing for editing, these rich contacts have continued. During all these years he, like many editors, has been studying the men he has come to know and usually to admire. He has striven to discover what common qualities run like golden threads through the warp of their rewarded efforts. In his address a few weeks earlier before the National Editorial Association, he spoke about a selected few of them and outlined the conclusions he had drawn from his contacts with them,—Lindbergh, Woodrow Wilson, Owen D Young, and Henry P. Davidson were a few of the names that the speaker brought before his audience.

And the conclusion he drew was that "singlemindedness is a trait which you will find in nearly all men of great achievement."

"BLACK EYES" AND "BLOOD SHOT" EYES

Suggestions for the care of the eyes prepared under the direction of the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, furnish many useful hints:

To remove "something" from the eye, dip little pieces of flannel in hot water and apply constantly below the lower lid. If the substance is a difficult one like a bit of steel, go to an oculist.

For a "black eye" the swelling may be reduced by applying to the closed lids every three or four minutes, little squares or circles of clean, white, absorbent cotton or linen, fourfold, which have laid on a piece of ice until thoroughly cold. The treatment should be kept up continuously for from 12 to 24 hours, until the swelling has subsided. The removal of discoloration may be hastened by applying more or less constantly below the lower lid, little pieces of flannel dipped in water as hot as can be borne.

Treatment for congested lids is better light, rest, attention to personal hygieine such as a balanced diet, daily baths, and plenty of sleep. A few drops of a solution of zinc sulphate made by discolving one grain of zinc sulphate to an ounce of water may be dropped into the eyes as an astringent.

"Blood shot" eyes are regarded as serious, and if there is a discharge from the eye, which dries on the lashes and causes the lids to stick together, a competent physician or specialist should be consulted.

Statements by eye experts give attention to the necessity for proper lenses, which can only be secured first-class eye specialists. They recommend rigid frames such as shell rims, that do not fly out of shape upon the slightest excuse, because once fitted on the patient their form is permanent and satisfying. The old style metal frames have been discarded to a large extent because they are always breaking.

For slight wounds and burns about the eyes the Public Health Service recommends a tepid solution of boric acid treated by a solution of one part of vinegar and two parts of water. Slight burns by acids may be washed with lime water or water to which a little baking soda has been added—one-half teaspoonful to a glass of water.

Congestion of the eye lids caused by smoke or dust, or by excessive glare, or by constant reading, may be frequently relieved by resting them and lotion. A solution of ten grains of by a mild instringent or an antiseptic boric acid to the ounce of water, or argyrol in a five to ten per cent solution, is recommended for "pink eye" and similar trouble.

FACTS TO OBSERVE IN TRAPPING HOUSE FLIES, ETC.

While the logical method of fly control is to prevent the multiplication of these pests by proper disposal of or treatment of their breeding places, some degree of control can be maintained by the use of traps. Both the house fly and blowflies may be captured in traps, according to the entomologists of the United States Department of Agriculture, but the character of the bait and the location of the traps are important considerations, in trapping the different kinds of flies.

Farmers' Bulletin 734-F, "Flytraps and their Operation," by C. F. Bishopp of the Bureau of Entomology of the department, gives directions for constructing a number of different kinds of traps, the same general principal being used in all these flytraps though they appear to be different. The flies are attracted into a cage through a passage, the entrance of which is large and the exit small. Once inside there is little chance that the flies will find the way out.

Light is an important factor in the success of all flytraps because flies have a tendency to go toward the light, and they will usually enter a trap by flying toward the light after having been attracted to it by the odor of the bait or after entering a room in search of food.

A copy of the bulletin may be obtained from the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Mobile To Get Huge Kraft Paper Mill

Mobile, Ala., July 11.—International Paper Company will immediately construct here a 170-ton per day kraft paper mill costing over $5,000,000 J. H. Allen, representative of the Company, announced today.

The new plent will give employment to approximately 1,000 workers, create a new payroll of about $1,000,000 and provide a market for several hundred thousand cords of pulp wood.

The statement of Mr. Allen, announcing his Company's decision, follows:

"The new economic formula created through the state docks commission, plus the active industrial spirit of Mobile, has attracted this industry to this State.

"Col. R. A. Mitchell of the Alabama Power Company is the person within the state of Alabama who insisted that the speaker investigate carefully the new economic conditions at Mobile, and urged that this investigation be made through his friends at Mobile, Gen. William L. Sibert. These are the two men who did the original thinking for Mobile on this subject. Many others have helped immeasurably, but it is always interesting to know the particular men whose thinking causes to come to life a great material manifestation.

"This mill will be built and operated under the control and management of R. J. Cullen, who is recognized throughout the Kraft paper industry as the best construction and operating engineer in the industry.

"The plant will cost between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. The inbound freight on the material will exceed $200,000. Paper sales annually, about $3,500,000. Export increase, about 10 per cent.

"The company will have a 200,000 acre timber farm. We now have options on over 500,000 acres of land. Out of these options, or from other sources, we will make our purchase of this timber farm. This will raise more timber annually than the plant consumes; therefore, we will have a perpetual timber supply which will operate this plant, century in and century out.

"We will bring to your state a conservation program that will conserve 10 trees for every tree we cut, and when the farmer learns that there is money in raising timber, and that he can actually find a market for these small trees, then forestry within the state will be put upon a practical money making basis, and if this company can be a party to a complete conservation program, under which the state of Alabama will protect its millons of trees each year, that are now destroyed by fire annually, then the accrual in wealth to the state of Alabama, through the raising of timber on its now 20,000,000 acres of unprotected lands cannot be estimated with figures that sound conservative."

ALABAMA GETS HUGE RADIO TO ADVERTISE STATE

Birmingham, Ala., July 11.—A new 5,000 watt radiobroadcasting station will be put in operation in Birmingham early in the Fall, Governor Graves announced Tuesday at a conference of the Alabama Industrial Development Board with Auburn trustees and city officials.

The new station will supplant the old one at Auburn and will be one of the most powerful in the South. It will be operated on a cooperative basis by the State, through Auburn, and the City of Birmingham.

It was explained that the main object in establishing the powerful station in Birmingham is to enable the entire State to be served. Not only will musical programs for advertising of Alabama be broadcast, but particular attention will be given to the dissemination of financial and market data and other information of interest to the farmer. The material to be broadcast from Auburn will be by remote control over leased wire from Auburn via Montgomery to Birmingham.

A connection with one of the national radio networks is contemplated it was said, thus assuring the new station of grand opera, orchestral and vocal programs comparable with any in the country.

SORE

Could Not Rest

Mrs. J. H. Nichols, who lives at 613 Elm Tree Lane, Lexington, Ky., says:

"Some few years ago, my health was bad. I had very severe pains in my sides. My nerves were in a terrible condition. I could not rest.

"The lower part of my body was very sore. I did not feel like eating, and did not sleep well at all at nights.

"A friend of mine recommended Cardui. I began taking it and saw quite an improvement in my condition. I kept it up until I felt strong and well."

About a year ago, Mrs. Nichols says, she found herself in a nervous, run-down condition. "I took Cardui again," she adds, "and it helped me wonderfully. It is a splendid tonic."

Cardui is a mild, medicinal tonic, made from purely vegetable ingredients.

more closely we keep ourselves to the one work of testifying to all men repentance toward God and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ, the better shall we promote the highest good of our country and race. As a church we are not related by affiliation or antagonism to any political party. As a citizen every man should carry his judgment and conscience into politics and all other spheres of life."

From this established and scriptural position of my church I feel no disposition to dissent or depart. It is an agreement with the words of our Lord when He witnessed His good confession before Pontius Pilate. "My kingdom is not of this world." (John xviii .36)

Offerng no criticism of others, I propose to abide unfalterngly by this principle, discharging conscientiously my duties as a citizen and fulfilling with fidelity my commission as a minister of Jesus Christ. On that I stand. I cannot do otherwise. May my Lord finish my course with joy and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus to testify the gospel of the grace of God; "fight the good fight of faith and lay hold on eternal life." 33 NEW PLANTS BUILDING IN 23 ALABAMA TOWNS

Twenty Textile Mills In New Investments Of $35,000,000; Annual Payrolls $15,000,000

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 11—(Special)—Thirty-three major new industrial units, requiring a total capital investment of approximately $35,000,000, are under construction or definitely assured in twenty-three Alabama communities, Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company, announced here today.

What is probably the largest industrial development program ever undertaken in Alabama at one time will provide employment for approximately 17 500 workers and create new payrolls of over $15,000,000 the first year of operation.

"Diversity in the character of the products to be manufactured is a feature of the new enterprises," Mr. Martin said. "The thirty-three new plants will make fifteen different products, including several not heretofore manufactured in Alabama. Chief among the products to be made are kraft paper and bags, silk cloth, condensed milk, cotton bags, fine cotton and rayon goods, woolen underwear, sweaters, fuller's earth, copper wire and furniture.

Trend Toward Small Towns

"The twenty-three favored communities extend from the Tennessee to the Gulf and from the Georgia to the Mississippi lines. Small towns share equally with the larger cities. This diversity in location indicates that the trend in Alabama today toward decentralization of industry is an accomplished fact. While the larger centers will continue to expand, indications point toward the selection by industries of increasingly smaller communities for one-product straight-line production plants of medium size. The location of the ten units of Alabama mills in ten of the smaller towns and two chains of eleven other units expected to be announced shortly are cases in point.

"Noticeable impetus has been given to the building trades by the expenditures for plant construction and increased activity in those lines is looked for as construction of additional units gets under way. In addition to the large supplies of brick, cement, steel and lumber that will be required, plant construction will give employment not only to a large number of skilled workers but will absorb many idle agriculturists during the Summer months when crops are laid by. The stimulus of these construction payrolls will be noticeable chiefly in the smaller centers.

To Use More Cotton

"Increases in the consumption of raw materials will be chiefly in cotton and lime. The use of lime for industrial purposes will be increased 100 tons a day in the next two ears, and many additional bales of cotton will be consumed locally.

"While the distribution in the State of the $15,000,000 of new payrolls will add to the general prosperity and will be noticeable in the larger cities, the smaller towns will be chiefly affected. The distribution in towns of 1,500 to 5,000 population of $250,000 to $500,000 of new money each year, in many cases doubles or trebles their present payrolls and sets up a cycle of prosperity affecting every business, trade and profession and increasing their gross income by 25 to 100 per cent.

Farmers to Benefit

"Agriculture will also benefit from the new payrolls. The new workers must be fed and will create new local markets for farm products. But agriculture will be benefited especially by the new creameries and condenseries one of which will distribute $1,000,000 in cream checks each year, a sum equal to the value of the average county's 10,000 bale crop of 20c cotton. The new kraft paper mills will also benefit the farmer by providing a market for pulp wood. One plant alone will require 100,000 cords of pine wood each year and it is estimated that the consumption of pulp wood in Alabama will reach 300,000 cords in the next 2 years. Thus for the first time in the state's history the value of timber as a cash crop and of its conservation will be brought home to the Alabama farmer. As a result, the wood lot on Alabama farms is destined to take on increasing importance.

"These changes," Mr. Martin said, "are giving us economic balance, changing us from a strictly agricultural to an industrial and agricultural state, which makes for sound progress and uniform prosperity."

Prospects Brightest Ever

Prospects for the location of additional industrial enterprises in Alabama are the brightest in the State's history, Mr. Martin pointed out. The Power Company is in communication with a large number of prospects who are visiting Alabama, accompanied by members of the new industries division at the rate of something like eight parties each month, he said. Included among these are manufacturers of hosiery, knit goods, underwear, cotton yarns, cotton gauze, tire fabrics, cotton goods, finished textiles, fabricated steel, pulp and paper, electro-chemicals, dairy products, silk goods, laces, skirts, chemicals, soap, furniture, clay products, cotton webbing, metal furniture, machinery, enamel ware and rayon.

PLEASANT GROVE NEWS

A gracious revival was held here last week in which Rev. B. F. Dykes, pastor of the Boyles Baptist Church, did the preaching. He is a Chilton County boy who deserves credit for his attainment in the Lord's work.

There were fifteen additions to the Church, twelve of whom were for baptism. The church was greatly revived and I believe much lasting good is done. We should "work and pray" that we may have great meetings in all our churches, that God's people may march on to victory over the evil one.

Respectfully,

G. G Williams, pastor.

33 New Industries for ALABAMA!

NOW Building in 23 Towns Increase Payrolls $15,000,000

AN EPOCH making program of industrial development—the greatest in the history of Alabama—is in full swing!

Thirty-three new industries are building or are definitely assured for 23 communities in Alabama—from Tennessee down to the Gulf, from Georgia to the Mississippi line. These plants were secured for Alabama through co-ordinated efforts of civic bodies, patriotic individuals and the New Industries Division of the Alabama Power Company.

Employ 17,500 Workers

These thirty-three new plants will employ 17,500 workers. Their yearly payrolls will amount to $15,000,000. Their capital investment will be $35,000,000.

Fifteen different products—many of them never made before in Alabama, will be manufactured. Included in the list are Kraft paper and bags, silk cloth, fine cotton and rayon goods, woolen underwear and sweaters, fuller's earth, copper wire, and furniture.

The coming of these plants, most of them to small communities, will usher in a period of prosperity which many sections of the state have never known before.

A New Market for Farm Produce

They will afford employment to farm workers during dull summer months after crops have been laid by. In distributing their payrolls—$250,000 to $500,000 annually in towns of 1,500 to 5,000—they will double or treble the income of communities in which they locate.

They will create a market for farm produce right at home. One creamery alone will buy a million dollars worth of cream a year from nearby farms—a sum equal in value to the average county's cotton crop. One new paper mill will provide a market for 100,000 cords of pine wood annually, making timber a cash crop for the farmer.

Power Paves Way for Progress

But these new plants are only the vanguard. The New Industries Division of the Alabama Power Company is now bringing an average of 8 parties of visiting industrialists a week through the State. It is in touch with more interested prospects than at any other time.

Throughout the State, power is blazing the way for progress. Many Alabama villages of yesterday—towns today—will be cities tomorrow.

Our faith in Alabama's future—so frequently voiced, so often evidenced in substantial terms of capital invested in new power projects to serve growing Alabama—is fast being realized.

Actual Construction Of Cotton Mill Begun

L. T. Davis On Job Superintending Construction Of Mill

Actual construction of the Clanton Cotton Mill begun Monday under the supervision of Mr. L. T. Davis, and though a small crew was all that were working Monday, it is said that the crew will be enlarged from time to time, as the material arrives, and that within a very short time several men will be employed.

The construction of the houses in the village adjoining the site of the mill, has practically been completed. Just a very few meager finishing touches remain to be added, to these modern homes.

Mr. Davis, the superintendent of the construction of the local mill, comes to Clanton from Russellville, where he has just supervised the building of the cotton mill at that place, which is one of the units of the Alabama Mills Company. Mr. Davis is employed by the Batson-Cook Company, contractors for the local job.

Piping for the extending of the city water mains to the cotton mill site, has been purchased, and is now on the grounds, and it is thought that a crew will be put to work at an early date connecting the new mains with the city mains. It has been rumored that plans were on foot to increase the city water supply, to an extent to assure an ample supply for both domestic and industrial purposes for the fast growing town.

Mr. G. M. Crusselle, will remain on the job as resident engineer for Roberts & Company, architects and engineers, but other superintendents of different building departments, which have been completed, are expected to leave during the present week. This includes Mr. Frank Haines, who has supervised the construction of the village here and also at Wetumpka.

J. Q. WADE TO INSTALL NEW ICE PLANT AT CALERA

A new ice plant will be built at Calera, Ala., by Mr. J. Q. Wade of this city, according to information given us.

This new plant will be of ten ton capacity, and built on modern plans. Already the machinery has been purchased for this new plant and construction of the brick building to house the plant will probably begin next month.

MORE FORESTRY MONEY ALLOTED BY GOVERNMENT

Montgomery, Ala., July 23.—An allotment of $43,070 has been made by the Federal Government to the Alabama State Commission of Forestry for the Federal fiscal ending June 30, 1919, announced the Commission today. This is an increase of nearly $5.000 over the last Federal allotment.

Federal forestry funds are allotted to the various States upon the condition that they be used solely for forestry purposes. The work is inspected by Government officials and held to established standards. This cooperation is not due the State by law, but is extended only when it is evident that it will achieve the purpose contemplated by Congress. The allotments may not be made to the State itself, as such, but directly to the forestry department or somtimes even to an unofficial organization.

LANGLEY BUS COMPANY PUTS ON ANOTHER BUS

ANOTHER GIN TO BE IN OPERATION IN CLANTON

Messrs Goodgame To Operate Farmers Gin and Warehouse Co.

Clanton is to have another gin which will be ready for operation within a few weeks. This new gin is being erected in the old canning factory building in the Gowan addition, by Messrs. F. B. (Burns) and W. H. (Bill) Goodgame.

The gin is known as the Murray type, and is a 5-80 double-ribbed huller air blast, all steel outfit, built by the Murray Company of Atlanta, Ga.

This new outfit is electrically driven, with direct connections, insuring the elimination of fire hazards. The motor driving this gin is of 100 horsepower, of the latest type. The improved cleaner and separator which this outfit is equipped with, insures the best of samples for the farmer, and it is his sample from which he sells his cotton. This new cleaner which separates the sand and mote from the seed is the type that will comply with the Alabama Agricultural Department's specifications which will come into effect within a very short time, so it is said.

The press of this new gin is said to be of the strongest type ever built by the ginning industry, it being all steel, ball bearing press, with automatic dogs and mechanical tramper. The self-cleaning condenser, which is all steel and ball bearing is of the latest improved type, insuring against a one-sided bale of cotton. In fact, this entire outfit is what is known as an all-steel, ball-bearing gin. The Murray Company of Atlanta, is said to be the only company making the all-steel condenser.

The warehouse erected by the Messrs Goodgame is reported to be the largest cotton warehouse n Chilton County, at this time, and is located beside the gin. There is ample storage for seed also.

Mr. H. M. T. Miscally and Mr. R. M. Aderholt both of the Murray Co. of Atlanta, are here this week supervising the erection of the new machinery.

The new company will be known as The Farmers Gin and Warehouse Company, composed of F. B. and W. H. Goodgame, who are well know through out the county. They have purchased the building formerly occupied by the canning factory and also lots adjoining. Mr. Goodgame states that they expect to have the gin ready for operation in two or three weeks.

Mrs. Sorrels was injured when the car in which she was riding with her husband, collided with another machine on the Carter Hill Road yesterday morning. Mr. Sorrels escaped injury as did the driver of the other car, whose name was not learned.

Mr. and Mrs. Sorrels were enroute to Montgomery. About 14 miles from the city, at almost the same point where Mrs. L. W. Haines, 215 North Perry Street, was killed in an accident last Sunday. Mr. Sorrells attempted to pass a car about 20 feet ahead of him. The accident occurred, it was said, when the driver of the front machine suddenly and without warning, turned into a side road.

Mrs. Sorrells was brought to Hill's infirmary by Diffly's ambulance.

The accident in which the others were injured occurred near Deatsville, on the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway, about 18 miles south of Clanton, shortly before 8 o'clock Sunday night, when the car reported to have been driven by Armel collided with a car said to have been driven by a Mr. Barbour. Mr. Barbour escaped injury.

Three ambulances from the city, two from Leak's and one from Diffy's were summoned to the scene, but the injured had been brought to the city by passing motorists.

Miss Favors and Miss Grahl were taken to the Memorial Hospital. Commons and Armel were also taken there, but they were dismissed after receiving first aid treatment. Mrs. Barbour and Ruby, and the six-year old boy were taken to St. Margaret's Hospital. Daisy Belle Barbour and John Dismukes are at Hubbard's Infirmary. All are reported to be resting easy late last night. With the exception of Miss Favors, those injured on the Birmingham road will probably be allowed to go to their homes Monday or Tuesday.

Refuse To Talk

Commons refused to discuss the accident and Armel was rather reluctant to do so, though meager details were finally obtained from him after considerable persistence.

"There seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the recent changes in the Dove Law. For the information of the public please permit the following statement for the benefit of the public:

The Dove season for the coming season has been changed by direction of the Secretary of Agriculture and approved by the President of the United States. The open season on Doves this year will be from September 1 to September 30, both dates inclusive. The season will then be closed from October 1 to November 19, both dates inclusive, after which it will again open on November 20 and continue on through January 31.

Shooting of Doves out of season, or over a baited field, will be vigorously proscecuted.

J. C. COX.
District Game Warden."

W. W. FOX ENLARGING NEW FURNITURE STORE

Mr. W. W. Fox, is erecting an addition to his building on Sixth Street, south of the Court House. The addition will join on the rear of the Fox building, and will be a two story structure of brick, 72 feet by 72 feet.

The foundation for this structure has already been laid and a large crew of workmen are now pushing the work forward. Mr. Fox stated that this new building will house a second-hand furniture store and a furniture repair shop, and also a plant for the building of porch furniture.

The furtiture building and repair shop will be operated in connection with the other business of Mr. Fox.

The building now occupied by Macey F. Jones, local electrician and contractor, will be torn down as it now occupies part of the ground on which this new building is to be located.

The furniture repair department, which will be a new addition to the business, will be in the hands of an experienced superintendent, and will fill a long felt need in this section.

REV. D. H. McNEAL TO PREACH AT M. E. CHURCH

AUTAUGA'S COTTON CROP WILL BE CLOSE TO 13,000 BALES

According to an article appearing in the Prattville Progress last week, Autauga's cotton crop will be 13,000 bales, or close to that number, according to Dr. Thomas. Following is the article which appeared in the Prattville Progress last week:

"It is a little early for estimates of Autauga's cotton crop. The Progress will call for estimates around August 1st. However, on being asked, Dr. E. M. Thomas believes he sees far enough into the future to make an estimate. He bases his estimate on acreage, boll weevil conditions, fertilizer and season. With an increased acreage, less boll weevils, than last year and considering much of the heavily fertilized cotton has been impoverished by the grass, Dr. Thomas makes an estimate of Autauga's crop for this year at 13,000 bales. He estimates Alabama's crop at 1,000,000 bales and the South's crop between 14,000,000 and 15,000,000 bales."

"The Drop Kick at Wadesonian Theatre Wednesday and Thursday, Aug 1-2

An all-star cast of exceptional merit supports Richard Barthelmess in "The Drop Kick", First National's production of Katherine Brush's story of college football life which comes to the Wadesonian Theatre, Clanton, Ala., next Wednesday and Thursday, August 1 and 2.

Playing opposite the star is Barbara Kent, a Wampus baby star, who has developed into a young lady of high promise.

An important role is played by Alberta Vaughn, who was a star in her own right in several films. Dorothy Revier, dark, exotic villainess, enacts the role of Brad Hathaway's wife, while Brad is played by Eugene Strong—who was starred in several pictures several years ago.

Helda Hopper enacts the role of Barthelmess' mother and Barbara's mother is played by Mayme Kelso. James Bradbury, who appeared with the star in "Classmates", has the role of "Bones" Allen, and Brooks Benedict, who was with Barthelmess in "Ranson's Folly", does the part of the Ed Pemberton. The part of the dean of Shoreham College, the locale of the story, is played by George Pearce.

Ray Rockett produced the picture, and it was directed by Millard Webb. Camera work was done under the chieftainship of Arthur Edeson, and Dick Hyland, famous Stanford football star, acted as technical adviser. Some of the most thrilling football scenes ever photographed are to be viewed in this latest Barthelmess feature.

City Election To Be Held In Short Time

Within a very short time, the voters of Clanton will go to the polls to elect officers for the city, but to date there seems to be very little interest shown.

Just whose name for the office of Mayor and Council and appointive the public is not known. However, the name of L. Renfroe Mullins is being heard mentioned for the office of Mayor, but to date no official announcement has been made of his candidacy, though it is generally believed that he would meet with little opposition as he has many friends.

J. B. Atkinson, present mayor, when seen by a representative of the News in regard to the coming election stated that "he had no statement to make at present, but would likely make a formal statement next week."

Superintendent Named For Clanton Cotton Mill

Word has reached Clanton to the effect that Mr. A. R. Meeks had been selected as Superintendent of the local cotton mill, when the mill begins operations.

The Clanton Mill, which is a unit of the Alabama Mills Company, is considered fortunate in being able to secure the services of such a competent man, so we are told, for Mr. Meeks is not only familiar with every department of the cotton mill industry, but is familiar with labor conditions as they exist in the South.

Mr. Meeks has been connected with the Russell Manufacturing Company at Alexander City for some time.

The newly appointed superintendent will arrive within a few days and begin with the preliminaries prior to the starting of the local cotton mill.

UPSET
With Stomach Spells

"I have taken Black-Draught ever since I was a child, and can recommend it as a splendid medicine for family use," says Mrs. Cora Maberry, of Sageeysh, Okla. "My mother used it, in bringing up her family, and after I had a home of my own, I continued to use it, as I thought it was good to give the children.

"My children did not mind taking Black-Draught, and so when they got upset with stomach spells, or were constipated, I gave them Black-Draught tea.

"They are all grown now and have homes of their own, but I still keep Black-Draught in the house and use it myself when I wake up in the morning feeling dull and 'headachey', and have a bad taste in my mouth."

WADING POOLS MAY DISPLACE SAND PILES

A wading pool for the juvenile members of the family may displace the time honored sand pile of another day, according to the garden editor of the Woman's Home Companion.

Pointing out that such pools now can be built at a cost as low as $11.60 the writer quotes one mother who declares that such an addition to a child's playground will help make "his own back yard the most attractive spot immaginable." The pool built at a cost of $11.60 called for use of only four sacks of cement, one dollar's worth of sand—taken form the old sand pile which was then forgotten—and a small supply of lumber.

"The pool became the dearest playground of every child in the neighborhood," says the writer, describing one such juvenile play place. "Here they waded and splashed. They carried water in small dishes and pails to make endless mud pies, thus satisfying the craving that every child has to play in the water.

"It was placed far enough from the house to assure having the morning sun. The excavation was only 16 inches deep."

ALASKAN FARMER'S LOT CALLED WORLD'S EASIEST

A land where most of the farmers are bachelors whose work requires their closest attention only 90 days of the year was described today when the work of Dr. C. C. Georgeson, representative of the United States Department of Agriculture, was recounted in The American Magazine.

"The Alaskan farmers," says Dr. Georgeson, who since 1900 has seen appropriations for agriculture in Alaska increase from $12,000 to $76,000 a year, "probably has an easier time than any other farmer in the world, once he is established." During the winter season, the farmer of this country which is famous in many states of the union, for its fine berries, its potatoes, cabbages and a long list of products, works in the mines, hunts or engages in some other activity.

"Through years of experimenting," says the magazine of Dr. Georgeson's work, " he has evolved 170 kinds of potatoes suited to Alaska. In the Matanuska Valley farms have produced 11 tons to the acre. Potatoes form Alaska's most important crop today."

The sun, during the growing season, works practically 24 hours a day in the northern country, Dr. Georgeson explains.

BATHING OFFERS CHANCE

Bathing as an art, which can become an enjoyable aesthetic experiment, is becoming more and more popular with American seekers after relaxation in the summertime.

Discussing pleasant ways of keeping clean, in the Farm and Fireside Magazine, Miss Hazel Rawson Cades, beauty editor, offers alternatives to those who "haven't the energy or the [illegible] to make use of the [illegible] cold cream deodorizer." She lists cold baths, hot baths in the evening and sea salt baths as among the most pleasant even in summertime and discusses other ways that the bath which may make the experience more pleasing.

"Sea salt added to a bath gives you an imitation of an ocean dip even if you live in Arkansas," says Miss Cades. "If the water is hard make little bags of bran or oatmeal for your tub. Also there are bath crystals or powders which make the water smell sweet and soften it. For hot weather if your skin is irritated, a little bicarbonate of soda in the tub is cooling and soothing."

Miss Cades lists a cold bath as a morning bath, a warm bath as restful and cleansing, a hot bath as one which may be enervating. Shower baths, she adds, now are possible for every home as attachments to be fastened to the tub faucets are to be had in every community. The shower she sees as an important part of summer life, because of its stimulating and cleansing effect.

HARNESSES FARM STREAM TO DO OLD TIME CHORES

The day of wearisome farm chores may be doomed by realization that a small stream of water can be harnessed up, to accomplish work formerly done by the entire rural family.

Citing the case of C. W. Fricke of Albermarle County, Virginia, the Farm and Fireside Magazine reveals how it is possible to make a small stream perhaps a foot deep and fifteen feet wide on the average raise poultry easily and cheaply, heat and light a farm house and contribute in a variety of other ways to the farm family's comfort.

"Right on his own place," says the magazine in referring to Mr. Fricke, "he develops and uses an electrical load of ten kilowatts, day and night in winter, and five kilowatts on an average in summer, or a total of 75,640 kilowatt hours a year. The first thing he developed on his place was the power from his small stream; the next an electrical power line from it to the side of his proposed house. The stream pumped its own water up for use in mixing the concrete for the house and drove the concrete mixer and the saws that were used to cut and size the framing material."

As an example of what appliances may be operated by such home made power the magazine lists the following amongothers: A home made electrical house heater; an electric range; a house and outbuilding lighting plant; an electrical feed cutter in the cowshed and in the poultry houses incubators, brooders and drinking fountains all run by electricity.

SEES SCANDAL TELLING FATAL IN SMALL TOWNS

Tale bearing and scandal mongering are two of the surest paths to unhappiness to the person living in a small town, in the opinion of one small town woman philosopher who has almost who spent her entire life in such a locality.

Outlining ten recipes for happiness in the small towns, Mrs. Dorothy Walworth Carman, of Maplewood, N. J., writing in the American Magazine, considers a sense of humor the most important requirement of the small town dweller is to know happiness.

"A sense of humor will keep the little events which crowd in on a small town dweller from seeming calamitous, says Mrs. Carman. "Your day will not be completely ruined because the neighbor's dog tracked up your newly washed porch. Humor is more than a nice thing to have around the house. There is a ministry about it."

Among other requirements for small town happiness Mrs. Carman lists tolerance, kindliness, human interest, discretion, neighborliness, contentment, [illegible] ity, [illegible] and interest in work.

"Bear no grudge if you want to be happy in a small town," Mrs. Carman warns. "Be slow to take offense. Overlook much. And when it comes your turn to forgive, be a good forgiver."

Another fortunate quality for the small town dweller, says Mrs. Carman, is the possession of a hobby, which, she believes keeps people absorbed and makes them forget to be "touchy."

ARE FARMERS USING FERTILIZER ECONOMICALLY

Fertilizer Facts made public recently by F. W. Gist, agricultural statistican, reveal matters of vital concern to Alabama farmers who spent upwards of 24 million dollars for fertilizers this year. According to records kept by the State Department of Agriculture, Alabama farmers in 1928 bought 690,297 tons of fertilizer.

Statistican Gist, as a result of several weeks' estimation, reports that 274,098 tons was unmixed fertilizer, or about half the total tonnage. 274,766 tons was sold ready-mixed. This does not exactly represent actual use by farmers of home mixed fertilizers as some part of the unmixed goods as reported above, went to small local mixers who in turn distributed it to farmers.

Of the unmixed goods reported shipped, about one-half was acid phosphate, or a total of 139,641 tons,—about ten per cent was potash, or 24,685 tons. Nitrate of soda comprised over one-third of shipments, or 38.5 per cent, amounting to 105,448 tons. A small amount of cyanamid and sulphate of amonia were sold as sources of readily soluble nitrogen.

Facts as collected by Mr. Gist show that 79.3 per cent of fertilizers used in Alabama were applied to cotton. The remainder or about one-fifth was applied to other farm crops. Cotton received on an average of 302 pounds of fertilizer per acre. Alabama farmers used in 1928, 552,000 tons of fertilizer on cotton and about one-half of this was bought ready mixed.

A most important question raised by figures of the statistician concerns the percentage of various formulas of fertilizer. Figures show that about one-fourth of all fertilizer was 8-3-5 goods, while 8-4-4 mixtures came second with about 18 per cent and 10-3-3 formula of equal amount. 10-4-4 mixtures were used to the extent of 11.8 per cent and seven other miscellaneous mixtures comprised the remainder.

CHEV. MOTOR CO. TO GO BEYOND MILLION MARK AGAIN

Detroit, Mich., July 20—Positive indication that the Chevrolet Motor Co. in 1928 will again establish a new annual production record and go well beyond the million mark this year, was seen in an announcement here today by W. S. Knudsen, president, that output for the first six months of the year totalled 751,536 cars and trucks, as compared with 607,749 for the corresponding period of 1927.

Responding to the greatest demand in its history, Chevrolet established new monthly production records every month this year. Like the five preceding months, June was the best sixth month in the history of the company with a total of 132,794 units, as compared with 112,794 for June of 1927.

With its fourteen great factories at the peak of efficiency and precision operation, Chevrolet in the last six months produced a finished car every five seconds of each working day. Daily production over the six months period averaged 5,315 units. All daily records were broken May 28 when 7,075 finished cars and trucks were built.

In addition to the 751,536 cars and trucks built since the first of the year, 32,719 of the "Bigger and Better" models that have since won nation wide acclaim, were built in December, bringing the total number of the present model built up to July 1st to 784,355.

Production in the first six months of the year exceeded the total output for the year of 1926 and nearly doubled the production of each preceding year.

Due to the steadily increasing popularity of the "Bigger and Better" car, production will continue at a high rate throughout the summer and fall, Mr. Knudsen announced. Schedules set for July, August and September call for more than 100,000 units each month, indicating that Chevrolet will reach the million mark before October first.

One of the factors that made possible this record breaking production achievement was the opening of the mammoth assembly plant in Atlanta early this spring, providing Chevrolet with facilities for the production of 350 more units daily.

Early in the fall another mammoth assembly plant will be opened in Kansas City, increasing again by 350 units daily Chevrolet's production capacity. With the completion of the Kansas City project, Chevrolet will have an annual production capacity of more than 1,250,000 cars and trucks annually.

Chevrolet assembly plants throughout the country that contributed to the spectular production achievement accomplished in the last six months include those at Flint, Mich., Tarrytown, N. Y., St. Louis, Mo., Buffalo, N. Y., Janesville, Wis., Atlanta, Ga., Oakland, Cal., and Norwood, O. Chevrolet also maintains manufacturing plants at Detroit, Bay City, Mich., Toledo, O., Saginaw, Michigan and Flint, Michigan and an export plant atBloomfield, N. J.

AIRPLANE BEACONS WILL BE PUT UP ON MAIL ROUTE

Construction of 25 airplane beacons to be placed at interals of 10 miles apart along the route of the air mail service from Atlanta to Selma, will begin immediately, it was announced Wednesday afternoon by T. A. Carr, supervising engineer, and W. G. Ancell, superintendent of construction of the Muhleman & Kahoe Company, of Richmond, Va.

This company proposes to complete the work by Sept. 28, thereby enabling the installation of a night mail service over the Atlanta-New Orleans division of the route.

The new air lights will cost about $100,000.

In addition, it is proposed later to construct emergency landing fields at every third beacon light, and to install adequate lighting system for each.

The beacon lights will be controlled by an automatic arrangement which also will replace burned out globes.

The lights will be placed on towers and can be seen a distance of 30 miles from the air.

Installation of the emergency fields at Villa Rica and Tallapoosa, Ga., and at Anniston, Monteallo and Plantersville have been specified in the contract.

HAIRY VETCH TO BE PUSHED THIS YEAR

On a bigger scale than any year in the past, winter legume seed are to be planted in Alabama this fall. Farmers who plant these seed will do so for the purpose of manufacturing their own nitrogen which they can do with winter legumes much cheaper than they can buy it in commercial form.

To emphasize this fact the county agents and other extension workers will conduct hundreds of farm tours and field meetings during August, and up to early September. Plans for this work have been formulated by the district demonstration agents and extension specialists of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn.

By spending a few dollars for hairy vetch seed, inoculating, and planting them, farmers have found that they can double the yield of cotton and corn. Yields of a bale of cotton to the acre and of 30 to 40 bushels of corn per acre following hairy vetch have not been unusual. The cost of vetch is so low as to leave a big profit in its favor.

Hairy vetch, it is explained, is a plant which gathers nitrogen from the air and stores it in the soil for succeeding crops. It grows during winter and early spring, which enables the farmer to anufacture his own nitrogen and get a crop of cotton, corn, or some other crop on the land each year. In other words, the hairy vetch works while the land is not being used for other crops.

It is pointed out by the college of agriculture at Auburn that the farmer who enriches his land with winter legumes is well on the road toward successful farming. The Austrian pea is a winter legume which promises to replace hairy vetch, but the Austrian pea seed supply is limited and for this reason Alabama extension workers are emphasizing hairy vetch this year, although farmers who can get Austrian pea seed are advised to buy them.

FARM PEOPLE TO HAVE BIG MEET AT AUBURN

Auburn, Ala., July 25.—Special—July 31-August 3 will be important days for farm people of Alabama. These are the days for the annual summer school at Auburn for farm women as well as for men.

The summer school will begin Tuesday morning, July 31, and will continue until Friday afternoon, August 3. Members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture will be kept busy giving lectures and conducting demonstrations of a practical nature for the benefit of the farmer visitors.

An important feature of the summer school will be general meeting of men and women at which addresses will be delivered by Dr. Bradford Knapp, president, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Prof. I. N. Duncan, director, extension service, Dean M. J. Funchess of the College of Agriculture, Miss Helen Johnston, state leader of home demonstration work, Dr. C. A. Cary, veterinarian, Edward A. O'Neal, president, Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, and others. These addresses will be inspirational and educational.

In connection with these general sessions there will be lectures and demonstrations by members of the faculty of the College of Agriculture and extension service specialists. Crops, soils, fertilizers, livestock, poultry, fruits, vegetables, and farm machinery will all be discussed during the four days.

The sumer school will afford an opportunity for those present to get latest facts about experiments at Auburn, and Dr. Knapp has invited the public to attend.

TIMELY FARM FACTS

More feed saved at this season may mean less to buy next spring.

The money value of a home garden is of secondary importance—the food value really counts.

Two pounds of sugar to each 100 pounds of green meat is the proper amount to use in curing pork.

If cows are taken from garlic-infested pastures five or six hours before milking the objectionable taint will be removed from the milk.

The farmer who makes a success in production must make a success of his selling for successful selling is vital to successful farming.

Farm folks in New York average only four and one-half sick days a year as compared with seven days for those folks living in small towns or villages.

A good flock of poultry carefully culled and properly fed and managed will bring dollars next fall and winter when the pinch of a short cotton crop will be felt.

The supply of nitrogen in the air is inexhaustible. Hairy vetch has the power to gather a portion of this nitrogen and leave it in the soil.

H. C. Appleton, county, agent, said that corn followed hairy vetch on 300 acres in Greene county in 1927 and that the profit per acre due to vetch was $11.60. The cost of the vetch was $3.40 per acre.

SUPT. LAWRENCE WRITES ABOUT LONGER SCHOOL TERMS

Almost every day someone is asking me about whether or not we shall have a longer term of school next year.

So far as I can tell the funds will be about the same as that of last year, and this means, that with the present program, we shall not be able to lengthen the school term because last year we were as economical as possible in the expenditure of the funds and made it a point to leave off every expense that we possibly could. With these facts I cannot figure any longer term for another year.

Several has asked me about the matter of getting in on the Equalization fund. $900,000 is being spent in the state in those counties that have helped themselves as far as they are able to, but until we go the limit of our own resources we do not get any part of this money. Many have asked about holding another election to vote the one mill county school tax, which would qualify us for participation in the $900,000 Equalization fund, but I do not feel like taking the initiative in launching another campaign for the voting of this one mill tax. I have taken a very active part in putting before the people the facts as to the benefits of this tax and I do not see that it would be right for me to ask another election until after I have been assured that the people of the county want it done, as a school official charged with the responsibility of sponsoring every move for the benefit of the schools I would do all I could for it.

If the tax is voted anytime between now and September 30 we would be permitted to participate in the Equalization fund and this would guarantee a minimum term of seven months in every school of the county and with the same salary schedule, or approximately so, it would mean at least eight months. In other words it would mean between twenty and thirty thousand dollars more money to put into the teacher's salary; this would be spent in a way so as to lengthen the school term as far as possible.

In conclusion let me assure the people of the county that I am willing and anxious to work with them in every way possible to build a better school system and to place Chilton County in the front in every way possible. I believe in the county whole-heartedly and hope to see, not only one of the best school systems in the county, but to see it take a place in the farfront in every other way. With our resources there is no reason why we should not be one of the best in the state. Some day I hope to see a junior college in the county and we are able now if the people had the vision and interest to have such a college in the county. I believe I have a plan by which this can be done when we are ready for it.

Again assuring you of my willingness to work with you and with the dream of a great future in the old County of Chilton, I am, yours for service.—B. Lawrence, County Supt., of Education.

Robt. Childress Thought Fatally Hurt

Just as we go to press Wednesday evening, little hope is being held out for the recovery of Robrt Childress, age abut 30, who was injured in an automobile accident which occurred Wednesday evening about three and one-half miles north of Clanton on the Birmingham-Montgomery paved highway.

At the time of the accident, Childress, is reported to have been driving the car, a light delivery truck of popular make, and in the car with Childress was Durwood Teel, employee of the Diel Service Station, who was also painfully injured.

Childress was thrown clear of the car when it wrecked, on a straight stretch of the road, those witnessing the accident being unable to account for the car suddenly turning over.

Teel was picked up, about 15 feet back of the car, while Childress was about the same distance in front of the car. Moll Martin's ambulance was summoned but before it reached the site, both injured men had been brought to the Central Alabama Hospital where physicians and nurses are said to hold out little hope for Childress, while Teel is not thought to be seriously injured.

Employees of the Diel Service Station state that Childress was in Clanton, where he had brought his wife to attend a fraternal meeting, and while waiting visited the service station, and was out for a short ride with Durwood Teel, who was a close friend of the Childress family. Other emplyees of the service station were grief stricken over the occurrence, and all expressed great regret, as both Childress and Teel were great favorites with other members of the force. Childress' home was in Thorsby, Ala.

RESOLUTIONS BY MASONIC CONFERENCE

To the Officers and members of the Chilton County Masonic Conference:

We your committee on Memorial find it our solemn duty to make the following report of our deceased brethern:

Brother John H. Anderson, Thorsby Lodge; Brother D. Oscar Holman, Marbury Lodge; Brother George W. Fox, Maplesville Lodge; Brother Melvin Perry, Maplesville Lodge.

These brethren have been called upon to lay down the working tools of this probationary state that they might appear before the Supreme Grand Master of the Universe and present their work for final inspection.

No longer is heard the sound of chisel or mallet but only the dying echo of the footsteps they make in joining that innumerable band who are moving on to that temple not made with hands.

In their behalf we drop the sympathetic tear, we fondly cherish their memories; and the working tools which they have dropped from their nerveless grasp we take up that we may carry toward completion the glorious work which the Grand Architect of the Universe had laid out on the tressel board of life.

We then bow our heads in humble submission to Divine Providence and extend our sympathies to the loved one's of our deceased brethren.

Respectfully Submitted—J. R. Mullins, H. L. Tate, Chas. A. Peterson, Committee.

BECK-SUTTON WEDDING SOLENIZED AT GLENWOOD

The following account of the marriage of Prof. W. E. G. Sutton to Miss Evelyn Beck, will be interest to the friends in this section of the contracting parties. Prof. Sutton has been selected as principal of the Verbena High School for the coming scholastic year:

"The marriage of Miss Evelyn Beck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Beck, of Glenwood, to William E. Gladstone Sutton, of Linden, was solemnized in the Glenwood Methodist Episcopal Church Friday afternoon, at 4:30 o'clock in the presence of a large group of friends and relatives.

Rev. A. L. Sells of Century, Fla., read the marriage vows, while pastor of the Glenwood church 32 years ago, Mr. Sellers performed the wedding ceremony for the bride's parents.

The church was beautifully decorated with palms and southern smilax and the chancel was banked with palms and gladioli which formed an appropriate setting for the grouping of the brida party.

During the assembling of the wedding guests a musical program was rendered. Stephen Hicks, of Luverne sang "I Love You Truly". Mrs. F. M. T. Tankersley, of Luverne, sang "Oh, Promise Me," and "At Dawning". Mrs. W. A. Hicks played the nuptial music.

Miss Hazel Jackson of Glenwood, and Miss Joanna Rawls of Enterprise, were bridesmaids and wore pretty frocks of green taffeta made period style, and carried arm bouquets of raidiance roses.

The bride's matron's were Mrs. W. F. Stallworth of Chapman, and Mrs. D. E. Drinkard of Linden. They wore pink taffeta dresses faced with green and made bouffant style. Their flowers were pink radiance roses.

Little Miss Mary Moxley, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Moxley, of Brantley, was a dainty little flower girl in pink taffeta.

Miss Frances Beck, sister of the bride, was her maid of honor and was lovely in a pink frock fashioned like the bridesmaids.

The bride entered with her brother Moxley Beck, who also gave her in marriage. She was beautiful in her bridal robes of white satin and lace embroidered in seed pearls. Her veil was of tulle bordered with duchess lace. She carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and valley lillies.

R. E. Sutton of Linden served the groom as best man and the groomsmen were W. H. Deramus of Verbena, Joseph Moxley, of Brantley, Sandy Smith, of Mobile; and Foster Beck.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sutton left by motor for a tour in the mountains of North Carolina. The bride's traveling dress was of wool romaine with accessories to match. They will make their home in Verbena, Ala., upon their return.

Among the out-of-town guests were Joe Jackson, of College Station, Tex., Mrs. J. R. Pollock, and children, Ruth and John of Ardmore, Okla.; Dr. and Mrs. J. B. CURTIS F. GILES OF CLANTON, RT. 8. JOINS COAST ARTILLERY

New York, N. Y., July 23.—Private Curtis F. Giles, son of Mrs. Lula Giles, of Route 8, Clanton, Ala., who recently enlisted for service with the Coast Artillery branch of the Regular Army, has been assigned to duty with troops in Hawaii, and left New York today abroad the United States Army Transport, "Cambrai" for Honolula.

Upon his arrival at Honolula, Private Giles and the young men who sailed with him will be assigned to units in the Hawiian Islands, located at posts which generally lie adjacent to internationally famous resorts and tourist shrines. Soldiers on Hawiian duty enjoy unusual recreational privileges, there being provided for them summer rest camps where all may go for a two-week period during vacation time. Always within reach is the far-famed beach at Waikiki, and the surf bathing resort at Haleiwa.

Athletics play an important part in the life of soldiers in Hawaii, and every organization prides itself on a galaxy of teams in the prospective championship class in every sport. The climate is ideal, for it is a land that knows no winter, and outdoor sports thrive the year round.

Private Giles will remain in the Hawaiian District for approximately two years, when he will be returned to the United States for discharge, having in the meantime enjoyed a ten thousand dollar outing, including a visit to Panama and San Francisco, at the expense of Uncle Sam.

Funds Supplied by Banking Organizations in Many States to Finance Studies and Contests.

The nationwide movement being conducted by county and state bankers' associations and the American Bankers Association in co-operation with the state agricultural colleges and county agents for the purpose of bringing about both local and national solutions for farm economic problems has shown notable results during the past year. A review of these activities in the Bulletin of the Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association, summarizes some of the chief points as follows:

In Missouri a meeting was held at the College of Agriculture at which the bankers again appropriated $1,600 for boys' and girls' club work. Saline county bankers have raised $500 to stimulate beef calf clubs and report definite results obtained in getting farmers to lime their soil and grow alfalfa. County "key bankers" to promote banker support of farm betterment projects are being appointed and another Short Course in Agriculture for bankers is being planned.

In Kansas no less than fifteen counties are reported by the Extension Service as engaged in definite banker-farmer work. County key bankers attended four district conferences during the year.

The Louisiana bankers' agricultural committee met at the College of Agriculture in connection with a bankers' farm course. The bankers are thoroughly aroused to the wisdom of tick eradication and are co-operating to that end. County key bankers are being selected and county meetings with bankers throughout the state will be arranged.

Results Shown

In Kentucky key bankers have been appointed in each county with the result that the bankers of the state are co-operating with the College of Agriculture more specifically than any other group of business men. Some of the fruits of this co-operation is demonstrated by the fact that the number of dairy cattle in the state has increased seven per cent and the production per cow twelve per cent. Three counties in the state have eliminated all scrub bulls.

In North Carolina the oustanding accomplishments have been the honoring of "Class A Farmers," that is, those attaining a degree of proficiency in a well balanced and sound system of farming as indicated by a score card prepared by the College of Agriculture and the Bankers Short Course given there. Future plans provide for the continuation of the county key banker system and the arrangement of county banker-farmer tours.

In Virginia $15,000 has been raised by subscription for boys' and girls' club work, largely from bankers. A group meeting was held at the College of Agriculture with two hundred bankers in attendance. The Committee on Agriculture of the State Bankers Association voted to continue and check up on the county key banker work.

The reports from New York on the activities for the past year included the distribution of 20,000 short form farm credit statements prepared cooperatively by the agricultural college and bankers. The bankers' agricultural committee also arranged to send suggestions to the banks of the state to aid in financing purchase of dairy cattle to replace those lost by the tuberculin test.

Bankers' Farm Schools

Bankers' Farm Schools or "Short Courses" continued popular during the year. Several colleges held such courses under the auspices of the state bankers' agricultural committees and are repeating them this year.

"Minimum of Talk—Maximum of Demonstration" was the character of program put on by the Kansas Agricultural College for the second Bankers' Farm School in April. Four representatives were invited from each of twenty counties, consisting of the county key banker, the county agent, the secretary of the county bankers association, and the president of the farm bureau. Proper farm methods were brought out by demonstrations, then tours were made to farms whose owners had followed the practices and methods outlined by the college to illustrate the lessons. Emphasis was placed on the important part bankers can play in developing agriculture.

In South Dakota specific plans for the ensuing year are the appointment of county key bankers, co-operation in boys' and girls' club projects and group meetings of county agents and key bankers. In Minnesota the county key bankers system is to be continued with special emphasis on bringing the county agent and key banker into closer co-operation.

At a banker meeting at the North Dakota Agricultural College it was decided that the key banker organization would be completed and in order to acquaint the bankers with agricultural needs county bankers' meetings were planned during the year.

At a conference held at Montana State College it was reported that county key bankers had co-operated in arranging for a livestock special train which ran for seventeen days, made twenty-nine stops and came in contact with 22,000 people; that bankers had assisted in six district conferences that led to the formation of a state agricultural program, and that twenty-eight counties reported definite work under the leadership of the county key bankers such as assisting in the purchase of purebred livestock and loans to club members.

Other States in Line

Idaho College of Agriculture was the scene of a special meeting attended by thirty-five bankers and college representatives. The conference voted to join the key banker ranks.

In Oregon the first banker-farmer short course was held in January with a good attendance and marked enthusiasm. A meeting of the state bankers Agricultural Committee held in conjunction with the course voted approval of the banker-farmer contest sponsored by Agricultural Commission, American Bankers Association, and appointed a committee to confer with college authorities on methods to prevent spread of contagion in dairy cattle.

California held twenty-two successful county tours during the year and as a result it is planned to extend the tours to every county in the state and also to arrange a state-wide tour. The county key bankers played a big part in pushing this work. At an Arizona College of Agriculture meeting of bankers county key bankers were appointed and plans made for community conferences of bankers, farmers and others where local agricultural needs will be discussed.

In New Mexico bankers and county agents met at Clovis as a step in the plan to acquaint bankers in different sections of the state with agricultural conditions and to bring about greater co-operation between them and the county agents. At the Colorado College of Agriculture plans were formulated to select county key bankers, to follow up work with key bankers and county agents and for chairman of the state bankers' committee to attend and address group meetings.

In Nebraska four "farm outlook" meetings were held, largely attended by bankers. Sixty-nine county key bankers were appointed during the year and follow-up work between them and county agents is to be pushed.

For Iowa effective co-operation is reported between bankers and the Extension Service of the state college in their farm bureau programs. Every third farmer in the state is a member of the bureau. The key banker system is to be continued and special emphasis is to be placed on team work between county agents and key bankers.

Director D. H. Otis of the Agricultural Commission American Bankers Association attended many of the meetings.

KNOW Your South
and be a Partner ... in its Growth ...

Memphis
Industrial Capital of the Mid-South

is an expression that takes on new meaning since natural gas has been assured within a year for every fuel demand in manufacturing and heating. Aside from being the metropolitan center of the richest agricultural area on the North American continent, Memphis is the center of the world's hardwood lumber market, and is the largest inland cotton market in the world.

Cheap fuel, a plentiful labor supply, proximity to abundant raw materials, and unsurpassed transportation facilities are factors expected to bring to Memphis within the next five years a solid, substantial industrial growth unsurpassed in the City's history or in the history of any other southern city. A population of 300,000 in five years is the foregone conclusion of coldly analytical business men.

Memphis is the distribution center for a vastly rich territory in the very heart of the South. As development of this territory advances, business houses are expanding to care for the added volume of business. The City is the largest wholesale grocery center of the South. It ranks third among the drug and chemical markets of the world. Every need of the southern merchant can be filled in the Memphis market.

Memphis is a good city in which to live. Its climate compares favorably with that of other southern cities. It has the largest artesian water plant in the world. Its educational facilities are of the best. Organized recreational and social activities, (golf etc.) assure citizens and visitors of ample diversion from business cares.

Grammar School Building Contract Let

J. B. Atkinson Will Not Enter Race For Re-election

Contract Awarded To A. B. Bearden & Son

Construction To Be Started Immediately

New Building To Be Ready For Occupancy Not Later Than Dec. 15

Through the untiring efforts of the state and county superintendents of education, and city officials, with the aid of the county school board, Clanton is to have a new and modern grammar school building.

The contract for Clanton's new school building, was awarded last Thursday, and was signed Monday morning, the job having been awarded to A. B. Bearden & Son of Birmingham, their bid being $25,917.00, and the contract calls for a delivery of the building ready for occupancy not later than December 15th of this year.

The old grammar school building will be torn down to the first story, the latter of which will be remodeled, this part giving five rooms, while six additional new rooms will be built, according to state plans and specifications.

Though the new building will not be ready for occupancy at the opening of the fall term, it is said that this will not interfere with the progress to any great extent, as it is the intention of the school officials to arrange to use the lower portion of the old building, the wooden structure on the school grounds, and possibly a dwelling near the grammar school.

Funds for the construction of the new school building and remodeling of the old building was raised through an appropriation by the city and County School Board and an appropriation of $450.00 by the State Department of Education for each new room built.

The contract calls for the installation of new and late style jacket-heaters, of ample size to assure a comfortably heated school room at all times

The work of remodeling the old building and erection of the new rooms is to start at once.

WHY IS A NEWSPAPER LIKE A WOMAN

The Fort Meade, Florida, Leader propounded the query "Why is a newspaper like a woman," and offered a year's subscription for the best answer which brought forth these replies:

"Because you believe everything they say; they are thinner now than they used to be; they have bold faced types; they are easy to read; well worth looking over; back numbers are afraid to speak their minds; they have a great deal of influence and if they know anything they usually tell it."

"Because they always have the last word; because they carry the news wherever they go."

The correct answer is: "Because every man should have one of his own and not run after his neighbor's."

City Election To Be Held In September

Has Served City Since 1919; Many Improvements Made

In an interview with a representative of the News and Union-Banner, J. B. Atkinson, Mayor of Clanton, made the positive statement that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the office of Mayor, in September, this year.

J. B. Atkinson was first affiliated with the town of Clanton in an official capacity in 1919, when he was elected as a member of the Board of Councilmen, and since that time, Clanton as made progressive strides seldom equalled, and while Mr Atkinson does not claim the credit for the many improvements so visible, the people of the town and surrounding territory know that he has been untiring in his efforts to build up our city, and today, Clanton is known far and wide as one of the best kept and cleanest little cities in the state.

The first street machinery for maintaining the streets and avenues of Clanton, comprising a Fordson tractor and small grader, were purchased in 1921, a few years later a Caterpillar Tractor and Russel garder were purchased, together with other modern machinery, which is still in use, maintaining several miles of streets and avenues. Culverts and storm sewers have been laid in many parts of the town, and about $90,000.00 worth of paving has been done. This applies to streets and sidewalks, and today, there are very few towns with twice the population of Clanton that can boast of as many miles of paved streets and side walks as can Clanton.

During the past few months, a modern fire-fighting engine with all necessary equipment has been purchased, which already resulted in reductions in many cases on fire insurance, and Mayor Atkinson stated that more could be had if the people of the town would co-operate with the Southeastern Underwriters Association and comply with their instruction on electric wiring.

According to a report of the Alabama Public Service Commission, the water works of Clanton has a market value today of $46,116.00, as against a value of $25,000 in 1919. The improvement of Clanton's water system has been one of Mayor Atkinson's hobbies, and through his effrots, a supply of water is now available, tho many of the residents of the town can remember when water was only available from middle of morning until middle of the afternoon. While the water does not rate as the best for commercial use, it is rated as the best and most healthful to be had anywhere

According to a statement made by an auditor, there has been $41,000.00 worth of street, sidewalk, school, and sewerage bonds retired during Mayor Atkinson's service as a city official.

Mayor Atkinson said, "during my term as mayor there has been no serious difficulties, no murders, and the citizenry is to be thanked. City officals have cooperated with me in a very commendable spirit, and I am pleased to say that the best of harmony and friendly feeling has existed during my terms as member of the council and Mayor of the town. The people have been very considerate and I consider it a pleasure to have had the honor of being elected to the highest office the city affords by the citizens of the town. In refraining from offering for re-election, I do so in order that the people of the town might have a chance to elect new blood to the of-

STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., July 30.—Veterans of the World War are playing an increasingly important part in public affairs in Alabama as the years pass. The appointment of Henry S. Long as Chairman of the State Tax Commission by Governor Bibb Graves and of Arthur Heustess as private secretary to the Governor, is further evidence of this fact, both these men being ex-soldiers and legionnaires. Gov. Graves is himself a World War Veteran, the first to be elected to the office of Governor of this State. A large percentage of the men with whom he has surrounded himself are likewise men who saw service in 1917-18. There is historical precedent in this, for after every big war the men who wore the uniform have invariably been honored by their fellow-citizens in peace time, and been rewarded with public office. It seems that the veterans of the World War will be no exception to this rule, and that as time passes they are destined to assume positions of leadership in the public life of the State.

Mr. Long, the new tax commission chairman, is a native of Jasper, Walker County. He attended Marion Institute and the University of Alabama, and served in the World War in the same regiment as originally organized, the First Alabama Calvary, and later, after the regiment had become the 117th. Field Artillery, was promoted to the rank of captain. He was appointed Associate Member of the State Tax Commission by Governor Graves at the beginning of his administration. When John D. McNeel resigned as Chairman of the Tax Commission to become license inspector of Jefferson County, Mr. Long was appointed Acting Chairman, and later was appointed Chairman, of the Tax body by Governor Graves, his appointment as Chairman being effective August 1.

Arthur Heustess, the new private secretary to the Governor, was promoted to the position from recording secretary, to which position he was originally named by Governor Brandon. He is a native of Covington County, and is also a World War veteran, having been regimental supply sergeant of the 167th Infantry.

John Tilley, who until recently was private secretary to the Governor, has been made Associate Member of the Tax Commission, to take the place occupied by Mr. Long before his advancement to the chairmanship. The position of recording secretary to the Governor, vacated by Mr. Heustess when he became private secretary, was filled by the Governor by appointment of Pitt Tyson Maner as recording secretary. Mr. Maner who belongs to a prominent Montgomery family, has for some time been connected with the State Banking Department and is a popular member of the capitol force.

With the appointment of Mr. Long as Chairman of the State Tax Commission, two of the most important State Boards, the Tax Commission and the Highway Commission are now headed by World War veterans. Judge Woolsey Finnell, who has been head of the Highway Department since the beginning of the Graves administration, is a veteran of the World War, and won distinction as a road-builder in the military service in France.

Another World War veteran, who was recently added to the list of those in the service of the State, is Oscar Crenshaw, who was appointed to a position in the License Department of the Tax Commission. During the World War he was a lieutenant in the 167th Infantry.

Location of the fifteen toll bridges to be built under authority of the act of the last Legislature by the Alabama Bridge Corporation has been decided upon, and construction awaits only completion of plans of financing the operations, and approval of the war department, the bridges being over navigable streams. H. H. Houk bridge engineer of the Highway Department, states that contracts for construction of the fifteen bridges will be awarded some time in October under present plans. The Legislature of 1927 created the Alabama Bridge Corporation, composed of the Chairman of the State Highway Commission, Tax Commission and Board of Administration, and authorized construction of fifteen toll bridges from a bond issue of $5,000,000.

Constitutionality of this Act has been upheld in an advisory opinion by the Supreme Court. The toll charges will provide a sinking fund to pay for cost of construction and eventually eliminate the toll feature. This will be done as soon as possible under reasonable charges.

Five of the toll bridges will span the Tombigbee River, three each will be over the Tennessee and Coosa, two each over the Alabama and Black Warrior. The location of the five bridges over the Tombigbee is as follows: Near Butler, on State Road 28, between Choctaw and Marengo Counties; near Epes, on State Road 7, between Sumter and Green Counties; at Gainsville, on State Road 39, between Sumter and Green Counties; near Cochrane, on State Road 17, in Pickens County; and near Jackson on State road 5, between Clarke and Washington Counties. The three bridges to be built over the Tennessee will be located as follows: Near Whitesburg Ferry, State Road 1, Marshall County; and near Scottsboro, on State Road 35, in Jackson County. The three Coosa River bridges will be located at the following points; near Childersburg, State Road 21, between Shelby and Talladega counties; near Riverside, on State route 4, between Saint Clair and Talladega counties; and at or near Cedar Bluff, on State road 23, in Cherokee County. The two Alabama River bridges will be located on State road 10, in Wilcox county, and near Claiborne, on State road 44, between Monroe and Clarke counties; and the two bridges over the Black Warrior, at Demoplis, on State road 40, between Green and Marengo Counties, and near Eutaw on State road 41, between Green and Bibb counties.

Montgomery, Ala.,—The fifteen percent sales tax levied by the last Legislature on cigars, cigarettes and cheroots is upsetting the gloomy prophesies of those who predicted that the tax would be a failure in actual operation. Proceeds from the tax go into the educational fund, and figures from the State Tax Commission show that it is bringing in a revenue of $1,200,000 a year, after deducting the commission paid to wholesalers for collecting the tax. During the first three quarters of its existence the tax brought in $867,000. Each quarter has shown an increase over the preceding period, and the commission expects the total for the first twelve months to reach $1,200,000. Collection of the tax has been in charge of Commissioner Henry S. Long, who is now acting-chairman of the Tax Commission, having been appointed to this post by Gov. Graves following the resignation of John D. McNeel.

When the tobacco tax was up for passage in the last Legislative session, it was vigorously opposed, and denounced as a "nuisance tax". It should be remembered, however, that the last Legislature was confronted with the task of greatly increasing the State's revenue, for education and other purposes, without raising property taxes. The preceding Legislature which met in 1923, did not increase educational appropriations, and for four years, the schools of the State had been standing still, or, in some cases, going backward. It was generally admitted by everyone that the ad valorem property tax should not be increased as property owners were already paying their full share of the tax burden. The Legislature was, therefore, confronted with the necessity of finding entirely new sources of revenue. It solved the problem in large measure by levying additional taxes on railroads, water power companies, coal and iron.

The tobacco tax was included in the revenue bill to bring the total increase up to the figure needed. As a result of these increased levies, the Legislature was able to make a huge increase in the annual appropriation to the public schools of the State, and also to give more money to the public health department and the child welfare department. One adantage of the tobacco tax, which not even its enemies dispute, is that it has brought into the tax paying class thousands of people who heretofore have enjoyed all the privileges of citizenship without paying a penny toward support of the public schools of the State government.

Alabama is the only one of the States with a tobacco tax which does not employ the stamp method in collecting the tax. The use of stamps is generally considered the biggest nuisance in connection with the tax. Alabama got away from this by having the wholesale dealers collect the tax for the State. While the tobacco tax like all other taxes, is unpopular, it is today an important source of revenue to the State.

WEEVIL EMERGENCE HEAVY IN ALABAMA

Auburn, Ala., August 2.—The second generation of adult boll weevils has appeared in Alabama. Heavy infestation is reported by farmers and by county agents thoroughout south Alabama and even up into central Alabama. Very few have been reported north of central Alabama.

In a recent report, Prof J. M. Robinson, entomologist of Auburn, says that the infestation almost doubled during the week. At the same time J. P. Wilson, district demonstration agent for east and south Alabama reported infestation running as high as 75 per cent. "Weevils are numerous throughout southeast Alabama," said Mr. Wilson.

As foreseen in the early spring, heavy weevil damage is now threatened. Cotton is about a month late, which is a big disadvantage with weevils present—especially in large numbers as they now appear. Furthermore, excessive rains caused a big growth of plants which provide shade as a protection for weevils.

The only control measure recommended by county agents and by entomologists at Auburn for use at this season is to dust with calcium arsenate. Where this is done properly at the right time effective control will result. County agents are conducting demonstrations and advising the farmers to use more poison.

Crenshaw County farmers who planted corn after vetch was turned under in 1927 averaged 38 bushels of corn per acre which is an increase of 22 bushels per acre.

"Records on 72 acres of corn following vetch turned under April 15, 1927, showed that the average yield was 42 bushels per acre."—J. A. McLeod.

"The average increase in yield of corn following vetch on 300 acres of land in Greene County was 15 bushels. The cost of the vetch was $3.40 per acre. With corn at $1.00 per bushel it left a net profit of $11.60 per acre."—H. C. Appleton, County Agent.

Records were kept on corn yields on 200 acres, the corn following vetch. The average yield was 33 bushels, while the county made an average of 13 bushels per acre.

On 70 acres of cotton following vetch in Greene County the increase in yield due to the vetch was 400 pounds seed cotton per acre. Deducting the cost of the vetch from the value of the increase in yield there was a net profit of $26.68 per acre, or $1867.60 on 70 acres.

In experiments conducted by the Experiment Station at Auburn basic slag has been as good or better than acid phosphate as a fertilizer for hairy vetch.

CHILTON COUNTY ABSTRACT CO.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

FARMERS AND FAIRS

Fair time is approaching, and prospective exhibitors should be planning to make the most of their opportunities to show their best products. The real success of a fair, whether it be one embracing a state, a county, or only a local community, depends more on the number of exhibitors than upon the number of exhibits

That a farmer can not display a great variety of superior products should not prevent him from entering at least a few. Even though a prize is not won, the effort to win is stimulating and beneficial to every exhibitor.

In these days of home demonstration agents more attention is being given to exhibits by farm women and girls, and these should be encouraged in every way possible. There are few farms which could not make a creditable exhibit of some kind and no farm should be unrepresented in its local fair.

SALVAGING OLD AUTOS

In many communities the disposition of junked automobiles is quite a problem. While an abandoned automobile has some value as scrap, it is difficult to utilize it economically if it has to be shipped any distance to be melted down.

Where a sufficient amount of this scrap is available, however, it is possible to turn it to account by the installation of a plant to handle it. Such a plant is being erected in Kansas City to melt this material and manufacture it into other products at the rate of 10,000 tons a month. This salvage will tend to overcome the lack of natural ore beds in that vicinity.

Bernard Lester, industrial representativ of the Westinghouse Company, who will furnish the electric equipment for the plant, believes that ultimately every state will have an electrically operated steel mill to keep its local supply of steel in circulation.

The aim of modern industry is to see that no material of value is wasted, and this plan for salvaging old automobiles is in keeping with that aim.

AID FOR FARM WOMEN

With the avowed purpose of cooperating with Federal and state agencies for the betterment of farm life and improving the lot of farm women, the Womans Farm and Garden Association at its annual session in Dearborn, Mich., adopted a comprehensive program.

The delegates were the guests of Mrs. Henry Ford, national president of the Association, who proposed a plan for extending scholarships for women in farming, gardening and allied occupations at state agricultural colleges.

Other activities decided upon were efforts to bring about closer relationships between farm women and city women; to aid women trained in agriculture and horticulture to obtain renumerative employment; to assistmembers in developing better methods of marketing garden and home products; in short, to encourage all phases of activity which tend to improve the condition of rural women.

RADIO "EDUCATION"

Just now the Federal Radio Commission is trying to clear the air by abolishing a large number of stations, in accordance with the new radio law. Naturally, much controversy has arisen over which stations should go.

In presenting claims for continuing certain stations, it is noted that the plea is made that they are used to broadcast "educational" programs. Now, to our way of thinking, we could get along very well without these features. Anything educational is desirable in itself, but there are ample facilities for the spread of knowledge without using the radio, which can be so much better employed for high-class entertainment.

The fact is that most of the so-called educational programs are the vehicles of advertising something or somebody, rather than for imparting any really useful knowledge. It is doubtful whether a very large number even listen to them when there is good music or other entertainment to be had by simply turning the dial.

People buy radio sets for the pleasure they get out of them and there is no pleasure in listening to much of the inferior stuff that is being broadcast. A few good programs which could be heard without the interference would be appreciated more by radio fans and would tend to aid the radio industry as well.

The Radio Commission should consider the wishes of the public and should make each station broadcast something worth listening to or get off the air.

PIGEON VETERAN DIES

"Charlie" veteran of many battlefields, is dead. He was a famous carrier pigeon, stationed at [illegible] France, during four years of German occupation of that city, from which he carried hundreds of important messages to the allied generals, sent by the owner, an Englishman named Richardson.

Charlie's services were recognized by the French government by a pension of two francs a month granted him since the war. He was buried with military honors.

Throughout the World War hundreds of carrier pigeons were employed as message bearers and many authentic stories of real heorism on the part of these wonderful birds have been told. One that is remembered was that of a pigeon which carried a message through shell torn territory, was wounded to death while on the wing, but delivered its message and expired in the hands of the officer who received it.

Human beings never display greater courage and fidelity than that.

ELECTRIC GROWTH TREMENDOUS

During 1927 great progress was made in extending the use of electricity. The number of customers served increased by 1,725,000, or 8 1-2 per cent, and 1,200,000 of them were home users. So rapid has been the extension of facilities into smaller communities that at the present time 62 per cent of the homes in this country have electric service and if farms are excluded 80 per cent.

The increase in the use of electricity throughout the United States has far exceeded the increase in population. Since 1912 the latter has risen 23 per cent, while in the corresponding period the amount of electricity generated for public consumption has gained 486 per cent and the number of customers 420 per cent. In factory usage we lead the world, the degree of electrification averaging 73 per cent, and in some types of factories reaching 100 per cent

Nineteen-twenty-seven also saw a great expansion in the use of electricity on farms, and it can be forecast that in the future this service will become general. It has passed out of the theoretical stage and is a proven success.

The foregoing statistics were given in a recent address by Paul S. Clapp, manager of the National Electric Light Association.

THE EFFECT OF AIRPLANE DEVELOPMENT ON AUTOMOBILE

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—What effect airplane development will have on the automobile has frequently been discussed by those close to both industries as well as by laymen interested in the transportation methods the future may envolve.

Is an era of keen competition ahead? Will the airplane relegate the automobile to a place beside the horse and buggy?

Decidedly no, in the opinion of H. J. Klinger, general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company. The two industries will rather follow parallel lines of development, with each one aiding the other, the Chevrolet sales leader declared in an interview here today.

"There will be no more competition between the airplane and automobile than there is between the newspaper and the radio," Mr. Klinger stated. "When the radio first began broadcasting news dispatches, there was talk of it supplanting the newspaper. Today the newspaper prints radio news, and the news items broadcast by the radio whet the appetities of newspaper readers. Each one serves the other.

"I believe the airplane and the automobile will follow similar lines of development.

"I believe that for every airplane that goes in the air at least two automobiles will go on the ground.

"The owner of an airplane will need an automobile to take him from his home to the airport. He will need another car to take him from the landing field downtown to his destination. Meanwhile his wife and family will need a car at home while his is parked at the airport awaiting his return. Every flight will call into use at least two or three cars.

"There will be no competition between the airplane and the automobile because the airplane can serve only a restricted field of transportation. Itis essentially a rapid medium of long distance travel. It does not have the flexibility or the all-round utility of the automobile.

"The motor car takes the business man to work in the morning. It carries the professional man, who has many stops to make, on his route over town. It takes the wife downtown shopping, the family to visit friends or on week-end or vacation trips. It does this without regard to distance or conditions of the weather.

"There is this further interesting distinction between the airplane and the automobile. The motor car in its evolution was first regarded as a fad and a luxury. It was recognized as an economic necessity only after it had gained wide popularity as an instrument of pleasure.

"The airplane, on the other hand, has been an instrument of business from the start. It is serving now mainly in aerial photography, in transportating mail, motion pictures and other quick freight, and in providing rapid passage between distant points. Its utility is limited to this highly restricted field which in no sense encroaches on the automobile.

"Both the automobile and the airplane are propelled by internal combustion engines. Hence any new discovery made in one industry will be available for the other. Aircraft motor building now is largely based on lessons learned in the development of the automobile.

"As mass production served automobiles in bringing them to a basis of low first cost and economical transportation, so I believe it will aid the airplane, in a limited measure, in reducing air transportation cost per mile. But at the same time great national superhighways will speed up automobile travel nearer to that now traveled by airplanes. Each will be able to serve better in its own field."

HALF-HEARTED
Never Felt Well

"I don't see why women will drag around, in a half-hearted way, never feeling well, barely able to drag, when Cardui might help put them on their feet, as it did me," says Mrs. Geo. S. Hunter, of Columbus, Ga.

"I suffered with dreadful pains in my sides. I had to go to bed and stay sometimes two weeks.

"I could not work, and just dragged around the house.

"I got very thin. I went from a hundred and twenty-six pounds down to less than a hundred.

"I sent to the store for Cardui, and before I had taken the first bottle I began to improve. My side hurt less, and I began to mend in health.

"Cardui acted as a fine tonic. I do not feel like the same person. I am well now, and still gaining."

750,000 "BIGGER AND BETTER" CHEVROLETS TURNED OUT

Detroit, Mich., July 30.—One of the most remarkable achievements ever recorded in the automobile industry comes to light today in the announcement by R. H. Grant, vicepresident of the Chevrolet Motor Company, in charge f sales, that 750,000 "Bigger and Better" Chevrolets have been placed in the hands of owners since the introduction of the new car January 1.

With deliveries to customers averaging 30,000 cars a week, Chevrolet in the first seven months of the year, established a record acceptance of a new car unrivalled in the history of modern motor cars. Each week, each month, each quarter shattered all marks for the corresponding period of any previous year.

Much of the credit for making possible this remarkable showing is given the efficient manufacturing organization and the tremendous production facilities employed by Chevrolet. 14 great factories in various sections of the country shared in the effort that enabled the sales division to make prompt deliveries immediately on the announcement of the car last January. From Oakland, Cal., to Tarrytown, N. Y., factory wheels have been spinning at a record clip since the first of the year, building the various models as the exacting requirements of precision operation would permit.

The unusual public favor shown in Chevrolet the first seven months through the demand for 750,000 cars incdicates beyond doubt that Chevrolet will build and sell many more than one million units in 1928, breaking by a wide margin all existing records for the manufacture and sale of a new model and further guaranteeing Chevrolet's position as the world's largest automobile producer.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

ON BUILDING AN INCOME

As Aunt Emmy came out of the savings bank she met young George Oliver.

"Well, well," he said, "it's funny to see you coming out of a savings bank, Aunt Emmy. I thought only poor folks like me had money in savings banks—people like you just clip coupons!"

"Have you a savings bank account?" countered Aunt Emmy.

"Well, er—I suppose I haven't," he admitted. "You see, it's hard to save money when you're first married. Somehow there never seems to be enough money to go 'round—let alone to put in a savings bank."

"You never will have if you don't get started," interrupted Aunt Emmy. "You should make your weekly savings deposit, no matter how small, the first claim on your salary after paying your bills. I make my weekly deposit in this bank faithfully—I put away a certain sum regularly."

"You can't" Nat commented.

"It is more a habit than you would suppose," Aunt Emmy continued. "Any one can do it who is willing to let other things wait. I began putting a little money in a savings bank years ago when it was no joke to save a few pennies. I remember what a wonderful thrill I got the first time I saw my interest entered in my bank book. There was money that my money had earned all by itself. After that it was a sort of game with me to put a certain sum in the bank, even if I had to do without things I would have enjoyed having. Now I realize what it means to keep your money busy earning all the time so I continue to put a little in the savings bank regularly and, after it accumulates, I draw some out and invest in safe securities that pay a higher rate of interest than savings. All the time, you see, the money is working for me.

"Of course, when the sum is small, it earns little, but if you start young, as you and Molly are, it is almost like magic the way it mounts up after a few years—then when your savings get grown up into a real investment they earn a real income."

"I never thought of it in that light," said George.

"Try it—and see for yourself how it works," urged Aunt Emmy. "Have you ever thought how nice it would be to have a few dollars ready for use in case of an emergency? Accidents and illnesses do happen. Or suppose you had an opportunity to buy something you knew you could sell at a profit and you had to let the opportunity slip for the lack of a few hundred dollars. You and Molly would never miss five dollars a week—and if you keep at it, it will work wonders!"

"You're right, it would!" exclaimed George. "I'll talk to Molly tonight, Aunt Emmy, and see if we can't revise our expenditures."

"There would be a whole lot less family trouble and worry over money matters if every young couple did the same thing early in life," Aunt Emmy said. "'Start young,' is the magic slogan."

"BEAU GESTE", FEATURE PICTURE TO BE HERE AUGUST 6-7

The screen version of one of the most popular romantic action novels in recent years, "Beau Geste", will make its first appearance on August 6 and 7, at the Wadesonian Theatre, Clanton.

This thrilling story of romance, mystery and adventure in the French Foreign Legion with the theme of the devotion of three brothers powerfully depicted, has been transferred to the screen by Paramount on a scale never surpassed by any previous production.

For the filming of this novel, Director Herbert Brenon led an army of 2,000 men into the Great American Desert for three months during which the exterior scenes were made. The camp was built in a sand basin 30 miles from any habitation and the entire company worked straight through, without a day's rest, from 5:30 each morning till sunset.

Brenon took his company to Burlingame, California—a 900 mile trip—for a few cranks of the camera.

No obstacle was permitted to stand in the way of making it as fine as possible. The director was given the sejection of any player in motion pictures. Months were spent in preparation and omre months in filming. Hundreds of the West's finest riders were brought together as were 1500 of the world's fastest horses and 50 camels.

The smallest part in the picture was filled with the same care that was given to casting the featured roles.

Ronald Coleman plays the title part, that of the eldest of three brothers who each leave home without telling the others, to enlist in the French Foreign Legion under assumed names in oredr to shield each other from the blame for the theft of a famous sapphire. Neil Hamilton and Ralph Forbes enact the other brothers.

The brave defense by 40 legionnaires of a lonely fort in the Sahara when it is attacked by countless hordes of mounted desert warriors, Touarges, brings the story to its climax. It also causes Noah Beery, as the brutal adjutant, "the cruelest beast and bravest soldier" in the Legion to reach the pinnacle of his notable screen career.

Other prominent players in "Beau Geste" include Alice Joyce, Mary Brian, William Powell, Norman Trevor, and Victor McLaglen.

STRAIGHT TALKS WITH AUNT EMMY

On When Women Come Into Money.

As Aunt Emmy sipped her tea she heard the conversation drift to the Slade sisters. The fact that they had inherited a large fortune and would have to administer it themselves created considerable comment.

"My husband says old man Slade made a big mistake not putting it in trust for them," said Mrs. Burt. "He says women never should handle large sums of money because they are 'financially uneducatod'—he really means 'dumb.'"

"All women aren't dumb about money matters, are they, Aunt Emmy?" exclaimed Miss Pringle.

"Of course not," Aunt Emmy agreed. "There are all sorts and kinds of women all the way from very prudent to very foolish."

"Well, anyway, an awful lot of women have been victimized in financial things—just look at all the widows that have been robbed," insisted Mrs Burt.

"There won't be so much of that in the future as in the past," Aunt Emmy said. "Women have been easy to victimize because they knew so little about money affairs, but now they are realizing this danger more and more and are taking advantage of the financial advice departments their bankers have set up for them. One thing that has led to women's financial undoing is their natural love of pretty things. This trait often leads them into foolish investments and speculations to get money quickly. Once a woman sets her heart on a thing she can't wait until it is hers."

"But if women didn't buy things, there wouldn't be any business," spoke up Molly. "Women are the natural spenders of the family, Dad says."

"Yes, but they would have more to spend if they'd go a little slower," replied Aunt Emmy. "Every time I see a woman falling for some silly get-rich-quick scheme I think of the nice things she could buy with the money she is going to lose. If they'd go slower—they'd get farther."

"From what I know of the Slade girls," Molly began—but just then the Slade girls themselves came in.

"We're so sorry to be late," they apologized, "but we have been having our first lesson in finance down at the Trust Company. They are going to give us quite a lot of time and explain all the things we ought to know about money to keep us out of financial trouble."

"Well, my dears, you are going to the right school," said Aunt Emmy. "If every woman would do that there'd be less trouble and more pretty things for all of them."

I believe in all who are competent, having a chance, and I know I will not hinder their chance by remaining out of the race this fall. I am also pleased to state that our police force has been faithful and I believe their conduct and appearance will rank with the best to be found. I have also had the co-operation of the city clerk and infact, every city official. I am also proud of knowing that the signing of the contract for the new Grammar School took place during my administration. This is one event that I have long looked forward to. Though I will not be a candidate this fall, I assure the people of Clanton that I will always be behind any movement that is for a better and bigger Clanton. Dr. Hinkle Advocates Pure Bred Milch Cows

Illustrates What Can Be Done To Get Ahead On The Farm

Some twenty odd years ago, Dr. Peyton T. Hinkle, who is now the Democratic nominee for Judge of Probate of Chilton County was struggling along on his little farm west of Clanton trying to make ends meet, and one crop tide over until time for the next. This he was doing, using the old system of farming.

It is well known that this old system of farming and trying to make one crop make connections with the next was something of a hard job for a man to tackle. And if you did make ends meet, it was done only when the seasons were most favorable.

A question that faced Dr. Hinkle was how he could begin to make some progress on his farm and lift himself from the old routine, from which he never seemed to be making much headway, and how he could ever build he and his wife a good home and command a substantial bank account that he could fall back on during the rainy day. Well, of course, the old answer that comes to almost every man, was: "if I had a substantial sum of cash money, I could do this and that, and then maybe have some left." Of course any man could do several things worthwhile if he just had the money. Dr. Hinkle didn't have that money, but he knew that he had to have it if he ever expected to accomplish the things that he wanted, so he adopted a plan that proved wonderful and worked nicely.

The very proposition that is today being impressed upon the farmers, was exactly the thing which he adopted. That was to purchase five good registered milch cows and fix a suitable place on the farm to care for them and sell the milk and cream from them All this took place several years ago, and today, Dr. Hinkle is selling milk and cream from five fine Jersey cows, and he has been doing this for many years. The richness of the cream and milk that he sells is widely known, and when good cream is mentioned, one's thoughts invariably turn to Dr. Hinkle's farm just west of Clanton.

As the result of Dr. Hinkle's experiment, he has a well-kept farm, which produces yearly a splendid yield of corn, cotton, peas, and many other substantial agricultural products. He has built a modest yet comfortable and attractive home on his farm, and although being located out-side of the city limits, it is kept in such a way by Mrs. Hinkle, that it has the appearance that is good as any city home. Mrs. Hinkle has many kinds of beautiful flowers in her yard, which she attends to personally. The house is well screened, painted and inside can be found innumerable modern conveniences throughout, which of course, includes electric lights and running water. In fact, in the home of Dr. Hinkle can be found most any convenience that is found in the home of a citizen who resides in the town or city.

Much time has been spent and much effort put forth by Dr. Hinkle to stock this county throughout with registered cattle. If Dr. Hinkle's cattle were not the first registered ones that were brought into this county, they were among the very first, and he has for many years been pushing the idea that every farmer should have at least five head of good cows on his farm, where practicable. From these five cows, enough milk and cream could be sold to the market so as to net the farmer enough ready cash that he would not have to depend entirely on his crop for a living.

When asked whether or not his cows paid him any to amount to anything above the expense of keeping them, Dr. Hinkle stated that they began to pay, a dividend the first day he bought them, and have never failed yet, and left the impression that it was not until he had started the business of selling milk and cream from his five cows, that he really began to make any real headway toward progressive farming.

During the past several years, Dr. Hinkle has been able to contribute liberally to the building of schools and churches throughout the county. He is one of the members of the Baptist church in Clanton, who can be depended upon to carry his part of the expenses of the church, and he also takes an active part in the civic and community work of the section, helping wherever, and whenever he can. This is outstanding evidence of the

CAR BELONGING TO R. J. WILLIAMS STOLEN

The Ford touring car, belonging to Mr. R. J. Williams of Thorsby, Rt. 1, was stolen on the night of Saturday, July 28th.

Last week end, Messrs. R. J. and C. C. Williams and J. H. Foshee went to South Alabama in search of the car, and while some valuable information was obtained, they did not find the car, or the party suspected of having made the theft. Officers state that they have information sufficient to warrant arrest in the matter and the guilty party is expected to be arrested at any time. This trip was made via Selma, returning via Montgomery, and these gentlemen report crop conditions fair on the route via Montgomery, but in their opinion the crop situation on the lower route via Selma is far below normal. These men were also loud in their praise for the cooperation extended them by the Mobile County officers.

POSTMASTER BEAN EXPLAINS CHANGE IN RURAL SERVICE

Due to the recent changes in the rural mail service from Clanton Postoffice, I feel that it will be helpful to many patrons on rural routes to say something to you to help you get your mail soming to you properly routed.

All those who are now being served by Mr. Grady Harris will please take notice that they are now on Route No. 1. All those who are served by Mr. Edward W. Miller are now on Route 4. Those who are served by Mr. John W. Mims, are now on Route 5. There is no Route 8 now, that route having been consolidated with other routes from this office. All whom these changes apply to should take due notice of those changes and have your mail directed accordingly.

The co-operation of the patrons of this office is most highly appreciated by the office force and the carriers. I wish to ask all who will to do all you can to assist the carriers on their daily trips to make them as expeditiously as possible. This help can be given by arranging your boxes as conveniently as possible, having your mail ready when the carrier reaches your place, and giving just as little delay for the carrier as is consistent with proper service. Carriers have no time to talk and while away time and do for patrons matters not related to the mail service. Do not ask this. Do what you can to help your carrier along, and do not delay him unnecessarily. This co-operation is much desired and appreciated.

Yours truly,
W. M. BEAN, Postmaster.

LOMAX SEEMS TO BE TAKING ON NEW LIFE

During these piping and prosperous times, municipal and city elections are beng called in many cities scattered throughout the length and breadth of Alabama, and it has been rumored that Lomax does not intend to stand idle but instead, will place a strong ticket, with no opposition, before the qualified electors and it is understood that any man allowng his name to be placed on the ticket is assured that he will go before the public unopposed.

While these alleged rumors have not definitely decided just whose names will appear on the ticket, it seems, in all probability, the following will be the alleged ticket:

For Mayor, Joseph Duncan; For Councilman, Ed Price, Hop Killingsworth, Lee Trawick, Gantt Robertson, and Isiah Blackman. Rumors have it that the office of prosecuting attorney and city clerk will be presided over by one and the same person, and in all probability, J. M. Favor's name will be selected for this office.

In the past, the city of Lomax has refrained from maintaining any Speed Traps or other such nuisances, but, nevertheless, Lamar Howe will more than likely be selected as head of the Police Department, and if such is the case, tourists may be assured that he will not molest them, neither will he interfere with them in any respect however fast they desire to travel through the fair city of Lomax.

The last two names mentioned are newcomers to Lomax, but nevertheless, are well and favorably known to the unqualified and Independent constituency.

By a resident.

Growing with ALABAMA

In 1912, only 16 years ago, Alabama Power Company began active operations in Alabama.

In these 16 years, Alabama has seen its greatest progress. And Alabama Power Company has grown apace,—a steady, systematic growth,—a new power plant here, a new line there, until today we find a vast power system serving the public throughout practically the entire area of the State.

The magnitude of the State's growth may be visualized by noting the properties employed in rendering power, light, gas and street railway service to the people of Alabama, and the rapidity with which this system has come into being. This can be appreciated only by comparing its present size with that of 8 years ago.

CHEV. MOTOR CO. ANNOUNCES NEW UTILITY TRUCK MODEL

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 6.—The Chevrolet Motor Company, whose unprecedented sales and production record of placing on the road 750,000 "Bigger and Better" models since January 1, established a new mark for the sale of a new model, announces this week the addition to its line of a new utility truck. The new truck, which embodies several improvements, chief of them a four speeds forward transmission, four wheel brakes and channel steel bumpers, went into production in the various Chevrolet plants July 2. It will be on view this week in dealers' showrooms throughout the country.

The four speeds forward transmission will insuer a moer efficient application of engine power. The extra low speed gear provides maximum pulling power on heavy roads and steep grades while normal driving requirements are met as usual with second, third and fourth speeds. A power take-off port, to which various power devices can be applied, is a further feature of the transmission.

The four wheel brakes are nonlocking and supply a total of 317 sq. inches of braking, aside from an entirely separate and independently operated set of emergency brakes on the rear wheels. The front wheel brakes are of the internal expanding type, the rear wheel service brake of the external contracting type, insuring quick and positive stops regardless of grade or speed.

A new loading height, 41 inches from the ground, is made possible by a special "kick-up" feature of the long chassis. An unusually long frame support, extending behind the center of the rear axle, assures proper load distribution.

Rigorous and exacting tests, covering thousands of miles over all types of roads and under winter and summer climatic conditions, were applied to the new truck at General Motors Proving Ground before the Chevrolet engineering division approved of it for production.

A RECORD BREAKING EDITOR

Harry Hammond is a name every publisher of a country weekly or smaller city daily newspaper should remember. For 22 years he has published the Byron Times at Byron, California. It is not too much to say that during this time he has been the greatest driving force for industrial and agricultural development in the Delta country which lies back of San Francisco Bay in Contra Costa County, California.

Each two years the Byron Times issues a special edition The current issue, just off the press, consists of 234 pages, 12 by 14 inches in size, printed on fine book paper with colored covers. It sells for a dollar a copy and 10,000 copies are distributed. The cost of preparing the current issue exceeded $13,000.

Editor Hammond has done what many claim is impossible—publish a successful country weekly which issues the finest special development edition in the United States, within fifty miles of a great metropolitan district comprising some million population. Such a situation is supposed to "kill" a a country newspaper. Hammond has demonstrated just the opposite. He has a better paper and a better business than most of the publishers in metropolitan areas anywhere in the United States. He does this by boosting industries, agricultural development and enthusing the public about the territory in which he lives. His paper has a much greater circulation than the population of the town in which it is published.

It is a pleasure to recount the record of the Byron Times, for in unselfish work for community development, Mr. Hammond has brought success to his own publication and has added to the dignity and standing of the smaller town daily and weekly newspaper in all parts of the United States. Incidentally, he continues to do all the soliciting of business for his own publication as well as being its editor-in-chief

For an inspiration along lines of better journalism, it would pay every country publisher to look over a regular edition of the Byron Times as well as its marvelous special edition.

BEET SUGAR VS. CANE

By every test known to science and cookery beet sugar cannot be distinguished in the laboratory or in its many uses from cane sugar. They are one and the same chemical compound, sucrose—although derived from different sources. To admit a prejudice against beet sugar is to admit ignorance of the advance of this great industry.

The buying of more beet sugar means better prices—hence more profit—for farmers of many states.

ROAD DEVELOPMENT IS LEAPING FORWARD

Twenty years ago a good rock road for wagon and travel was considered the limit of improvement for this method of transportation. Today the bare rock road is fast passing into history as a suitable surface for modern traffic.

Pavements have been laid on tens of thousands of miles of rural highways. Where heavy state highways are not warranted, old gravel and macadam road beds are being surfaced with a two or three-inch water proof coating of asphaltic concrete. This utilizes the well compacted old road as a base for an economical and efficient method of hardsurfacing.

Where even this second type is not warranted, road oil is today being placed on thousands of miles of country roads. It has been found that this method of treatment again preserves the road base by preventing the blowing away of dust of tons of road surfacing, which, in addition to damaging the road, buries the neighboring countryside in a coating of dirt which ruins thousands of dollars worth of crops.

J. P.'S CANNOT FILE DEEDS, MORTGAGE'S, COMPLAINTS

Montgomery, Ala., August 4.—In an opinion given by the office of Attorney General Charlie C. McCall Wednesday it was held that a justice of the peace may not prepare legal papers, such as deeds, mortgages, complaints, etc., unless he holds a license to practice law. Another opinion advised the state tax commission on a routine matter connected with taxing a mortgaged deed.

DR. HINKLE ADVOCATES PURE BRED MILCH COWS

fact that a few dairy cattle will pay the farmer, and place him on the list as a progressive and outstanding citizen in the county in which he lives.

Now there is one thing Dr. Hinkle cannot be accused of, and that is of being lazy. This thought was brought about from the fact that he has made himself what he is today. Working constantly and untiringly since the day when he faced the question mentioned in the third paragraph of this article, the question of how he could make some substantial progress on his farm, and make himself a good home and to build a substantial bank account. All this progress took place within the past few years, and it was only Dr. Hinkle himself, with the help of his estimable wife, that these wonderful things were accomplished. He had no help, he had to figure it out for himself.

Dr. Hinkle did not wait for the county and government to do all the road. He wanted a good road from his house to town so he went about and built it. And it is a real highway too. Some few years ago he began to aid the county in working the road by his house, and purchased the gravel himself, and furnished it to the county to gravel the road from his home to Clanton, and it has been said that he has paid out more money than any other individual of the county towards the wrking and building of the public roads.

WARRIOR WATER WORKS CO. PROPOSES TO BUY PLANT

Standard Fire Hydrants:

First 10 hydrants, $50.00 each per year.

Next 90 hydrants, $40.00 each per year.

Over 100 hydrants, $30.00 each per year.

Sprinkler System:

For 500 heads or less, $75.00 per year.

For each additional head, .15 each per year.

5. If the sale is made, the transaction shall bear date as of October 1, 1928; the City of Clanton will operate the water plant, at its own expense, until that date and collect all the revenues for such operation; the plant to be turned over to the Company on October 1, 1928, free from all debts, except the lien of the $25,000 in bonds, above referred to, and free from all contracts of any kind except the contracts with the consumers for water, which will be transferred to our Company.

6. The expense of the appraisal made by the Alabama Public Service Commission is $250.00, which we have paid; in the event of a sale of the property to us, we will absorb that expense; in the event the sale is not made to us the City will refund us one-half of that amount.

7. The purchaser will undertake to operate said plant under the direction of the Alabama Public Service Commission and the Alabama State Board of Health, and will undertake to provide a clear, wholesome supply of water, which will meet with the approval of the State Board of Health, and will furnish such service under the rates fixed by the Alabama Public Service Commission which shall be sufficient to yield to the Company a reasonable return on the capital invested.

This proposition is made for immediate consideration, and with the understanding that the City Council of Clanton will call a special election and submit the question to the voters of Clanton.

Respectfully submitted,
WARRIOR WATER CO.

REGULAR WEEKLY MEETING OF KIWANIS CLUB HELD

The regular weekly meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, was held in the basement of the Baptist Church, last Thursday, and was one of much interest.

On the program for the day was none other than that eminent gentleman, Mr. Guy Higgins, who made a short talk to the club members and suggested that the club do something in the way of developing a market for farm products. Mr. Higgins thinks a creamery in Clanton would develop a dairying business in the county that would do wonders for the farmers and at the same time be of great benefit to Clanton. He also suggested a cold storage plant as a thing that would enable us to take care of our fruits, vegetables, meats, and eggs until they could be sold at better prices.

Mr. Higgins also suggested that there is a good opening at Clanton for a small box factory, with a right good market for the product at home. The strawberry growers are spending $20,000.00 or more each year for strawberry cates, and the money is going away. Why not make the crates here and keep the money at home?

Mr. Higgins has long been an advocate of developing the farming interests and of providing markets for the things we already have, and then going out after factories and mills.

While no statement was given out by him, the general impression is that he will move his family here as soon as the superintendent's quarters are ready for occupancy, which will probably be within the next few weeks.

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT

ERIC HART.

LEE APPOINTED TO PLTCE LEFT BY C. C. BROOKS

Charlie W. Lee, chief clerk of the state auditor's department, has been appointed assistant examiner of public accounts as the successor of C. C. Brooks, who resigned to become auditor of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Mr. Lee will take up his new duties as soon as S. H. Blan, state auditor, makes announcement of the appointment of his successor.

Reports at the capitol Wednesday were that James L. Purifoy, who has been an assistant examiner of accounts for several years would succeed Mr. Lee. Mr. Blan would not comment on the reports, saying that a selection had been made but the appointee is not ready to enter on his duties at this time.

Mr. Purifoy is now engaged in the completion of an examination of books and records of some of the state departments and it is understood that he will succeed Mr. Lee when he has submitted a report of the examination.

The new assistant examiner of accounts has been attached to the state auditor's department for several years. He was first bookkeeper and then warrant clerk. eHe was named chief clerk several months ago as the successor of Edward W. Wadsworth, who retired to enter the practice of law.

THORSBY PUBLIC SCHOOL TO OPEN ON AUGUST 20TH

The Thorsby Public School will open on August 20th. We want to invite and insist that every patron of the school, both men and women, meet at 9:00 o'clock at the school house, on the opening day. We think that it is of much interest to the school that every one who can do so meet at this time.

Very truly,
D. H. Gentry, Tom Burdett, Hugh Thompson, Trustees.

Messrs McMillan and Kikendaul of Atlanta, Ga., were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Hefin.

Suffering With SICK HEADACHES

Mr. Charles F. Todd, of Estesburg near Waynesburg, Ky., says: "I was suffering with nervous headaches. About once a week I would have these headaches, and have to quit work, and go to bed for about twenty-four hours. I would have pains in my neck, and right behind my right ear.

"A merchant at Estesburg told me to try taking Black-Draught, which I did.

"It relieved me. From that time on, I would take Black-Draught as soon as I felt like I was going to have one of those headaches—and they wouldn't come on.

"Every few weeks, I take three or four doses of Black-Draught, and I feel so well, and do my work, and don't lose any more time with headache."

FRIENDS SELECT M. L. WHITE AS CANDIDATE

Robinson, Popwell, Baker, Wingard And Wyatt To Be On Ticket For Councilmen

The campaign for the seevral offices to be filled at the municipal election to be held in September next, has taken on new life, and while only one man, Eric Hart, has officially announced, friends of some of Clanton's most progressive business men are very active, and state that they will let nothing go undone to see that they are elected.

M. L. White's name will appear on the ticket as a candidate for Mayor, so state several of his friends. Mr. White is too well known for us to try to make any introduction, and there can be no question as to his qualifications for the office. Mallie, as he is well and favorably known, has resided here for twenty-six years, and it would be hard to pick a man for the office of Mayor, who is more familiar with conditions in general in Clanton. In the past he has served as Councilman for several terms.

For Councilmen the names of J. M. (Dock) Robinson, W. L. Popwell, W. T. Baker, W. M. Wyatt, and D. A. Wingard will be placed on the ticket, so state friends and supporters of the above named five. These men are qualified in every respect and should they be elected, there would be no doubt as to the prestige it would give the town to have five men of such calibre as these, to look after the business affairs of the city. They are all men of proven ability, and their past records prove them to be men who have always had the best interest of Clanton at heart.

E. W. SHIRLEY DIED LAST SUNDAY, AUGUST 5

Mr. E. W. Shirley, age 62, died at his home near here last Sunday, August 5, at three-thirty o'clock p. m.

The deceased was buried the following Monday at New Harmony cemetery, three miles north of Clanton. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Kelly and were held in the New Harmony Church. J Mell Martin, local undertaker, was in charge.

Mr. Shirley is survived by his wife, two daughters and one son.

STATE HIGHWAY LETS CONTRACT FOR NEW HIGHWAY

At a meeting of the State Highway Commission held last Tuesday, 12 important projects were let, consisting mostly of drainage and grading jobs, but included several paving projects.

Among the projects let was the road between Verbena and Rockford, a distance of 16.34 miles, calling for grading and draining of the project. This contract was awarded to W. C. McCoy of LaFayette for $164,366.65. The concrete and timber bridges were awarded to Jim Graham of Montgomery for $15,120.50.

S. C. Cox was awarded contract on concrete bridges on 13.29 miles of road to be built in Jackson County.

Chilton County has been fortunate in that the state has recently awarded a contract for the Maplesville-Plantersville highway, which is now under construction, and the road to be built to Rockford. The state has been instrumental in Chilton County securing a highway running north and south, and with the Maplesville and Rockford roads, the State will have been responsible for a road running east and west.

KNOW Your South and be a Partner in its Growth

New Orleans
Metropolis of the SOUTH

New Orleans, as the gateway to the world's richest valley is served by 10 railroad trunk lines connecting directly the markets of 15 states; by 90 steamship lines radiating to all ports of the world's seven seas; by 13,000 miles of inland waterways, and as an ideal distribution center. It has approximately 1200 manufacturing plants sending out 900 different products. It is the Nation's Second Port, and First Port in the movement of bananas, burlap, sisal, oil, and forty-two other products.

With the assurance of Federal Flood Control giving the investors in New Orleans new opportunities and attracting new residents to New Orleans because of its advantageous location, notably as the South's greatest city and the Valley Gateway, there will be many new enterprises having to do with industry and distribution.

Many of the large industries now located here report that their production costs are lower than those of their branches in other American cities, chiefly for the reason that the United States Government has found the cost of living to be lower in New Orleans than in any other large city, except one.

These are some of the reasons why new projects calling for a total expenditure of more than $100,000 have been listed recently by the New Orleans Association of Commerce.

M. D. FOSHEE, Manager

A good business man will not buy a farm or any property without first looking it over to see what it is worth.

However, some will buy or loan money on land without an abstract.

Isn't it equally as foolish to buy a farm without looking it over as to buy it and not know whether the titles are good or not? Without an abstract you do not know where you are getting the land you look at or not.

Before investing in land in any way have an abstract made and be safe.

Thorsby To Have New Telephone Exchange

E. E. Brown, Owner Of New Independent Telephone Company

According to information reaching us this week, Mr. E. E. Brown is now, with his crew, constructing a telephone exchange in Thorsby, Ala. This exchange will be known as the Thorsby Telephone Company.

Poles are already being erected over the town, and the installation of the switch board will begin within a very short time, so reports say. Mr. Brown stated that he expects to have between 75 and 100 telephones in operation in Thorsby, after he gets to operating, and the people of that section see what real telephone service is.

Mr. Brown moved from Rockford, Ala., to Thorsby some two months ago, and since then has been engaged in working out plans for this new exchange. He and his family are now residing in Thorsby. Mr. Brown operated a telephone exchange in Rockford up until some time ago, when he disposed of his interests. With him is his son Edwin, who knows the telephone business from start to finish.

This new telephone exchange which Thorsby has been so fortunate in obtaining, will be an independenet company, owned by Mr. Brown. The central office will be located in his home. New equipment will be used throughout. The poles which are being used are of Chilton County grown cedars.

Local and long distance service will be given by the new exchange, it having made arrangements to be connected with the Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. for connections with them, according to information.

The rates for this service in Thorsby will be very reasonable. The rates given us by Mr. Brown are: For party lines to residences, $1.50 per month; for business party line of two phones, $2.50 per month each; for private line, $3.00 per month.

A maintenance crew of experienced telephone men will be employed to keep up the service of this company, and Mr. Brown stated that his patrons shall be assured of complete service. The lines will cover the rural district around Thorsby, also. Mr. Brown stated that he expected to have things in operation by the first of September, 1928.

REVIVAL MEETING TO BEGIN AT COLLINS CHAPEL SUNDAY

CHICAGO SALES COMPANY SALE A GREAT SUCCESS

The mid-summer Clearance sale, announced by the Chicago Sales Company, to begin last Friday, August 10th, has proven to be a big sucess, according to informaticon given us.

On the opening day of the sale, which was last Friday, the management stated to a representative of the News that their sales surpassed all expectations, and that Saturday it was impossible to wait on all customers. In this issue of the News wil be found some of the bargains to be had still, at the Chicago Sale Co.'s Store during this ten day sale.

Mr. Taylor states that he had rather sacrifice the goods to his customer than to try to crowd in his winter stock which will begin to arrive in a few days.

SINGING SCHOOL BEING CONDUCTED AT CONCORD

Mr. Frank H. Stamps of the Stamps-Baxter Music Company of Tennessee, with Mr. Brock, also of Tennessee, rendered many beautiful and enjoyable selections, both vocal and on the piano, and Concord Church last Sunday afternoon.

A large crowd was present at this gathering, and all were high in their praise of the Messrs Stamps and Brock. Mr. Brock is a widely known pianist and Mr. Stamps is well known for his remarkable singing and instruction in singing schools.

The Messrs Stamps and Brock are conducting a singing school at Concord, which began last Monday and will continue for three weeks. Mr. Brock will teach classes in piano during that three weeks.

So far, the ones who have heard the two celebrated musicians, state that this is an opportunity seldom placed in reach of the people of Chilton County, and that everyone interested in singing and music should attend.

C. FENN JONES' HOME IS NEARING COMPLETION

The two-story brick and tile home which is being erected on Eighth St. by Mr. C. Fenn Jones is rapidly nearing the stage when the final finishing touches will be put on, altho Mr. Jones states that it will probably be near the first of next October before the home will be ready for occupancy.

There will be four rooms on the second floor and five on the first, and Mr. Jones states that modern conveniences will be featured throughout this home which from all indications is to be a home that will rank among the many most beautiful homes in the state. Already one may picture in one's mind the beautiful yard that will be cloaked in flowers and shrubbery when the home is completed and Mr. and Mrs. Jones move in to make their home. The front porch, which faces east, will have a tile floor, and will be partly covered.

A double garage is also to be built, and will be in harmony with the house, and will have two stories, the second story to be used as servants quarters.

DR. KNAPP TO ATTEND POWER CONFERENCE

Auburn Head Interested In Electrification Of Farms

Auburn, Ala., Aug. 14.—Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and one of the South's foremost authorities on rural electrification, has tentatively accepted an invitation to take part in the discussion of this subject at the fourth meeting of the Southern Appalachian Power Conference in Atlanta, Oct. 8, 9, and 10, it was learned today.

"Available electric power on farms in the Southeast will help materially in the introduction of the dairy and poultry industries and, particularly in the development of a better balanced agriculture," said Dr. Knapp. "Whenever farmers who have been using nothing but cotton attempt to produce perishable products for the market, they find great difficulty and there is much loss due to the perishable character of the products themselves. When modern science comes to their relief with electric refrigeration, the whole situation is changed.

"After all, I believe that our farmers are entitled to every privilege which the town or city resident enjoys. He can have lights in his home and conveniences which modern invention places at his hand, provided the power lines can bring him the service.

"The development of a splendid agriculture in the South and a satisfied rural life may depend very much on these things."

More than 2,000 merchants from Georgia, Mississippi and Alabama are expected to be the guests of the Montgomery wholesalers during the period referred to above.

One feature of the meeting will be an address by William Gardner, a man referred to as "a most distinguished man" from New York City. Mr. Gardner will speak on "How to Merchandise". He is attending the annual trade week as a representative of Wholesale Dry Goods Institutions of New York City.

An elaborate entertainment program has been prepared by the centertainment committee of which Phil Baum is chairman. On Tuesday afternoon the visitors will attend the Montgomery-Selma baseball game at Cramton Bowl and that evening will be guests at the Empire, Strand and Plaza movie houses.

REPUBLICAN MEETING AT THORSBY LAST FRIDAY

The big Hoover Rally, which in reality, so state many, was merely a local Republican rally, drew a fair sized crowd, in fact, much larger than many expected to see gathered at a like meeting in Alabama.

Some of the most prominent Republicans of the State were among those who made talks, among them being O. D. Street, National Repubilcan Committeeman.

The addresses of these gentlemen were given in the auditorium of Thorsby Institute. The auditorium has a seating capacity (according to a count of the seats Monday) of 300, and the seats in the hall were never considered taxed, even while the main speaker of the occasion was delivering his attack on the Democratic Nominee, and some of the daily papers of the state, so we were informed.

The Thorsby P. T. A., according to information given us, prepared a bounteous dinner for the occasion, and the fact that there were several delicious barbecued chickens to be disposed of after the dinner hour signifies that the ladies of Thorsby had been led to anticipate a much larger crowd. According to information given us, L. H. Reynolds ordered five of the chickens wrapped for himself, just before the meeting ended. There was also much ice cream left on hand.

HARRY MARGOLIS OF UNIONTOWN, HERE ON VISIT

Mr. Harry Margolis, who is operating a five and ten cent store in Uniontown, Ala., arrived in Clanton last Sunday for a few days' visit.

Miss Helen Diefenderfer, the talented young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer is spending some time in Mobile.

T. T. Williams, negro chauffeur for Wurtzburger, [illegible] cuts, and Williams wife, also bruises and cuts.

All of the above were from Birmingham except Dr. Cato.

The collision occurred, investigation proved, when the Wurtzburger car collided with the one driven by Dr. Cato on a bridge. Both machines were badly damaged.

Dr. Cato, driving alone, was enroute to Lamar County at the time of the accident to take charge of the health work in that county.

Mr. Wurtzburger was enroute to Montgomery, and Miss Oglesby was accompanying him that far, where she was to have been met by her sister. She and her sister were to leave immediately afterwards for Biloxi, where were to spend their vacation. Mr. Wurtzburgher stated that he had never met the young lady before the day of the wreck, and that he had been prevailed upon by a friend of Miss Oglesby's to carry her to Montgomery, as he was making the trip with his chauffeur and had ample room to accomodate the friend, he agreed, so he stated.

FIVE ARE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH NEAR HERE

Five persons were injured, one believed seriously, when two automobiles crashed head-on on the Montgomery-Birmingham Highway, about six miles north of here shortly after eight o'clock Sunday night.

A man, woman and girl, named Pearson, all of north Birmingham, who were riding in an Oakland sedan, were injured and taken immediately to Birmingham. It was said that the woman in this car suffered several fractured ribs and serious body bruises and possible internal injuries. Their full names could not be learned before they were taken to Birmingham.

W. O. Parker, of the Staate Highway Department residing in Montgomery, who was driving the Ford coupe which collided with the Oakland, received severe lacerations about the legs and body bruises. O. H. Trussell, also of Montgomery, suffered cuts and bruises. He was an occupant of Mr. Parker's car.

Mr. Paulk was a member of the faculty of the Isabella Vocational High School last year, as was Mrs. Paulk, and they have many friends throughout the county who will be pleased to learn that they will become permanent residents of the county. Mr. and Mrs. Paulk plan to move to Clanton about September 1st.

LOREN SMITH RETURNS FROM WEEK'S VACATION

Mr. Loren Smth, who holds a responsible position with the Upchurch Drug Company, returned last Saturday night from a week's trip to Dauphin Island, out of Mobile.

While away, Mr. Smith visited several points fo interest in that part of the state, and was the guest of Mr. John Siebert during the entire week, whose home is on Dauphin Island. Mr. Smith and Mr. Seibert were in the army together during the recent world war.

Most of the time was spent fishing, according to Mr. Smith, and several points along the coast were visited on their fishing cruises. On last Wednesday Mr. Smith states that seven sharks were caught by he and Mr. Seibert, and on the following Thursday morning six more fell victim to the two fishermen's uncanny knowledge of the art of fishing. Numerous other species of fish were caught during the week.

To prove these statements, Smith [illegible]

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

[illegible] worshipful [illegible] Warden and Brothers of Thorsby Lodge No. 759, A. F. & A. M.

We, your committee, appointed to prepare a memorial on the death of our [illegible] Warden, Brother Robert Brown Childress, submit the following:

Whereas it has pleased the Supreme Architect of the Universe in His infinite wisdom and mercy, to take from our midst, our beloved brother, Robert [illegible]

"Let us drape the altar gently;
For the loved one gone before,
[illegible] crossed the silent river
We shall see him here no more.

Place a wreath upon the altar;
It may fade and be no more;
But our brther has only wandered
To that bright celestial shore.

We shall see him in his likeness;
When we too, have passed beyond
Hand in hand around God's altar
When our work on earth is done."

SMILE IS WORTH $75.00

Over in Berlin recently the German observed "Smile Week."

And the first prize $75 was awarded to a football player who played throughout a game with asmile despite a pair of broken ribs. The second prize was landed by a shop girl who, day after day throughout the week waited on the million shopers with a smile that wouldn't wear off. The third prize went to traffic officer whose cheery smile did more to untangle traffic jams than did the average [illegible]

It would be no easy matter for us to predict the winners should this town hold a "Smile Week."

But we would wager on this—the first prize would not be won by any corpulent operator of a lawn mower.

MR. AND MRS. ED. WAGONER MAKE INTERESTING TRIP

Mr and Mrs. Ed. Wagoner and son Edwin and daughter Maude, returned last Friday from a very interesting Western motor trip, which took approximately three weeks.

Mr. Wagoner and his family visited his father and brother in Mineola, Texas, for some time while on the trip. Many points of interest were visited by the party, some of which are Dallas, Mineola, and Quitman, Texas, and also some time was spent in Hot Springs, Arkansas. Mr. Wagoner attended the Old Soldiers Reunion which was held at Quitman, Texas, and spent some time there.

The crops in that section, according to Mr. Wagoner, are extra fine this time, and he states that the cotton crop was in fine condition. He reported a most enjoyable and interesting trip with no mishaps of any kind.

Modern 'Alice In Wonderland' Visits Farmer Evans' Farm

The Post artist must have had a pipe dream when he made the above layout. However, these are real pictures of real vegetables from Farmer Evans' farm down in 'The Garden of Allah." Of course, they're not quite as big as the young lady in the picture makes them appear, but they are BIG.

That "S" shaped article on the right is a huge bean which was produced on the Evans' place near Jemison, Ala. Directly under it is Farmer Evans' dog which insisted upon posing for his picture. On the right of the young lady is a radish which measured 38 inches in length. Behind and below her is a huge cucumber more than a foot long.

(By Jack C. York)

Here's a chap who knows his vegetables. . . .

Joe W. Evans, farmer, and gentleman, if you please, who experiments with radishes, turnips, beans, potatoes, cucumbers and such.

And Evans uses a large portion of his huge farm four miles southwest of Jemison, Ala., as a laboratory for his experiments.

Take those beans for instance. Such beans! That chap of ancient fairy tales of whom the writer is a name-sake, had nothing on Farmer Evans when it came to making a bean-stalk resemble a redwood forest in full bloom.

Farmer Evans grows beans down on his place that are measured by feet instead of the conventional inches. Some of 'em weigh eight and 10 lbs. and measure a yard or so from stem to front and rear of a bean. Also, they are a foot or so in circumference.

And turnips! Say, if a turnip doesn't do at least 25 pounds, then it isn't a turnip. Its a shame! He has raised turnips that do 33 pounds, stripped for eating purposes—meaning that leafy appendage which grows above ground.

The largest radish raised on the Evans farm this year weighed 17 3-4 pounds, measured 2 1-2 feet around the waist and stood 25 inches in its stocking feet.

The Evans' cucumbers seldom measure less than 15 inches in length, and tip the general store beam at no less than six or seven pounds.

Turned into pickles, a bushel of those cucumbers would have more warts to the square inch than Mr. Heinz and all of his 57 varieties.

Right at the present Farmer Evans is experimenting with what Uncle Sam's agricultural department calls "Japanese potatoes."

These potatoes are not quite as large as those they call "Irish" or "white" potatoes. But they taste about the same, and [illegible]

THEY AVERAGE 300 BUSHELS TO THE ACRE, according to Farmer Evans.

No, Farmer Evans says, there's nothing particularly different about the soil down around Jemison. Maybe, it's just good farming, he smiles.

And he only winks at you and grins when you ask him how he grows such large vegetables. Sure you can see those things. He'll be glad to show them to anyone—and he'll show them to you growing right in the ground.

You can even take samples of the soil away if you wish. Farmer Evans don't mind.

Buckle isn't giving away the secrets on the gentle art of raising big vegetables.

If you visit the Evans farm you'll see the corn down there that is positively huge with several ears to the stalk.

Last year Farmer Evans had watermelons which weighed 70 and 75 lbs.

"They were a mite small", he explained with another wink.

Folks living in the vicinity of the Evans home have rightly named it "The Garden of Allah." But Farmer Evans calls it "the place."

Of course, you won't believe this story, and there isn't any way to prove it to you except to extend an invitation from Farmer Evans to "come on down Jemison way and visit 'the place.'
